WILLIAM M. JOHNSON FOR NEXT GOVERNOR

Jersey City Journal's Trenton Correspondent Predicts His Ultimate Selection.

IS INTERESTING GOSSIP.

STOKES SUGGESTED AS PROBABLE SUCCESSOR OF SENATOR KEAN.

Declares South Jersey Has Learned Lesson and Will Go Into Next Contest United—Effect of Open Ballot.

The Trenton correspondent of the Jersey City Journal writes the following interesting gossip concerning the probable results of the election of John F. Dryden as United States Senator and the future gubernatorial possibilities:

"The election of John F. Dryden as United States Senator will exert a far-reaching effect upon the political situation in this State. According to opinions freely passed among Republican leaders from different counties who are making the State House a rendezvous these days, it foreshadows the election of a man from south Jersey as United States Senator Kean's successor three years hence, and the probable nomination of First Assistant Postmaster William M. Johnson, of Bergen, for governor, the same year.

"The remarkable showing of strength made by Clerk in Chancery Stokes in the joint caucus is regarded by his south Jersey friends as a pledge of Stokes' availability three years from now.

"South Jersey wanted the senatorship this time. Had the Senators and Assemblymen from that part of the State centered upon one man at the first off, instead of waiting until near the end of the joint caucus, the result might have been different, and it is now acknowledged that in future contests the southern tier of counties will have to combine their forces before going into caucus, in order to win.

"The combination formed on Stokes at the eleventh hour was the handiwork of State Assessor David Baird, and it is said that Baird, in consequence, will in future be recognized as the Republican leader in south Jersey.

"Had Griggs been chosen instead of Dryden, it is said that Johnson's chances of securing the gubernatorial nomination would have been lessened, but Dryden's victory, or rather Griggs' defeat, is regarded as an omen of promise for Mr. Johnson's ambition, notwithstanding that Johnson was a strong Griggs man.

"The way the situation is viewed here is this; north Jersey will supply the next candidate for governor; south Jersey will claim the senatorship. For the first honor Johnson will probably have no competitor, while it is generally conceded that Stokes will be the only one put forward by south Jersey for the place to become vacant by the expiration of Senator Kean's term.

"In the event of Senator Kean desiring to succeed himself, which is more than likely, Stokes would have a hard fight on his hands, but his friends claim that Stokes would have the upper hand by virtue of the fact that north Jersey was to get the governorship and could not in fairness claim the senatorship also.

"The contest for the United States senatorship has left no bitterness in its wake, even though carried on aggressively. All the candidates were personal friends, and while each left no stone unturned to win, the fight was dignified and fair in all respects.

"Party leaders are outspoken in praise of the manner in which the caucus was conducted. They regard the open ballot and the admission of representatives of the press as an innovation, which will redound to the permanent benefit of the Republican party in this State. It was the first time a United States senator had been chosen in that manner in New Jersey, on all previous occasions the ballot having been secret."

Knowing of a friend who also had a safe for sale he went to him, bought it and answered one of his later queries from a Press reader. The second safe was sold, leaving him a handsome profit. The ad cost him ten cents.

SING WELL.

Columbia University Musical Clubs Are Well Praised.

The Columbia University Glee, Mandolin and Banjo Clubs, who will appear at the Casino, Thursday night, are among the most popular of college musical organizations and their efforts everywhere have met with universal praise. The vocalists particularly excel. On the occasion of their first appearance here they will be heard to fine advantage. Reserved seat tickets are on sale at Rowley's and Armstrong's pharmacies, and popular prices prevail.

GOOD MUSIC BY COLLEGE BOYS

EXCELLENT CONCERT GIVEN BY THE RUTGERS GLEE CLUB.

At Y. M. C. A. Hall for the Benefit of Borough High School Athletic Association.

A large audience was pleasantly entertained by the Rutgers College Glee Club at the Y. M. C. A. last evening. The affair was held under the auspices of the North Plainfield High School Athletic Association and it was truly enjoyable.

Although there were a few vacant seats the house had been sold and consequently no loss was sustained by the association by reason of unfavorable weather. From the first until the last number on the programme there was no limitation to the applause given.

"Bow-wow-wow," a college song, was the initial selection and it greatly amused the people. Mr. Shivler's tenor solo in "My Moonbeam Babe" was superb as was also the piano solo of Mr. Flanagan, which followed. A comic recitation by Mr. Fisher caused an encore which was equally well delivered. A bass solo by Mr. Jackson, which followed a humorous selection by the club, showed to advantage the rare voice possessed by the singer.

Mr. Wilmot's tenor solo, "The Gondolier's Song," was greatly appreciated as was demonstrated by the liberal applause it received. "Little Cotton Dolly," sung by a quartette, Messrs. Wilmot, Fisher, Gaston and Jackson, was one of the treats of the evening's entertainment. The performance closed with another college song "On the Banks of the Old Raritan," which was effectively rendered.

DRAWING NEW SCHOOL BILL

CHARLES L. CORBIN, OF JERSEY CITY, ASSIGNED TO THE TASK.

Making Draft of Bill to Take the Place of the Stokes School Law.

Counselor Charles L. Corbin, of Jersey City, has assumed the task of drawing up a new general school bill to take the place of the Stokes' school act of 1900, which has been set aside by the courts, but in the case of which a rehearing has been asked by Attorney General Grey.

Mr. Corbin has decided to frame a new act, at the request of Edward Russ, of Hoboken, chairman of the committee on law and legislation of the State Board of Education.

It is expected that the new bill will be ready for introduction in the Legislature in a few weeks.

Inasmuch as Charles L. Corbin is a recognized authority on legislation in New Jersey, and as he is one of the members of the general revision commission appointed by the governor, consisting, besides, of Justice Dixon and Justice Fort, the matter of the school law has been laid before him by Chairman Russ, of the committee on law and legislation of the State board.

Mr. Corbin will have the assistance of his brother, William H. Corbin, who was for a number of years in the school board of Elizabeth.

SETTLED WITHOUT SUIT.

Wm. O. Baldwin Given Damages by North Jersey Company.

Through his counsel, Francis J. Blatz, William O. Baldwin, of West Front street, effected a settlement yesterday with the North Jersey Street Railway Company for injuries sustained by two horses belonging to him. A live wire, belonging to the company, struck the horses at Newark six weeks ago, disabling them temporarily.

T. A. B. Reception.

The T. A. B. Society of St. Mary's parish will tender a reception to the committee and friends who assisted in making the recent fair a success. The affair will be given in the organization's hall on West Fourth street, Monday evening, Feb. 10.

ELIZABETH WANTS NEW REGIMENT ORGANIZED

The Elizabeth Journal Relates How it is Likely to be Organized.

TO MEAN A NEW ARMORY

WOULD INSURE REGIMENTAL HEADQUARTERS AT COUNTY SEAT.

Might Also Mean a Colonel From That City—Rahway Wants to Get Back Into the National Guard.

Local military men, says the Elizabeth Journal, are busily engaged in formulating plans for the organization of the new regiment of the National Guard.

The matter has been laid before Major General Wanser, and has met with his approval.

The scheme, it is said, is to organize four companies, in the vicinity of Newark, which are to replace the four Paterson companies which are now attached to the First regiment along with nine Newark companies. This would locate the entire First regiment at Newark. Just what disposition would be made of the Paterson battalion is a matter of conjecture. It is possible that it would be placed in the proposed regiment with the two Elizabeth companies and the two companies to be organized here. This would make the new regiment an eight company regiment. The two Elizabeth companies which would retire from the Second regiment would give an opportunity for a company at Rahway, as it is understood the members of the old Rahway company are anxious to re-enter the State service.

It has not been decided whether the new regiment will be an eight or twelve company regiment. Should it be a twelve company regiment the Rahway company would probably be attached to it instead of entering the Second. The balance of the regiment would be taken from nearby towns, and this county would consequently have two battalions, thus insuring Elizabeth regimental headquarters, which would indicate that the colonel of the new regiment would be a resident of the county seat.

An armory is also among the possibilities of the present year, and, as it has been pretty thoroughly agitated, Elizabeth stands a good chance of securing one.

There is talk in Rutherford, but it is not above a whisper, that a battery of artillery will be formed in that borough, which practically means the reinstatement of the defunct company L.

The prime movers in this matter of a new regiment feel disinclined, at this time, to give out any information. But there is little doubt that considerable work is being done on the quiet.

A HEROINE OF MISSIONS.

The Author of "A Lone Woman in Africa," to Speak in Plainfield.

Miss Agnes McAllister, who has lived for ten years at Garraway station on the Kroo coast of West Africa, will give some account of her work among the Kroomen at Vincent chapel of the First M. E. church, at 3:15 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Her book "A Lone Woman in Africa," is one of the most graphic stories of life among these devil worshipping black tribes, and her recital of her experiences is strange, amusing, sometimes pathetic and unconsciously heroic. She nursed her tribe in pestilence, went with them on the war-path as at once surgeon and army-nurse, rescued their victims from trial for witch-craft, exposed their medicine men, and taught them the arts and learning of Christiandom. She is a fascinating speaker, quite beyond the ordinary, and what she has to say will be of interest to many besides those who are acquainted with mission work.

The region from which Miss McAllister comes is that in which Miss Rachel Mair, of this city, has for some years been employed as a missionary teacher. All are cordially invited.

Remarkable Circumstance.

While many people in Plainfield have been suffering much pain as a result of vaccination, the worst seems to be over and everyone is improving. It is a remarkable fact that considering the great many people treated there has not been reported one serious case, which speaks well for the theory advanced and the care taken in the treatment.

BOROUGH PROMISES TO DO SOMETHING SOON

The Sewage Commission Will Surely Begin Investigation at a Meeting Monday.

A REPORT IS PROMISED.

ACTUALLY SAID THAT THE MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP COMMITTEE IS WORKING.

Proposed Ordinances Regulating Building and Fire Lines Are Being Drafted—They Are Soon to be Introduced.

The sewerage committee appointed by the Borough Council will hold a session Monday evening, and it is expected that some definite action will be taken in regard to the subject entrusted to their investigation. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., is the chairman of the committee and his time has been too much occupied of late to give the matter the attention needed. He is now determined to push the matter and an early report is promised.

It is stated that at the regular February meeting of the Borough Council, which is scheduled for a week from last night, the committee on municipal ownership will have some report to make. Chairman Lee is engaged on the report, but what the recommendation will be is not known. Whatever may be the view of the committee it is certain that there will be quite a discussion over the matter, for there are friends and enemies of the theory in the councilmanic body.

At the same session the proposed ordinances regulating a building line and limiting the area in which the erection of frame buildings is prohibited will also come before the borough fathers. These ordinances are being drafted by the borough counsel, Charles A. Reed, and they will be presented by S. S. Swackhamer, chairman of the committee having such matters in charge. There appears to be no opposition to either proposition and it is likely that they will receive the unanimous sanction of the councilmen.

ANTE-WEDDING FESTIVITIES

PROGRESSIVE HEART PARTY GIVEN TO THE BRIDAL PARTY.

Mrs. L. H. Biglow Was the Hostess—Bachelor Dinner Given at Sherry's Last Night.

Among the festivities attendant upon the approaching marriage of Miss Susie Milne to Edward T. Wilson, of Washington Park, was a dinner given Thursday evening by Mrs. Isabel Milne, mother of the bride, for the bridal party, eighteen in all. The affair was a brilliant one and attended by many pleasant features.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Lucius H. Biglow gave a progressive heart party to the bridal party and a number of the younger married and unmarried people. The decorations were green and white, and an attractive feature was an arrangement of silver hearts about the rooms. Mrs. Biglow was assisted in receiving by Miss Susie Milne.

Mrs. Otterson won first prize, Miss Isabel Milne the second and Miss Bessie Valiant the third. For the consolation prizes there was a drawing from a pack of cards, the king and queen of hearts being the winning cards. Miss Helen Bushnell and Miss Alice Barlow were successful and each received a white satin bridal slipper filled with violets. After the games a delicious supper was served.

Last evening Mr. Wilson entertained his best man and ushers at dinner given at Sherry's, after which the party attended the performance being given by Mrs. Leslie Carter.

Only Five Appeared.

Owing to the storm, last evening, but five persons appeared at the Park Avenue Baptist church to take part in the projected Christian Endeavor rally. The service was accordingly postponed until next week.

AMATEURS APPEAR AT CASINO THIS EVENING

Entertainment for Benefit of the Women's Exchange Promises to be Successful.

PROGRAMME IN FULL.

PIANO RECITAL AND TWO SHORT PLAYS WILL BE GIVEN.

Some Old Favorites Will be Seen Again, While New Candidates for Dramatic Honors Will Appear—The Casts.

"Hullo! Well, are you going to The Woman's Exchange benefit tonight at the Casino? What, you haven't heard about it? Its evident you don't read The Press.

"Been to Little Falls, eh? We've had quite a little fall, here. However, I'll not discuss the weather. We've been having too much of it lately. Besides, the theatricals is the topic of the hour.

"It's lucky you got back to town today; for you are just in time to attend the social function of the week.

"Your arrival is most opportune, for aside from your own amusement it affords you the noble privilege of patronizing the worthiest charity in the county."

This conversation, or rather monologue, was in circulation at noon today on Front street. Through courtesy the names of the monologuist, and his inaudible auditor have been withheld. Suffice it to say that the "monologuist" quoted," is a member of the cast assigned to interpret the plays which will be presented this evening. And in addition, be it said: That the "monologuist" quoted, would make, without further vocal culture, a campaign orator.

Apropos of the entertainment all preparations are complete and the stage manager is in readiness to "ring up."

That the affair will be a financial success is evidenced by the large sale of tickets reported.

The artistic success of the entertainment is assured when one recalls that such favorite and talented players as W. R. Cock, Frederick W. Goddard, William T. Pelletier, and Miss Maud VanBoskerck, have been entrusted leading roles. The debutantes appearing are Harry L. McGee, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, and Miss Otterson, whose finished work in their respective parts is free from the crudity of a novice's effort.

The plays have been staged under the dramatic direction of Douglas S. Houghton, of New York. The triumphant success of "Mr. Bob" and "Shades of Night," is a lasting tribute to the ability of Mr. Houghton as a thoroughly proficient dramatic director.

SUMMONED A HOST.

Robert Morley Was Given a Pleasant Surprise Last Evening.

A party of young people, numbering twenty, assembled at the home of George Meyer, of South Second street, last evening, and sent a messenger for Robert Morley, who lives nearly opposite. On his arrival he was informed that the gathering was in honor of his birthday and he was invited to join in the merriment. Although taken back he was soon at home and a pleasant evening was passed with games and music. The affair was arranged by George Meyer.

CLOSE OF TURKEY SUPPER

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH'S ANNUAL AFFAIR WAS ENDED.

Second Evening of the Supper Saw Another Large Crowd Well Supplied.

A hearty turkey supper was enjoyed by a large number of people at Trinity Reformed church lecture room last evening. It was the second and final evening for the affair which was held under the auspices of the Ladies' Christian Work Society. During the evenng 111 suppers were served.

This organization of the church has earned a reputation for setting a fine table, and the bill of fare last evening proved that the turkey supper is an affair which can be depended upon as being an excellent meal. There was a abundance of everything, for which the appetite craves. The notable feature was the good service, which might well be copied by others.

The hours for the supper were the same as on the previous evening, namely from 6 until 9 o'clock, and while it lasted there were no dearth of customers. The social features were not overlooked and while there was no programme of entertainment everyone was made to feel perfectly at home, as in the custom of the Trinity Reformed people.

While the guests were enjoying the repast, an orchestra played pleasing selections. The members of the orchestra were Mrs. N. E. Buckley, piano; Mrs. G. W. Saums, violin; and Elmer Wheeler, flute. Their work received much praise from many of those who listened attentively to the music.

OPEN THE GATES AT BAYONNE

REMEDY FOR KICK OVER FENCE SEPARATING THE TRACKS.

No Tunnel and No Enclosed Waiting Room Resulted in New Rule.

About a week ago the New Jersey Central erected at Bayonne an iron fence similar to the one separating the tracks at the North Avenue station. It was originally intended by the company to construct a tunnel at that point. The question as to right of property arose and the project was held up for the time being.

Since the erection of the fence the patrons of the road traveling to New York have been obliged to walk about a half block west to avenue C to reacth the station where the eastbound trains stop. This arrangement has caused no end of kicking on the part of the traveling public.

Recently, Vice President Warren visited the scene of the trouble and made an inspection. Since then orders have been given for the opening of the gates a few minutes before train time if there are any passengers to go to New York. On the east side of the tracks there is a slight structure used for a station and it affords no protection from the cold or stormy weather. Now passengers can wait in the station on the west side of the tracks until within a few minutes of time to catch their train.

The passengers are hoping that the other trouble amy be quickly adjusted and that a tunnel may soon be constructed.

Preparing for New Tenant.

John H. French will make substantial improvements to his store building, No. 207 West Front street, in preparing it for the new tenant, R. J. Shaw, the druggist. A cellar will be dug and the interior arrangements of the store will be changed considerably. As soon as the improvements are completed Mr. Shaw will take possession.

Another Drill.

Another very interesting and successful superintendent's drill was given at the W. C. T. U. rooms Thursday afternoon under the direction of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county superintendent.

PRODUCED WAX WORKS AND KINDER-SYMPHONY

Double Bill Attracted Many to Entertainment at Park Club Last Evening.

SYMPHONY REPEATED.

MRS. JARLEY'S WAX WORKS WAS THE NEW FEATURE.

Laurens H. VanBuren Took th Leading Role—The Remarkable Characters Which He Exhibited—They Made a Success.

The same degree of success, that attended the first presentation of the kinder-symphony at the Park Club recently, characterized its reproduction last evening, when, as an additional feature, Mrs. Jarley and her wax figures appeared for the edification of the large number. The entire entertainment was a great success and much praise was given those who arranged it as well as those who took part.

Mrs. Jarley and the wax figures appeared first. Laurens H. VanBuren was a typical Mrs. Jarley and so closely did he represent the feminine, that many of his best friends did not recognize him at first. At the start C. E. Murray and Percy C. Long were introduced as Alphonse and Clarence, the pages. It was their duty to bring the figures on the stage and see that each one properly performed.

The first figure was George Washington in the person of Harry Curtis. He carried the familiar hatchet and, upon being wound up, showed how the cherished tree of his father was cut down. Next appeared Mrs. Carrie Nation in the person of Miss Helen Phillips. She also carried a hatchet and, striking automatically with this weapon, there could be heard the breaking of glass.

The two-headed girl, Miss Frances Weir and Miss Alice Barlow, was introduced and the announcement that one was "more weird" than the other caused the young women to smile perceptibly, while the audience was convulsed with laughter. A clever representation was that of "the boy who stood on the burning deck eating peanuts by the peck." This was Arthur Peck, who held a measure marked "A Peck" and automatically ate peanuts. F. O. Ball was the well-known train boy who is to be found on the railroad trains selling candy. Upon being wound up he cried his wares in the familiar tone and produced abundant laughter. Afterwards he sold the candy in the audience.

Clifford M. McGee, as a representative of the North Plainfield fire department, travelled about the stage drawing a small toy engine. In his regimentals he made an ideal fireman. Miss Grace E. Overton represented Mrs. Winslow, of soothing syrup fame. She carried a stuffed baby in one arm and a bottle in the other. Every time the baby squealed it was heroically treated to syrup.

Mrs. Clifford M. McGee, as the seekng violets, was chased by Morgan T. Townsend, who represented "Low, the poor Indian." The last figure was Signor Squealer, in the person of Raymond A. McGee. After being wound up he sang several pathetic ballads and gave an exhibiton of "heavy work" in an opera.

It was the duty of the pages to keep the figures wound up and oiled. Failure to do this often worked disastrously. After all had been brought forth the button on each was touched and each one did his or her little part in unison. The effect was mirth-provoking. Throughout this performance the applause was hearty.

During the intermission the audience was favored with two pleasing solos by Miss Sarre, of New York, accompanied by Miss Saidee Mae Howell, after which the kinder-symphony was given. In the absence of Wallace Guilford, the former leader, George T. Rogers took his place and conducted the musical in a very satisfactory manner. The performance was precisely the same as given before and won additional praise. After the performance, William Demarest took a flash-light picture of the group.

The affair was given under the direction of the entertainment committee, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman, while Mrs. Weir-Lewis assisted in the giving of Mrs. Jarley and her wax figures. H. A. McGee assisted by giving the announcements throughout the evening.

William Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, is suffering with a severe attack of the grip.

THEATRICAL.

The great Ouida love story, "Under Two Flags," which has been so successfully dramatized by Paul M. Potter, and the heroine of which, the impetuous, passion swept Cigarette, is played by Miss Blanche Bathes, will beign a season at the Academy of Music on Monday evening. The colossal production at the Academy will be made by Charles Frohman, and will surpass all the big plays like "The Sporting Duchess" and "The White Heather" which were so popular and prosperous at this house. As is already known, "Under Two Flags" deals with the love romance of the Egytian girl, Cigarette, and handsome Bertie Cecil of the Guards. Miss Bates sounds the chord of every passion and emotion that Ouida has given to her heroine. One of the tremendous scenes of the play is the sandstorm in Chellala Gorge where Miss Bates rides a horse up the steep sides of the mountain and where she is saved from the Bedouins by the timely and providential interference of a fierce sandstorm. Nothing like this sandstorm has ever been seen upon the stage. It is an extraordinary reproduction of this awesome expression of one of nature's angriest moods, and it never fails to arouse the utmost enthusiasm. This is only one of the enormous scenes of the production, every one of which fills the vast stage of the Acadamy. Miss Bates has entirely recovered from her recent severe illness. A capable company assists her in the presentation of this strong and phenomenal drama.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs is fortunate in having as his sole contestant Senator Reed, of Somerset, and his only urgent opponent Senator Hutchinson, of Mercer. Senator Reed, if he were not senator, would not be dreamed of as a proper custodian of the manifold functions of the treasurership, and, being a Senator, is manifestly unfitted for the candidacy. Senator Hutchinson is on the fourth year of his public service, and has succeeded in making no more impression upon his colleagues than could be expressed by his single vote. His opposition to Mr. Briggs has been honest only in its openness, for every Republican must detest the mean attack which he made in asserting that Mr. Briggs had been repudiated by the Republicans of Trenton.—Trenton True American.

Ever since trolley cars have been in operation in Union county there has been more or less talk of a trolley line between the city of Elizabeth and Summit.

It is now revived, and the men who are at the head of the present movement, Frank Bergen and Hamilton Fish Kean, afford assurances that the capital city and the newest and northermost city of Union county will soon have an easy line of communication between them.

A plan suggested a few years ago involved the destruction of the whole telford pavement between this city and Summit, and this The Journal opposed; but the plan at present suggested leaves the telford road intact. It also leaves a ten-foot roadway on each side, between the trolley tracks and the curb; the tracks running on either side of the macadam and about two feet distant therefrom.

It is a marvel that a road of this kind was not built several years ago. Never have Springfield, Summit, New Providence and that whole section of Union county had easy access to the county seat. In the old days they had merely the dirt roads; and these were so bad that grand juries presented the freeholders and overseers of the roads. Later they had the much-improved county roads, very excellent in their way, but the people in the northern part of Union county had either to drive to the county seat or else go away "around Robin Hood's barn," by way of the railroad to Newark, change cars, and then take the railroad or trolley to Elizabeth, a ride of an hour or two hours (including waits) to go a distance of about eight miles.

Between Elizabeth and Summit are the towns of Union and Springfield. Passengers would be carried to and from these, and possibly from Milburn and Short Hills. But the bulk of the travel would doubtless come from Summit. It is by no means improbable that a great proportion of the travel and the trade which now goes to Newark over the D. L. and W. road, would rapidly be diverted to the city of Elizabeth.

At one time it was thought probable that the New Orange Railroad would be bought, overhauled and equipped as a trolley road, connecting at Roselle with what is known as the "Green line." But this plan seems to have been abandoned for a direct route through Morris avenue.

There is not the business outlook along the Elizabeth-Summit line that there was along the line to Westfield, and therefore its franchise cannot be held to be of great value. Such a road might not pay more than actual running expenses for a long time, but business would come little by little and the delightful sites for cottages and summer homes would ultimately attract many customers and their necessary patronage of the road.

But the tapping of Summit, and the diverting of its travel and its trade from Newark would be the main expectation, and it is a matter of congratulation that Summit is quite eager to make the change. — Elizabeth Journal.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Cashin, the Park avenue tailor, is an authority on the proper dress for men. He now proposes to sell a superior line of men's furnishings. His line is complete.

The toothsome sweets, that please the little folks as well as the older ones, are to be found in great variety at Campbell's on West Front street.

Absolutely pure confection a specialty.

No dish is more relished these cold mornings than wholesome sausage. Be sure and get the best, the Flemington brand. It's sold at R. W. Barnes, delicatessen store, Park avenue, near North avenue.

William Lindsay & Son, the Mountain avenue dairymen, are constantly receiving praise for the pure milk served by them. There is nothing that needs such careful attention as milk and this firm sells the right kind.

Cheerfulness is added to the sickroom by the presence of a vase of cut flowers. John L. Brower, of 127 East Fifth street, will take your order and the firm of William H. Brower, of 946 Broadway, New York, will fill it with dispatch.

The sidewalks generally were encumbered by snow yeterday, but there was a well beaten path leading to Hepburn & Co.'s pharmacy, corner of Park avenue and Second street. People were wending their way thither in search of a cough syrup. Suffice it to say their wants were supplied.

The path of glory leads but to the grave, but don't hasten the end by exposing yourself to the chilly blasts. Chamois vests as chest protectors are as coats of mail against that arch enemy, pneumonia. The King Frost for men and the Queen Frost for women are the suitable designs handled by John P. Powers, the wide-awake proprietor of the Somerset Pharmacy.

LITERARY.

The leading article in the February Forum is a discussion of "The Settlement with China" by Mark B. Dunnell, who is not very optimisitic as to the outcome of the action taken by the Western nations after the Boxer rising. Major J. H. Parker answers the question "What shall we do with the Philippines?" by recommending their cession to some European or Asiatic power. "The Reformation of Criminals" is discussed by J. Franklin Fort, Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, in a paper which recommends the employment of systems of conditional pardon and parole, and the institution of reformatories for young offenders. Merrill A. Teague, assistant to Admiral Schley's counsel, writes on "Errors Touching the Schley Court of Inquiry," and maintains that the principal error was a "fatal misconception, or, rather, confusion of duty" respecting the function of the court. Oher articles are "The Young Man with Nothing but Brains," by Truman A. DeWeese; "Wanted—An Opposition," by Alan P. Gilmour; and "The Care of Dependent Children in Indiana" by W. B. Streeter.

Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Myrtle avenue, has returned from a business trip to Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schwed, of Fairview avenue, has returned from a pleasant trip in the south.

THE PATRICK TRIAL.

Rice's Nephew Helps Accused Lawyer by His Admissions.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Each side scored a triumph in the Patrick case after long legal sparring yesterday afternoon, the prosecution by obtaining the admission of the 1896 Rice will as evidence and Mr. House of counsel for Patrick by leading William M. Rice, nephew of the dead millionaire, to make several admissions on the stand which brought a smile of satisfaction to Patrick's face.

The exciting developments in the trial came just before adjournment was taken until next Monday morning, when the case will be continued in part 4 of general sessions instead of in part 2.

Mr House was examining the witness when he succeeded in leading him into an admission that the firm of J. S. & W. M. Rice owed the Rice estate $24,000.

This indebtedness the witness was forced to admit would have been canceled if the 1900 will were probated. As the witness made this statement Patrick leaned forward eagerly in his chair, a smile showed upon his face, and he slapped Mr. House enthusiastically upon the back.

Under Mr. House's skillful questioning the witness also admitted that by the 1896 will he was bequeathed the indebtedness of $24,000 and that he and nine other heirs had signed an agreement with the trustees of the Rice institute whereby the heirs would get $75,000 altogether if the 1896 will were probated.

Mr. Osborne also had his triumph when the 1896 will was admitted in evidence, a point he had been fighting for days to gain.

A TALE OF SUFFERING.

Details of the Loss of Two Hundred Japanese Soldiers.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 1.—Details of the loss of about 200 Japanese soldiers, who were frozen to death, have been received here.

It seems that a command of 210 men practicing winter marching were caught in a blizzard on the northern end of the island of Hondo and lost their road. The snow in the mountain passes was twenty feet deep. In their efforts to warm themselves the detachment burned their haversacks and rifle butts, but many of them were frozen to death.

The seventy-one survivors then scattered and in small parties endeavored to reach the villages. Only one corporal, however, succeeded in escaping from the mountains, and he was picked up by a relief party.

It is feared that all the other members of the expedition are dead.

Not a Bullock From America.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—During the current week not a single bullock arrived at Deptford market from the United States. This is the climax of a remarkable decline in cattle importations from America and is unprecedented since this import trade commenced. THE BIDDLES CAUGHT Escaped Murderers and Guilty Woman Overtaken.

ALL THREE SHOT, ONE FATALLY.

Condemned Men Who Escaped From Pittsburg Jail and Jailer's Wife Who Aided Them Captured After a Desperate Fight.

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 1.—Edward Biddle in jail dying, John Biddle riddled with buckshot and in a precarious condition and Mrs. Peter K. Soffel lying in the hospital with a self inflicted bullet wound through the breast is the sequel of the sensational escape of the Biddle brothers from the Allegheny county jail, aided by Mrs. Soffel, the wife of the jail warden, on Thursday morning.

The story of the close of the Biddle tragedy is a thrilling one. The scene was a snow covered road two miles east of Prospect, Butler county, near Mount Chestnut, and the exact place was at McClure's barn, where two double team sleighs, filled with eight officers, three of them Pittsburg detectives, John Roach, Albert Swinehart and Charles McGovern, met the two Biddles in a one horse sleigh, stolen at Perrysville, and at once opened fire on the trio.

The Biddles returned the fire after jumping out of the sleigh. Mrs. Soffel was shot through the breast.

Edward Biddle was shot in the left arm, in the breast and in one leg. John Biddle was riddled with buckshot in the breast and head.

The Pittsburg officers were met at Butler by Deputy Sheriffs Rainey and Hoon and Officers Frank Holliday and Aaron Thompson, the latter under command of Chief of Police Robert Ray of Butler.

The officers were certain that they were on the right trail. It was only a question of time when they would catch up to the escaping condemned murderers and their guilty companion.

The Biddles and Mrs. Soffel ate dinner at J. J. Stephens', at Mount Chestnut, five miles east of Butler. They had made a detour of the town of Butler and, after going several miles east, turned north and then west. The Pittsburg officers, only a few miles in the rear, took the wrong road for about eight miles, but when they found their mistake they made up for lost time by telegraphing ahead for fresh horses.

They reached Mount Chestnut not less than half an hour after the Biddles and Mrs. Soffel. At this point William Watson, storekeeper, had fresh horses awaiting them, and the chase began anew.

The two sleighs, with the eight officers aboard, started westward and met the Biddles and Mrs. Soffel at McClure's barn, two miles from Mount Prospect. The Biddles, having learned that they were almost overtaken and taking what they considered the only chance, had driven eastward and met their doom.

The Pittsburg and other officers were armed with Winchester rifles and revolvers of large caliber. They shot to kill, and their aim was perfect. The Biddles tried to kill to the last of their string, but not one of the eight officers has a wound as the result of the battle.

At the jail Ed Biddle called for a priest and made the following statement:

"I have been accused of a great many serious crimes. I admit that I could have committed many, the opportunities for them having presented themselves. I want to say now that I did not kill Detective Fitzgerald, nor did I shoot Thomas Kahney, nor was my brother implicated in the latter affair. Mrs. Soffel aided us in getting out of the county jail, and had it not been for her we would have made our escape. She gave up everything for us, and I was bound to back her. I did not shoot her. She shot herself. Oh, father, bless me and tell me that my sins are forgiven.

"Although I have been pictured to you as a desperate man, I still have some heart and gratitude for the woman who helped us to escape. She merely did it out of good sympathy for us. I persuaded her to do it. I told her I was guiltless of the crime for which I was about to be executed, and she was impressed and yielded to my suggestion. I planned it all."

Looking up, he saw several reporters and recognized them as the men who had reported all his nefarious crimes for which he was tried.

"You blackguards, you are the cause of the bitter feeling that has been engendered against us. You created the public sentiment against us. Are you sorry? You are not? You are too heartless."

DOINGS OF CONGRESS

Mr. Morgan Urges Amendment to Philippine Tariff.

BILL TO INCREASE JUDGES' SALARIES

Mr. Hoar Thinks Supreme Court Justices Entitled to More Than $10,000 a Year—The Measure Opposed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—An extended speech on the pending Philippine tariff bill was delivered in the senate yesterday by Mr. Morgan (Ala.), who devoted particular attention to an amendment he offered to the bill last week. He maintained that the enactment of the bill as it stands now would not be a constitutional remedy for the situation the measure is designed to relieve, but said with the adoption of his amendment the bill would stand the closest scrutiny of the courts. The Alabama senator did not discuss the political phases of the Philippine question, devoting his entire speech to a consideration of the legal and constitutional questions raised by the presentation of the tariff measure.

An hour and a half was devoted to consideration of a bill to increase the salaries of judges of United States courts, but no action was taken.

Mr. Hoar made a brief statement in support of the measure. He believed members of the judiciary of the United States were entitled to such salaries as would enable them to maintain suitable and proper positions.

The judicial salaries paid by the government were not equal to those paid by many of the great states of the Union to the judges of the state courts.

The justices of the United States supreme court, he declared, could make ten times the amount of the salaries proposed in practice at the bar.

Mr. Berry (Dem., Ark.) opposed the measure. He believed that $10,000 a year was enough to enable justices of the supreme court to live upon respectably.

He ventured the statement that many people thought the justices were not worth $10,000 a year. They were receiving double the salaries of senators and representatives in congress and had no right to complain.

Mr. Stewart (Rep., Nev.) made a strong plea for the enactment of the bill.

The house prepared to defend itself against what it considered the threatened invasion by the senate of its prerogative in the matter of revenue legislation by directing the ways and means committee to investigate the subject and report to the house its conclusions. The action of the house was the outgrowth of the agitation in the senate of the claim that reciprocity treaties affecting the customs revenues can be negotiated without the concurrence of the house.

Requirements For Letter Carriers.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The postmaster general has promulgated regulations governing the appointment of carriers in the rural free delivery service throughout the country and appointed a central board of examiners for the service. Both actions take effect today. All special agents and route inspectors will be auxiliary members, and they will examine all applicants. Carriers are required to possess horse and wagon or cart, give $500 bond, be between seventeen and fifty-five years of age and must be able to read and write. The regulations prohibit the receiving or considering of political indorsements.

Union Iron Works Strike Ended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Admiral Bowles, chief of the construction bureau, has received a telegram from the Union Iron works at San Francisco stating that the strike among the laborers employed in the building of the torpedo boat destroyers at that yard has been declared off and that work has been resumed on that class of vessels. The destroyers building at San Francisco are the Paul Jones, Perry and Preble. Navy department officials are much pleased at this news and hope it presages a resumption of work on all the vessels building at the Union Iron works.

Farewell Dinner to Gage.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The Treasury club, an organization of officials of the treasury department, gave a farewell dinner last night at the Shoreham hotel to Hon. Lyman J. Gage, the retiring secretary. Covers were laid for sixty-five, the guests including Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, who succeeds Mr. Gage; former Assistant Secretaries Vanderlip and Howell and Admiral Farquhar. Speeches were made by Governor Shaw, Secretary Gage, Assistant Secretaries Ailes, Taylor and Spalding.

Records For Liberality Broken.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Public gifts and bequests in the United States during the year 1901 reached the grand total of $107,360,000. The greatest yearly total previous was $62,275,000, so that last year's giving was almost double that of the best previous record.

Treasury Has a Safe Surplus.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Good News From Manufacturing Centers—Railway Earnings.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Despite some drawbacks, the business situation continues satisfactory, with especially good news from manufacturing centers. Labor disputes are somewhat more numerous, and low water stopped mills in parts of the northwest. Special lines were stimulated by seasonable weather, but the same influence affected others adversely. Transporting interests were just resuming normal conditions after the worst congestion ever experienced when the heavy snowfall at many points caused further blockades. Nevertheless railway earnings thus far reported for January show gains of 10.1 per cent over last year's and 20.5 per cent over 1900.

The remarkable report of the Steel corporation gives some idea of the volume of business transacted last year, while contracts already placed practically assure still greater activity for 1902.

Textile mills are well occupied, and the lack of accumulations in first hands gives a strong tone to the market, though there is much evidence of conservatism among buyers. While the size of the cotton crop remains uncertain it must exert a quieting influence on goods. Fewer lines of new woolens have been opened than was expected.

Consumption of wheat as fodder or holding back for higher prices prevents the big yield from swelling receipts, which for the week were 2,840,081 bushels against 2,775,975 last year. The reduced yield of corn is reflected in interior arrivals of only 2,379,365 bushels compared with 4,908,962 a year ago, while the high price is responsible for Atlantic exports of 331,880 bushels against 2,418,013 last year.

Failures in the United States for the week numbered 301 against 263 last year and in Canada 40 compared with 37 a year ago.

FIVE MUST DIE.

Porto Ricans Guilty of Heinous Crimes Sentenced to Be Garroted.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 1.—The sentencing of five murderers to be garroted some time this month by the district court of Ponce, unless these sentences be commuted to life imprisonment, has been sustained by the supreme court of the island. The papers in this case will reach Governor Hunt this week, and a number of citizens are petitioning the governor's clemency in the matter. The supreme court may recommend clemency, in which case it will probably be granted.

The men sentenced are members of a gang, five of whom were garroted at Ponce in 1900. They committed crimes in the unsettled times of 1898. The men now under sentence robbed a house near Adjuntas, after having maltreated, mutilated and murdered the inmates. The men executed in 1900 committed a similar crime near Yauco. The crimes of this gang have been particularly atrocious.

There is much opposition here to the enforcement of the death penalty, but a bill introduced into the legislature abolishing this penalty was laid upon the table.

Indian Lands to Be Leased.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The disputed question as to permitting the leasing of the grazing land of the Standing Rock reservation, in the Dakotas, has been settled by a decision to go ahead with the leases. The interior department will proceed immediately with the execution of leases to W. I. Walker of Rock Island, Ill., who gets 460,800 acres, and Mr. Lemon, a cattleman of South Dakota, who gets 788,480 acres, making a total of 1,249,280 acres. This leaves over half of the reservation unleased and remaining for the use of the Indians themselves if they so desire.

ICE CAUSED HAVOC.

Three States Suffer Heavily From Sleetstorm.

LOSS LIKELY TO REACH MILLIONS.

Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi Slowly Recovering From Effects of One of the Worst Visitations In Years.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 1.—The weather of the present week has brought disaster to all the small and many larger towns and villages in the states of Tennessee, Arkansas and Mississippi. It is difficult to estimate the amount of damage. It is known that at Little Rock, Ark., alone the damage amounts to half a million dollars, and the footings altogether, it is believed, will run up several millions.

Business has been at a standstill in many towns. In addition to stocks of goods being ruined the streets and highways are blocked by broken telegraph and telephone poles, twisted wires, the trunks and limbs of trees and other debris.

The damage to stocks of goods is due to the tremendous weight of accumulated ice and sleet and to the insufficiency of roofs to sustain such loads. Inhabitants of the smaller towns have been seriously discommoded by the interruption of wire service by telephone and telegraph. In the country the losses have been heavy. Stock has suffered, and in some sections the wheat crop is reported to be ruined.

Such a siege of sleet and cold rain is altogether unprecedented. In some places the ground has been covered with ice to a depth of six inches.

In central and western Tennessee the damage to houses and stocks of goods has been enormous. Reports from Paris, Dresden, McKenzie, Jackson, Huntington and Union City state that the storm of sleet and rain has been unprecedented in those sections. Mississippi has suffered severely, the people being wholly unprepared to protect themselves from the unusual conditions now prevailing.

In Arkansas the storm played fearful havoc to houses and other property.

Telegraph and telephone wires are down in every direction, and it will take several days before the extent of the damage will be known.

A New Government Building.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The senate committee on public buildings and grounds has authorized Senator Fairbanks to make a favorable report on his bill providing for the erection of a new department building in Washington on the site of the old Corcoran Art gallery, at the corner of Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue. The bill provides that the building shall be devoted to the use of the state department and the department of justice and that space shall be allotted in the building to the clerical force under the immediate control of the president and which now finds working space in the White House. No appropriation is made, but authority is given to acquire the site and erect the building. The supervising architect estimates that a suitable building can be put up for $7,000,000.

An Amicable Settlement.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 1.—President John M. Hall of the Consolidated road announced last night that the conference between a committee of twenty-four men representing the engineers and firemen of the several divisions of the road with officials of the company had been concluded satisfactorily to all. He also stated that a schedule of wages had been submitted by the men and agreed to by the company and also that the time cards of runs had been considered and arranged to the satisfaction of both parties. The schedule agreed upon is that passenger train engineers shall hereafter receive $3.50 per day, passenger train firemen $2 per day, freight train engineers $3 a day and freight train firemen $2.15 a day.

A Steamer Ashore.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—At about 6 o'clock last night in a blinding snowstorm the British steamer Cazour of Liverpool, belonging to the Lamport & Holt line, in command of Captain Kelly, went ashore at Long Beach, a point on the southern Long Island coast about eighteen miles east of Sandy Hook. The crews of the Point Lookout and Long Beach life saving stations went to the stranded vessel. They found that she was resting easy and was in no immediate danger. The captain and crew decided to remain on board during the night.

A Mysterious Suicide.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 1.—A woman about fifty-five years of age, gray haired, weighing about 180 pounds, who registered at the McClure House as "Mrs. G. Parker, Chicago, Ill.," was found in her room unconscious from a large dose of laudanum and died last night at 6 o'clock. The deed was evidently premeditated, as the woman took every precaution to prevent disclosure of her true name and her home. She cut from her shoes and clothing the names of the makers and left nothing by which she could be identified.

Norfolk's Heavy Fire Loss.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 1.—The loss by yesterday morning's fire will approximate $900,000, possibly half covered by insurance. The buildings burned were the Atlantic hotel, the Columbia building, the Albemarle apartment house and four smaller business blocks.

Treasury Contains Much Gold.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The amount of gold in the treasury is $545,876,205, the highest point ever reached in the history of the government.

NOT TOO LATE.

While Plainfield is usually to be found well in the lead in any patriotic or charitable movement which may stir the country, there has been a surprising and very deplorable lack of interest taken in this city in the Mc Kinley Memorial fund. While cities and towns all over the State have been turning in subscriptions to assist in the establishment of a proper memorial to the martyr president, William McKinley, Plainfield has not figured at all. New Jersey's share of the national fund has almost been raised but there is still a chance for Plainfield to make up to some extent its past neglect and add its share.

When the news of the dastardly attempt at the life of President McKinley was flashed over the wires, Plainfield felt the shock as keenly as did any other city in the land. Feeling ran high here and men walked about with clouded brows and even neglected business to learn the latest news from the Milburn House at Buffalo where the dying President lay. When the news of his death came, the whole city mourned and business was suspended while the people gathered for an impressive memorial service. With such a display of feeling then, it is surprising that the people should have so far forgotten it as to neglect to aid in this most worthy movement.

New Jersey has its State McKinley Memorial Fund Association which includes in its membership some of the most prominent men of the State. Governor Franklin Murphy is president. One of the local directors is Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, who will be glad to receive subscriptions. They may also be left at this office and will be forwarded to the proper authority at once.

A REASON WHY.

A decision will be reached next Tuesday regarding the candidacy for State treasurer. A caucus of the State Legislature has been called for that day and the Republican members of both houses will then meet to decide by ballot who shall be the choice of that party which now is equivilent to election.

A glance through many of the newspapers of the State shows that, with few exceptions, they are opposed to the candidacy of Senator Charles A. Reed. When, as a matter of fact, Mr. Reed's chances are quite bright, these newspapers are continually declaring that he has no show and that his campaign is losing ground very rapidly. There's isn't any doubt but Senator Reed is meeting with some determined opposition. Neither is there any doubt but many of the newspapers are greatly exaggerating his chances of defeat.

There is one reason which may have something to do with the rather unfriendly way in which many of the editors are now using the Senator from Somreset county. It will be remembered that Mr. Reed was the leader of the opposition to allowing the newspaper men to attend the Senatorial caucus. There are some who have evidently not forgotten that fact. It is a hard thing to buck up against the newspapers.

If the borough of North Plainfield gets half of the good things that are now being discussed within the confines of that municipality, it will be one of the most fortunate places in the State. It is a great habit they have, over in the borough, however, of talking about these wonderful things to come. The only trouble is that they do not always materialize. Mayor Smalley has worked hard for the advancement of some of his pet schemes but he has lacked the co-operation of other city officials. It is time some of them woke up. Talking in one's sleep is all right as a means of diversion but it is not very effective. Action is needed.

It has already been noted that this season has been a remarkable one on account of the number of musical and amateur theatrical entertainments of a high order given in this city. One of the college glee clubs, all popular with Plainfield audiences, appear before a large audience tonight and the glee, banjo and mandolin clubs of another are booked for one evening next week. Then there will be a musical and dramatic programme at the Casino this evening. Certainly the people of Plainfield have been particularly fortunate this winter.

Very few business men are in doubt as to whether to advertise in the newspapers comments the Philadelphia Record. Some are undecided as to what kind of mediums to use, but the experienced advertiser finds many different ways of advertising useful. However, it is the opinion of the majority of successful men that a newspaper with a large circulation among intelligent, buying people is the best and in all ways the cheapest agency for drawing trade.

The borough wants to follow the city's example and get a stove to heat its jail, if the latter does not happen to suit. Occasionally the stove used to get overheated and the interior of the jail would suffer in consequence.

With water meters installed, the city would find that the demands on the sewage disposal beds would be greatly lessened. There is nothing now to encourage consumers in husbanding the water supply.

Of late years, sleighing has been a pleasure which Plainfielders have had very little opportunity of enjoying. The last storm has brought the first really good sleighing of the season.

BAZAAR CLOSED.

Last Night of Affair Held at German Reformed Church.

The three-nights bazaar, held under the auspices of the Ladie's Aid Society of the German Reformed church, in the Sunday-school room of the church edifice closed last evening. The chancing off of the quilt scheduled to take place last night was postponed until Monday evening. A tidy little sum was realized from the affair.

Has to Use Artificial One.

Peter Hill, of Gladstone, is spending a few days in Plainfield with relatives. A short time ago Mr. Hill had a portion of his leg amputated and he is now obliged to use a wooden leg. It was this unforseen operation that prevented him from going to Georgia to spend the winter.

At Tomorrow's Meeting.

At the Reform Club meeting tomorrow afternoon Richard Foote, the California tragedian, will recite a dramatic selection entitled "Paul and Agrippa." Mr. Foote is contemplating the presentation of "Pocohontas" at Reform Hall in the near future.

At Greenbrook Council.

At the meeting of Greenbrook Council, No. 1735, Royal Arcanum, Thursday evening, there will be initiation, an entertainment and smoker.

The new telephone directory has arrived at the local exchange and copies will be distributed among the subscribers in a few days.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

CANDLEMAS DAY.

Will be Observed at Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches Sunday.

The feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary will be observed in the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches tomorrow. This day also commemorates the occasion of the presentation of Christ in the temple. Candlemas Day is the common name of the festival.

There will be special services in St. Mary's R. C. church. Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Father Justin, O.S.F., of Paterson, will be the celebrant; Rev. Father Farley, of the parish church, deacon, and Rev. Father Brennan, of Trenton, sub-deacon. A feature of the ceremony will be a solemn procession of the clergy and altar boys after the blessing of the candles and the singing of the anthems of the feast.

Mr. Stephens' Substitute.

In place of Ward Stephens, Mr. Landes, of Flemington, will preside at the organ of the Crescent Avenue church, tomorrow. Mr. Landes received his musical training in the Metropolitan College of Music, New York city, and was a pupil of Dudley Buck and Harry Rowe Shelley. At that time Ward Stephens was one of the musical directors of the college. Mr. Landes has played the organ for about six years.

Patent to H. D. Hibbard.

Among the patents issued recently is one for a duplex locking mechanism for safes or vaults. H. D. Hibbard, of the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, is the patentee.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

PORTO RICO IS RICH.

Its Resources, However, Need Painstaking Development.

Young Americans Should Think Twice Before Emigrating to the Island — Obstacles in the Way to Success.

[Special Washington Letter.]

CONCERNING the island of Porto Rico thousands of letters of inquiry are coming to senators and representatives, and occasionally the newspaper men in the national capital hear from distant friends making inquiry as to the advantages of that portion of our imperial republic.

Young men ask questions about the agricultural possibilities or the mercantile conditions. Young women ask about the educational environments of the cities and villages; for the majority of the feminine querists are seeking to be school-teachers. By the way, if they only knew the unhappy lot of the school-teachers who have gone from this country to Manila, they might hesitate before leaving home, sweet home for any of the islands which are, and for many years will be, infected with the virus of Spanish corruption in every department, official and civil.

School-teachers, however, are but a small minority of those who make inquiry for the purpose of putting their brain, brawn and capital into the development of the resources of Porto Rico. It has been suggested to the writer that one printed letter in a good newspaper would give these inquiring people more information than they can get from the hasty correspondence of statesmen who have not time to study and investigate. Moreover, a senator says that all of our people are interested in what we captured from Spain, and what we shall do with it all.

The island of Porto Rico is one-fourth less in area than the state of Connecticut, but supports a population about one-third greater than that of the nutmeg state. The agricultural wealth of the island was particularly demonstrated when it supported its dense population, and also paid heavy tributes in taxation to Spain, and in remittances to absent landlords, many of whom never set foot on the soil of the dependency, which was naturally so independent. Moreover, this was done when there were no modern methods, implements nor appliances, no good roads, few railroads and unimproved harbors.

The treasury department and the department of agriculture are now beginning to take official interest in the harbors of Porto Rico, and none too soon. The condition of the harbors could not be worse, except by seismic disturbances. They are absolutely without improvements, and the cost of shipping the products of the fertile soil amounts to an export tax upon the people. Large portions of the products of Porto Rico are brought to the coasts on pack animals, or on the heads of men and women; and, when brought there, the products must be lightered out to vessels in the harbors, because there is no place where a very large ship can come to dock. Official cognizance is being taken of this and similar benighted conditions which prevailed previous to that naval engagement in which the victorious commander exclaimed: "There is glory enough for us all."

WILLIAM H. HUNT.
(Civil Governor of the Island of Porto Rico.)

While the agricultural wealth of this island is marvelous it is restricted. The people export their products, while they import their food. Wheat, corn, rice, nearly half of their imports are cereal and other agricultural products. Casual visitors from this country, particularly from our prairie states, view the steep mountains and declivities and wonder how any portion of the island can be capable of cultivation.

The plains along the coast, if subjected to modern scientific drainage and fertilization can become inexhaustible food producers. At present they produce excellent tobacco, corn, bananas and pineapples. The seashores are lined with cocoanut trees. In the interior coffee, oranges, limes and lemons flourish. The oranges are said to be the finest in the world.

The coffee crop is cultivated, but not scientifically. It begins to ripen along the coast in August and September and is all ready for market by the close of October. In the mountains the coffee crop begins to ripen in November, and gathering continues until the middle of February. This crop occupies particular attention thus during seven months of every year.

There are two mountain ranges on the island, the Cayey and the Loquillo and they are almost parallel to each other. The Cayey range is unbroken from end to end of the island, at a distance of from 8 to 15 miles of the south coast; but the Loquillo range is broken by many valleys through which streams rising on the other range make their way to the ocean. The Loquillo is nearer to the north coast than the Cayey is to the south coast. On either side of these ranges, next to the north and south coasts, are beautiful plains sloping to the shore. These plains are about five miles wide on the southern coast, and average three miles in width on the north coast. They are very fertile, and with proper cultivation would last as wealth producers for all time. The plains are of rich alluvium soil. Along the eastern portion of the island the lack of rainfall is lamentable, and scientific irrigation will be necessary to bring them to a condition of permanent value.

One of the most wonderful things in Porto Rico is the depth of the soil on the face of the steep mountains, and the fact that the natives cultivate this soil to the very peaks of the highest ranges, causes astonishment to our people who visit the island.

The rainfalls at certain seasons are terrific, torrential and driven by hurricanes. It is marvelous that these cliffs and peaks are not washed bare to the solid stone. But the soil sticks to its alloted place; and there are no landslides such as might be expected and anticipated. It is supposed that because there are no frosts to aid the rains in dislodging the decaying rocks, and because of the porosity of the bed rock, the rain is absorbed almost as rapidly as it falls, even when it comes most violently. It is officially stated by scientists who have recently investigated this section that the soil is so rich that but little tillage is required; and that is the reason that the mountain coffee districts are so productive. The mountain coffee is cut with machetes, or short swords. In this manner the soil is cleared of the wild growth of coffee, but the roots are left alive, and they help to hold the ground in place, while they also furnish forth the basis of the ensuing crops.

African slavery once existed on the sugar plantations, and on this account the laborers on the northern and southern coasts are colored. But in the interior the laborers are white natives. The average day's wages is 25 cents in American money, and the laborers board themselves. They do not require much clothing; only sufficient to cover their nakedness. They are patient, good natured and gratified with the change which has come over their government.

When the American army landed at Guanica in July, 1898, the commanding general sent word to our national capital that he did not want any more meat sent to his army from this country. This was because he found such splendid cattle ready at hand. They are of large size, of uniform light red color, and they fatten easily. The cows are almost as large as the oxen, but they do not yield milk in proportion to their size. The heat there is so great and so constant that milk can only be kept by immediately boiling it. The people know nothing of cream or butter.

There are no public lands in Porto Rico, and whoever is inclined to go there for the purpose of making a home must go prepared to buy the land from the holders, many of whom reside in Europe, the majority of them in Spain. Of course there are some small estates, but substantially none of them for sale. The price of land, however, is comparatively low, when its fertility and inexhaustibility are considered. Ambitious farmers with a fair amount of capital might go there and prosper.

But before any encouragement should be given to our people to go there with a view of making fortunes, it must be understood that the government must have time to improve some of the harbors, if not all of them. Then there must be established lines of fast steamers for tourist travel, and other lines of freight vessels to facilitate trade relations between Porto Rico and the continent.

Transportation and irrigation are needful. Large tracts of land in the interior of the island might be purchased now by men of means, to be held until the suggested improvements are made; as they undoubtedly will be made some time. When there are railways or tramways from the interior to the coast, three or four times the amount of coffee now produced can be raised there. The same may be said of all of the staples of the island.

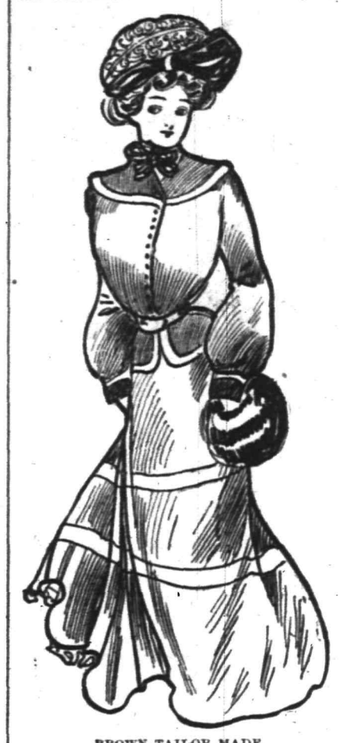
THE NEW YEAR HATS.

Never Before Have They Been So Picturesque and Becoming.

The hats of the new year are charming. Very smart is the three cornered hat in various pale shades or all black, trimmed with a quantity of feathers. A becoming mixture of white beaver, old lace and one black quill, on which depends the success of the hat, is most elegant. If a woman possesses a few good ostrich feathers and an old paste buckle, she can get a big velvet or flopping felt shape and make of it a model picture hat. Those painted by the old masters can never be surpassed. They carry no date and always look lovely, provided they are well poised on a well arranged coiffure.



BROWN TAILOR MADE.

A pretty trimming to a fawn colored French felt hat consists simply of a draping of lace. This is always in good style and practicable.

In today's picture we have a tailor made of brown cloth trimmed with stitched bands of a lighter shade of panne. The jacket reaches some little way below the waist line. The edges are outlined with a wide stitched fold of the panne. The collar is wide and droops over the shoulders sailor fashion. The sleeves are full, with Louis Seize cuffs. The belt is of the panne. The skirt is made with two strappings of the panne. It is plain otherwise.

The pretty hat worn with this costume is of tan velvet, trimmed with a fancy quill.

FANCY BOAS AND MUFFS.

Particularly Handsome Effects Are Noticeable In Chiffon and Tulle.

Fancy boas and muffs are now all the rage. Even in furs the plain styles are in the minority. The most handsome muffs are trimmed with a fierce looking animal's head and a bunch of tails. Many of them give an appearance as if the animal were inside of the muff. The head and front paws hang out at one side and the tail and rear paws at the other. It is not unusual to see three kinds of fur in one muff, and elaborate trimmings of chiffon and artificial flowers are quite in the order of things.

Boas of chiffon and tulle in all the pale colors are fashionable for evening wear. But perhaps pure white or black is the most dressy.

Boas entirely composed of loops of black louisine ribbon are serviceable for street wear.

In the picture we have a particularly effective set—hat, boa and muff. The hat is made of soft ruchings of white tulle and is trimmed simply with a wide black velvet ribbon placed, scarf fashion, around the crown. The boa is composed of an infinite number of frills made of the white tulle edged with the narrowest of black chantilly insertion, and the muff is made of the same dainty black and white combination. Both boa and muff are decorated with smart bows of black velvet.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

I could almost have declared that she shuddered at my words. Did she know more about her uncle and his past life than she liked to think about? I remembered one or two expressions he had let fall in his excitement when he had been talking to me, and how I had commented upon them as being strange words to come from the lips of a missionary. I had often wondered whether the story he had told me about their life in China, and Hayle's connection with it, had been a true one. The tenaciousness with which a Chinaman clings to the religion of his forefathers is proverbial, and I could not remember having ever heard that a mandarin, or an official of high rank, had been converted to the Christian faith. Even if he had, it struck me as being highly improbable that he would have been the possessor of such princely treasure, and, even supposing that to be true, that he would, at his death, leave it to such a man as Kitwater. No, I fancied if we could only get at the truth of the story, we should find that it was a good deal more picturesque, not to use a harsher term, than we imagined. For a moment I had almost been tempted to believe that the stones were Hayle's property, and that these two men were conducting their crusade with the intention of robbing him of them. Yet, on maturer reflection, this did not fit in. There was the fact that they had certainly been mutilated as they described, and also their hatred of Hayle to be weighed in one balance, while Hayle's manifest fear of them could be set in the other.

"If I am not mistaken that is your step, Mr. Fairfax," said the blind man, stopping suddenly in his walk, and turning his sightless face in my direction. "It's wonderful how the loss of one's sight sharpens one's ears. I suppose you met Margaret on the road?"

"I met Miss Kitwater in the churchyard," I replied.

"A very good meeting place," he chuckled, sarconically. "It's where most of us meet each other sooner or later. Upon my word, I think the dead are luckier than the living. In any case they are more fortunate than poor devils like Codd and myself. But I am keeping you standing, won't you sit down somewhere and tell me your news? I have been almost counting the minutes for your arrival. I know you would not be here to-day unless you had something important to communicate to me. You have found Hayle?"

He asked the question with feverish eagerness, as if he hoped within a few hours to be clutching at the other's throat. I could see that his niece noticed it too, and that she recoiled a little from him in consequence. I thereupon set to work and told them of all that had happened since I had last seen them, described my lucky meeting with Hayle at Charing Cross, my chase after him across London, the trick he had played me at Foxwell's hotel, and my consequent fruitless journey to Southampton.

"And he managed to escape you after all," said Kitwater. "That man would outwit the master of all liars himself. He is out of England by this time, and we shall lose him."

"He has not escaped me," I replied, quietly. "I know where he is, and I have got a man on his track."

"Then where is he?" asked Kitwater. "If you know where he is, you ought to be with him yourself instead of down here. You are paid to conduct the case. How do you know that your man may not bungle it, and that we may not lose him again?"

His tone was so rude and his manner so aggressive, that his niece was about to protest. I made a sign to her, however, not to do so.

"I don't think you need be afraid, Mr. Kitwater," I said more soothingly than I felt. "My man is a very clever and reliable fellow, and you may be sure that, having once set eyes on Mr. Hayle, he will not lose sight of him again. I shall leave for Paris to-morrow morning, and shall immediately let you know the result of my search. Will that suit you?"

"It will suit me when I get hold of Hayle," he replied. "Until then I shall know no peace. Surely you must understand that?"

Then, imagining, perhaps, that he had gone too far, he began to fawn upon me, and what was worse praised my methods of elucidating a mystery. I cannot say which I disliked the more. Indeed, had it not been that I had promised Miss Kitwater to take up the case, and that I did not want to disappoint her, I believe I should have abandoned it there and then, out of sheer disgust. A little later our hostess proposed that we should adjourn to the house, as it was nearly lunch-time. We did so, and I was shown to a pretty bedroom to wash my hands. It was a charming apartment, redolent of the country, smelling of lavender, and, after London, as fresh as a glimpse of a new life. I looked about me, took in the cleanliness of everything, and contrasted it with my own dingy apartments at Rickford's hotel, where the view from the window was not of meadows and breezy uplands, but of red roofs, chimney-pots, and constantly revolving cowls. I could picture the view from this window in the early morning, with the dew upon the grass, and the blackbirds whistling in the shrubbery. I am not a vain man, I think, but at this juncture I stood before the looking-glass and surveyed myself. For the first time in my life I could have wished that I had been better-looking. At last I turned angrily away.

"What a duffer I am, to be sure!" I said to myself. "If I begin to get notions like this in my head there is no knowing where I may end. As if any girl would ever think twice about me!"

Thereupon I descended to the drawing-room, which I found empty. It was a true woman's room, daintily furnished, with little knick-knacks here and there, a work-basket put neatly away for the Sabbath, and an open piano with one of Chopin's works upon the music-rest. Leading out of the drawing-room was a small conservatory, filled with plants. It was a pretty little place and I could not refrain from exploring it. I am passionately fond of flowers, but my life at that time was not one that permitted me much leisure to indulge in my liking. As I stood now, however, in the charming place, among the rows of neatly-arranged pots, I experienced a sort of waking dream. I seemed to see myself standing in this very conservatory, hard at work upon my flowers, a pipe in my mouth and my favorite old soft felt hat upon my head. Crime and criminals were alike forgotten; I no longer lived in a dingy part of the town, and what was better than all I had—

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

IN RECEIVER'S HANDS.

Dowie's Lace Industry Gets a Setback—Much Trouble in Zion.

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Judge Tuley has ordered a receivership for the Zion lace industries and Monday will enter a decree appointing Elmer Washburn to the position of receiver under a bond of $700,000.

The court in a long decision on the case, which was instituted by Samuel Stevenson, a brother-in-law of John Alexander Dowie, declared that Dowie's church, the Christian Catholic church, was a curious mixture of religion and business. He held that Stevenson had by undue influence exerted by Dowie as head of the church been led to turn over to Dowie practically everything he had in the world and held that Stevenson was entitled to at least $100,000 from Dowie or the lace industries, which, he said, were practically the same thing.

"Undue influence" was the chief topic discussed by the judge in his decision. Dowie, he said, was unquestionably the superior of Stevenson both in intellect and business ability. Dowie, he declared, was a religious zealot, Stevenson a follower. Stevenson, like others in Zion, followed Dowie blindly. They believed him the agent of the Almighty on earth, destined to build up cities of Zion in every country in the world. None was more influenced by the teachings of the "reincarnated Elijah" than Stevenson.

SCHLEY IN TENNESSEE.

Nashville In Holiday Attire to Greet the Admiral.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 1.—Admiral and Mrs. Schley are the guests of Nashville, and the city is in holiday attire in their honor.

The train bearing them from Louisville was met at Bowling Green, Ky., last night by a committee of Nashville citizens. Both the admiral and his wife appeared in the best of health and spirits and expressed themselves as highly delighted with their stay in Louisville.

Nashville was reached promptly in schedule time, 8:50 o'clock in the evening. The decorated Union station was packed to suffocation with a mass of cheering humanity as the train rolled in. The crowds had been warned of its approach by the roar of the admiral's salute from Capitol hill and the screech of whistles from every quarter. Bands in the station added to the noise, and when the distinguished visitors stepped from the car the roar was deafening. Knights Templars in full uniform were there to bid their brother knight welcome, and, together with the committee from the Retail Merchants' association, escorted Admiral and Mrs. Schley to a carriage drawn by four white horses, the start being made for the Duncan hotel, where the visitors will stop while in Nashville, with but little delay. The streets were lined with enthusiastic throngs.

Dutch Peace Proposals Refused.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Wiring from The Hague, the correspondent of The Daily Mail says that the reply of Great Britain to the Dutch note concerning peace in South Africa is a polite refusal of the request that permission be granted for a commission to proceed to South Africa. "The lack of any authorization by the Boers has proved fatal," says the correspondent, "but the door of negotiations is not wholly closed, since Great Britain's reply reaffirms the willingness of that country to accede to any authorized proposal tending to the conclusion of peace."

An Aerial Cruiser.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Application has been made to the authorities of the St. Louis fair by J. Franklin Cameron of Brooklyn for floor space to exhibit an aerial seacoast defensive cruiser of aluminium and steel to weigh 40,000 pounds. A crew of eight men could be accommodated by the cruiser. Mr. Cameron, it is said, has long been a student in matters of scientific research. A member of his family said today that Mr. Cameron had been working on the plans for at least twenty-five years.

The Troubles of Holland's Queen.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 1.—Prince Henry, the consort of Queen Wilhelmina, has gone to Germany on an indefinite visit, and court and public are convinced that a divorce is almost certain. The young queen has shut herself up in her palace and refuses to see anybody. The rumors of renewed troubles between the royal couple have been circulating for some time and have been strengthened to the point of conviction by the departure of the prince for Mecklenburg, his ancestral home.

Supposed Postoffice Robbers Taken.

ABBEVILLE, S. C., Feb. 1.—Sheriff Lincoln of this county has brought in from Calhoun Falls four men suspected of the robbery of the Due West postoffice. They give their names as follows: J. W. Casey of Boston, Gus Breed of Baltimore, Joe Alford and W. H. Brooks of Wilmington, N. C. The men are in jail awaiting identification by Postoffice Agent George Smith.

DEATH OF MRS. MATTISON

WIFE OF DR. W. E. MATTISON PASSED AWAY AFTER LONG ILLNESS.

Is Survived by Husband and Three Children—Had Been South for Her Health.

After a long illness, Mrs. Frances Mattison, of Somerset street, died yesterday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. She was the wife of Dr. William E. Mattison.

Mrs. Mattison was born in Hunterdon county in February, 1833, and spent her early life in that vicinity. In January, 1853, she married, her husband being a practicing physician there at that time. They removed to the borough in 1883 and resided there ever since. Together with the husband three children survive her. They are Miss Nettie Mattison, who is a school teacher at Demarest, Ga.; Miss Frances Mattison, who is also a school teacher, residing at Biltmore, North Carolina, and Edward Mattison, of New Brunswick.

In November, 1899, Mrs. Mattison went south and spent two years at Belmar, in the hope of regaining her strength. She did not improve as rapidly as desired and the return north did not prove beneficial.

The funeral service will be held at Trinity Reformed church, of which she was a member, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The interment will be private. It will be at Millstone, N. J., in the family plot, Monday morning.

JUNIORS' FAIR.

Good Attractions Still Continue to Draw Large Crowds to the Affair.

New and entertaining vaudeville features constituted an important part of the programme at Benevolent Council's fair in Washington hall, last evening. They were enjoyed by an attendance nearly as large as that of Thursday evening.

Those contributing to the evening's fun were Smith and King in an exhibition boxing bout, Pope and Sheppard, sketch artists, and the Black Diamond quartette in popular selections. The acts were given between dances which as usual were the attraction for the younger element.

For tonight the management promises a surprise in regard to the vaudeville and will also put on some of the old favorites. A number of contests including the one for the large quilt and the bicycle will be closed. Considerable interest has been taken in these and the result is awaited with much interest. If this evening's success warrants it, the fair will be continued Monday evening.

PERSONAL.

Miss Genevra M. Miner, of Freeport, L. I., is a guest at the home of her uncle, Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place.

William McDonough, of West Front street, has recovered from a severe cold and has resumed his position at Martin's blacksmith shop on Somerset street.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bushnell and their daughters, Misses Louise and Helen Bushnell, are planning a trip to Europe, expecting to sail next week in the Furst Bismark. They will remain abroad several months.

TOO LOOSE TONGUE.

Sentence Suspended With a Solemn Warning as to the Future.

A loose tongue, inclined to profanity when limbered with liquor, has often been the cause of Harry Fosbre and the police getting together. He persists in telling all he knows and doesn't know in language foreign to a gentleman. This was what he did to Patrolman Meyers, last evening, and the latter locked him up.

He was given a severe reprimand this morning by City Judge Runyon, who, in suspending sentence, told him if it wasn't for his family, he would get the heaviest sentence that could be imposed in the city court.

UPSET SLEIGH.

Mrs. G. T. VanBoskerck and Driver Were Thrown Out on Front Street.

A sleigh, in which was seated Mrs. George VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street, became fastened in the trolley car tracks on Front street, opposite Lederer's dry goods store, this morning, and upset. Mrs. VanBoskerck and her driver were thrown out and the sleigh was on top of them. Several men standing by caught the horse, while others helped to right the sleigh.

Mrs. VanBoskerck suffered considerably from fright, and her wrist and shoulder appeared to be badly sprained. The driver was not injured.

A Plainfield Graduate.

Among the graduates at the State Normal school at Trenton, last evening, was Miss Rita Colles Pond, daughter of Mrs. Colles Pond, of Willow avenue.

STRANGE SOUNDS IN BARN

SOUNDED LIKE A REVOLVER, BUT PROVED TO BE A FIRE.

Patrolman Myers Discovered It, Sent in Still Alarm and Rescued Horses.

While on his way to police headquarters with a prisoner, at 10 o'clock last evening, Patrolman Myers heard a number of cracking sounds, similar to pistol shots, emanating from the rear of 524 West Third street. He made a hurried investigation but found nothing suspicious and then continued to town. On reporting the matter to Roundsman Flynn he was immediately sent back. On reaching the place, he found a barn rented by Nathan Feinberg to be on fire inside.

He sent a still alarm to headquarters and then, breaking the doors open, rescued two horses just in time to save them from suffocation. He also pulled out a number of wagons. On the arrial of the department the blaze which was about the lower partitions, was quickly extinguished. The loss is placed at $25 on the building only which is covered by $100 insurance. It is owned by Mrs. Samuel Dreier. The contents are insured for $350.

Chief Doane made a strict examination this morning, but could find no explanation for the explosions. Feinberg declared he had nothing in the barn which would cause them.

MAN AND MONEY GONE.

A Well-Dressed Stranger Wanted Board at Home of Mrs. Sloyan—Now $90 in Bills Are Gone.

A well-dressed stranger who called at the home of Mrs. John Sloyan, of West Third street, last evening, and entered into a compact for board and lodging, left suddenly at 8 o'clock this morning. Simultaneously with his going, $90 in bills which had been reposing in a bureau drawer belonging to Mrs. Sloyan, could not be found.

Mrs. Sloyan said the fellow called at her home last evening and declared he had been directed to ask her for board. He was to commence work in Pond'r, he said, Monday morning. He did not pay for the night's lodging.

The description furnished the police is that of a man evidenty a Dane or Swede, twenty-five years old, smooth shaven, light hair and complexion, and about five feet eight inches in height.

TAKEN ILL ON STREET.

E. E. Anthony Fainted in New York, Was Taken to Hospital.

E. E. Anthony, of 444 West Front street, was taken ill in New York last evening not long after leaving his place of business in Jersey City. He had a fainting spell, similar to others he had some time ago, and fell in the street.

A policeman saw Mr. Anthony and assisted him to a police station nearby, and later he was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital. Dr. Beckwith, of the hospital staff, treated him. He remained at the hospital last evening and returned to his home, on West Front street, this morning, somewhat improved.

Mr. Anthony has been working very hard during the past few weeks and this together with his nervously exhausted condition, led to the attack.

Settled Without Trial.

The contract case brought in Justice Mattison's court by Jesse Burdick against B. R. Cain and Wm. H. Kirch, formerly doing business as Cain & Kirch, was amicably settled yesterday. Mr. Burdick reconsidered his bill of $100 and settled for $13 and costs. Counselor S. S. Swackhamer represented the defendants.

Living Pictures.

Under the auspices of the Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church living pictures will be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall Thursday evening, February 6. These pictures will consist of tableaux, representing art, historical events and ludicrous situations. A good time is promised all who attend.

Miss Louise Swing, of Cincinnati, Ohio, has been spending a few days with her friend, Miss Edith H. Dyer, of Central avenue.

Our Friends, the Druggists.

AMATEUR PLAYS MADE BIG HITS

Entertainment at Casino to Aid Women's Exchange Was Very Successful.

MUSIC RECITAL FIRST.

Miss Harriette Cady Gave a Fine Programme, Then Followed Two Short Sketches Which Were Cleverly Given by Amateurs—Mr. Cock Made Hit.

An unqualified success was made of the amateur preformance given at the Casino, Saturday afternoon and evening, in aid of the Woman's Exchange. The triple headed bill entertained and amused the society audiences which well nigh crowded the house to its very doors on each occasion.

Preceding the farce and the comedietta, each of one act, a recital was given by an accomplished pianist. Miss Harriette Cady was the artist. Her programme was pleasingly selected, and each number in turn was a musical treat particularly enjoyed by the musically inclined. Time and again she responded to encores and this lengthened considerably the first part of the affair. The programme, as printed in Saturday's Daily Press, was followed.

The second part consisted of a clever farce, originally written for the "Hasty Pudding Club," of Harvard University. It was entitled "My Awful Chum," and although it was but a one-act sketch it contained as many laughable situations as the average four act farce. Careful training and a keen realization of the intent of the lines was portrayed in the acting of those in the dramatis personae.

The scene of the sketch is the room of Hudson, Burleigh & Co., at Johnny Harvard. It should be stated that the "& Co." was Topsy, a pet dog. The thread of the story was the trials and tribulations of a student at college, on the occasion of the visit of members of his family. Steve Hudson, was of the general run of collegians. He was always hard pushed for money, which when he got it was "blown in." He fears that some of his sporting friends or creditors will call, while his mother and sister are visiting him in his room, and sure enough a boxing master calls. He introduces the tough as his room mate, who thy are anxious to meet. The real crony watches on from behind a screen and finally "squares himself" by exposing the unlucky son and bringing in view another student, dressed for a rehearsal in the garb of a equestrienns. The latter is desirous of meeting Steve's sister and the manner in which he is presented, adds much humor to the play.

Harry L. McGee, in what might be called the leading part, that of Steve Hudson, was exceedingly good, giving much impression to the role which was intended to depict an embarassed student. As Ned Bureligh, the chum, Frederick W. Goddard showed the grace and ease on the stage, which has characterized his laudable efforts in the past. Thomas Rowe VanBoskerck, as Jack Randolph, the tormenter of Ned, did some really good acting, but the steller attraction in the cast was William R. Cock, who as Professor Sheedy, the pugilistic friend of Steve, brought down the house time and again. He is too well known to need any special mention for his praiseworthy efforts. The parts of the mother and daughter of young Hudson were well taken by Miss Maud VanBoskerck and Miss Otterson.

"A Needless Strategem" was the appropriate title of the comedietta, which followed after a short intermission. This one-act play was written by Thomas J. Williams and it is a piece presenting an opportunity for the display of dramatic abilities. While courting a widow, a fickle lover also pays attention to her maiden sister, who finally becomes the real object of his affections. Another swain, residing on an estate adjoining that of the wealthy widow, becomes madly fatuated with her and his hatred of his supposed rival furnishes endless amusement. An elderly friend of the inconstant lover, returning from abroad, attempts to help him out of his dilemma, by concocting a story about being robbed of all the fortune of the friend. The story of the loss

TOLD OF INDIA MISSIONS

D. J. FLEMING ADDRESSED THE MEN'S MEETING AT Y. M. C. A.

Related What He Had Seen and Heard While Mission Worker at Lahore.

Despite the disagreeable weather, yesterday, a large number of men assembled in the Y. M. C. A. and heard a very interesting talk on India and mission work among the natives.

The speaker was D. J. Fleming, a graduate of the Union Theological seminary, who for the past three years has been a teacher and mission worker in Lahore. He originally intended on leaving this country to practice law in India but on reaching the interior and perceiving the wretched condition of the natives joined the ranks of the Christian workers. Of late he had been in contact with the student class with whom he has been very successful.

Mr. Fleming pictured the work graphically and by his ready flow of language made a profound impression on his hearers. Underlying all the work, he declared, in the far east is God's love, without which all exhortation to the natives would be more to the natives than the clashing of cymbals or the blare of trumpets.

It is Mr. Fleming's intention to leave for India within a short time and continue his work in the mission field.

LARGEST CROWD OF THE WEEK

ATTENDED THE FAIR OF BENEVO LENT COUNCIL SATURDAY NIGHT.

Contests of the Week Were Finally Decided—Figuring Up the Returns.

The fair held last week at Washington Hall under the auspices of Benevolent Council, No. 256, Jr. O. U. A. M., recorded the largest attendance Saturday evening. The hall was filled to overflowing with merry dancers, while all the booths did a thriving business.

During the evening, Frank Sheppard and Clarence Pope gave two performances in slack-wire walking, juggling and acrobatic feats. They were well received by their many friends. Their work was exceptionally clever throughout. Before the fair closed nearly everything was disposed of and the contests were announced by the committee.

The woman's bicycle, being contested for by Miss Nora Dunavon and Miss Pearl DeNise, was won by Miss Dunavon, while as a second prize Miss DeNise also received a wheel. The order for $5 worth of furnishings at J. R. Blair's was awarded to C. Able, he having selected the lucky number. Mrs. Classen held the lucky number for the silk quilt and this was awarded to her.

All of the contests brought in a large amount of money and will help swell the profits for the Council. It will not be known for a few days just how much will be profit, but the committee will meet soon and settle up all accounts.

JAILED FOR FORGERY.

VanDoren, a blacksmith of that place, says that on January 16 Smith gave him a promissory note for $21, to which he had forged the name of Geo. W. Budd. Constable Vleit arrested Smith and Justice Asher Fleming held him for the Grand Jury.

TRYING FOR TEAM.

Y. M. C. A. Gymnasts and Athletes Held a Trial Contest Saturday Evening.

Under the leadership and watchful eye of Physical Instructor C. E. A. Heywood, twelve young men belonging to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, contested, Saturday evening, for places on a representative team. Seven are to be chosen and these will compete at Newark on March 8 with four other teams from that city, Orange, Jersey City and New Brunswick, in an inter-association athletic and gymnastic meet.

Of the young men who competed, nine made a very creditable showing but as yet the percentage have not been announced. There were seven events in all, athletic and gymnastic, most of which were very difficult. As in previous contests, those doing very well receive a stated number of points and these will be computed and the result made known this week.

TRACK ELEVATION BLOCKED

CHURCH HAS DELAYED THE WORK IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

Aldermen Were Ready to Act on Pennsylvania's Offer When Protest Was Made.

The repeated efforts of the Pennsylvania Railroad to secure needed municipal legislation to enable it to elevate its tracks through New Brunswick, have again been blocked, this time by a church.

A contract embodying the company's plans for the elevation of its tracks through that city and for a new passenger station was presented to the Board of Aldermen at its last meeting. The company having receded from its former position of insisting on the city paying $11,200 toward the improvement as well as being liable for damages by the proposed closing of certain streets, there appeared to be every indication of the contract being ratified.

Before action was taken by the Aldermen, however, Rev. Monsignor O'Grady, of St. Peter's church, New Brunswick, sent a committee of his parishoners to protest against the elevation of the tracks because of the noise and inconvenience which the elevated tracks would presumably cause. The rear of the church is but six feet from the tracks. The result of the protest was that but four members of the board voted in favor of the committee's report on the contract, and the matter was again delayed.

LET GOOD WORK GO ON.

Mayor Smalley Wants to Complete the Widening of Somerset Street.

Mayor Smalley is anxious to complete the work of widening Somerset street during his term in office. The improvement, extending from Green brook to Jackson avenue, has received the approval of the citizens generally, and now His Honor is anxious to let the good work go on.

In discussing the subject Saturday, he said that he believed in the motto "well begun is half done" and that he wanted to see the "boulevard" completed. The proposed improvement will extend from Jackson avenue to Johnson's drive. The Mayor is much in earnest about the matter and intends to carry out the project, provided he receives the necessary support from the councilmen.

PLANS TO REORGANIZE THE NATIONAL GUARD

There Will be Five Regiments of State Militia Instead of Four.

THE GOVERNOR'S IDEAS.

HE IS THOROUGHLY POSTED AS TO NATIONAL GUARD AFFAIRS.

Will Probably Mean One Entire Regiment for Newark—Will Use Many of the Spanish War Volunteers Through the State.

Orders for the reorganization of the National Guard of the State, in accordance with the plan outlined by Governor Franklin Murphy in his inaugural address, will be issued this week. The guard, under the reorganization scheme, will consist of five instead of four regiments of infantry, the additional regiment to have headquarters in Paterson, and to be made up of one battalion of the present First Regiment, one of the Fourth and a new battalion to be recruited. The First Regiment, as reorganized, will consist entirely of Essex county men. With the formation of the new regiment, the First Brigade will be made up of three regiments, as it was before the reorganization of 1899.

The Governor is familiar with the local military situation, and the lack of harmony that has existed in the First since the disbandment of one Newark battalion to make room for the four companies from Passaic and Paterson that were saved from the wreck of the old Second. Those who are to some extent in the Governor's confidence on the subject say that it is his wish as nearly as possible to have the guard restored to the condition in which it was at the time of the Spanish war, and it is positive that as closely as possible the Governor's wishes will be law with the members of the Military Board.

No changes are expected in the Second Battalion, which was not interfered with to any considerble extention the first reorganization. Hudson county will probably be allowed to recruit four new companies to take the place of the Bergen Battalion, making the Fourth Regiment a distinctively Newark organization, and the Bergen companies will in all probability be made a part of the new regiment, with headquarters at Paterson. In the old Second Regiment, Orange, at one time had three companies, and later two, the third being transferred to Montclair. Both these places are anxious for representation in the guard, and there is little question but that a place will be made for them, although it is not impossible that the Orange companies will be placed in the First Regiment.

If the orders for reorganization are issued at once, as expected, the colonel, lieutenant-colonel and majors of the new regiment will have a vote in the election of a new brigade commander to succeed General P. Farmer Wanser, who last week was appointed to succeed the late General William J. Sewell as major-general of the State troops. It is generally considered among the officers of the Second Brigade that Colonel Edward S. Campbell, of the First, as the senior regimental commander of the brigade, will be selected as the new brigadier, in which event there is likely to be a general shifting about of regimental officers in the First as a result of the necessity for then selecting a new colonel.

There is no little speculation going on as to how the reorganized regiments, and especially the new regiment, will be officered. Since the reorganization in 1899 the old regimental board of the former Second Regiment has been kept intact and holds annual reunions. Colonel Edwin W. Hine, of Orange, was the last commander of the old Second. The First and Second Regiments, especially the latter, have contributed a number of officers and men to the nation's operations in the Antilles and the Philippines, and there are several residents of Newark and vicinity who have had experience in the regular army of volunteers in the colonial service who may reasonably be expected to come into consideration when the selection of officers for new companies and battalions become necessary, and whose induction into the guard, it is believed by military men, would add not a little to the efficiency and value of that organization.

Joseph T. Case, of East Second street, is seriously ill with an attack of typhoid malarial fever.

BETTER SHOWING.

Junior Basket Ball Team of Y. M. C. A., Was Defeated at New Brunswick After a Close Game.

Although a much better game than the one played in this city a short time ago, the junior basketball team of the local Y. M. C. A. was again defeated by the New Brunswick Junior team, at the latter place, Saturday afternoon. The score was 18 to 11.

It was a very pleasant and well played game throughout and the local team showed a decided improvement in its work. In the first half the score was 6 to 5 against Plainfield. The local team was composed of Leland, Sherwin, Sheppard, Anderson, Collier and Long. Physical Director Heywood and a number of Plainfield boys were also in attendance.

After the game the boys were taken to Rutgers College and shown about by one of the students. They spent some time in visiting the various buildings.

OLD MEMBERS SENT GREETING

ENDEAVOR DAY CELEBRATED AT THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH.

At Service Last Evening Messages From Many Former Members Were Read.

Endeavor Day, which happens this year to be the twenty-first anniversary of the founding of the society in Portland, was appropriately observed by the society of the Congregational church, last evening. Rev. C. L. Goodrich was in charge of the service and, considering the very stormy weather, the attendance was excellent.

The prayer-meeting committee arranged the service and several days ago wrote to all the older members of the society requesting them to either attend the meeting or send a message. The result was most gratifying and the whole evening was taken up with the reading of messages from former members. From San Francisco to Tennessee came messages. Those present added a few words as the roll was called.

Rev. Mr. Goodrich also had something to say about the Endeavor Society, and especially the local society. Out of a membership of fifty there are only five who are charter members. They are E. L. Suffern, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux, Miss F. F. Clark and J. A. Powlison.

A pleasant feature of the service was a tenor solo by Willard M. Miner, accompanied by Miss Alberta E. Waterbury. Walter Raynolds presided at the piano and played for the congregational singing.

DEATH OF ABEL STEWART.

Abel Stewart, of Chatham street, died at 3 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for some time, but death was unexpected. Heart trouble was the primary cause of his demise.

Mr. Stewart was a machinist by trade and for a long time was employed by the New Jersey Central Railroad in that capacity. Recently he had been unable to perform any work. Mrs. Matilda Stewart, his wife, survives him, and she has been bedfast for some time with rheumatism. Mrs. Samuel Hedden, of Duer street, is his sister and J. W. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

At the time of his death, Mr. Stewart was eighty-four years of age.

WORK OF PUNDITA RAMABAI

RECENT LETTERS TELL OF HER SUCCESSFUL WORK.

Mrs. S. J. Taylor Will Explain More About the Work to Plainfield Women.

The many friends of Pundita Ramabai will be glad to know that in her recent letters she writes from India that in her three schools there are 1,950 inmates and that the girls are doing good work. She has great need of money for legal and medical purposes. The famine still prevails and two hospitals are filled to overflowing.

All who visit the schools speak and write with wonder and admiration of the amount of work that Ramabai superintends and accomplishes. But with Ramabai an increase of work means an increase of faith, hope and courage. With faith as strong as hers, the officers of the American Ramabai Association appeal to the public for generous help. It is hoped by the association that it may never be said that the American people are so tired of the famine story that they want neither to hear or speak of God's suffering children in India.

Mrs. S. J. Taylor, the former president of the Ramabai Circle in Plainfield, will be in this city some day this week and she hopes to hold a meeting of Ramabai's friends and give further details of the need and growth of the worthy cause.

TEN YEARS AMONG KROOMEN

MISS M'ALLISTER PICTURED HER LIFE THERE AS MISSIONARY.

Spoke to Sunday-School of First M. E. Church Yesterday Afternoon.

An informal though graphic description of the Kroomen was given in an interesting address made by Miss Agnes McAllister before the regular monthly missionary meeting of the First M. E. church Sunday-school, in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon. Toghether with the pupils were a number of others more or less active in this branch of the church work and all listened attentively to the address.

Miss McAllister described the Christian work being done at Garraway station, on the Kroo coast of west Africa. She lived there among the heathen for ten years and has reaped a fund of knowledge concerning these strange people. This information formed the basis for her talk.

After telling of the work being done and the needs of the mission station as well as its branches she dwelt upon the habits and customs of the people. They are, said she, eager to embrace Christianity. In this connection she told of the actions of one of the neighboring kings after she had visited his tribes. He sent chiefs as ambassadors repeatedly emploring her to some and live in his kingdom or send some other missionary. Finally she was able to send her sister, who had arrived for missionary work.

The mission station is in need of substantial buildings. The people are poor and are largely dependent on the Methodists in this country for support. $10,000 is the sum estimated as the cost of the proposed improvement. At present the mission is a frame structure and not at all suited for the purpose. For the past year, Miss McAllister has been in this country endeavoring to raise the required funds for the purpose. In the near future she proposes to return to her field of labor.

Fine Organ Recital.

William E. MacClymont, of Washington avenue, has returned from Poughkeepsie, New York. Mr. MacClymont gave an organ recital at Christ church, in that city, Thursday evening, and the Poughkeepsie papers are quite complimentary in their accounts of the affair.

Death of Mrs. D. R. Stelle.

Mrs. Daniel R. Stelle died at her home in Jerseyville, Ill., Friday. Mr. Stelle died last year. There are four sons and two daughters living. One daughter, the wife of the late Francis E. Marsh, died in this city twelve years ago.

The Lord's Supper was observed at Warren chapel, yesterday morning, and at the service two persons connected themselves with the church. They are Mr. and Mrs. William Demarest, of Stone street.

Miss Lou Lunger, of Watchung avenue, is detained at home on account of a very sore arm, the result of vaccination.

HIGH WINDS, LOTS OF ICE

Most Realistic Glimpse of Winter Plainfield Has Had This Season.

'TWAS "GROUND HOG" DAY

Heavy Gale of Last Twenty-Four Hours Did Considerable Damage in City and Borough—Sidewalks Very Icy—No Good Sleighing—To Continue.

Poor old ground hog. While he did not happen to see his shadow when he struck his nose above ground, yesterday, he walked out into the worst storm that has visited this section this season. It was Candlemas Day and, according to the legend, this old ground hog was booked to appear. If he did not see his shadow, he remained and an early spring was assured. Otherwise, the opening of spring was delayed six weeks. However much truth there may be in that legend, Plainfield has seen more real winter in the last three days than has been apparent since the winter season began.

While there was a slight snow fall Thursday, the real storm did not begin until Friday night when the white flakes began to fall with unusual persistency. By Saturday noon, six inches of it had fallen and there was prospect of good sleighing. But the snow changed to rain during that afternoon and the snow began to turn to slush.

Out of the north-east came a wind that whipped and whirled the rain about and caused much damage. The storm was at its height Sunday morning and the church services suffered in consequence. During the afternoon, the mercury began to tumble and the rain changed to snow. The wind swung round to the north west and blew with renewed force. Late yesterday afternoon the clouds were blown away and the evening came clear but cold and decidedly windy.

This morning brought a continuation of the howling gale which played havoc with everything including the hats of all who ventured out. Old Boreas fairly howled with joy as scores of hats scattered down the icy thoroughfares with maddened owners in vain pursuit. The slush of the day before had become solid ice. Many pedestrians found the centre of the street more assuring than the sidewalks. There were many falls and lots of strange gyrations. Where sidewalks had not been cleaned off, a solid mass of ice was to be found. Uncleaned gutters promised trouble when the first thaw comes. A few sleighs are out as most of the streets are covered with ice but the sport is poor at best today.

If the weather man is to be trusted, this cold wave will remain for a day or two and then give way for another storm of snow or rain. The gale seems a very prosperous one and is promised as an accompaniment for the low temperature for the next twenty-four hours.

A large sign was detached from its fastenings in front of the laundry of C. Y. Willie in the Miller building on Park avenue, and was sent crashing through a plate glass window. The noise of the falling glass aroused the neighborhood and by some it was thought a building had been razed.

The large frame barn on Race street, belonging to John Spencer, of Washingtonville, collapsed as a result of the high winds last night. This morning very little of the structure is standing.

A big tree, in the rear of the Schepflin building on West Front street, snapped near the trunk.

In the borough many of the electric lights were cut out last night, the fierce gale having snapped many of the wires. The telephone wires were also broken in several places interfering with the business to some extent.

In addition to the boisterous wind, last evening, West Enders had to contend with streets dark as Erebus. A short circuit in the lighting system was the cause and was not repaired until most law abiding citizens had reached their homes.

Special Sermon Postponed.

Owing to the disagreeable weather last evening there was no service at the Monroe Avenue church. The special sermon announced by Rev. John MacMurray will be given at a later date.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It may be a matter of pride for Somerset county people to know that United States Senator Dryden began his career at New Market, close upon the confines of this county, and is at the present time a large property owner and summer resident of the county. Truly this is a garden spot for raising great men as it is for excellence in other things.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Assemblyman Jackson, of New Brunswick, has introduced a bill to authorize second-class cities to issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 for street and sidewalk improvements, and empowering the municipal authorities to do the work without the consent of the property owners. This may seem to be a desirable law for the city of New Brunswick, but there is reason to believe that the cities of Paterson, Camden, Trenton, Hoboken, Elizabeth, Orange, Bayonne, Passaic, Plainfield, Bridgeton and Perth Amboy will have some objecttons to a law that is to affect them as much as it does New Brunswick.—Jersey City Journal.

Assemblyman Hoagland is receiving the plandits of his constituents, because of the courageous and independent way in which he carried out their wishes in his vote for United States Senator. For eighteen ballots he firmly announced the name of John W. Griggs as his choice in the caucus, and only went over to Mr. Stokes when Griggs' chances were gone. He could not have represented the sentiment of his constituents better. While deals and changes were going on about him, Mr. Hoagland kept firmly to his purpose. He has won the confidence of his constituents which ought to be a sufficient reward.—Somerville Unionist Gazette.

A bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Hoffman this week has for its object an appropriation of $10,000, with which to conduct experiments at the State Agricultural Experiment Station at New Brunswick as to available means for the extermination of the mosquito. The measure is in accordance wtth the plans of Professor J. B. Smith, the State entomologist, who has for some time been conducting a campaign of investigation looking toward the eradication of the insect pest. The professor has, as he believes, made marked progress toward the solution of this problem, and if he is reasonably certain that he can substantially alleviate, even if he cannot completely control, the situation, he should be encouraged to do so, and the necessary funds should be forthcoming. Ten times $10,000 would not be too great a price to pay for emancipating New Jersey from mosquito rule.—Newark News.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, will initiate several candidates tomorrow evening.

—The McAll Auxiliary will hold a regular meeting at the Public Library Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

In general make-up the paper bears a striking resemblance to the Lealonian, the magazine of the Leal's School boys.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Among the large contracts that Woodhull & Martin secured during their January furniture sale, was the furnishing of J. W. Murray's cottage at Wolfsboro, N. H.

Fred Endress wants to hear from all lovers of good meat and sea food That's what his market is for. A better stocked market is not to be found in the city. Prices are always reasonable.

When in need of anything in the hardware line do not forget that H. E. Gayle, of West Front street, can supply you at the right kind of prices. His goods can always be depended upon.

This is rubber weather. Snow, slush and water predominate but they are not noticed if your shoes are incased in a pair of those rubbers sold at Van Arsdale's shoe and rubber emporium. He sells the shoes, too.

There is no excuse for a person looking shabby these days when M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier, is offering such bargains in men's and boys' clothing. He has one of the largest stocks of clothing in the State.

It beats all. What? Why, the White Pine cough syrup sold at Hodges' Y. M. C. A. pharmacy. By beating all, that means all coughs and colds. Once it is tried, throat affections disappear and a feeling of relief follows. Other remedies for other maladies.

Don't forget that money saved is money made. Take advantage of the great bargains in buying your household goods at I. H. Boehm's, on West Front street. He is making a clean sweep of this line of goods, preparing for an extension of his establishment.

Among the desirable things of this life are silver and goldware. If you possess the real article you have something of value. J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, sells only the best goods, and he asks reasonable prices. He also sells the kind of watches that can be depended upon at all times.

Two New York papers are making capital by cutting each other's throats, figuratively speaking; while John H. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor, is growing prosperous by cutting clothes in the latest style. His success will be lasting because his custom made work is perfect and well dressed men recognize the fact.

There are now three hospitals in Plainfield; the Muhlenberg, the isolation and the doll hospitals. The last one is where surgical operations are performed on dolls with broken heads, legs or arms. Harper is the superintendent and the location of the institution is at Harpers' Bazaar, Park avenue, above Fourth street.

THEATRICAL.

Klaw & Erlanger's production of the Drury Lane spectacle, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," was presented for the one hundredth time at the Broadway Theatre in New York last week Saturday evening. The indications are that it will continue here for several months longer, playing to capacity to the end of its run as it has done since the opening performance, Nov. 4. Such a really phenomenal success has never before been scored in New York City, where the greatest hits in American theatrical history have been achieved. The explanation of this is that this production is in every detail just what it is represented to be; and even more, for no matter to what a pitch of expectation one's anticipation is worked up, it is more than fulfilled. Otherwise, it gives the pulic its money's worth of amusement in an entirely unexpected quantity of high quality. Orders for seats by mail which, when accompanied by remittances, are immediately responded to, have come so numerous that Jacob Litt, manager of the Broadway Theatre, and Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger have found it necessary to establish a mail-order bureau in charge of an expert. The prices range from 50 cents to $2, and to secure the best seats to be had one has but to order them by mail, directing the letter to Jacob Litt. The Wednesday and Saturday matinees are principally patronized by women and children.

Gave Clever Recitation.

Miss Rita C. Pond, of Willow avenue, who was one of the graduates of the Trenton State Normal School, made a decided hit at the commencement exercises Friday evening. She recited a selection from "As You Like It" and received much applause for her clever work.

Favorite Nearly Everywhere.

Constipation means dullness, depression, headache, generally disordered health. DeWitt's Little Early Risers stimulate the liver, open the bowels and relieve this condition. Safe, speedy and thorough. They never grip. Favorite pills. L. W. Randolph.

END OF THE BIDDLES

Autopsy and Inquest Held Over Dead Brothers.

MRS. SOFFEL'S CONDITION SERIOUS.

Verdict of Jury Is That One Came to His Death by His Own Hand and the Other Was Lawfully Shot by Officers.

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 3.—The terrible fate of the Biddies is still the sole topic of conversation here. All day yesterday a curious throng of people, defying the storm, hung about the jail entrance in a vain attempt to get in to see the bodies of the dead murderers. A great deal of sympathy for the boys was expressed on all sides. The jail doors were closed all day, and no one got in but the doctors who attended the autopsy and the coroner's jury, which organized at 9 o'clock in the morning. Even the newspaper reporters were excluded from the inquest, which was held in the jail, and nothing concerning their deliberations could be learned until late in the afternoon.

The testimony of all the officers concerned in the capture was taken except Rob Ray, the Butler policeman, who is sick and abed. The testimony of Dr. R. B. Greer, who was one of the doctors who attended the Biddles, and of Sheriff Thomas R. Hoon was also taken.

The verdict of the jury is that Ed Biddle came to his death by a revolver shot fired from a .32 caliber revolver by himself and that Jack Biddle met his death from a gunshot wound inflicted by the officers in discharge of their lawful duty.

The evidence secured by the autopsy bears out the statements that the Biddles intended to kill themselves rather than be taken alive and that Ed succeeded in his attempt, while Jack failed, though his life was forfeited.

At 6 o'clock in the evening the bodies of the Biddles were removed from the jail to one of the hallways of the sheriff's dwelling, and the public was given an opportunity of looking at the two notorious criminals. Hundreds braved the worst blizzard of the year to gratify their morbid curiosity. Late at night a long line of people were standing in front of the door, the wind blowing about their ears and the driving snow stinging their faces like icicles, waiting their turn, and noticeable among the crowd were a number of women.

Mrs. Soffel's condition is not considered favorable. The track of the bullet wound in her breast runs close to the pleura, and the doctors are not yet able to tell whether the hemorrhage is caused by the wound or is attributable to some other cause which has not yet fully developed.

The bodies were sent to Pittsburg this morning.

Since the officers concerned in the fight and capture of the Biddles have had time to cool off a little there appears to be a disposition to be fair toward each other in the matter of the distribution of the prize money, and an agreement to divide the $5,000 equally among the four officers here, the driver, J. A. Snyder, and the three Pittsburg detectives has been practically consented to by all of the men.

German Meat Rules Delayed.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—The long delay of the bundesrath in issuing the regulations administering the meat law appears to be due to the complexities of classifying meat products and the difficulty of drawing provisions which shall be measurably acceptable. Six full drafts of the meat law have been worked out since October, 1900, when the paragraphs excluding sausages and canned goods were decreed in operation. It is understood that the bundesrath intends now to enforce paragraph 21, which forbids the importation of meats preserved with borax or other chemicals considered injurious to health and which excludes meat products that are artificially colored. A decree embodying the foregoing is believed to be in course of preparation. The enforcement of the rest of the statute will be reserved for subsequent action.

A Few Survivors Found.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 3.—Four officers and seven men of the detachment of 210 Jananese infantry previously reported to have been frozen to death, with the exception of one man, on the northern end of Hondo island have been found in various stages of exhaustion. Forty corpses have also been found. Major Kamaguchi was discovered alive, but frozen to the ground by the blankets his men had thrown over him. Three living and seven dead soldiers were found lying near Major Kamaguchi. The search for the lost men is impeded by snowstorms, and scant hope of finding further survivors is entertained.

Policeman Killed by a Negro.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 3.—Policeman Mark Allen was shot and killed at midnight by Albert West, a negro whom he had placed under arrest for quarreling on the street with a colored woman. The negro shot Allen in the leg, and as the latter fell to the sidewalk West fired two more shots into Allen's body, death resulting shortly after. West was captured later hiding in a stable at Darby.

Exploding Boiler Killed Two.

HOHENWALD, Tenn., Feb. 3.—The explosion of a boiler at the Davidson-Benedict sawmill here demolished the building, killed two men instantly and fatally injured one other. The explosion is thought to have been caused by the water getting too low in the boiler.

FIERCE STORM RAGES

New York and Neighboring States Snowbound.

BUSINESS IS GREATLY HINDERED.

In Some Localities Snow Has Fallen to the Depth of Three Feet, and Gales Have Piled It In Huge Drifts.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The storm which swept over this city and vicinity yesterday was one of the heaviest of the season, but, coming as it did in rain, only served to carry away the snow which had previously fallen and thus aid the street cleaning department. From all points east and west come reports of heavy falls of snow, accompanied by high winds, causing great delay to traffic and blocking the country roads.

A dispatch from Buffalo says that that city and western New York generally have experienced the second big snowstorm of the season. A fifty mile an hour gale from the northwest drifted the fine snow into the roadways and on to railroad tracks between the huge banks thrown up after last week's big snowfall. The street railway company has kept cars moving by the constant use of snowplows, but the Lockport, Niagara Falls, Tonawanda and Kenmore lines have been badly crippled.

At Syracuse the wind was blowing thirty-five miles an hour and the heavy wet snow drifting badly in that city and throughout central New York. Street railway service was demoralized on some lines. Railroad trains were late.

From Oswego comes the news that a fierce storm is raging in that section. Telegraph and telephone wires have been badly damaged, and railroad trains are all delayed. The snow is falling fast and a northwest wind blowing at the rate of twenty-six miles an hour.

One of the severest storms Geneva has ever experienced is raging there. A heavy snow fell, followed by a high wind. Electric wires are down in several places, street car traffic is abandoned, and all trains are late.

At Jamestown the snow is three feet or more in depth and has drifted badly, interfering with railway traffic.

Northern New York is also in the grasp of a severe northeast storm. A large amount of snow has fallen, and a strong wind prevails.

At Lockport the snowstorm is accompanied by a gale, and another railroad blockade is feared. Highways and railroads are banked up with the two feet of snow which fell last week.

Blizzard In Pennsylvania.

CORRY, Pa., Feb. 3.—The worst blizzard of the winter is raging in northwestern Pennsylvania. For twenty-four hours snow has fallen, and a fierce wind from the west drives it into huge drifts. Though this region has been visited by several severe storms this winter, the present one is doing the most damage. The Pennsylvania train for Buffalo left three hours late, drawn by three engines, and may not get through. The road has three snowplows in use. The telegraph and telephone companies are having much difficulty, and many men are at work. The country roads are impassable.

Repairing Damages In Kentucky.

OWENSBORO, Ky., Feb. 3.—Although the weather is cold, thousands are in the city viewing the ice wrecks. Several hundred men are working for the two telephone companies and the telegraph companies. The streets are still almost obstructed with piles of wires and ice. The electric light plant has now one circuit on. The street cars are not yet running. The damage to property here is now estimated at over $150,000. The wind has broken down nearly every tree in the city.

Heavy Snow In Vermont.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Feb. 3.—Within the past twenty-four hours seven inches of very heavy snow has fallen. Railroad, telephone and street car services are disorganized. Country roads are practically impassable.

Blizzard In Michigan.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Feb. 3.—For nearly twenty-four hours a blizzard has been in progress here. Nearly a foot of snow has fallen, drifting badly and impeding railroad traffic.

Railway Accident at Rochester.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 3.—An express train, westbound, on the New York Central crashed into a freight train in the East Rochester yards and wrecked both engines, demolished a carload of parcels and seriously injured Engineer Robert Metcalf of Buffalo. Engineer Alva Goodwin and Fireman McCauley escaped from the freight engine cab by jumping. The cause of the accident is said to have been the inability to see the signals through the fog and smoke.

The Machias Sails.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The United States gunboat Machias, Lieutenant Commander Henry McCrea, which has been at the navy yard here for the past month receiving repairs, has sailed, with orders to proceed to the West Indies and join the north Atlantic squadron, taking the place of the gunboat Marietta, which is now at Colon to protect American interests there.

Two Killed at a Crossing.

CANNONSBURG, Pa., Feb. 3.—Two of the best known young people of this place were instantly killed while crossing the tracks of the Chartiers branch of the Panhandle railroad at Arden Station, a few miles this side of Washington, Pa.

MANILA IS ANXIOUS.

Intense Interest Over Probable Action of Congress.

GOVERNOR'S STATEMENTS CRITICISED

It Is Believed Taft's Forecast Will Be Realized if Legislation at Washington Be Favorable to the Islands.

MANILA, Feb. 3.—Manila is intensely interested as to what action congress will take concerning the Philippine Islands. Ordinary local politics have been forgotten, and two parties have been formed, the optimists and the pessimists. Some think that life and property are unsafe outside of the towns of the islands, while others ridicule such ideas and consider life and property to be assured.

Criticisms of the statement of Civil Governor Taft that he believed 15,000 men would be sufficient to garrison the islands in a year are plentiful, yet the majority of the business men who are interested in the provinces and consequently claim exceptional opportunities for feeling the pulse of the people say that Governor General Taft is right on one question only, that being that congress acts for the benefit of the Philippines.

Captain Frank Green, president of the American chamber of commerce here, says he fully believes that Civil Governor Taft's forecast can be realized if congress will arrange to open the country to mining and homestead laws and to open and enlarge the forestry reserves. Should this legislation be effected an act by the United States Philippine commission granting franchises would naturally follow, and American capital in large quantities as well as many American miners and homestead seekers would come to the islands.

"If this were accomplished," continued the president of the chamber of commerce, "we would immediately have a large body of resourceful and self reliant men scattered throughout the archipelago who would become a source of information for the government concerning the natives surrounding them and who would constitute a reserve force in case of necessity. The consequent development of the islands would give employment to an increasing number of Filipinos, who while busy making money would have less time to plot. The good wages in sight would make even these Filipinos in the field desert the insurrection in order to enjoy their share of the prosperity.

"Every one admires the excellent work done by the native constabulary, which will be increased. Many municipalities also now possess a fairly efficient police force. The concentration of the American troops into substantial barracks would reduce the sick rate among them, and 15,000 men under such circumstances would equal 20,000 men now. Given these conditions, it can readily be seen that in case of a local outbreak with which the police would be unable to cope the constabulary would be handy. Should it be necessary the military can come in, and then, as a last resort, there would be this ever increasing body of American citizens willing to render assistance.

"I consider the assurances made by Civil Governor Taft before the senate committee on the Philippines regarding future peace in these islands to be timely, inasmuch as they will have a tendency to bring about more rapid legislation on the subjects most needing attention."

General J. Franklin Bell, commanding the American troops in the provinces of Batangas and Laguna, southern Luzon, has arrived here to confer with Generals Chaffee and Wheaton. He considers there is every prospect for the final termination of the insurrection in these provinces. Surrenders of men and rifles there occur daily.

Paris Snowbound.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—The heaviest snowstorm of the winter commenced here early yesterday and continued until dark, covering the streets of the city to a depth of several inches, seriously impeding traffic and forcing the electric street cars to suspend service. The snowstorms continue at many points in the provinces, especially in the south and along the Riviera. The carnival at Cannes, which should have commenced yesterday, has been postponed on account of the weather. The violent gales prevailing along the coasts of France have caused numerous minor shipping casualties. The Alps in the neighborhood of Simplon are covered with snow to the depth of several feet, and many Alpine villages have been completely isolated.

President Zelaya Inaugurated.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Feb. 3.—J. Santos Zelaya was yesterday inaugurated president of Nicaragua for his third term in the presence of the Nicaraguan congress and a large assemblage of citizens. Judge Matos of the supreme court administered the oath to the president, who in his address briefly reviewed his previous administrations in Nicaragua and referred hopefully to the prospects for the construction of the Nicaragua canal and to the benefits that Nicaragua would derive therefrom.

Factories to Resume.

NILES, Mich., Feb. 3.—In the past forty-eight hours the water in the St. Joseph river has risen to such an extent that scores of Michigan and Indiana factories and mills which had shut down because of low water will be able to resume operations. The low water is attributed to the small amount of snow and rain which has fallen this winter.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

Senate and House Have Weighty Questions to Decide.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—For the most part the senate will divide its time this week between the Philippine tariff bill and the bill increasing the salaries of members of the federal judiciary. The salary bill is in charge of Senator Hoar and will be considered in the morning hour of the senate each day until it is disposed of, while the Philippine bill, which is in the hands of Senator Lodge, will continue to have the right of way as the unfinished business after 2 o'clock of each day. The salary bill will be the subject only of running debate, but a number of set speeches will be made on the other measure.

This promises to be an interesting week in the house. The oleomargarine bill was taken up under special orders today, and after it is disposed of, which probably will be tomorrow, the bill for the repeal of the war revenue taxes will follow. While both sides are unanimous in favor of the repeal of these taxes, it is the intention of the Democrats to open up the whole tariff question during the debate on this bill, and they will make a strong fight for ample time for discussion. The question of Cuban reciprocity is also likely to be debated at length, as members on both sides of the house are anxious to define their positions. The friends of the oleomargarine bill have no doubt of its passage. The bill is practically the old Grout bill imposing a tax of 10 cents a pound on products colored in imitation of butter and to make retail dealers who color oleomargarine subject to the same penalties as the manufacturers.

PRINCE HENRY SAYS GOODBY.

Prussian Admiral Leaves Berlin to Prepare For His Trip.

BERLIN, Feb. 3.—Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia left here yesterday morning for Kiel. Andrew D. White, the United States embassador, came to the railroad station officially to bid farewell to the prince, who will probably not return to Berlin before sailing for the United States. Mr. White told Prince Henry that the city of Chattanooga desired to present him with an album of views. Prince Henry said he would be delighted to accept the album.

Mr. White also said he was sorry the prince could not go to Florida and see something of the tropical United States during the winter months. Prince Henry also regrets that his stay in the United States will be so limited as to prevent him from seeing many other places which have invited him to visit them.

Court Councilor Waldmann, with a part of Prince Henry's servants, including two cooks, a steward and several silver butlers, has left Hamburg for the United States on the Hamburg-American line steamer Graf Waldersee. Upon their arrival the members of this party will make preparations to cater for the imperial yacht Hohenzollern and will procure special supplies for the banquet to be given upon the occasion of the launching of the emperor's new yacht.

MORE THAN A HUNDRED KILLED.

Mining Disaster In Mexico One of the Worst on Record.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 3.—The latest information from the Hondo (Mexico) mine explosion shows it to have been fully as serious as at first reported. There was a total of 106 miners at work in the mine when the explosion occurred, and all of them are dead. The majority of the victims are Mexicans and Chinamen, very few Americans having been at work in the mine.

Every mule in the mine was killed, three dead ones being taken from the debris. The work of clearing away the wreck in order to get to the bodies is being rushed as rapidly as possible, but there is no hope that any of the men will be rescued alive.

The explosion occurred in mine No. 6 and was occasioned by striking a gas pocket. The mine is the property of the Coahuila Coal company, P. M. McKenny being superintendent. The names of the victims have not been learned here. The loss to the owners of the mine is very heavy.

Latin-American Unity.

CITY OF MEXICO, Feb. 3.—El Popular, a daily, argues for Latin-American unity in order that the southern nations of the world may present a strong and compact front to their great neighbor, the United States, which is more powerful, if not more valiant, than the Latin-American nations and may yet, under the pretext of bestowing the blessings of peace on these countries, impose its rule by force and destroy Latin-American liberties. The famous Monroe doctrine is claimed to be a means of preserving the equilibrium between the United States and Europe.

Would Not Work on Sunday.

NORWICH, Conn., Feb. 3.—As a result of a disagreement about working on Sunday Peter Long, a gardener, shot his employer, Mrs. Abraham Plaut, a wealthy resident of West Thames street. Her wound is not thought to be dangerous. Long is fifty-five years of age and says he is a native of Bangor, Me. When placed under arrest, he said he had had a quarrel with Mrs. Plaut because he was unwilling to work seven days a week.

New Continental Line Completed.

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 3.—A dispatch from Santa Rosa, N. M., says the last spike has been driven connecting the El Paso Northeastern with the Rock Island railroad, completing a new short line across the continent.

HEPBURN & CO.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES WON.

Strike on the Old Colony Road Settled Definitely.

TAUNTON, Mass., Feb. 3.—The strike which has existed for a week at the Ames street station of the Old Colony Street Railway company in Brockton has been settled by mutual agreement. The chief items in the agreement follow:

That former employees shall be taken back today; that ten hours shall constitute a day's labor until April 1, 1902, nine hours thereafter constituting a day's work; that hereafter any question of dispute arising between the management and employees of the station which cannot be mutually agreed upon between the two parties or their representatives shall be left to the state board of arbitration, whose declaration shall be binding upon both parties; that the employees shall not cause any strike or strikes and the employers shall not have any lockout.

The wages will remain the same as before—$2.50 per day for engineers, $2 a day for firemen, $2 a day for oilers—although the men virtually get a raise, as their hours of labor are reduced from twelve to ten and will be cut to nine hours after April 1.

The boycott placed by the labor unions upon the Old Colony Street Railway company will be raised immediately.

The settlement of the strike is of considerable importance, as the Old Colony railway was simply one branch of the great network of railways north and south of Boston, embracing practically every line in the part of the state except the Boston elevated road.

YUNG LU PROMOTED.

Boxer Leader Trying to Gain Favor With Foreigners.

PEKING, Feb. 3.—The pre-eminence of General Yung Lu in the councils of the Chinese court has been officially proclaimed. He has made a tour of the foreign legations here, endeavoring to regain the favor of the ministers.

An edict has appeared promoting General Yung Lu to be first grand secretary, an office not necessarily powerful, but of the highest honor, and vacant since the death of Li Hung Chang. Wang Wen Shao has been advanced to the second grand secretaryship to succeed Yung Lu.

The pilgrimage of Yung Lu to the legations was made with considerable pomp, and he profusely denied the historical fact of his responsibility for the attacks upon the foreign legations at Peking.

The dowager empress has issued two edicts, the first reciting that many Chinese had formerly studied abroad, but were not Mantchoos, and orders the Mantchoo courtiers and generals to nominate Mantchoos between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five to go abroad, there to study foreign branches of knowledge.

The second edict abolishes the prohibition of intermarriage between Mantchoos and Chinese, which has been enforced since the beginning of the dynasty, and directs officials by diplomatic methods to discourage the binding of the feet of Chinese female children because this is a barbarous custom.

MURDERERS CAPTURED.

Two Italians Taken In Sad Plight After Four Days.

BROCKWAYVILLE, Pa., Feb. 3.—Half naked and nearly starved, Thomas Madalena and Bennie Poli, the Italians wanted for the murder of James Heekin at Shawmut Saturday, Jan. 28, were brought to bay in lonely woods near Crenshaw, two miles from this place, and captured.

The two Italians have been pursued and searched for since the night of the crime, and the commissioners of Elk county and the Shawmut Mining company had offered a reward of $1,000 for their capture. Fellow countrymen, spurred by vengeance and the large reward, have been scouring the country for miles in search of the fugitives. The pursuing party was composed of four Italians under the direction of Squire Thomas Keys of this place.

The murderers had been hiding in the woods since Heekin was murdered. They tell a pitiable tale of starvation and suffering. At night they would wander out from their hiding place, an old powder house, and search for food. Of the latter they found but little and declared that they had nothing to eat for four days and were nearly famished.

Another Million For Harvard.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 3.—Following the announcement at the Harvard commencement exercises last June that J. Pierpont Morgan had agreed to erect at the cost of over $1,000,000 three of the buildings required for the accommodation of the Harvard medical school, President Eliot has just announced to the medical faculty that J. D. Rockefeller proposes to give $1,000,000 in furtherance of this great project provided that other friends of the university will raise a sum of money in the neighborhood of $500,000 to be used by the Harvard medical school for land, buildings or endowment.

WATERBURY BURNED

Business Portion of the Town Nearly Destroyed.

LOSS MAY REACH TWO MILLIONS.

Fire Fighters From Many Connecticut Towns Give Assistance, but Are Unable to Check Flames For Many Hours.

WATERBURY, Conn., Feb. 3.—The most disastrous fire in the history of Waterbury broke out in the heart of the city shortly before 6:30 o'clock last evening. A large section of the business part of the city has been wiped out. The fire originated in the upholstery department on the third floor of the store of the Reid & Hughes Dry Goods company at 108-112 Bank street, and that store as well as many adjoining buildings are smoldering cinders.

Insurance men estimate that the property damage already done will be found to be considerably over $1,000,000, and that figure may be doubled. The origin of the conflagration is not known. The fire was not discovered till it had gained tremendous headway. At 6:15 p. m. A. L. Lyall and E. T. Crooker and A. K. Burnham were in the store. When they left, there was no smoke nor smell of smoke on the main floor.

Fifteen minutes later flames were seen to burst with great force from the windows of the third floor and almost simultaneously from the basement. Before anybody could ring in an alarm the whole interior of the building was a mass of flames.

When the fire department reached the scene, flames were issuing from every window of the building, and it was evident that the structure was doomed, and the entire business section of the city was imperiled.

The fire started in a drizzling rain, with a rapidly rising wind, and with the increasing cold the rain turned to snow. The wind was at first shifting, but it settled toward the east and carried destruction with it. The first building to catch from the Reid & Hughes company store was a tall structure to the rear and westward occupied by the Salvation Army barracks and a Turkish bath. A moment or two later the flames leaped back to the eastward across Bank street and wiped out the Ryan & Fitzgerald block, Cannon & Webster's drug store, Davis' cigar store and the store of J. B. Mullings & Sons. They burned rapidly through to South Main street, jumped across that street, shriveling the buildings like paper. At the same time the flames caught the Masonic temple and traveled from the Salvation Army building to the rear of the Franklin House, on Grand street, and the entire block, consisting of seven or eight handsome five story buildings, with thirty tenements and the large and commodious headquarters of the Waterbury American, was soon in ruins.

Shortly after midnight the fire, which had seemed to be nearly under control, had attacked buildings on the south side of Bank street and again raged furiously.

Two deaths are said to have been caused by the fire. Help arrived from Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Torrington and Naugatuck, but the combined efforts of all the fire fighters seemed to be unable to subdue the flames until they failed for want of fuel.

Commencement at Carlisle.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—A large party of public men, among whom will be several senators and Representatives Brown of Wisconsin, McAndrews of Illinois, Sheldon of Michigan, Curtis of Kansas, Marshall of North Dakota, Stephens of Texas and Tongue of Oregon and Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones, will leave here in special cars, Wednesday morning for Carlisle, Pa., to attend the twenty-third anniversary and fourteenth graduating exercises of the Carlisle Indian Industrial institute. The party will be the guests of Lieutenant Colonel R. H. Pratt, U. S. A., the superintendent, and, with large representations from other cities, will participate in the ceremonies at the institution Wednesday and Thursday.

Irish Leaders Coming.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The delegates of the United Irish league—W. H. Redmond, M. P., and Joseph Devlin, president of the league's directorate in Belfast—who are now on the Atlantic on their way to this city by the steamer Cymric, which is due here on Thursday next, will be warmly received on their arrival. Various committees are at work making arrangements for their coming and for the establishment of branches of the league. Mr. Redmond is a brother of the Irish leader in parliament and member for East Clare. Mr. Devlin is one of the leaders of the Nationalist movement in Ulster.

Branch Mint For Tacoma, Wash.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The house committee on coinage acted favorably on the bill appropriating $200,000 for establishing a branch mint at Tacoma, Wash. The general purpose of this new branch is to give added mint facilities for the gold and silver coming from Alaska. Although votes were not taken on bills for other branch mints, the prospects are that the establishment of the one at Tacoma will operate against the establishment of other branches in that section of the country.

BOROUGH'S GREAT NEED.

Among the various projects which are being agitated in the borough, the one which plans to erect a new public school there is probably of most real importance to the people of North Plainfield. While everyone who has made any pretense at looking into the educational situation in the borough admits that it is only a question of time before the borough will have to provide additional school facilities, the question at present seems to be as to whether or not the time has arrived to build a new school building.

The departments where the classes are particularly overcrowded are the intermediate and primary. Classes have to be divided and one section given instruction in the morning and the other in the afternoon. This condition is not conducive to the very best results but no blame can rest on Superintendent Wightman for following that course as it accomplishes the best results possible under the circumstances. The only way to solve the problem is to furnish more room.

It is likely that the North Plainfield Board of Education will act in this matter in the near future. The members of the board naturally feel considerable hesitancy in saddling the borough with any more debt but the school must be built and it takes money to build it. If the people of North Plainfield do favor the erection of a new school, it will be well if they let their opinions be known, particularly to the members of the school board. This subject is one of deep interest to the municipality over the brook and any communications regarding it will be gladly given space in these columns.

It certainly looks as if Senator Charles A. Reed was going to make a strong fight for the State treasurership. The fact that Comptroller Hancock has announced that he will resign if Former Mayor Briggs is appointed to the treasurership has tended to give greater importance to the struggle and, in a measure, to strengthen Senator Reed's forces. Despite what has been said concerning Senator Reed's candidacy, it is a fact which those who know the Senator will have to admit that he is perfectly qualified for the place. While he possesses, as The Daily Press has already said, certain qualifications which will have little chance to appear should he be made State treasurer, that does not say that he is not perfectly capable of filling the office and filling it well.

While Plainfield is naturally interested in any changes which may be made in the National Guard of the State, there is little likelihood that the reorganization, which Governor Franklin Murphy is planning, will particularly affect Plainfield. There will still be a militia company in this city and it will undoubtedly be part of the Second regiment. The only possible change may be in some of its neighbors in the same regiment.

This talk of a tunnel under the Hudson river to provide for the rival companies of the Pennsylvania Railroad is very consoling. It did not seem pleasant to think of all the Pennsylvania's commuters rolling right into the metropolis while those living along the line of the Jersey Central are compelled to have recourse to the antiquated ferry boats.

The fact that one of the best athletes in the Y. M. C. A. has been acting as physical director at Hope chapel caused the general impression to go forth that his amateur status has been spoiled. As a matter of fact, however, he has recieved no compensation for his work and is today as good an amateur as ever.

As Senator Reed was one of the strongest opponents of John F. Dryden at the Senatorial caucus, it is not surprising to see the new United States Senator using his influence to defeat the Somerset county man's candidacy for State treasurer.

The annual stir in favor of voting machines seems unusually well developed this winter. It may see that something will finally come out of it.

fails to have the desired effect on the widow who is truly in love with her neighbor, but now proclaims that she will be loyal to the unhappy lover. Finally the friend draws out of the neighbor his desire to marry the widow and also breaks the news to him that the accepted man is in love with the sister. On top of this comes a revelation to the widow, who finds the ardent poetic effusions of her lover written to her sister. Then the friend arranges matters satisfactorily to all, and the curtain is rung down.

In this play again the work of William Cock, as Otway Sheridan Browne, the friend, was the most conspicuous. While it was not the leading part yet Mr. Cock brought to it so much strength of humor that it became a centre of attraction. William Pelletier as Peregrine Dotts, the fickle lover, received liberal applause for his funny interpretations, while Frederick W. Goddard, as Charles Hetherington, the widow's neighbor, was at his best. Charmingly realistic was the work of Mrs. C. E. Brooks, who as Mrs. Walsingham, the fascinating widow, portrayed her part in a commendable way. Notice should also be made of the well directed efforts of Miss Maud VanBoskerck, who represented Laura, the sister. The scene was laid in the morning room of Mrs. Walsingham's country home.

The stage settings in both plays were of a nature seldom seen outside of a large opera house, and the elaborateness of their detail added unquestionably to the enjoyment of the affair. As for the "make-ups" of the members of the two casts, they were faultless in every respect, especially so that of Mr. Cock in "The Needless Stratagem." Douglass S. Houghton, of New York, who has managed like affairs before in this city, acted as stage director, and his ability was demonstrated by his labors at these theatricals.

During the intermissions Welton's orchestra, of Elizabeth, rendered some catchy tunes, which served to add additional life to the performance.

Made Good Returns.

The men of the Seventh-Day Baptist church cleared nearly $50 from the supper given in the church last week. This is very good when it is considered that the expense was considerable.

—Just what is needed these cold mornings. A cup of the delicious beverage made from the celebrated Mocha and Java coffee, sold by Neuman Brothers.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

JERSEY CENTRAL MAY GO UNDER THE RIVER

Union Terminal Co. Plans to Build a Tunnel for Other Railroads.

A RIVAL OF THE P. R. R.

COMPANY'S PLANS OUTLINED BY ITS CHIEF ENGINEER.

Generally Understood That Company Will Furnish a Way for Competing Companies to Get Under Hudson River.

Much interest has been aroused by the news that the Union Terminal Company of New York has been incorporated with $100,000 in Albany, to construct and operate an electric tunnel road between New Jersey, Manhattan and Brooklyn.

The incorporators are Francis H. Leggett, Frederick P. Voorhees, Roy Stone, Charles F. Smilie, Louis D. Stanton, William C. Cox, M. E. Robinson, Appleton D. Palmer and John A. Stewart, of New York City.

Of the incorporators, Messrs. Voorhees, Cox and Stanton are connected with the Standard Trust Company, Mr. Robinson is a retired business man, Mr. Palmer and Mr. Simlie are lawyers, Mr. Leggett is the wholesale grocer and John A. Stewart is not the president of the United States Trust Company, but a deputy United Sates marshal.

In announcing the new company's plans to the Jersey City Journal, Gen. Roy Stone, the company's chief engineer, said: "Beginning at a point just west of Bergen Hill near the Hackensack River, where twelve railroads practically come together, we propose to run in separate tubes at a depth of 110 feet under the river, eight tracks to a point in New York City at the inter-section of Fourteenth and Hudson streets. From this point our main line of six tracks will continue east under Fourteenth street at a depth of about forty feet to Union Square, where we propose to have a grand central station underneath and in connection with the subway.

"From this point, if desired by the New York Central, we shall continue a tunnel with two tracks in it up Madison avenue to the Grand Central Station to connect there with the Central. Then also from Union Square as a centre our plans provide for a tunnel ot two tracks under the East River to a point in Brooklyn where the Long Island road intersects with the Manhattan Beach road.

"It is also our intention to run two tracks under Hudson street and Greenwich to Bowling Green, where we will have a loop station alongside of the subway station for the transfer of passengers to Brooklyn.

"We propose to build these tunnels with the idea of leasing them to the railroads, they to equip and run them. The tunnels would bring them into New York at a more central point than that to be reached by their rival, the Pennsylvania, besides giving them connections at many other points.

"The tunnels would allow the West Shore Road to make a loop from Weehawken around by way of Fourteenth street to the Grand Central station. The entire cost, excluding equipment, which is for the railroads to do, would be inside of $40,000,000.

"If the railroads don't want the tunnels, why then they won't be built. It would be improper for me to say just at this time whether we have assurances from the railroads other than the Pennsylvania that they do want them or to give any of the details regarding the plans for financing the enterprise. Those details will all come out once we get our franchise from the city, which we propose to ask for immediately."

The news of the new tunnel company was read with special interest by the real estate companies and private individuals who are interested in the development of the Hackensack meadows. The new company's New Jersey terminal would be on these meadows.

The Union Terminal Company is looked upon as a rival of the Pennsylvania Railroad interests, which have already planned a tunnel for the Pennsylvania Railroad to run from Weehawken under the Hudson River to West Thirty-fifth street, New York.

The P. R. R. tunnel is to be used by Pennsylvania Railroad trains exclusively, and it is presumed that the new Union Terminal Company hopes to interest the New Jersey Central and some of the other railroad companies, who will be unable to use the P. R. R. tunnel.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is going right ahead with tis plans, and its tunnel will doubtless be a reality before the end of many years. It has all the capital necessary to successfully carry out its vast undertaking.

Sanitarium of Glass.

Dr. John V. Shoemaker, president of the municipal department of charities and correction and a member of the faculty of the Medico-Chirurgical college, has secured from the city council of Philadelphia an appropriation of $80,000 with which he expects to build eight one-story glass houses on a seven-acre tract of land adjoining the almshouse, where consumptive patients will live in an atmosphere of ozone generated by powerful electric appliances similar to the rarified air of high mountains. The framework of the pavilions will be constructed of steel and the walls and roof will be of glass. Each pavilion will be equipped with the latest devices for maintaining a regular temperature. Ventilation of the glass houses will be an easy problem, the glass walls and roof being in sections and of pivotal construction, so they may be opened or closed at will. —Chicago Journal.

Driving a Mill by Sound Waves.

An interesting scientific toy, the action of which is explained by the theory of sound waves, has recently attracted attention in England. Mr. Bergen Davis, having observed that a small cylinder, closed at one end, if placed in a sound wave, will arrange itself perpendicular to the wave, and begin to move in the direction of its own axis, arranged four such cylinders on a rotating mill, the closed end of each following the open end of its predecessor, like the cups of an anemometer, and then placed the mill in front of an organ pipe with its axis of rotation perpendicular to the sound wave issuing from the pipe. When the organ was played the little mill rotated at a high velocity.—Science.

Suppressing a Sneeze.

"They are curious folks in Pittsburg," said the old man in the ulster. "I was there a few days ago, and while on a street car my nose began to tingle and I realized that I had got to sneeze."

"But no one tried to stop you, did they?" was asked.

"No, but when I rose up and took off my wig, removed my glass eye, slipped out my false teeth and got all ready to let 'er go the conductor came in and said it was against the ordinance for a man to take himself to pieces, and I was run out."—Boston Globe.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

Little Elsie's Comment.

A six-year-old member of a Harlem family of five girls has been the innocent cause of much surprise and amusement to her elders lately by reason of many droll remarks.

A few days ago a relative, on a New Year's visit to the family, told of the progress his son was making in his first year at public school. The little girl had seemingly been interested in a Christmas doll on the floor, near her father's knee, but no sooner had the talk ceased than she looked up at the visitor, and said:

"Have you a little boy, Uncle Will?"

"Yes, Elsie. And why do you ask?"

A look of happiness spread over Elsie's face, and brushing back a golden curl with her hand, she said very deliberately:

"Well, indeed, you're a lucky man, Uncle Will, for there's a ca-lam'ty of girls in our house."—N. Y. Times.

The Costliest Painting.

The duke of Marlborough is believed to be the possessor of the costliest painting in the world, which was at one time the property of the first duke of Marlborough. The picture is known as the "Benheim Madonna," painted by Raphael in 1507, and now valued at no less than $350,000. It is eight feet high, and represents the Madonna and Child seated on a throne, with a figure of John the Baptist on the left and that of St. Nicholas of Bari on the right. Its almost fabulous value is due to the fact that it is one of the best preserved of the artist's works in existence.—Detroit Free Press.

Fast Riding for Consumption.

A London physician tells the Times, in a letter, that he has noticed among patients taking the open-air treatment for consumption beneficial effects produced by riding in motor cars at a speed of from 30 to 50 miles per hour. The swift motion through the air is credited by him with causing, along with a marked feeling of exhilaration, increased appetite, improved sleep, a healthy glow tending, after a few days' treatment, to become permanent, and a diminution of the tendency to cough.

Boston Boy's Bad Break.

"Have you succeeded yet, Mr. Noodler, in procuring lodgers for the more altitudinous floor of your apartment house?" inquired the Boston boy, politely, of his sister's caller.

"What do you mean? I haven't any apartment house," replied the young man in bewilderment.

"Why, I understood sister to say only yesterday that you had rooms to rent in your upper story," explained the boy.—Syracuse Standard.

Breakfast in the Water.

In the recent heat wave in Rome four swimmers made up a party at 11 o'clock in the morning, and proceeded to take their breakfast in the Tiber. They appeared on the river bank carrying a table loaded with dainties, pushed off, and had their meal without returning to the bank, and, what is more surprising, without touching the bottom.—Velo.

INDIAN SWEAT BATH.

Part of the Religious Ceremonials of the Havasupais.

Quite Effective and Even More Heroic Than the Russo-Turkish Bath of the White Man's Civilization.

[Special Arizona Letter.]

IT IS not often that a white man is invited to participate in the religious ceremonies of the Indian. Indeed, so seldom does it occur that those who think they know all about Indians disbelieve assertions of those who have been more highly favored and privileged than themselves. Few people, at first sight, would suppose that a sweat bath was a religious ceremonial. And yet it is. Among many of the tribes of the southwest a Russo-Turkish bath is taken every week as a religious function, and he is remiss in the performance of his religious duties who fails to unite with his fellows in this ceremony.

Just think of it! Nasty, dirty, unclean, savage Indians taking a sweat bath as part of their religion! And then to think of their taking it every week. Doesn't it make an ordinary, civilized Christian feel a little mean to think that he regards the Indian in the light of the words I have just used—"nasty, dirty, unclean savage"—in the face of this weekly bath.

My friends, the Havasupai Indians, of Cataract canyon, in northern Arizona, are great believers in the religion of the sweat bath. Consequently they are a very cleanly people. They have one advantage over many Indian tribes of the southwest in that their homes are built not far from the running stream, the Havasu, the Blue Water, from which they gain their name. They can take a sweat bath in the sweat house and then step out and enjoy a plunge in the delicious waters of the flowing stream.

Twice have I been privileged to take part in this ceremony. On the first occasion I was invited to the home of the shaman, or medicine man, and there, with the Indians who were to participate in the ceremony, I was invited to a repast of green corn mush, the most delicious dish made from green corn with which I am acquainted. The corn in the milk is ground and then thrown into hot water until it becomes thick. When well cooked it is seasoned, poured into basket bowls and served. I had two old Indians, one on each side of me, when the basket of mush was handed to me by my hostess. To refuse to eat would have been an offense against the laws of hospitality, and to refuse to allow the Indians by my side to partake of that which was offered to me would have been discourteous. Yet we did not have spoons, and I knew that as soon as my friends were ready they would dip their not-too-clean fingers into the savory mess. I bade them wait awhile, and then, calling to my hostess, I asked her for a spoon, which I knew she had somewhere in her stores. When she brought it she washed it seven different times, so that I might be quite assured of its cleanliness. When I took the spoon I described a half circle in the mush in the front of the basket. Then, calling the attention of my friend on the right, I pointed out to him that all the mush on the right of the half circle was his, and to my friend on the left that all on the left belonged to him. Respectfully waiting until I began to eat it was not until after I had eaten several mouthfuls that they dipped their fingers into the dainty dish and scooped up into their mouths the food they so much enjoy.

After our repast we hurried down to the side of the Havasu, where a wicker frame as shown in figure one was constructed. One of the men speedily lined the inside on the ground with newly-cut willows. Others built a bonfire into which a number of large rocks were placed. Still others brought blankets and covered the frame work so as to make it steam proof.

When everything was ready, I, as the guest of honor, was invited to disrobe and enter first. As I did so the shaman and one other Indian followed me. One of the attendants then put in a couple of red-hot rocks, the flap was let down and immediately we were in the darkness of the sweat house, or toholwa, as the Havasupai terms it. Immediately the shaman began to sing, and as well as I could I joined in the song. It was a prayer of thanksgiving to Tochopa, their good god, for having given them the sweat bath and many other good things. By the time the song was ended the place was pretty hot and I thought we had about had enough, but when the flap was opened more hot rocks were put in, the flap let down, and another song commenced. Before long the sweat was rolling down my body in a number of little streams and I was quite hot when the song ended. Instead, however, of being allowed to go out when the flap was opened, the attendant fiend put in more hot rocks and a basket bowl full of water. I was just reaching for the water, when the flap was let down and the shaman's attendant poured the liquid over the red-hot rocks. In a moment the sweat house was full of live steam and I gasped and struggled for breath, for I seemed to be inhaling liquid fire. Just as I thought I couldn't stand it another moment the shaman began to sing another song, and, not to be outdone by the Indians, I determined to stand it out and joined in the song with as much fervor as I could muster. At the close of the song the flap was again lifted, more hot rocks and water were put in and we had another taste of the live steam. This time I could stand it no longer and struggling toward the flap, I managed to gasp out that I must go to the water. The shaman replied that we were all going, for our bath was at an end. With delight I sprang forward without further words and dived headlong into the swimming pool close by. Never in my life did I experience a more delicious sensation over the whole of my body than when I felt that water surrounding me. It was just cool enough to be pleasant and yet not cold enough to give one a severe shock. For half an hour I stayed in and enjoyed it to the full, and then came out and joined my Havasupai friends as they reclined on willow boughs in the vivifying rays of the sun. Thus ended my first sweat bath, but the memory of it was so pleasant that on my last visit to the Havasupais I suggested to Rock Jones (by which name the leading medicine man of the tribe is known) that I would like to take a sweat bath with him. He acceeded to my request with pleasure.

There was not much difference between my experience on this occasion and the first, except that the distance from Rock Jones' toholwa to the Havasu was quite a little distance, and, as I attempted to walk in my bare feet, the trail was so hot that I had to cry out for Burro Bill to bring me my shoes before I could proceed further, and for several days after blisters on the soles of my feet led me to prefer horseback riding to walking.

It is impossible to overestimate the value of this sweat-bath to the Indians. It gives them that opening of the pores that is essential to a healthful life, for it must not be forgotten that they are very gross feeders and exceedingly careless in matters pertaining to their diet. The making of it a religious ceremony is a wise piece of priestcraft, for it works upon the superstitious fears of the people, and this prevents their neglect of this healthful performance.

The sweat-bath is largely prevalent throughout the whole of the southwest, the Wallapais, of Arizona, the Navahoes, of New Mexico, and the Paiutis, of Nevada, all deeming it of equal importance.

BOICE, RUNYON & CO.,
Park Avenue and Railroad.

The organist of one of the principal Methodist churches in Hartford, Conn., says: "I was troubled with gastritis and nervous dyspepsia for two years. I would go to bed at night feeling perfectly well and wake up next morning with a splitting sick headache. I would be so hot at times that my flesh seemed burning up and flashes of light and darkness would come before my eyes. These spells continued sometimes for a day and a half and while they lasted I was so stupid I hardly knew my own name. I commenced taking Ripans Tabules, and before I had used three dozen of them they made me entirely well. I take a Tabule occasionally now just to keep my stomach in order when it shows any slight indication of a disposition to rebel."

WANTED—a case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents. SEPARATE WAISTS.

They Are Marvels of Daintiness and Are Worn With Velvet Skirts.

Irish lace is being much revived, and not merely the fine specimens, but all manner of crochets, coarse alike and fine. The fish net laces are being much used for evening gowns, and they are enriched with wonderful applications of all sorts. The coarse, rather open patterns of lace make most effective blouses over a soft lining of pale colored liberty satin or chiffon.

One of the latest ball gowns is shown in the picture. It is made of pale yellow chiffon dotted in silk. The entire costume, both waist and skirt, is laid in tiny ruffles edged with the narrowest silver ribbons. There is a sash of pale yellow liberty satin and a huge shaded yellow poppy forms a corsage ornament. The dress is made up over pale yellow net, which allows the occasional gleam of a satin lining. The skirt has a wide flounce added invisibly beneath the ruffles to give the proper flare about the feet.

FANCY DRESS MATERIALS.

For Ordinary Wear Hairy Weaves and Zibelines Are Ultra Smart.

There is a great variety in fancy cloths this winter, especially in long, hairy materials, which are made with the idea of imitating fur as much as possible. Some are spotted with what is known as the snow effect, others are striped, and still others are quite plain, blue, deep red and gray being the favorite colors. Plain faced cloth, however, has more adherents, especially among stout women, as hairy materials increase the size of the figure.

Zibeline has now assumed a zebra like appearance in blue and black. Its only trimming is white passementerie buttons, which are placed in three rows down the waistcoat or chemisette under the coat, jacket, bolero or bodice. A recent costume made of this cloth had a short round Eton, with the belt and strappings of blue panne heavily stitched on in yellow silk. The skirt, which was walking length, just escaped the ground. Blouses with bishop sleeves are worn beneath the jacket of these short suits.

The dressy child's frock in the illustration is made of pale blue louisine silk. The waist has a yoke made of lace insertion and tucks, and the sleeves are also of the tucking and insertion. The rest of the waist is of the plain silk, with two rows of lace falling in cascades down the front. The belt is of stitched ribbon, with a lace rosette directly in front. The skirt is laid in pin tucks until it nearly reaches the knees, where it is allowed to flare. A small ruffle around the bottom further completes the fluffy effect.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"Do you know I feel almost inclined to offer you the proverbial penny," said Miss Kitwater's voice behind me, at the drawing-room door. "Is it permissible to ask what you were thinking about?"

I am not of course prepared to swear it, but I honestly believe, for the first time for many years, I blushed.

"I was thinking how very pleasant a country life must be," I said, making the first excuse that came to me. "I almost wish that I could lead one."

"Then why don't you? Surely it would not be so very difficult?"

"I am rather afraid it would," I answered. "And yet I don't know why it should be."

"Perhaps Mrs. Fairfax would not care about it," she continued, as we returned to the drawing-room together.

"Good gracious!" I remarked. "There is no Mrs. Fairfax. I am the most confirmed of old bachelors. I wonder you could not see that. Is not the word erustiness written plainly upon my forehead?"

"I am afraid I cannot see it," she answered. "I am not quite certain who it was, but I fancy it was my uncle who informed me that you were married."

"It was very kind of him," I said. "But it certainly is not the case. I fear my wife would have rather a lonely time of it if it were. I am obliged to be away from home so much, you see, and for so long at a time."

"Yours must be indeed a strange profession, Mr. Fairfax, if I may say so," she continued. "Some time ago I came across an account, in a magazine, of your life, and the many famous cases in which you had taken part."

"Ah! I remember the wretched thing," I said. "I am sorry that you should ever have seen it."

"And why should you be sorry?"

"Because it is a silly thing, and I have always regretted allowing the man to publish it. He certainly called upon me and asked me a lot of questions, after which he went away and wrote that article. Ever since then I have felt like a conceited ass, who tried to make himself out more clever than he really was."

"I don't think you would do that," she said. "But, if you will let me say so, yours must be a very trying life, and also an extremely dangerous one. I am afraid you must look upon human nature from a very strange point of view!"

"Not more strange probably than you do," I answered.

"But you are continually seeing the saddest side of it. To you all the miseries that a life of crime entails are visible. The greater part of your time is spent among desperate men who are without hope, and to whom even their own shadows are a constant menace. I wonder that you still manage to retain your kind heart."

"But how do you know that my heart is kind?" I inquired.

"If for no other reason, simply because you have taken up my uncle's case," she answered. "Do you think when he was so rude to you just now, that I could not see that you pitied him, and for that reason you forebore to take advantage of your power? I know you have a kind heart."

"And you find it difficult to assimilate that kind heart with the remorseless detective of Public Life?"

"I find it difficult to recognize in you the man who, on a certain notable occasion, went into a thieves' den in Chicago unaccompanied, and after a terrible struggle in which you nearly lost your life succeeded in effecting the arrest of a notorious murderer."

At that moment the gong in the hall sounded for lunch, and I was by no means sorry for the interruption. We found Kitwater and Codd awaiting our coming in the dining-room, and we thereupon sat down to the meal. When we left the room again, we sat in the garden and smoked, and later in the afternoon my hostess conducted me over her estate, showed me her vineries, introduced me to her two sleek Jerseys, who had their home in the meadow I had seen from the window; to her poultry, pigs and the pigeons who came fluttering about her, confident that they would come to no harm. Meanwhile her uncle had resumed his restless pacing up and down the path on which I had first seen him. Codd had returned to his archaeological studies, and I was alone with Miss Kitwater. We were standing alone together, I remember, at the gate that separated the garden from the meadow-land. I knew as well as possible, indeed I had known it since we had met in the churchyard that morning, that she had something to say to me, something concerning which she had not quite made up her mind. What it was, however, I fancied I could hazard a very good guess, but I was determined not to forestall her, but to wait and let her broach it to me in her own way. This, I fancied, she was now about to do.

"Mr. Fairfax," she began, resting her clasped hands upon the bar of the gate as she spoke. "I want, if you will allow me, to have a serious talk with you. I could not have a better opportunity than the present, and, such as it is, I want to make the best of it."

"I am quite at your service, Miss Kitwater," I replied, "and if I can be of any use to you I hope you will tell me. Pray let me know what I can do for you?"

"It is about my uncle and Mr. Codd that I want to speak to you," she said, sinking her voice a little, as if she were afraid they might hear.

"And what about them?"

"I want to be loyal to them, and yet I want to know what you think of the whole affair," she said, looking intently at me as she spoke. "Believe me, I have good and sufficient reasons for my request."

"I am to tell exactly what I think about their pursuit of this man Hayle? And what chances of success I think they possess?" I said.

"I am not thinking so much of their success," she returned, "as of the real nature of their case."

"I believe I understand what is passing in your mind," I said. "Indeed I should not be surprised if the suspicion you entertain is not the same as I have myself."

"You have been suspicious, then?"

"I could scarcely fail to be," I replied.

"Perhaps you will tell me what you suspect?"

"Will you forgive me, in my turn, if I am abrupt, or if I speak my mind a little too plainly?"

"You could not do that," she answered with a sigh. "I want to know your exact thoughts, and then I shall be able to form my own conclusions."

"Well," I said, "before I begin, may I put one or two questions to you? You will, of course, remember that I had never seen or heard of your uncle and Mr. Codd until they stopped me on Ludgate Hill. They were and practically are strangers to me. I have heard their story of their treasure, but I have not heard what anyone else has to say upon the subject."

Woman Gamblers of Paris.

The gambling passion is by no means confined to the male kind. It is a well-known fact that Paris is riddled with its ramifications, and that the gentler sex by no means escape the temptation. Even a concierge is not too busy with mops and brooms to have her little "book," it appears. A sporting lady of this class has just been arrested in the Rue d'Hauteville, Paris, for using the lodgers' rent payments in turf transactions. When the owner of the house called to collect his due, she told a pitiful tale of burglars who had broken into her lodge and stolen the rents. There was, however, a want of coherence about the tale and the truth finally came out. It appears that this unlucky concierge once backed a winner and had great faith in her luck—a fateful faith which is not limited to her particular class. The poor woman is in jail, where there is no cordon to pull and where no lodgers' letters require investigation, while a substitute enjoys these privileges, which have been lost, all for the sake of the sporting instinct.—Paris Messenger.

THE SOURCE OF LIFE

Prof. Loeb's New Theory Explained and Illustrated.

Can Process of Decay and Death Be Arrested by the Use of Electricity and Chemicals—A Biological Problem.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

THAT man, as we see him, is an immortal being temporarily clad in a material body, orthodox people believe, "all theories to the contrary notwithstanding." That life constantly comes to us by influx and is not a personal attribute most people concede. But the scientist in his laboratory is very apt to set aside such ideas and seek an explanation of all phenomena in matter alone. One learned professor said: "Humanity is but a transitory phase of the evolution of an eternal substance, a particular phenomenal form of matter and energy. What we call soul is, in my opinion, a natural phenomenon."

Mr. Edison is quoted as stating his belief that every atom of matter is intelligent, deriving energy from the primordeal germ. He thinks the intelligence of man is the sum of the intelligence of the atoms of which he is composed; that the integrity of the human body is maintained by an agreement of the atoms and when inharmony arises between them they wish to get away and seek new relations, causing the death of the man, as such, while the matter itself remains indestructible. He further believes that there is a close relation between electricity and vital energy; that there are only two things in the universe—matter and energy.

As far back as any records have been unearthed, life, in some of its many aspects, has been the favorite study and it will continue to be so as long as finite man exists.

About 20 years ago Dr. Weissman, the noted German biologist, published a series of papers which attracted world-wide attention. He argued that "natural death" never occurs in the lowest forms of animal life, the unicellular structures. He says that it is not an essential attribute of living matter or necessarily associated with reproduction; but rather an acquired advantage to the species. If an animal of the higher order were immortal, escaping all fatal accidents, slight injuries would in time be likely to overtake it and one portion of the body after another might lose its integrity, the creature becoming unfitted to represent its kind, or for other uses. He further states that although capable of being destroyed by heat or poison, an immense number of low organisms do not die. They carry the potentiality of unending life so long as necessary conditions are fulfilled.

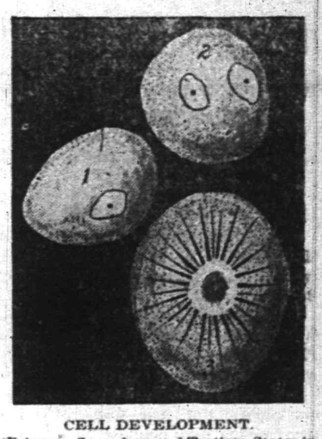
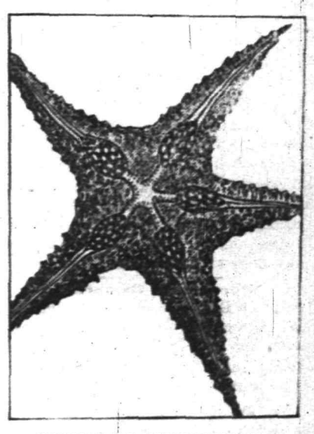
The theories of Prof. Loeb, of Chicago university, attract a great deal of attention just now. He has charge here of the best equipped biological laboratory in the country and each summer conducts experiments at the Marine biological laboratory at Wood's Holl, Mass. He has certainly proved that cell life may be indefinitely prolonged—whether he will ever discover a means of increasing the number of years a person may remain on this earth is problematical. Just why so many people who expect to be "better off" when they are unhampered by their material bodies should cling to earth life as they do is a mystery that will never be satisfactorily explained. With those who believe that matter is all and that when their own particular atoms get into a quarrel that will be the end of them the case is, of course, different.

But however this may be, nearly every individual would, when death came near, be grateful for an elixir which would delay his approach to a more convenient season. The results of Prof. Loeb's studies of the phenomena of life are, at least, very interesting. They have been largely along the lines of muscular contraction, nerve impulses and the development of eggs, these processes being all essential to life. His conclusions are that death is but a morphological process and not a cessation of action, that electricity is the basis of life acting upon the nerves and involuntary muscles. He is said to believe that all life is the result of physical processes, and that the process of death may be arrested by the employment of certain agents. He has been very successful in his experiments along the latter lines with the unfertilized eggs of sea urchins. If these be taken from the mother and placed in sea water, they usually die within 24 hours. If fertilized, of course the death process is stayed and the animal develops, hence on fertilization an agent is introduced which counteracts the death process. It occurred to Prof. Loeb to search for some artificial agent which would serve the same purpose. Cyanide potassium is one of the most deadly known poisons. This was selected because it does not destroy cell structure, while checking life phenomena. His idea was to suspend all animation in the life cells for a period of time. For one week the eggs remained in a weak solution of the poison and when removed at the end of that time were found capable of being fertilized either naturally or artificially, developing to the eight-cell stage. Hence Prof. Loeb was enabled to read some very interesting papers before the American Physiological society which recently met in this city, in which he contended that, in certain forms, life may be indefinitely prolonged. He inquires why, if death be merely cessation of action, should the employment of potassium cyanide fail to induce it. He concludes that the poison checks the death principle inherent in the egg. It is said that what is true regarding the vital processes of our living organism, is true of those processes in all living organisms. Since the lowest form of cell life is as much alive as the higher animals, the possibilities are, to say the least, startling.



CELL DEVELOPMENT.
(Primary, Secondary and Tertiary States in Forming a Starfish.)

After proving that the death process, which is born with life into the sea urchin's egg, may be arrested before fertilization, he proceeds to show how the potassium cyanide acts upon it, and he declares that it is by bringing its electrical energy to bear. He thence concludes that a process may be found for electrically prolonging man's residence on this terrestial globe. No other force of stimulus effects germ life in so universal and effective a way as electricity. He began experiments to learn just when electrical ions became poisonous and when stimulating. Some salts killed sea urchins' eggs, others seemed to vitalize them. Salts charged with positive electricity interfered with life processes. Those charged negatively stimulate contraction. Both positive and negative are necessary to arrest death processes. Electricity not only nerves the muscles but causes action of nerves controlling the muscles. Dr. Albert Mathews, Prof. Loeb's assistant, here came in with his theory regarding the structure of the nerves, which, if it prove true, will cause a reconstruction in that branch of science of physiology. He holds that the nerves are not little strings of cells, as has been supposed, but hollow threads filled with a thin jelly-like substance, which he styles colloidal solution. He contends that every particle of this solution is charged positively with electricity, and may be stimulated by negative charges of electricity, which cause it to thicken and change from a thin to a thick jelly. The more strongly the solution is positively charged the more readily does it resist the negative charges.



RESULT OF EXPERIMENT.
(Starfish Developed from Cell by Prof Loeb's System.)

The solution may be thickened by heat as well as negative charges, rendering it more stable and the nerve less irritable. Cold acts in the opposite manner.

The gelatinous substances are composed largely of fat. Anaesthetics dissolve the fat. Food nourishes by furnishing a form of energy which in its nature is essentially electricity. The thickening of the colloid solution passes along the little hollow nerve tubes, which extend from the nerve cells of the brain, spinal cord and ganglia to different parts of the body, and cause "nerve impulses."

If some application of these electrical theories can be utilized for the prolongation of human life, Prof. Loeb's name is likely to live forever though whether as that of a real benefactor to his race is doubtful. It might not tend to a survival of the fittest.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Early in the evening she went to visit her daughter, Mrs. Harrison and she remained to dinner. Soon afterward she returned home. She did not complain especially of being ill, but shortly after arriving home she died. Heart trouble is believed to be the cause of death.

Mrs. Stitt is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Harrison and Mrs. Charles B. Peddie, of this place, and a married daughter, who lives in Newark. She was the owner of considerable real estate, including the Westfield Hotel property, which is quite valuable.

NOTHING IN PARTICULAR.

An Insignificent Beginning of a Thrilling Runaway Saturday.

A spirited horse belonging to Dr. J. C. Anderson, left standing on Plainfield avenue near Fourth street, Saturday afternoon, became frightened at nothing in particular and ran away. It was attached to a cutter which immediatley turned over and at South Second street, was thrown into the curb, badly battered. The frightened animal continued to Front street, thence to town and was captured near Madison avenue. It narrowly escaped knocking several pedestrians down. It was not injured.

Mrs. Burke Held Up Under Washington Street Bridge Early Saturday Night—Pocketbook Taken.

A daring holdup occurred under the Washington street railroad bridge, early Saturday evening when Mrs. Jennie Burke, of 203 East Front street, was robbed of her pocket book containing 63 cents.

Mrs. Burke was returning from LaGrande avenue. It was then 7:30 o'clock. Owing to a break, the lights under the bridge were out. A man sprang out of the darkness and demanded Mrs. Burke's money. She refused. He then seized her by the throat and partially choked her and snatched the pocket book from her hand. He ran up Cottage place.

Mrs. Burke was so badly frightened that she could not scream and is unable to give any discription of the highwayman.

Fresh Cream Scarce.

A LOVING CHARACTER.

Funeral Services of Mrs. Frances Mattison Were Held Yesterday.

The funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Frances Mattison, of Somerset street, who died Friday, were held yesterday afternoon, in Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Cornelius Schenck officiating.

The pastor in the course of his sermon dwelt upon the loving Christian character of the departed woman. He said that he had enjoyed her friendship before coming to Plainfield and that when he accepted charge of the local church Mrs. Mattison was one of the first to extend to him a cordial welcome. Speaking of the uncertainties of life, Rev. Mr. Schenck said that only death was sure in mortal life. He added that the character of immortality depended upon the character of mortality.

After the services the remains were borne to the home on Somerset street and this morning they were taken to Millstone, N. J., where the interment was made. The pall bearers were L. W. Randolph, J. T. Case, Andrew Lutkins and W. H. Ludlow.

R. Howard, of Hope chapel, officiating. The remains will be taken to Richford, Vt., her former home, for interment.

KILLED BY FALL FROM POLE

LINEMAN JAMES JAMISON MET DEATH AT BOUND BROOK.

Tumbled From Top of Pole and Fractured His Skull—Lived in New Brunswick.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, Feb. 3—Before the horrified gaze of a crowd of shoppers on Main street, Saturday afternoon, James Jamison, an expert lineman in the employ of the Home Telephone Company, fell from a pole thirty feet from the ground and was instantly killed. He struck squarely on his head and his brains were spattered about the pavement.

Jamison was twenty-eight years old and single. He resided at New Brunswick and was sent to Bound Brook to do some skilled repairing. He ascended the pole without the safety strap and for some reason lost his balance when almost to the top. The coroner viewed the remains and permitted their removal to his late home.

FRISBY FINALLY SUCCUMBS.

Died at His Home on Race Street Saturday Afternoon.

James H. Frisby, aged forty-five years, who for eight years past has been the mail messenger, taking the mail back and forth between the post-office and the railroad station, died rather suddenly Saturday afternoon at his home on Race street, North Plainfield. He had been seriously ill with a complication of diseases for several weeks and was obliged to give up his work.

Mr. Frisby was a well-known character about the city and by his obliging manner made many friends. He was a resident of Plainfield the largest part of his life. A wife and several small children survive him. The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will be in the M. E. cemetery.

COLUMBIA'S HIGH RANK.

Musical Clubs Have Made a Decided Hit This Season.

There are undoubtedly many former Columbia College men resident here, who will join in welcome to the Columbia University Glee and Mandolin Clubs, who are to appear at the Casino, Thursday night. It is claimed that the clubs this year are the best that have ever been organized, and there are many friends of other colleges who will or may dispute this claim. But suffice to say, judging from the high endorsement and favorable press reports of the doings and work of the Columbia boys as musical artists, a rare treat is in store for all who attend the affair. Reserved seat tickets now on sale at Rowley's and Armstrong's.

Cannot Return.

A telegram was received by Superintendent Homer J Wightman, of the North Plainfield public schools, stating that Miss Anna L. Holcomb, one of the corps of teachers, would be unable to continue her duties. Miss Holcomb was called to her home in Trenton a few days ago on account of the death of her sister.

SCHOOL BOARD TALKS OF VACCINATING ALL

Subject Under Discussion at Meeting Last Evening, But No Definite Action Taken.

WAS A SHORT SESSION.

ACTION DELAYED TO ASCERTAIN THE COURSE PURSUED IN OTHER CITIES.

While School Board Cannot Compell Children to be Vaccinated, it Can Refuse to Allow Them to Attend Until They Are.

The all absorbing topic of vaccination and the question as to whether or not it shall be made compulsory in the public schools occupied the greater part of the meeting of the Board of Education, last evening. It was one of the shortest sessions that has been held in a long time, less than a half hour sufficing to transact all business.

The discussion of obligatory vaccination followed a statement made by Superintendent Maxson that in the higher grades ninety per cent. of the pupils had been treated, in the middle grades about seventy and in the lower departments not more than fifty per cent. The medical inspectors in the past month, vaccinated 108 pupils but in no case was it done without the written consent of the parents. There were many who refused the board physicians' offer to do it and furthermore declared their children should not undergo the process. It was to bring about the vaccination of all that the matter was brought up.

Mr. Maxson declared the State board gave the subordinate boards power to refuse admittance to the schools of any applicant not vaccinated, which practically means that it is compulsory. This fact had been brought to his attention by President Fisk, of the local Board of Health. There was some talk of placing the matter in the Health Board's jurisdiction and allowing that body to proceed. A question arose as to whether compulsory vaccination was the rule in other large cities of the State. Until this can be definitely learned, final action will be deferred.

In the medical inspector's report it was stated that twenty-five pupils had been examined as usual and that one case of diphtheria had been detected in the Irving school. Prompt precautionary methods had been adopted and there is no danger of its spreading. It was stated that owing to the new and slower process of vaccination, the inspectors had been forced to secure the services of Drs. Rolland Tomlinson and Norman H. Probasco, in order to hasten the work. Each had spent six hours at the schools and the request was made that they be duly compensated, the amount being left to the discretion of the board. It was placed at $10 each.

The remainder of the evening was devoted mainly to routine matters. Superintendent Maxson's request that he be allowed to attend as usual the National Conference of Superintendents, at Chicago, at the expense of the board, was granted. The conference will be held next month and Mr. Maxson has always been in attendance since assuming charge of the local schools.

The tax collector's report showed a total received of $2,803.99 and the balance of the board's share of the State school tax amounting to $1,482.46. Custodian Arnold's report placed the receipts for the month at $30,011.70 and the disbursements $6,186.78, leaving a balance of $23,824.72. The meeting then adjourned to assemble at the call of the chair.

They are known as Jeanre and Renaud, and under this name have received complimentary notices in the New York Clipper and newspapers along the route.

Piece of Paper Did It.

Becoming frightened at a flying piece of paper, a horse belonging to Fred Endress ran away at the corner of Muhlenberg place and Spooner avenue yesterday afternoon. It turned into West Third street and continued to Plainfield avenue where it was captured by William Maller. There was no damage of any account.

AFTER MILK DEALERS.

Borough Health Authorities Decide to Join in the Campaign With the City Board.

Following the plan inaugurated by the city health authorities, the borough Board of Health will conduct a campaign against milk dealers against whom complaints for alleged violation of the health ordinance have been made.

This was decided upon at a meeting of the board held last evening. Communications had been received from citizens complaining of several milk dealers and this is the matter which the board will investigate.

The only other business of importance was the hearing given to Charles E. Dunham, of Bound Brook, who was fined sometime ago for violating an ordinance. The board unanimously agreed that the imposition of the penalty was just and refused to refund the fine.

BOROUGH SEWAGE COMMISSION SETTLES DOWN TO WORK.

Session Held Last Night—W. C. Smith Was Made Secretary—Plan of Action.

Work was the keynote of the meeting of the borough sewerage commission last evening. The session was held in the Council chamber and was somewhat prolonged, the members showing much interest in the subject entrusted to them for investigation.

B. A. Hegeman, Jr., the president of the commission, presided. Before the discussion Captain William C. Simth, who succeeded W. W. Howland as a member of the commission, was elected secretary.

A plan of action was agreed upon. The committee decided to visit the Plainfield disposal beds to observe the system in use here and also to gather such information as is possible concerning the practicable workings of the system in this city. Together with this it was decided to obtain all data relative to the system in other cities in this part of the country.

There is one vacancy on the commission. This was caused by the resignation of George P. Dupee. At the regular February meeting of the Council the vacancy will be filled by appointment, and then the commission will be able to get down to earnest work.

TWENTY-SIX BIDS.

Many Are Anxious to Carry the U. S. Mails to and From the North Avenue Station.

There were twenty-six bids received by Postmaster Bird from persons who wish to carry the U. S. mail between the postoffice and the railroad station. Of this number four are white and the rest colored men. The bids have been sent to Washington and Postmaster Bird expects to hear in a few days who the successful bidder is.

Owing to the fact that the postoffice is just outside the prescribed limit, it is complusory for the postal authorities to attend to having the mail taken back and forth between the two points. If the office was a little nearer the railroad station, the railroad company would have to carry the mail at its expense.

Press Ad Did It.

W. D. Thickstun, of Central avenue, lost a valuable fur glove on Saturday. He advertised his loss in The Daily Press and the glove was returned to the owner by Charles Berry, the hackman, who saw the advertisement.

Policeman Ill Again.

Patrolman George Lunger, who recently returned to duty after a week's absence from illness, was forced to take to his bed again today. His beat is being covered by Patrolman Higgins.

New Machinery.

The Watchung Silk Company has purchased the new machinery for the new mill now being built on Chatham street. A new boiler and engine will also be installed in the mill.

STATE CONVENTION TO BE HELD THIS WEEK

The Y. M. C. A. Workers of New Jersey Will Gather at Camden Thursday.

IT LASTS FOUR DAYS.

SOME VERY PROMINENT MEN WILL ADDRESS THE VARIOUS SESSIONS.

General Theme of the Convention Will Be "The Association's Present Opportunity"—Some of the Speakers.

The arrangements are completed for the State convention of the Young Men's Christian Associations of New Jersey. It will be the first biennial convention, and will be held in Camden, for four days, beginning Thursday.

An unusually strong list of speakers has been secured, and includes among others Rev. Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston, Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Hall, the distinguished New York divines; Rev. Dr. John Fullerton Patterson, of Orange; Robert E. Speer; I. E. Brown, State secretary of Illinois; Dr. Wilbert W. White, president Bible Teachers' College, New York; Walter C. Douglas, general secretary of Philadelphia Y. M. C. A.; Edwin F. See, general secretary of Brooklyn association; Augustus Nash, special religious work secretary of Cleveland Y. M. C. A.; International Secretaries C. C. Michener and W. B. Millar, of New York; H. O. Williams, Richmond, Va.; F. W. Ober, editor of Association Men. Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of Newark, one of the most eloquent speakers to young men in the United States, will be the first speaker on the programme. Capt. J. B. Coghlan, of the U. S. Navy, who was with Admiral George Dewey at Manila, will be present and deliver an address, and other notables are expected.

The music of the convention will be in charge of George C. Stebbins, who has for many years led the music at the Northfield conferences.

The general theme of the convention will be "The Association's Present Opportunity," divided as follows:

In the extension of religious work, in the cities, in the small towns, in boys work, in religious meetings, in personal work, in army and navy, in extension of Bible study, in meeting spiritual needs of young men, in helping to train men for individual effort, in development of Bible class teachers.

The parlor conferences will consider boys' work, college work, educational work, physical work, railroad work, and work in small towns. A unique conference will be that of the physical directors, who will give practical demonstrations of new gymnasium work, on the floor of the Camden association gymnasium. Several entirely new features will be introduced.

A special conference will also be arranged for presidents and directors of associations and other business men. Saturday evening, Rev. Dr. Thomas C. Hall, of Union Theological Seminary, the brilliant professor and preacher, son of the noted Dr. John Hall, will address the convention upon the subject "The Association's Present Opportunity Among Students."

The great meeting for men only, Sunday, will be held in the Camden Opera House, and will be addressed by C. C. Michener, who, possibly excepting Fred B. Smith, is one of the most effective speakers to men in the United States. A special feature will be a mass meeting for colored men, also to be held Sunday afternoon, and addressed by W. A. Hunton, the eloquent colored secretary of the international committee.

Arrangements have already been made for supplying all the pulpits of the Camden churches with leading delegates for addresses, both morning and evening, Sunday.

Great interest is being manifested in the convention throughout the entire State, and the indications are that it will be the largest in attendance ever held. Not in the entire history of the New Jersey State committee has there been gathered together in one convention, such an array of talented speakers.

Camden is preparing to give the delegates a splendid reception, the best homes will be thrown open for entertainment. Mayor Joseph E. Nowrey will extend a warm welcome to her convention guests, on behalf of the city of Camden.

NEW OFFICES FOR THE CITY

Common Council Decided to Lease New Quarters in the Smalley Building.

INCREASE IN SALARIES.

More Money Voted to Street Commissioner, City Treasurer, Chiefs of Fire and Police Departments — Assessors Wanted More Too—Other Business.

There were a number of important matters that engaged the attention of the Common Council at its regular February meeting last evening, among which was the changing of the city offices from their present location to the Smalley building on North avenue. It was unanimously decided to move after the lease submitted by Smalley brothers was read.

The lease provides for the vacant store on the first floor, the room and small adjoining rooms on the top floor for the Council chamber and another room for the Mayor's office. The rooms are to be properly furnished and heated and a fire-proof vault is to be built for the use of the city. The yearly rental is to be $1,100 and the Council will have the privilege of renewing the lease for a term of nine more years after the first year. All work in preparing the new offices shall be to the satisfaction of Building Inspector Doane.

Another important matter was that of increasing the salaries of Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett from $1,800 to $2,200, that of City Treasurer W. F. Arnold from $700 to $900, that of Chief Doane from $700 to $800, and that of Chief of Police Kiely from $90 to $100 per month. This was done in accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Mellick, and was acted upon after a lengthy recess.

In connection with the increase of salaries, the Board of Assessors made a request for an increase in pay. The assessors believe that they should have more money and quoted Elizabeth which has twelve assessors whose aggregate salary amounts to $8,500 per year. They did not stipulate any desired amount. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Several communciations were received from the Board of Health, relative to the work of that department, including its thirteenth annual report. The board estimated that during the coming year $3,500 would be needed for general health purposes and an extra $3,000 to meet the expenses in connection with the outbreak of small-pox and other contagious disease. It was stated that at a meeting of the board in January it was decided by resolution that $3,000 would be needed as an emergency fund. Later in the evening Mr. Mellick offered a resolution appropriating $3,000 to the use of the board for the purposes already mentioned.

The report of the board showed that during the past year there were 255 deaths, an average of 15 15-16 per thousand based on a population of 16,000. There were 128 marriages and 316 births. Of the latter 181 were males and 135 females, this being at the rate of 19.8 per thousand. Health Inspector Addis made a total number of 1,816 visits, of which 490 were to places where there were contagious diseases.

There are seventy-one purveyors of milk in the city, forty wholesale dealers, nine wholesale and retail dealers, fifteen retail dealers and twenty-two who purchase milk from others. There are in all forty-six dealers. The report speaks in high terms of Health Officer Thurlow, who has been devoting much time to looking after the dairies in the city and vicinity. The report gives a history of the recent small-pox which visited the city, its treatment and provisions made for the care of such cases and the free vaccination conducted under the auspices of the board.

A lengthy communication was received regarding the settlement of taxes on a piece of property on East Front street owned by J. K. VanNest. The difficulty dates back to the time that James Martin was collector. It seem that Mrs. Caroline F. Harrison held a mortgage on the property, and that the taxes amounting to $556.50 was supposed to have been paid on the property in question. Instead, it is claimed by the petitioner that the amount liquidated the tax on a piece

REDUCTIONS IN RATES FOR LOCAL TELEPHONES

New York and New Jersey Telephone Company Offers Greater Inducements.

TO GET NEW CONTRACTS.

UNLIMITED SERVICE FOR RESIDENCE 'PHONES AT OLD LIMITED RATES.

Reduction in Cost of Extra Messages for Limited Business Subscribers — Other Reductions and Changes are Planned.

In an effort to increase as well as improve the service the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has a substantial and alluring proposition which it proposes to offer to the people of Plainfield. This is done in accordance with a policy recently inaugurated by the company. Already the plan has been given a trial elsewhere and has met with unquestionable success.

The plan in brief is to offer non-subscribers an inducement in the nature of a contract still more reasonable than that now in force in this city. Agents of the concern will be sent from the headquarters at Newark, and may be consulted in regard to the matter at the central office in this city at any time between Thursday, February 6 and Saturday, February 15 inclusive. Just what rates will be offered can not be learned at this time for the company's representative here refuses to divulge any particulars. He says that it is simply a matter between the company and the customers.

This much is known, however, that the contracts will be uniform in every respect following the general policy of the concern. The interests of the present subscribers will not suffer for they will share in the beneficial results. A new contract will be offered to the present subscribers and it will conform in every particular to the one offered the prospective patron. This the old subscriber may decline if he should see fit and the service will be continued so far as he is concerned at the old rate.

There will be a change in the residence service. The old rate will not be changed but the subscriber will be given unlimited service instead of the present limited service. All extra calls in the local limited business service will be reduced, the new rate being decidedly lower than the present one.

This offer will extend to all classes, including the direct, limited and unlimited, and the party wire. H. G. Kerr, formerly of the local office, will come here Thursday for the purpose of explaining the offer to anyone interested. Contracts may be signed at the Plainfield office whenever desired.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willis Called Away by Illness of a Relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Willis, of Johnston's drive, were called to Union Course, L. I., last week, by the serious illness of their son-in-law, Charles Dietz, a prominent real estate and insurance broker at that place. He has suddenly became insane.

Three years ago, when a violent storm visited Long Island, Mr. Dietz sustained a fracture of the skull. He was in a house at the time and a beam falling struck him on the head. It is believed that his present trouble is due to that accident.

Lately his condition has been much worse and the police have been taking care of him. He has since been removed to an institution at Flushing, where an operation will be performed in the hope of effecting a cure. Mr. Dietz has visited Plainfield frequently and he has many friends here.

ENDEAVOR DAY AT TRINITY

ANNIVERSARY OF ORIGINAL SOCIETY OBSERVED LAST EVENING.

After a Few Short Talks the Meeting Was Thrown Open to All Present.

In commemoration of the twenty-first anniversary of the general organization, the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church held a meeting, last evening, which was largely attended despite the chilly weather.

Edgar F. Sheppard was in charge of the meeting. After he had offered an opening prayer, he made an informal address on the topic "How Has the Christian Endeavor Society Helped Me in My Christian Life?" During the course of his remarks he enumerated the many ways in which membership and activity in the organization serves to improve the spiritual welfare.

A letter from the pastor, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, who was unable to be present, was read by the leader of the meeting. The subject of his communication was "How Has the Christian Endeavor Society Helped the Church?" and it pointed out the various ways in which the organization proves beneficial to the work of the church by its active co-operation. "How Has the Christian Endeavor Society Helped the Sunday-school?" formed the basis of a talk given by F. E. Smith. The speaker is the assistant superintendent of the Sunday-school and his words were from personal observation and consequently especially valuable.

After the formal addresses were concluded the meeting was thrown open for general discussion and quite a number of the members grasped the opportunity to tell how much they have been helped by the good influence of the society. During the evening special music was a feature which served to make the meeting all the more enjoyable. The singing was hearty and the instrumental music accompanying it was particularly good. The orchestra consisted of Mrs. G. W. Saums, violin; Miss Lillian A. Force, piano; and Elmer P. Wheeler, flute.

IN DEMAND.

Columbia University Musical Clubs Have Had Many Offers.

In the programme to be presented by the Columbia University Glee and Mandolin Clubs at the Casino, Thursday night, songs and melodies of the genuine "Columbia" brand, familiar to all students of the celebrated college, will be a pleasing feature. Many other popular selections are also promised. It is claimed that the organizations are superior to those which have been heard in previous years, and their first appearance in this city will undoubtedly attract a large and critical audience of all classes. In New York city, the services of the several clubs are in great demand and last week offer was made them for appearance in the regular bill at Keith's Theatre.

Prominent Part in Convention.

Frederic H. Andrews, who is chairman of the State committee of the Y. M. C. A., and William D. Murray, who is a member of the same committee, will take a prominent part in the parlor conference in connection with the coming State convention of the Y. M. C. A. at Camden.

MANY ATTENDED OPENING OF RED MEN'S FAIR

Auspicious Opening of the Fair at Saengerbund Hall Last Evening.

DANCING A FEATURE.

ALL THE ENTERTAINERS SCHEDULED DID NOT APPEAR.

But the Crowd Had a Good Time and Found the Various Booths Attractive Places—Those in Charge of Affair.

The opening of the Red Men's fair, in Saengerbund Hall, last evening, was attended by remarkable success, for the size of the crowd was something unparalleled so far as affairs of this nature are concerned and the patronage was of the kind that brings gladness to the hearts of those responsible for such money making schemes.

There was no special entertainment, except dancing, and this feature was thoroughly enjoyed by the throngs which filled the hall. The Imperial orchestra furnished the music. The Edgars, a troupe of children who were booked for some specialties, did not arrive, and consequently there was little work done on the stage. However, the Black Diamond quartette appeared and gave a short informal entertainment consisting of songs and dances.

As usual the contests formed a leading attraction. A wheel, diamond ring and a doll were the chief articles offered in the chance games, and those having the books did some successful work in the crowd. Together with these there are a number of minor prizes offered, and some of these will be chanced off each evening during the week. Mention should be made of the decorations, which were quite elaborate in their nature.

Scattered along one side of the hall were a number of attractively adorned booths, where candy, ice cream, fancy articles, household goods, and other things were placed on sale. A corps of attendants was at each stand.

The borough fire department had detailed two of its members to be on ground to render any service in case of emergency, should they be required. No occasion arose for them to act. The men present last evening were Firemen Bert Bodine and Chas. Stahl.

The officers of the committee in charge consists of William Newcorn, chairman, Charles Holstein, secretary, and Francis J. Blatz, treasurer.

Mrs. William A. Westphal was in charge of the fancy table, while Mrs. Samuel Montrose superintended the affairs at the candy table. Mrs. William Claassen supervised the work at the ice cream booth. Mrs. Frederick Westphal had charge of the light lunch counters and William A. Westphal gave directions to the staff of assistants at the regular refreshment stand. The contests were under the control of Robert Humphries. Henry Haurand conducted affairs at the bowling alleys. The ticket office was managed by Harry Coddington.

The general assistants included the Misses Burke, Ella Sebring, Daisy Snyder and Mamie Higgins and Mrs. Henry Dreier, Mrs. Wakeman, Mrs. Angleman and Mrs. Charles Holstein. Charles Holstein acted as floor manager.

You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The compensation of public school teachers in New Jersey is a matter that the various boards of education must give their attention to sooner or later, and the sooner the better.

We frequently hear of a teacher leaving the State because he or she has been offered a higher salary elsewhere, and this will continue so long as the pay of teachers is kept down to the low figure that prevails here.

The final result will be that the standard of the public schools in New Jersey will fall to the point of second class, remarks the State Gazette, because first-class teachers will not work for the salaries offered them when higher pay is obtainable in other parts of the country.

Of all public institutions the schools are the most important and money should not be appropriated for their support grudgingly. The responsibilities of the teachers are great and their duties trying. If they feel they are underpaid they will not enter into their work with the enthusiasm and zeal that is absolutely necessary to make it successful.

If any other State in the Union can afford to pay its public school teachers liberally, New Jersey can surely do so. There is no reason why, through a policy of false economy, the public schools of New Jersey should be used for the purpose of equipping teachers for work in other sections of the country.—Morris County Chronicle.

The census report giving the manufacturing statistics for the United States, just made public, shows the general prosperity that has prevailed during the ten years from 1890 to 1900 in the industries of the country. It is interesting to compare these statistics of the nation at large with those for New Jersey, for they indicate that this State has prospered far beyond the average.

The increase in the number of manufacturing establishments in the United States during the ten years was forty-four per cent., while in New Jersey it was sixty-eight per cent. There was a growth in the capital invested in manufacturing in the country of fifty-one per cent., as against nearly 101 per cent. in this State. The wage earners increased in New Jersey 101 per cent., while the increase in the Nation was but twenty-five per cent. New Jersey showed an increase of thirty-three per cent. on the total wages paid, as against twenty-three per cent. in the United States. In miscellaneous expenses the country's increase was sixty-three per cent., while in this State it was 131 per cent. The cost of materials used in all the States increased forty-two per cent., while the increase in New Jersey was ninety-one per cent. The total value of products in the United States showed a growth of thirty-nine per cent. as against seventy-three per cent. for New Jersey.

These figures are more than satisfactory to the people of this Commonwealth. "Made in New Jersey" should be a trademark much in evidence on manufactured goods.—Newark News.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Plenty of rubbers, or if you do not care to wear rubbers, plenty of watertight leather shoes can be had in large assortment at John H. Doane's store on West Front street.

Gavett, the West Front street crockery dealer, is showing a fine electric gas lighter and also electric torches. They save matches and time and eliminate the danger of fires from sparks. Drop in and see them work.

One will often fail to find in a large store what they are looking for. For this reason Putnam & DeGraw's store is so popular. Their stock of dry goods and notions is so complete that you cannot miss getting what you want.

This is the season of the year when good substantial shoes are a necessity. If you stop at the store around the corner, A. Willett & Son can give you prefect fit and satisfaction as to price. They have a large stock of the best shoes and slippers.

A new shop with an old name, and a reliable one at that. J. R. Blair has opened his men's furnishing emporium in the Marsh building, Park avenue and Second street. The stock is complete and the prices are just right. Call and see.

The centre of attraction in the drug business is said to be at L. W. Randolph's on West Front street. Everything in the drug line, absolutely pure, is to be found there. Then there is a full line of toilet articles, also Huyler's confections.

Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, are prepared to fill any order in the grocery line. Their stock is one of the most complete in the city and as for prices, no one need stay away on this account. They have a first-class sea food and meat market, also, where everything in that line can be procured.

"Be sure you're right, then go ahead," each time you wish fresh cake or bread. Warnock, the Front street baker man, makes these far better than others can. Pies, he sells, of the highest grade, just like the kind that mother made. 'Phone your orders, or call at the store, and they'll be delivered at your door.

There's no need of venturing out-of-doors these unpleasant days. Just send your marketing order to W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, corner of Duer street and Lincoln place. A 'phone message is all that's necessary and you'll be supplied with all the vegetables in season as well as groceries and provisions in general.

Smalley Brothers, the North avenue butchers, have purchased the retail meat business formerly owned by John Marsh, of Scotch Plains. The move is in keeping with the spirit of the firm, expansion. The only way they have brought about this policy of expansion has been by honorable methods in trade. Every cut of meat is warranted to be as represented, and that is the best.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A Plainfield woman stopped in front of the entrance to the Babcock building the other day and requested a stranger to hold her umbrella, while she went up to one of the offices Now he didn't disappear with that umbrella, as one would suppose. Although it was his supper time, he stood there with it awaiting the return of the owner. An hour elapsed and she finally reappeared. "Thank you," said she, as she sauntered away holding the umbrella. The man said nothing, but he thought something.

A Plainfielder with an alleged epicurean taste protested to his wife that a certain kind of chow chow, which she had prepared, was not as palatable as he desired it. For weeks he wouldn't touch it. One evening he was invited to a dinner party and the wife thought it would be a good opportunity to test his qualifications as a judge of dishes. She arranged to have some of the same chow chow on the table. He ate it unsparingly with an evident relish. When he had devoured the entire dish, he turned to his wife and remarked that it was the best he had ever tasted and expressed the wish that she would get the receipt. He was let in on the joke and since then has never passed his opinion on dishes.

Miss Mayme Lannon, of West Front street, entertained friends from out of town Sunday.

CUBAN POSTAL FRAUDS.

HAVANA, Feb. 4.—At the hearing yesterday of the Cuban postal fraud cases Chief Clerk Bristow testified at length with regard to the method of conducting the business of the Cuban postal department. Referring to the difference between the two reports sent to General John R. Brooke, formerly military governor of Cuba, and to the postmaster general, Bristow said that he received data from the heads of departments and compiled the reports therefrom, that these reports were submitted to Estes G. Rathbone for his inspection and that the two reports were compiled from the same sources of information. Many of the duplicate checks on which, the government contends, money was fraudulently obtained were signed by Bristow in the absence of Rathbone.

Bristow's cross examination by counsel for Rathbone was largely in reference to this matter of check signing. Bristow said he had only general instructions about signing checks and that the checks were presented by C. F. W. Neely. He said he had no suspicion that anything was wrong and that he signed five checks for miscellaneous accounts, abiding by the certification of Neely that these were correct, and that in case of doubt he would have asked for vouchers. Bristow said he signed one duplicate check for $1,200 and that in Rathbone's absence the checks were indorsed by himself for Rathbone.

During his cross examination Bristow further explained that the checks were not taken to the bank by himself or by Rathbone and that Rathbone did not send anybody to the bank with them. He said the custom was to send the checks back to Neely's department.

FUNSTON UNDER THE KNIFE.

Hero of the Philippines Submits to a Second Operation.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 4.—A surgical operation was performed yesterday upon General Frederick Funston at a hospital. After General Funston arrived here from the west last week and had sought a consultation with his physician it was stated that another operation would not be necessary.

Within a day or so, however, the wound of the original operation for appendicitis had not healed, as the physicians believed it should, and the second operation was decided upon. It was stated at the hospital that the general had undergone the ordeal in a satisfactory manner, and there was every reason to believe the result would be all that was desired.

It would be necessary, however, for the patient to remain at the hospital for probably two weeks.

Schoolboy's Brave Act.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Feb. 4.—With heroic courage William Hickie, twelve years old, tried to save a young comrade from death in a schoolyard here, but failed, and his own leg was broken in the accident. A heavy shutter torn from the roof of the school building in its fall hung for a moment on a cornice. Seeing Harold Whalen, seven years old, standing directly under the spot, Hickie seized the smaller boy and tried to drag him away. In an instant the shutter, weighing 150 pounds, came down, striking Whalen upon the head, crushing his skull and breaking his arm and legs so that he died in a short time.

Suicide at Ann Arbor.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 4.—Miss Agnes Inglis, a sophomore student in the medical department of the University of Michigan, committed suicide here yesterday afternoon. She was a daughter of Dr. David Inglis, a prominent physician of Detroit. The young woman was an unusually bright and promising student and had already made a name for herself among her professors. She was prominent in athletics, being coach of the freshman basketball team and taking great interest in gymnasium work. No motive for the deed has been discovered.

Escaped From Workhouse.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—James Golden, Abraham Jacobs, Selden J. Williams and James French, "long term men," escaped from the District workhouse yesterday. After sawing one of the bars from the hall window on the second landing, the men descended to the snow covered ground by means of a rope made of sheets. The guards were unable to track them on account of the frozen condition of the snow.

A Cannon For Von Waldersee.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Emperor William has presented Count von Waldersee, formerly commander in chief of the allied forces in China, with a bronze cannon captured in that country and which was cast under the supervision of Jesuit missionaries in 1750. When sending this gift, Emperor William wrote to Count von Waldersee, "In cordial recognition of your services performed in China."

Indiana Town Burned.

MENTONE, Ind., Feb. 4.—Fire has wiped out half the business portion of the town, causing a loss of $50,000, on which there was but little insurance. A whole block of stores and two residences were destroyed. The town has only a hand fire engine, and this was out of order.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

The Austrian village of Bleiberg was partially destroyed by an avalanche.

Twelve English fishermen were reported lost in a snowstorm off Iceland.

FOUR ACRES OF RUINS

Fire In Waterbury, Conn., Raged For Fifteen Hours.

SECOND BLAZE LAID TO AN INCENDIARY

Exact Amount of the City's Loss Yet Unobtainable, but Is Variously Estimated at From Three to Four Millions.

WATERBURY, Conn., Feb. 4.—A blackened and smoldering mass of ruins marks the main business section of the city; but, ghastly as the appearance is and bitter as the disappointment of business men and numerous families, there is one fact blacker than all the others. This is the very strong suspicion that the fire that completely destroyed the Scovill House, burning up thousands upon thousands of dollars' worth of furniture, appointments and personal effects and imperiling many lives, was the work of a fire fiend.

The fire came so closely on the heels of the big conflagration that the thousands of spectators who witnessed it were thrown into a more complete panic than the original conflagration caused.

The flames had only begun to die out down along Bank, Grand and South Main streets at 4 o'clock in the morning when long tongues of flames leaped as by magic into the sky, and people groaned with apprehension that the city was doomed after all.

For fifteen hours the heart of this city was a sea of flame, and when the conflagration died away with the gale it was estimated that between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000 damage had been done. With the wind roaring at sixty miles an hour over the city all of the fire departments of the state were powerless to cope with the destroying wall of fire.

All of the buildings in the business triangle bounded on the north by Exchange place, on the west by Bank street, on the south by Grand street and on the east by South Main street, embracing four acres of the center of the city, are in ruins.

The fire cut through the heart of the city, and the appearance of the gaping opening from Leavenworth to Brook streets was typical of the deep wound sustained by the commercial life and importance of the city.

A tangled network of wires on Bank and South Main streets greatly hindered the work of extinguishing the last flames and clearing away the wreckage.

A revised list of losses and insurance is very difficult to obtain at this time. Few know just what the loss was on their buildings and stock. It is believed that when the truth is known the figures already printed will not be far from the correct estimate.

The remarkable feature of the fire was undoubtedly the absence, so far as known, of loss of life. Two men who were asleep in the Scovill House, Charles Y. Kent of the Holmes, Booth & Hayden company and member of the board of education and the second cook, a German, were reported missing, but both have been located.

The rebuilding of ruined structures is only a question of time. Temporary quarters have been secured by all the firms, and, though very small so far as actual space goes, the merchants who have lost so heavily have refused to yield to defeat and will soon be in commodious headquarters. Many have already telegraphed for new stock and will resume business immediately.

The American Publishing company is among the heaviest losers, the building being entirely ruined, but the paper was issued in an abbreviated form last night. The walls of the mechanical department are still standing, and it is said that it will be roofed in immediately. The press and machinery are believed to be not seriously damaged, though buried under water and debris. The plans of the company have not been formulated as to the future.

The Storms Abroad.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—The reports of damage caused by the wind and snow storms on the continent and in Great Britain continue to be received. Carriage and street car traffic in Madrid has been stopped, and railroad trains are delayed. Some of the towns in northern Spain are isolated, and the fruit trees have been destroyed. In Switzerland many villages are cut off from communication. Telegraphic communication with Italy is interrupted. Several more wrecks off the British and French coasts are reported, and the crews of some of these vessels have been lost. Numerous ships are overdue. There are heavy snows in the northern part of Great Britain.

Engineer and Fireman Killed.

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 4.—Two dead and three badly injured is the result of a train going through a trestle on the Gauley railroad near Berry's siding. The dead are A. O. Nuth of Weston, engineer, and Goodlow Ward of Weston, fireman. The engine and several cars of the freight train crashed through the trestle to the ground, many feet below. A special train was dispatched to the scene of the wreck from Weston with railroad surgeons.

The Negotiations Completed.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—"Although the agreement with the brigands has been completed," wires the Constantinople correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, "they declare it is impossible to take the ransom money safely away at the present moment. The American delegates are therefore returning here to make a new arrangement."

WARFARE OF WORDS

Senate Indulges In Another Spirited Debate.

BEVERIDGE AND TILLMAN CLASH.

Carmack of Tennessee Makes His Maiden Speech—Philippine Tariff Bill and Judicial Salary Raising Under Discussion.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—Another spirited debate, with the Philippine tariff bill as the text, was precipitated in the senate yesterday as the result of some statements made by Mr. Carmack (Dem., Tenn.) in the course of an extended speech on the general Philippine question. It was the Tennessee senator's first speech in the senate, and he was given notably good attention on both sides of the chamber. He spoke without manuscript, with earnestness, force and eloquence.

At the conclusion of his address, which had been listened to by many of his former colleagues in the house of representatives, Mr. Beveridge (Ind.) challenged some of his statements. The debate which ensued was very lively for a few minutes, taking on a political phase which proved particularly interesting to the auditors, who crowded the floor as well as the galleries. Mr. Beveridge and Mr. Tillman (S. C.) became involved in a heated colloquy in which the exchanges were as hot as both senators well could make them.

Prior to the taking up of the Philippine bill the measure providing for an increase in the salaries of United States judges was under discussion for an hour.

The house devoted the day to general debate upon the oleomargarine bill. The opponents of the measure attempted to filibuster against it at the opening of the session, but were beaten by more than a two-thirds vote.

Both majority and minority reports were filed on the war revenue repeal bill. The majority report says the probability of early withdrawal of troops from Cuba and the reduction of the force in the Philippines will make further reductions possible and also reviews the condition of the treasury.

The minority report approves the proposed reductions, but asserts they should have been made long ago. It also advocates a general revision of tariff taxation with the retention of taxes on accumulated wealth. There is a general denunciation of the Dingley law as the mother of trusts, and the report says that it enables manufacturers to charge far greater prices to home consumers than are received abroad for the same goods, which is characterized as "plain robbery."

Republicans Caucus.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The Republican members of the house of representatives held a caucus in the hall of the house last night to consider a line of policy to be adopted concerning the alleged disfranchisement of voters in the south. The caucus lasted from 8 o'clock until shortly after 11, when it was determined to adjourn for one week to consider more fully the different propositions brought forward.

Marines on Culebra Island.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 4.—Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson, commander in chief of the north Atlantic station, whose squadron left Culebra island Sunday, has left a company of marines in permanent camp on Culebra island under command of Major Henry C. Haines. The marines are housed and have supplies for one year. It is reported they intend to officiate at the transfer of the Danish West Indies to the United States. The camp on Culebra has been named Camp Hunt in honor of the governor of Porto Rico.

Guden Investigation On.

ALBANY, Feb. 4.—Governor Odell at 10 o'clock today began the investigation of the charges preferred against Sheriff Charles Guden of Kings county. Walter B. Atterbury, Jacob Worth and a large number of politicians prominent in the borough of Brooklyn have been subpœnaed to give testimony. The governor is assisted by Attorney General Davies in the conduct of the case.

Toppan Trial In April.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—The trial of Miss Jane Toppan, accused of murder through peculiar deaths of three persons whom she had nursed in a Cataumet family and who has been in Barnstable jail for many weeks, will take place in April. Attorney General Parker announces that the state will be ready to proceed at that time.

Spinsters Easily Frightened.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Although provided with firearms to defend their property, Lydia Sears, Dora Green and Martha Townley, three spinsters of Spoorsville, allowed a burglar arrayed in ghostly apparel to steal nearly everything of value during the night, while they fled in terror from the house.

Navy May Adopt Oil.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—The navy department is about to experiment with Texas oil. An estimate amounting to $20,000 is to be sent to congress, and if it is appropriated a supply of oil will be obtained and tested to ascertain whether or not it can be used in the place of coal as fuel for the navy.

Mme. Nordica's Illness.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Mme. Lillian Nordica is confined to her room at the Palace hotel with an attack of nervousness. Dr. James W. Ward, who is in attendance, says that the attack is not serious. It is a result of the singer's recent experience in a railroad wreck.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ABROAD.

German Lawmakers Debate the American Cult.

BERLIN, Feb. 4.—Christian Science was debated in the reichstag yesterday.

While considering a resolution asking the government to place insane asylums under imperial control Dr. Heinrich Mueller (Radical association) said he thought that the government should take action against "the Mrs. Eddy swindle in Flottwell street, Berlin," alluding to the establishment of a certain Fraulein Schoen, where Dr. Hermann Mueller (Radical association) said that prayer healing was performed at 2 marks an hour and that Fraulein Schoen had followers in the higher circles of Berlin society.

Herr Stoecker (Conservative), formerly court preacher, said that Christian Science was a product of bad philosophy and worse theology imported from the United States and that it should be made illegal in Germany, as had been done in America. Herr Stoecker suggested that the reichstag appoint a commission to investigate occult phenomena.

Count von Posadowsky-Wehner, imperial secretary of state for the interior, referring to this matter later said:

"Christian Science and spiritualism have the same psychological source, which I regard as quite dangerous. There are certain phenomena that impress even the higher circles of society, the psychological causes of which can hardly be fathomed. These come and go, and even the coolheaded and thoughtful observers and believers therein cannot be combated by force. I earnestly warn against using the power of the state against such things."

The subject of Christian Science was then dropped.

Children Saved by Fire Drill.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 4.—But for the prompt and heroic action of the teachers of the Nebraska avenue school yesterday there would certainly have been a heavy loss of life among the pupils. A short time prior to the time to begin the morning session of school fire broke out in one of the schoolrooms, and within a few moments the building was filled with smoke. The children were at first horror stricken, but the principal gave the fire signals, and the children, 200 in number, at once fell into line and marched from the burning building in perfect order. The children have been taking fire drills for several years. The fire started from an overheated furnace, and the loss was about $10,000.

A Temperance Campaign.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—At a mass meeting held in Exeter hall last night General Booth, the leader of the Salvation Army, inaugurated a special temperance campaign as a feature of the work of the Salvation Army during the present year. General Booth said he relied confidently upon the co-operation of saloon keepers in this work through their indicating the habitual drunkards, insomuch as the supplying of habitual drunkards with liquor endangered the publican's license, and that he intended to compile a drunkards' directory in each town and follow the habitual drunkards home and reform them there.

Asphalt Decision Affirmed.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 4.—The Warner-Quinlan Asphalt company of this city has received a cablegram from its representatives in Caracas, Venezuela, to the effect that the superior court of Carupano has decided that the right to the possession of Lake Felicidad lies in the Warner-Quinlan company pending the decision as to the matter of title, which is now on trial in the federal court of Caracas. This decision is confirmatory of that of the lower court of Carupano, which awarded possession to the Warner-Quinlan company and from which the New York and Bermudez company appealed.

Smallpox Patient Captured.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 4.—After a chase of several days through the Adirondacks the authorities of the state health department have captured a man afflicted with smallpox at Norwood, St. Lawrence county. His name is Donald Curran, and until Monday last he was located at Nehasane.

Hat Factory Burned.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 4.—Fischman's hat factory was destroyed by fire last night, and the destruction of a large part of the city was prevented by hard work on the part of the firemen. An employee of the factory, whose name has not been ascertained, was suffocated while carrying out goods.

MILLIONAIRE RICE'S DEATH.

An Expert Testifies at Patrick Trial That Poison Was Found.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The trial of Albert T. Patrick for the murder of William M. Rice, the millionaire, yesterday reached the stage where the exact cause of his death was called in question before the court. The testimony opened up the inquiry. Was Mr. Rice chloroformed to death, as the prosecution claims, or did he die of heart disease, as the defense maintains? These two questions were what the opposing counsel contended over before Recorder Goff and the jury.

The state placed on the stand Professors Rudolph A. Witthaus and Henry P. Loomis, chemical and pathological experts, and E. F. Doulin, a former coroner's physician, to prove the chloroform theory. Dr. Doulin testified that when he performed the autopsy on Mr. Rice's body he found all of his organs normal, except that there was a congestion of the lungs extensive with these organs. Professor Witthaus testified similarly and further said that upon making a chemical analysis of Mr. Rice's organs he found more than three-quarters of a grain of mercury in them and that undoubtedly there had been a much larger quantity in the body before death. Professor Loomis gave similar testimony.

The efforts of the defense were centered on an effort to show that this congestion might result from heart or kidney disease and that the presence of mercury might have resulted from embalming fluid.

THE MEXICAN MINE HORROR.

Eighty-four Dead Bodies Recovered. A Few Rescued Alive.

EAGLE PASS, Tex., Feb. 4.—Eighty-four bodies and sixteen men barely alive, some of them horribly mangled, have been taken from the Hondo mines. The foul odor from the mines caused the search for the bodies to be temporarily discontinued, but disinfectants arrived yesterday afternoon, and the work will be resumed.

The shaft had 118 men enrolled, and eighteen are still missing. Twenty-five head of dead mules have been taken from the shaft.

The damage to property is very great. The company has obtained all the physicians and nurses that can be secured from all points and is doing everything possible to save any of the miners who may be still alive. The scene at the opening of the mine was horrible. Wives, mothers and children of the dead and mangled men who perished in the explosion were screaming and crying, and they refused to leave the scene.

Of those who are known to have gone into the mine there are yet about forty to be accounted for. These are not likely to be living, for, if not killed outright, the deadly carbonic oxide following the explosion unquestionably will overpower the remaining men.

Chicago Sportsman's Show.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—The opening of the second annual sportsmen's show of the International Forest, Fish and Game association at the Coliseum last night took the aspect of a society event. Nearly 10,000 people were in attendance. The great building has the appearance of an immense forest, with a large artificial lake, duck marshes and ponds and animal parks. One of the features is a sylvan stage, upon which fifty Ojibway Indians and an orchestra of thirty pieces presented the dramatization of Longfellow's "Hiawatha." The exposition, it is claimed, contains the largest collection of living game from American and Canadian forests and streams—animals, birds and fish—ever shown in this country.

Hammer Throwing Record Broken.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The annual midwinter indoor carnival of athletic sports which was held by the Knickerbocker Athletic club in Madison Square Garden last night attracted the largest gathering of spectators which ever assembled there. John Flanagan of the Greater New York Irish Athletic association made a new world's record by throwing the fifty-six pound weight from a stand a distance of 28 feet 5 inches, which beats the best previous record of James S. Mitchell by thirteen inches. Columbia university runners carried off the two mile relay race honors.

Fatal Train Wreck.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 4.—Through a misreading or misunderstanding of orders a fast passenger train and a through freight train collided head on at Limerick, twenty miles from this city, on the Seaboard Air line. The freight train was laden with rock for jetty work and smashed the passenger badly. Both engineers and firemen jumped and escaped with injuries not necessarily fatal. Mail Clerk J. A. Rice of Jacksonville, Fla., was crushed so that he died in an hour. The wreck caught fire, but it was extinguished. No passengers were seriously hurt.

Schley Leaves Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 4.—Yesterday marked the close of Admiral Schley's visit in this city, and he left for Chattanooga in the private car of President Thomas of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis early this morning. Citizens of Nashville, public and private, vied with each other in giving honor to him and his gracious wife. Demands on their time ceased only at a late hour when the reception in their honor at the University club came to an end.

Former Secretary Gage In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Former Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage has arrived in this city. It is understood on what is believed to be good authority that Mr. Gage has not yet made a definite arrangement for the future.

ATLANTIC IN A FURY

Coast Strewn With Wrecks From Cape May to Halifax.

THE STORM REACHES FAR INLAND.

Besides the Heavy Loss to Shipping Business Is Paralyzed and Railways Blockaded in Many States by Deep Snow.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The wind storm which began Sunday afternoon and which reached a velocity of fifty miles along the southern New Jersey coast and in the vicinity of the Delaware Breakwater has diminished.

Reports from the south Jersey coast and Delaware river points indicate that vessels that were exposed to the gale weathered the storm fairly well. Two vessels are ashore on Brigantine shoal, a short distance north of Atlantic City, N. J., and two steamers are reported aground in Delaware bay about fifty miles below Philadelphia. The British steamer Claverdale, from Asiatic ports for New York, which grounded on Brigantine shoal, is still fast. The wind and sea are unfavorable, and during the last twenty-four hours she has been swung around by the elements until she now lies broadside on, deep in the sand. Wrecking tugs are with her.

The schooner Edith I. Allen, which went ashore during the night on the same shoal within a short distance of the Claverdale, is also fast in the sand.

A dispatch from Halifax, N. S., says that the storm was the wildest in Nova Scotia for years and that shipping has suffered severely. It is roughly estimated that the damage to sailing vessels alone will reach $50,000.

SHIPPING DAMAGED.

Vessels Driven Ashore by Gale on New England Coast.

BOSTON, Feb. 4.—The gale has caused much damage to shipping along the New England coast. At Edgartown, in Martha's Vineyard, the schooner Julia A. Berkele, Captain Miller, coal laden, from Perth Amboy for Nantucket, went ashore on Chappaquiduck.

At Vineyard Haven the British schooner Abbie Verner, from Musquash, N. B., for Newark, dragged her anchors and went ashore.

The schooner Annie E. Webb, from Fisher's island for Providence, dragged her anchor and went ashore in Stonington (Conn.) harbor during the night. She lost her rudder, but otherwise she is not damaged.

In Boston harbor the barge Jenna Hughes while anchored off Spectacle island dragged across the bow of the five masted schooner Baker Palmer, for Newport News, which was also anchored. The barge had mizzen and spanker masts carried away. The damage to the Palmer consisted of the parting of her head gear and stays.

Blizzard In Pennsylvania.

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 4.—The first blizzard of the winter has struck Altoona and surrounding country. Zero temperature prevails and high winds have been blowing the snow in mammoth drifts for the past twenty-four hours. The Pennsylvania railroad is feeling the effect of the blizzard. Its main line on the mountain west of here was blockaded by drifts Sunday night, and it required the services of a hundred men to keep the road open yesterday.

Storm Unabated.

GENEVA, N. Y., Feb. 4.—The blizzard which began Sunday, although still raging, has abated somewhat in its severity. Street car travel has been resumed, but not a train from the west on the New York Central railroad has gone through, while but two trains from the east have arrived. Fall Brook and Lehigh Valley railroad trains are running close to schedule time. The wind still continues to blow, and the mercury is dropping.

Chautauqua County Snowbound.

DUNKIRK, N. Y., Feb. 4.—There is no letup in the snowstorm that has raged with fury for twenty-four hours in Chautauqua county. All trains on the Erie railroad between Salamanca and Dunkirk have been abandoned. No street cars have been able to run to Fredonia during the day. Stage lines and rural mail carriers were unable to cover their routes. Business in the city and surrounding country is at a standstill.

Lackawanna Line Tied Up.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Feb. 4.—No through trains have reached this city from Utica over the Lackawanna road since Sunday afternoon. No northbound train from this city has gone beyond Richfield Springs Junction yet owing to big drifts. Northbound freight trains on the Utica division are all abandoned at Norwich. The wind has subsided and the snow ceased, but it is intensely cold.

Theatrical Companies Stalled.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 4.—The blizzard which has prevailed throughout this section since early Sunday was responsible for the closing last night of the Academy of Music in this city and incidentally four other theaters, one at Cleveland, two at Chicago and one at Detroit. These failures are the result of an accident on the Erie road just west of Youngstown, O.

Two Feet of Snow.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Feb. 4.—Two feet of snow has fallen here, and the prevailing high wind has drifted it badly. The city is isolated, regular trains on both the New York Central and Rutland roads being abandoned. Street cars are unable to move, and business is almost at a standstill. The railroad officials are working hard to get trains running.

THE TELEPHONE SERVICE.

The announcement that telephone rates in Plainfield are to be lowered and the local service improved by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company is not a great surprise as the company has been pursuing a similar policy in neighboring cities and towns and it was only a question of time as to how long it would be before the movement reached Plainfield. It is, however, reason for much satisfaction not only on the part of those who gain a direct benefit from it but from the citizens at large as it promises a substantial increase in the size of the local telephone system, a thing greatly to be desired.

The change in all cases is not a direct reduction but, instead, an increase of privileges are given for the same charge. What will be of particular value to residents is the removal of the limit to the number of messages.

While many have been vainly surmising as to the reason for this general reduction on the part of the telephone company and trying to discover some opposition concern ready to spring up, the real cause for the change is not hard to discover. Despite the fact that the company has a monopoly of the telephone business in many places, Plainfield included, its officials realize the fact that reduced rates and improved service are important factors in getting increased business. While the company is in business to make money, its policy has long been to labor constantly for the betterment of its service. The history of the company shows a steady reduction in the cost to its patrons.

Don't get the idea that the company is trying to play the role of beneficiary. It is simply pursuing a policy which it believes will be the most paying one in the end. In pursuing this course, however, it has managed to give Plainfield excellent telephone service. There is today only one other city in the State which has a larger exchange, pro rata to its population than Plainfield. The growth of the 'phone system in the city is of decided benefit to the people. The lowering of rates and increasing of privileges mean still more telephones installed and the consequent advantage to the people of the city.

It was said at a meeting of the county engineers of this State, held recently, that New Jersey had passed out of the educational period and into the refining age. This is true with the exceptions of Hunterdon and Warren counties. The latter county has at last fallen into line to a trifling extent but old rock-ribbed Hunterdon holds out against progress with deplorable persistency. If the people of that county only tried half as hard to advance the interests of their county as they do to block its progress, Hunterdon would be the banner county of the State.

It is a significent fact that among those who have labored their hardest to bring about the defeat of Senator Charles A. Reed in his race for State treasurer, has been Former Clerk of Chancery L. A. Thompson, of Somerville. In these days, Mr. Thompson never misses an opportunity to put a stumbling block in the path of his erstwhile lieutenant.

It is welcome news that the New Jersey Central intends putting up a new draw bridge over Newark bay, this summer. In the minds of some regular passengers, the draw bridge has occupied a place which conforms with that taken by the Park Avenue tunnel in the hearts of the New York Central commuters.

There has been no hesitancy in the action of the Somerville Board of Health. That official organization ordered the vaccination of all the school children. The city and borough boards have not yet been inclined to take such decisive measures.

The New Jersey Central has come in for some more unpleasant notoriety. This time the troubles of the city of Bayonne with that railroad are elaborated at length in the columns of the New York Sun.

It is not quite settled in anyone's mind as to whether the candidacy of Ellis R. Meeker for the State treasurership is really a joke or whether the big Elizabethan actually wants the place.

Either the service of the New Jersey Central Railroad is improving or else the commuters are tiring of airing their grievances so frequently.

PERSONAL.

Henry L. Maxson, of New Rochelle, has been spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

Miss Anna A. Searing, of Orchard place, is able to be out after being confined to her home two weeks by illness.

C. Ames Brooks, of Princeton University, spent Saturday and Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brooks, of West Seventh street.

Miss Genevra M. Miner, of Freeport, L. I., who has been visiting at the home of her uncle, Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place, has returned home.

Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, who has been quite ill with pneumonia, seems to be improved. His condition is considered more favorable.

Mrs. Parsons and Mrs. Langworthy, of Chicago, who have been visiting their parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Lewis, of West Seventh street, returned home yesterday.

Rev. John C. Whiting, assistant pastor of the Cornell Collegiate church, of New York, left yesterday after a short stay as the guest of Charles Burdette Morse, of Franklin place.

AFTER THE ICE.

Police Notified Householders to Remove It or Use Ashes or Sand.

Acting under instructions from headquarters, the patrolman of the local department devoted the greater part of yesterday notifying householders to remedy the icy condition of the sidewalks. Where it was found practicable, the ice was ordered removed and in other instances the residents were instructed to scatter ashes or sand.

In most cases the orders were obyeed with alacrity, but the walking is still very dangerous. There were a number of bad falls reported yesterday, but as yet no one has sustained serious injuries.

Off for Africa.

The Sunday-school of Warren chapel will tender a reception to Rev. R. D. Schoonmaker, of Central avenue, Thursday evening. The affair will take place in the church. Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker purposes to leave for Africa in the near future. He will engage in general missionary work in that country.

Recovered From Accident.

Mrs. George T. VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street, who was thrown out of a sleigh Saturday, is improving from injuries received at that time. She is able to be about the house and has recovered from the nervous shock.

—Those delicious preserved cherries in glass, at Neuman Brothers, are going fast. They have been reduced for this week to twenty cents per jar.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

"Tsatlee Silk," a mixture of fine Italian silk and Egyptian cotton, delightfully soft with high lustre. Patterns include some stylish gray and white corded effects and raised figures. In solid white it is simply exquisite. Width is 32 inches. Price is 79c per yd.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A man employed at the Lehigh Valley coaling station, who goes by the name of "Spotty" Shannon, involuntarily took a cold bath while retiring from work yesterday morning. The cause of "Spotty's" downfall was the icy condition of the improvised board walk which he used in crossing the brook near the coaling station. Aside from a severe drenching Mr. Shannon was none the worse from his experience.

of property on the opposite side of the street, while the other property was sold under the Martin Act. A peculiar fact about the communication is that it consisted of a dozen typewritten pages, it requiring that number to state the case in all its legal phraseology. The matter was referred to the finance committee for adjustment.

Mr. Tolles offered a resolution authorizing the payment of $937.50 to the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company. This is a part of the 5 per cent. reserve fund of $1,937 held until the completion of the contract on the sewer improvement. Another resolution offered by the same member provided that the money due the Gleason-Kiely Contracting Company be withheld until all bills against the company are paid. This does not affect the action returning the amount already specified.

At this time Mr. Mellick brought a number of matters of more or less importance before the Council. He offered a resolution authorizing the collector of taxes to issue warrants for the collection of delinquent taxes. If the delinquent fails to pay a constable will hunt him up and arrest him.

Another resolution offered by Mr. Mellick provided for the borrowing of $6,000 for sewage improvements. This will be secured by a note.

Mr. Mellick submitted an extended report in the form of an opinion from Corporation Counsel Marsh regarding several matters of taxation. From time to time several petitions have been received from complaining taxpayers and to settle these an opinion was asked for. The first was that regarding a petition from F. C. Langhorne. The latter paid a tax which had already been paid by his wife and he asked to have the amount remitted. While the city is not forced to return the amount, Mr. Marsh informed the Council that it could so if it wanted to. The amount was ordered returned after a sworn claim is received from the petitioner.

J. A Layton, a veteran of the Civil War, claimed deduction from taxes and Mr. Marsh recommended such action on all except a dog tax. He gave an adverse opinion on the petitions of P. Guinee, Henry Bush, W. C. Startup and A. Callman, who asked to have dog taxes remitted. Regarding the opinion J. B. Coward, representing the estate of Charles Hyde, asking for the return of $10 overpaid on a tax, Mr. Marsh recommended the return of the money. In the case of William Lunger, whose property was purchased under the Martin Act, Mr. Marsh recommended that he be given a chance to redeem his property by paying the amount on the property and interest. Referring to the petition of W. H. Stine, whose property adjoins that of Mr. Lunger, Mr. Marsh said that the settlement of the Lunger case would adjust the other.

Mr. Marsh reported that in the case of Mrs. Sprague, who complained about a tax, she has paid the tax, having ascertained that it was correct. P. Nugent, another complainant against the sale of his property under the Martin Act, was reported as having redeemed his property. Mr. Marsh asked for more time to consider the case of E. D. Fluck, another complainant against taxation, as he had discovered it to be a complicated one.

After the reports were received concerning these cases, Mr. Mellick offered a resolution concurring in the report and providing that the Council follow the recommendations offered.

Mr. Buckle introduced an ordinance providing for a change in the title of captain of police to chief of police. It was placed on its first and second readings and ordered advertised. In connection with this Mr. Buckle offered a resolution which provided for a change in the rules and regulations of the Council which changes "captain of police" to "chief of police" wherever the former title appears.

After the adoption of the resolution, President Coriell thought the action was premature as the ordinance providing for the change had not yet been adopted. Mr. Buckle also offered another resolution making the salary of the captain of police $100 a month.

The regular applications for liquor licenses were received as follows: Charles L. Strong, A. B. Rosell, J. H. McVey, Daniel Galbraith, J. A. Staats, Jacob Blimm, Frank Linke, Eastern Bottling Company, J. A. Blatz, Charles Schantz, Henry Windham, John Rafferty, Vernard Clark, Michael Clark, Michael Watson, A D. Findlay. There are fifteen in all, the present number. They will now be advertised the usual time after which action will be taken regarding them.

Thomas Leacock, who has been assessed $2.22 for a dog tax, complained that he does not own a dog. The matter was referred. S. R. Struthers objected to an assessment of $41.09 for poll and personal tax, claiming exemption as a veteran of the Civil War. The bond of Constable W. R. Mattox was returned by Corporation Counsel Marsh, who approved it as to form and the same was recorded. W. H. Abbott, who claimed that he had paid $1.25 as a tax on West Sixth street property, asked to have that sum refunded. The matter was referred.

Mayor Jenkins appointed Reuben Jones, sexton of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, a special policeman and Special Patrolman Arthur McGinley a regular patrolman. Both appointments were confirmed.

Before the Council adjourned to meet on Monday evening, February 24, Mr. Mellick asked the chairman of the various committees to prepare their estimate of expenses for the year so that the annual budget can be prepared at an early date. The Council then adjourned.

The vacancy on the teaching corps of the North Plainfield public schools caused by the unexpected resignation of Miss Anna Holcomb, of Trenton, has been filled by the selection of Miss Anna Dean Thorne. The new appointee was chosen by the teachers' committee and will take charge of her work at once.

Miss Thorne is a graduate of Vassar. She took a post-graduate course at the Albany Normal School, and stood high in her work. Miss Mary Yoran, who was recently named by the committee as a teacher, has arrived and today will assume her duties.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

Women in Public Service.

Germany seems to place a value on the services of women different from that which holds in France. In the latter country orders have been issued to cut down the number of women employes in public service, especially in the postal service, as rapidly as possible, the reasons given being general incompetency, continual absence on account of illness and similar things. In Germany, on the contrary, the authorities of the state railways have announced that henceforth as many women as possible will be employed in service, and that women in the future will be eligible to posts at the telegraph and ticket offices, in the telephone offices and as clerks in the counting offices and freight department. Prussia has for some years favored the employment of women, and this order will bring about like conditions throughout the whole empire.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Swindled the Landlord.

Recently a gentleman was eating oysters in a Paris restaurant, when he suddenly uttered an exclamation and removed an object from his mouth which had nearly broken his tooth. The other patrons gathered around and inspected the object, which one, who said he was a jeweler, declared to be a pearl worth $250. The delighted finder ordered a magnificent dinner to celebrate the find and invited the jeweler to join him. When the waiter presented the bill for $60 for the dinner he declared he was short of money, but asked the landlord to hold the pearl as security. This the landlord still has, and as its value is two cents there is little chance that he will ever see the scamp and his jeweler accomplice again.—Detroit Free Press.

Star-Gazing by Lovers.

They were young and romantic, and, although the minute hand was pointing at 12 o'clock, they stood upon the porch gazing at the stars.

"That's Jupiter, dear, isn't it?" she murmured.

"Yes, pet; and that is Sirius," he replied, pointing to another star.

"Are you serious?" she cooed.

He kissed her. Then, pointing upward, he said:

"That's Mars, dove."

"And that's pa's," she whispered, as a footstep sounded inside.

And if the young man hadn't "scooted" he would have seen more stars than he ever dreamed of. — London Spare Moments.

Historic Town Obliterated.

Remarkable evidence of the need for a Jamestown tercentenary anniversary is furnished by the ignorance of most Americans with regard to the status of Jamestown itself. This cradle of the nation, as all Virginians know, is no longer inhabited by any person except those who keep guard over the ruins there. Jamestown is nothing but a name and a remnant. If it were not for the care with which the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities preserves the old walls and other relics, not a trace of the famous town, we dare say, would be left.—Norfolk Landmark.

Flying Days Near.

In deciding to issue a magazine dealing with aerial navigation we make no attempt at prophecy, but there is no question that flying by human beings is nearer realization than many people imagine, and when we reflect upon what has been done in other branches of engineering it requires a very small effort of the imagination to realize what may transpire in the development of aerial navigation in the near future.—London Flying.

Those Dear, Sweet Things.

Miss Sweetly—I got some wedding invitations this morning which seem something quite new. Aren't they nice?"

Miss Elderly—Oh, aren't they just swell! Do you know, I'm going to have mine just like that when I'm married.

"O, my dear, they'll be years out of date by that time!"—Detroit Free Press.

A Cold Rejoinder.

"Dere ain't much sympathy in dis world, an' dat's a fack," said Meandering Mike. "I took dat policeman into me confidence. I told him dat I had had all de troubles extant; dat I was jes' a collection of sorrows."

"What did he do?"

"He looked me over an' den said it was about time fur him to take up a collection."—Washington Star.

LOVE THAT NEVER LIED.

Texas Colonel Married to the Flame of His Youth After Fifty Years of Parting.

When Col. N. L. Norton, youngest surviving member of the confederate congress, married Mrs. Frances C. P. Porter at Memphis recently a romance which had suffered an interpolation of half a century was rounded out. The principals had been sweethearts in childhood and had since then lived the width of the continent apart.

Long before the civil war Norton and the woman who is now his wife lived in Nicholas county, Ky. He was a collegian and she was a belle of the region, and they were devotedly in love with each other. Unfortunately for their plans, they were second cousins, and their parents objected to the match between them. So Norton gave up hope and moved to Missouri.

When the war came Norton went to the southern congress, then enlisted and served under Sterling Price, won a colonelcy by bravery, drifted to Texas, and took a bride when peace had been restored. This wife died some time ago and only a grandchild survives as a relic of the marriage. The colonel grew rich in Texas and lives in ease on a comfortable estate.

The girl also accepted another suitor, a man named Porter, a prominent citizen of Millersburg, Ky., who died and left her a comfortable fortune, and on this she supported herself in magnificent style. Some time ago she and the colonel learned each of the other's whereabouts, and each became aware that these early marriages had in no way dimmed the early love—which even shone the brighter by contrast with these lesser flames. So a correspondence was opened, love was declared, marriage decided on, and both journeyed to Memphis, where they met and were married. They will live on Col. Norton's estate in Texas, making long visits to Kentucky. Col. Norton is 71 years of age.

HELD UP BY A DEER.

A Maine Man Has a Surprising and Hair-Raising Adventure in a Highway.

The latest highway hold-up is reported from Dexter, and is a little out of the ordinary, even in this game-infested state, says the Augusta (Me.) Journal. It happened about three miles from the village, and Henry Allen tells the story as follows:

"I was passing along, my thoughts upon other matters than my surroundings, when I was startled almost to a point of a panicky feeling by the loud snort of a deer. Very naturally I jumped, and as I looked ahead of me, there, standing on the road, I could see the outline of a large buck deer in the twilight. I threw my ax at him and the weapon failed of hitting the mark. Before I could realize what the deer's intention was, he struck me with one of his forward legs, striking my hand.

"When he did that I made up my mind that he intended to kill me, and that it was time to yell. I presume in my fright I yelled out pretty loud, anyway I felt like it, and when I did so the big buck gave another snort, as did a half dozen more deer that were apparently lying down in the woods close by the road, and then all of the animals rushed off through the woods as fast as they could go."

The Way of the Boy.

Mrs. Smarte—Helen, get that Towser boy to come over here this afternoon. I want to get him to saw and split that kindling wood down cellar.

Helen—He won't do it, ma; his mother says he's the laziest boy in town; she can't get him to do the first thing around the house.

"That's all right, Helen. Because a boy won't work at home is no sign he won't work like a navvy almost anywhere else."—Boston Transcript.

The Heat of Australia.

"Australia is the hottest country on record. I have ridden for miles astride the equator, but I have never found heat to compare with this. Out in the country in the dry times there appears to be little more than a sheet of brown paper between you and the lower regions, and the people facetiously say that they have to feed their hens on cracked ice to keep them from laying boiled eggs."—Sydney Telegraph.

A Medical Bluff.

An attack of hysteria simulating unconsciousness in a woman may be stopped, says Modern Medicine, "by the surgeon's taking a pair of scissors and regretfully announcing that he will have to cut all the patient's hair off in order to make application to her head. It is doubtful whether this bluff has ever been known to fail.—Modern Medicine.

A Daring Author.

"Do you mean to say that the scene of your play is laid in the infernal regions?"

"Yes," said the persistent young man with the manuscript. "I asked the manager where he thought I ought to go for a plot, and I am following his advice."—N. Y. Herald.

A Good Place.

Bill—How do you know the good places to fish in this stream?

Jill—Oh, I walk along until I find a place where there are a lot of empty bottles scattered about.—Yonkers Statesman.

A Strong Hint.

He—Matwimony is a serious thing to contemplate.

She—But it isn't so serious, Cholly, if the other party isn't contemplating it!"—Puck.

Kidney troubles, diabetes, surely follow.
Doan's Kidney Pills relieve backache,
Cure every kidney ill.
Plainfield citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

DRESSES VERSUS WAISTS.

The Former Are Rapidly Gaining Supremacy.

Dresses are growing in favor, to the exclusion of separate waists. For afternoon wear many gowns are worn with three-quarter coats, and if the spring these costumes will be worn on the street, with the addition of a chiffon or feather boa. Pretty models are made up in the wool novelties, both smooth and rough, the rough ones, of course, being for informal wear. In the dressy class of materials broadcloth leads, followed by silk and wool crapes, poplins, bengalines and all moire fabrics. Velvet is purposely excluded, as it is a little late to make up gowns of this sort. A pretty model for a wool novelty gown consists of a blouse waist, with a round yoke of mousseline de soie and lace, trimmed with circular bands of narrow velvet ribbon. Short upper sleeves reach to the elbow, and the undersleeves, made of the lace and mousseline, are in two puffs gathered into a tight fitting cuff made of the goods and the narrow ribbon. The skirt can be plain, with a ruffle striped with perpendicular applications of the ribbon and headed by a toothed strapping outlined with embroidery.

In today's sketch we have a simple but neat tailor made gown. It is of blue zibeline. The waist is made with a strapped crossed over effect and a wide double collar of the cloth and of velvet of a darker shade. The sleeves have wide turnover cuffs and undersleeves of lace. The belt is of velvet. The skirt is circular and opens on the front seam with a strapped effect and two buttons. The hat which goes with this dress is of black velvet and tulle.

ROUGH GOODS.

They Are Made Up Into Smart Walking and Golf Costumes.

The vogue of rough goods is not declining, and smart costumes are being made up for morning wear in grays, browns and dark blues. For trimmings there are narrow bands of fur and velvet and frequently bands of broadcloth stitched of the same or contrasting shades. The Russian blouse trimmed with perpendicular strappings is a favorite model. This has a big collar of mink or some other durable fur, and with this is worn a muff of the same.

For skating or golfing very neat jackets are made of double faced goods, having the revers and sometimes the cuffs made of the reverse, which is a check of plaid.

The skirts of these morning costumes are made without trains, and they are worn with a short petticoat or slip. The walking or shopping length of skirt is becoming more and more popular. On the other hand, trains on reception and indoor gowns are becoming much longer. The keynote of appropriateness has been struck, and it is not considered smart to see a reception length of gown in the shopping district.

The smart coat in the illustration is made of gray double faced goods. It is trimmed with stitched strappings and tiny silver buttons. The front is double breasted and has a wide collar, which extends well over the shoulders. The sleeves are bell shaped and are trimmed with two rows of silver buttons. The hat worn with this is of pale gray felt trimmed with a twist of white silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"I think I understand. Now what are your questions?"

"In the first place, did your late father ever speak to you of his brother as being a missionary in China?"

She shook her head, and from the look upon her face I could see that I had touched upon something painful. This, at least, was one of the things that had struck her as suspicious.

"If he were a missionary, I am quite sure my father did not know it," she said. "In fact I always understood that he was somewhat of a scapegrace, and in consequence could never settle down to anything. That is your first, now what is your second question, Mr. Fairfax?"

I paused for a moment before I replied.

"My second partakes more of the nature of an assertion than a question," I answered. "As I read it, you are more afraid of what may happen should the two men meet than anything else."

"Yes, that is just what I am afraid of," she replied. "My uncle's temper is so violent, and his desire for revenge so absorbing, that I dare not think what would happen if he came into actual contact with Hayle. Now that I have replied to your questions, will you give me the answer I want? That is to say will you tell me what you think of the whole affair?"

"If you wish it, I will," I said, slowly. "You have promised to permit me to be candid, and I am going to take advantage of that permission. In my own mind I do not believe the story they tell. I do not believe that they were ever missionaries, though we have convincing proofs that they have been in the hands of the Chinese. That Hayle betrayed them I have not the least doubt, it seems consistent with his character, but where they obtained the jewels, that are practically the keystones to the whole affair, I have no more notion than you. They may have been honestly come by, or they may not. So far as the present case is concerned that fact is immaterial. There is still, however, one vital point we have to consider. If the gems in question belong equally to the three men, each is entitled to his proper share, either of the stones or of the amounts realized by the sale. That share, as you already know, would amount to a considerable sum of money. Your uncle, I take it, has not a penny-piece in the world, and his companion is in the same destitute condition. Now we will suppose that I find Hayle for them, and they meet. Does it not seem to you quite possible that your uncle's rage might lead him to do something desperate, in order to revenge himself upon the other? But if he could command himself he would probably get his money? If, on the other hand, they do not meet, then what is to be done? Forgive me, Miss Kitwater, for prying into your private affairs, but in my opinion it is manifestly unfair that you should have to support these two men for the rest of their existences."

"You surely must see that I would rather do that than let my father's brother commit a crime," she returned, more earnestly than she had yet spoken.

The position was decidedly an awkward one. It was some proof of the girl's sterling qualities that she should be prepared to make such a sacrifice for the sake of a man whom it was certainly impossible to love, and for that reason even to respect. I looked at her with an admiration in my face that I did not attempt to conceal. I said nothing by way of praise, however. It would have been an insult to her to have even hinted at such a thing.

"Pardon me," I said at last, "but there is one thing that must be taken into consideration. Some day, Miss Kitwater, you may marry, and in that case your husband might not care about the arrangement you have made. Such things have happened before now."

She blushed a rosy red and hesitated before she replied.

"I do not consider it very likely that I shall ever marry," she answered. "And even if I did I should certainly not marry a man who would object to my doing what I consider to be my duty. And now that we have discussed all this, Mr. Fairfax, what do you think we had better do? I understood you to say to my uncle that you intend leaving for Paris to-morrow morning, in order to continue your search for the man Hayle. Supposing you find him, what will you do then?"

"In such a case," I said, slowly, looking at her all the time, "I should endeavor to get your uncle's and Codd's share of the treasure from him. If I am successful, then I shall let him go where he pleases."

"And supposing you are unsuccessful in obtaining the money or the gems?"

"Then I must endeavor to think of some other way," I replied, "but somehow I do not think I shall be unsuccessful."

"Nor do I," she answered, looking me full and fair in the face. "I fancy you know that I believe in you most implicitly, Mr. Fairfax."

"In that case, do you mind shaking hands upon it?" I said.

"I will do so with much pleasure," she answered. "You cannot imagine what a weight you have lifted off my mind. I have been so depressed about it lately that I have scarcely known what to do. I have lain awake at night, turning it over and over in my mind, and trying to convince myself as to what was best to be done. Then my uncle told me you were coming down here, and I resolved to put the case before you as I have done and to ask your opinion."

She gave me her little hand, and I took it and held it in my own. Then I released it and we strode back along the garden-path together without another word. The afternoon was well advanced by this time, and when we reached the summer-house, where Codd was still reading, we found that a little wicker tea-table had been brought out from the house and that chairs had been placed for us round it. To my thinking there is nothing that becomes a pretty woman more than the mere commonplace act of pouring out tea. It was certainly so in this case. When I looked at the white cloth upon the table, the heavy brass tray, and the silver jugs and teapot, and thought of my own cracker earthenware vessel, then reposing in a cupboard in my office, and in which I brewed my cup of tea every afternoon, I smiled to myself. I felt that I should never use it again without recalling this meal. After that I wondered whether it would ever be my good fortune to sit in this garden again, and to sip my Orange Pekoe from the same dainty service. The thought that I might not do so was, strangely enough, an unpleasant one, and I put it from me with all promptness. During the meal, Kitwater scarcely uttered a word. We had exhausted the probabilities of the case long since, and I soon found that he could think or talk of nothing else. At six o'clock I prepared to make my adieux. My train left Bishopstowe for London at the half-hour, and I should just have time to walk the distance comfortably. To my delight my hostess decided to go to church, and said she would walk with me as far as the lych-gate. She accordingly left us and went into the house to make her toilet. As soon as she had gone Kitwater fumbled his way across to where I was sitting, and having discovered a chair beside me seated himself in it.

"Mr. Fairfax," said he, "I labor under the fear that you cannot understand my position. Can you realize what it is like to feel shut up in the dark, waiting and longing always for only one thing? Could you not let me come to Paris with you to-morrow?"

"Impossible," I said. "It is out of the question. It could not be thought of for a moment!"

"But why not? I can see no difficulty in it!"

"If for no other reason because it would destroy any chance of my

AT THAT MOMENT MISS KITWATER MADE HER REAPPEARANCE IN THE GARDEN.

even getting on the scent. I should be hampered at every turn."

He heaved a heavy sigh.

"Blind! blind!" he said with despair in his voice. "But I know that I shall meet him some day, and when I do—"

His ferocity was the more terrible by reason of his affliction.

DRIVEN INTO CHURCH.

Constable Quieted Roughs Who Disturbed the Services and Made Them Sing and Pray.

It is not often that the hoodlums of to-day are driven into church on Sunday at the point of the revolver, but such was the occurrence at the little house of worship at Gibson, at the foot of the Chestnut Ridge, near Connellsville, Pa.

The members of the congregation had gathered for service as usual in the bright morning; the pastor of the flock had taken his place with all due reverence in the pulpit and the service of prayer began. About this time a commotion was heard outside the church. Wrangling voices mingled in wild oaths and bluffery.

Then the congregation stood up and began to sing. "Onward, Onward, Christian Soldier," was the hymn. Louder and louder the organ pealed, and the members of the congregation, from the pastor to the amen corner, sang. But over all the prayer and the adoration and the oblation of the music and the song arose the jeer and the derision of a gang of hoodlums on the outside.

"Onward, Onward, Christian Soldier," repeated the chorus in the hymn. And just then the prayer was answered.

There was a "Christian soldier" within hearing, and he went to war on the strength of the summons to arms. He charged among the rowdies with drawn pistol leveled at their heads.

"Now, forward march!" he sang out, cool as a cucumber.

"You drop if you run!" he shouted, as the gang started to break away. He who spoke was Constable William Hart, of Connellsville township.

Like a set of meek converts the hoodlums stood huddled before the pistol.

"Now, into church," commanded Hart. And into church, marching before the leveled pistol, the gang marched. They took their pews solemnly, and remained to hear the service to the end.

"I guess a little prayin' and singin' didn't hurt them any," Hart said to the pastor of the flock after the benediction.

DENTIST AS DETECTIVE.

Parisian Tooth Carpenter Renders a Thief Helpless and Takes Him to Police Station.

If Paris is prolific in producing thieves, it also is most fruitful in expedients for catching them. Dr. Rosseau, a dentist living in the Rue des Martyres, has adopted a novel and amusing method. Dr. Rousseau and his wife were walking on the boulevard a few days ago when a young man snatched a handbag containing money and jewelry which madame was carrying. The dentist was unable to catch the thief, but had time to distinguish his features, though he never expected to see him again.

By a curious coincidence, however, the thief came to the dentist a day or two later to have his teeth attended to. Dr. Rousseau, concealing his astonishment, asked him to take a seat, as it would be necessary to take an impression of the jaw, and this he immediately proceeded to do. When the dentist considered that the plaster was sufficiently solid he calmly explained to the helpless thief that he was at his mercy and had better follow him quietly to the police station. The man wildly gesticulated, but finding that his wide open mouth was imprisoned by a solid block of plaster of paris, he consented to go to prison.

HIGH SCHOOL BEATEN IN EXCITING GAME

Leal's School Basket Ball Team Won Match by Score of 22 to 12.

A HARD FOUGHT GAME.

VICTORIOUS TEAM WON GAME IN THE FIRST HALF.

High School's Weak Defensive Work Was Costly—Second Half Saw a Very Even Thing of the Play.

The meeting of the basket ball teams of the Plainfield High School and Leal's School at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, last evening, attracted a large crowd. The game proved just as exciting as had been anticipated. The Leal's School boys finally won by a score of 22 to 12.

It was generally known that the two teams were very evenly matched. Most of the High School boys possessed greater experience while the other team was accustomed to playing together regularly. The Leal boys started off with a rush that gave them the game. The defensive game of the High School was weak and the team work of the others developed rapidly in consequence. The first half ended with the score 19 to 5 in favor of Leal's.

In the second half the High School team was changed about with very satisfactory results. Denton went back to guard and the result was that the Leal boys were able to throw but a single goal from tho field in the entire half. Absence of team play told, however, in the aggressive work of the High School players and they only managed to score twice. There was but little rough play and the game was an enjoyably clean one.

A large audience crowded the visitors' gallery and found the game an exciting one to watch. Both schools had delegations of rooters present, while Leal's Annex sent a fair quota. The referee and umpire exchanged positions in the second half.

The lineup was:

Leal's School.	High School.
R. Schoonmaker	r. f. Scull, Cahoone
G. Abbott	l. f. Denton, Hallock
Hall	c. Cahoone, Scull
W. Schoonmaker	r. g. Conant, Denton
D. McGee	l. g. Thompson

Score — Leal's School, 22; High School, 12. Goals from the field—R. Schoonmaker (3), Abbott (3) Hall, Scull (2), Cahoone. Goals on fouls—Hall, Cahoone (3). Fouls—Leal's School, 5; High School, 7. Referee—Charles B. Morse. Umpire—C. E. A. Heywood. Timekeeper—F. R. Stevens. Scorer—John H. Doane.

New Music to be Arranged.

The Plainfield Society of Unitarians will hold a business meeting next Sunday, when the committees for the year will be appointed. It was expected that they would be announced last Sunday, but owing to the small attendance the matter was laid over.

FOUND HIS HOUSE FLOODED

THE TENANT HAD DISAPPEARED AND WATER WAS EVERYWHERE.

James E. Martine Found His House in Thrilling Condition Yesterday.

James E. Martine is sharing the woes of a landlord since yesterday when he discovered that the renting of at least one of his properties is not a paying investment. Some time ago he rented his house 134 East Ninth street to a professional man, and congratulated himself on having a good tenant.

Yesterday Mr. Martine took occasion to visit the place to ascertain if any repairs were needed. He found the place closed and the tenant gone. He was somewhat surprised inasmuch as he had received no notice, but at once he entered the place. Fortunately he wore rubber overshoes and these proved to be a protection. The place was flooded. Water was pouring down the staircase into the cellar.

On investigation he found that two spigots in the bath room on the second floor were turned on full and the cellar was well filled. As for the ceilings they had been practically ruined. To add to this the boiler had burst and the boiler back broken. All the earthen ware in the bath room was shattered and the various rooms were covered with rubbish.

Mr. Martine estimates the loss at $500, and is at a loss to find the whereabouts of his missing tenant.

TWO MORE DEATHS.

Two of the Carson Children Succumbed to Scarlet Fever This Morning.

Two more deaths from scarlet fever occurred in the stricken Carson family, this morning, making three children in all who have succumbed since Saturday. Within a short time of each other, Anna E., aged six years and Patrick W., aged three years, died soon after 3 o'clock. But one child now remains and this one is also very ill.

The funeral services of the last two victims will be held from the parents' residence, 918 East Front street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 and as is customary in such cases, will be strictly private. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

Handles Trunks Now.

Edson Day, who recently returned from the Philippines, where he was in the service of Uncle Sam for nearly three years, has secured a position as night baggagemaster at the North Avenue station.

To Exhibit Specimens of Work.

Specimens of the work of the pupils at the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate School for the first half year will be exhibited at the school Saturday morning, February 15, at 11 o'clock.

Miss Redway Will Speak.

Miss Redway, the missionary, will speak at the meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church, Friday afternoon, in the chapel of the church.

The X-Ray Versus Smugglers.

At the post office in Buenos Ayres the X-ray is reported to have been successfully employed to detect the presence of smuggled articles in registered mail. In this manner watches, rings, chains and other dutiable articles have been discovered hidden in apparently innocent packages posted abroad. In one week $20,000 worth of property thus concealed was confiscated.—Youth's Companion.

Pious Pilgrims.

At this time one catches a passing glimpse of the Indians from the moutains or the interior of the republic, who enter the capital but once a year. They come many a mile on foot carrying their children and family belongings on their backs, and after a brief visit to the shrine at Guadalupe fill their bottles at the holy spring and are off swiftly and silently as they came.—Mexican Herald.

The Telegraph in Africa.

Overland telegraphic communication across Africa is almost attained. The Cape of Cairo wires have reached Ujiji, on Lake Tanganyika. They have only to extend to the north end of the lake and then to Albert Nyanza, which is connected with the Soudanese and Egyptian lines.—London Mail.

Veiled Sarcasm.

REED BEATEN BY ONE VOTE

Frank O. Briggs Named For State Treasurer at Joint Legislative Caucus.

ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

Senator McCarter Was Only Member of Upper House to Fight Somerset's Senator—Paired His Vote With Mr. Reed's—Held Yesterday Afternoon—The Vote.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, Feb. 5—In a neck and neck race for the State treasurership, Senator Charles A. Reed, of Somerset county, was defeated by former Mayor Frank O. Briggs, of this city, in the Republican joint caucus, yesterday afternoon. The ad interim appointee, Mr. Briggs, pulled through with a bare majority of one vote.

Up to the hour of meeting no conservate man was willing to declare positively who would be selected, it being nip and tuck. As it turned out Senator Reed received the entire senatorial vote with one exception, but the assemblymen were largely against him. In the last fifteen minutes preceeding the caucus, four assemblymen, hitherto favorable to Mr. Reed, shifted to the other faction and decided the vote.

Senator McCarter, of Passaic, was the lone senator opposed to Reed, but his ballot was cast for him, by an agreement between himself and Senator Reed, who promised to vote for his opponent. Assemblyman Elvins, of Atlantic, nominated Reed, and Senator E. C. Hutchinson, of Mercer, seconded the nomination. Assemblyman H. W. Hoagland, of Somerset, also seconded Reed's nomination. Senator Cross, of Union, took occasion to make a few remarks in advocacy on Mr. Reed's candidacy. Mr. Briggs was named by Assemblyman Leavitt, of Mercer, in a short speech.

The roll call was speedily made and Senator McCarter was about to announce the result, when Senator Lee asked that the vote be read in detail. There were no mistakes and the presiding officer announced the result of the ballot, 32 to 31, in favor of the Mercer county man. The only Union county man to cast his lot with Mr. Briggs was Assemblyman William Newcorn, of Plainfield.

The vote was as follows:

For Mr. Reed—Bradley, W. T. Brown, Champion, Cross, Elvins, Francis, Gill, Gulick, Haines, Hall, Hand, Hoagland, Howland, Hutchinson, Jackson, Johnson, Lee, McCarter, McKee, F. Miller, R. D. Miller, Minch, Montgomery, Shinn, Stanger, Strong, Waite, Wakelee, Welsh, Whitehead and Whitford—31.

For Mr. Briggs—Avis, Bacheller, Bogert, Boyd, R. W. Brown, Cresse, Cummings, Davisdon, Garrabrants, Gnichtel, Hoffman, Holman, Horner, Howe, Keasler, Laire, Leavitt, Lord, Mercer, L. H. Miller, Moore, Newcorn, Page, Reed, Schmidt, Sharwell, Stalter, Tillotson, Tyler, VanBlarcom, William and Wright—32.

Concerning the result of yesterday's legislative caucus, Senator Reed was interviewed this morning by a Daily Press reporter.

"I made a hard fight," said Senator Reed, "and I was defeated. That's all there is to it. No, there is no truth in the rumor that I am to be a candidate for Congressional honors. I have denied that rumor many times before and I see no reason to change my mind now. You may unqualifiedly deny the report whenever you hear it."

ENTERTAINED CARD CLUB.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith Was Hostess for Fortnightly Club.

Miss Ernestine C. Smith, of Madison avenue, entertained the Fortnightly Whist Club last evening. There are sixteen members of the club and all were present. Mrs. H. C. VanEmburgh won prize for the women and H. H. Coward was awarded the honors for the men. There were the usual pleasant features, including a social time and refreshments, after the game.

It is stated authoritively that the exhibition of pupils' work at the Randolph-Cooley Collegiate school on February 15, will not be public. It is to be a purely invitation affair for the parents of the pupils.

RED MEN'S FAIR CONTINUES

ANOTHER LARGE CROWD ATTENDED THE SECOND NIGHT OF IT.

Dancing Was the Chief Attraction, But An Informal Programme Was Rendered.

A big crowd was present last evening at the week's fair being conducted under the auspices of the Red Men in Saengerbund Hall. The hall was filled with people, the majority of whom enjoyed the dance, which is the leading feature of the affair.

During the evening some entertainment was provided. The Randall Brothers, of this city, entertained the audience. Walter Randall, as a banjoist, and Joseph Randall, as a mandolin player, rendered several good duets. They were followed by Miss Try Mattox, who recited "Not Opposed to Matrimony," which won much applause. Joseph Randall sang a solo entitled "Wait." Following this was a recitation, "The Picture on the Floor," given by W. R. Mattox, an old time favorite. Encores were rendered by each of the participants on the programme.

As on the opening night the contests were a feature of the affair. Several minor articles were chanced off and many helped those who are striving to win the most valuable prizes. The bowling alley was an attraction, and several good games were rolled, prizes being awarded the best bowlers.

Raymond Schenck and Lafayette Rosenstiehl were the firemen detailed by the North Plainfield department to guard any damage by fire.

PREPARING FOR BASEBALL

MANAGER AND CAPTAIN ELECTED BY Y. M. A. OF HOPE CHAPEL.

John H. Cose and David B. Martin Named for the Places—To Register a Basket Ball Team.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Young Men's Association, of Hope chapel, held last evening, considerable business of importance was transacted.

Baseball matters occupied the greater part of the session and steps were taken to get this branch of the association's athletics in shape at once. With this idea in view, John H. Cose was elected manager for the season of 1902 and David B. Martin, captain. Both have had years of experience in their respective capacities and under their guidance the Hope team is expected to rank high at the close of the coming summer.

It was voted to register the association basket ball team, recently formed, in the A. A. U. This will entitle it to play with the best teams of the State.

Owing to the pressure of other matters which exist at the present time, the question of establishing the night school classes was laid over until the first business meeting in September.

The meeting closed with a general discussion and the formation of minor plans for the minstrel show which the association is to give in March.

TO GIVE A BALL.

Warren Engine Company Arranges for Dance on February 21.

Warren Engine Company, at its regular monthly meeting held last evening, decided to hold a ball in the near future. The affair will be given in Saengerbund Hall, and it will take place Friday evening, February 21.

A committee on arrangements was appointed. It consists of L. B. Bodine, chairman, Frank Kesselring, secretary, John Schenck, treasurer, Charles Stahl, William Doud, Lafayette Rosenstiehl, William Conover and Lewis Feiring. Since the recent parade of the department the funds of the company have been low, and this affair is planned to put the treasury in a better condition.

The only other business of importance was the election of Philip H. Currin as a member of the company.

Talented Artists.

Miss Aimee Emmons, reciter, and Elmer D. Cutting, tenor soloist, have been secured to take part in the entertainment to be given at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church. A fine programme has been prepared.

A Splendid Result.

Mrs. Seaman Williams, chairman of the Trinity Reformed church supper committee, has paid all bills incurred and will turn over to the treasurer between $140 and $150 profits.

Frederick Schuerlein, of New York, is visiting relatives in the borough.

YOUNG FOLK WEDDED IN SOCIAL SPLENDOR

Marriage of Miss Susie Milne and Edward T. Wilson at First Baptist Church.

SOCIETY WAS PRESENT.

CHARMING CEREMONY WAS HELD AT CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Reception to the Relatives Followed at the Home of the Bride—Have Gone South on Bridal Trip—Will Reside in the Borough.

Miss Susie Milne, the eldest daughter of Mrs. Isabel Milne, of Willow avenue, and Edward Taylor Wilson, of Sycamore avenue, were married in social splendor at the First Baptist church last evening. A throng of the fashionable set of this city and elsewhere thronged the stately old edifice and the nuptial event was one of the brilliant society affairs of the season.

The young couple are active in all the gay functions of fashionable Plainfield and this fact unquestionably intensified the interest generally taken in the event. Long before the hour for the service had arrived, which was precisely 8 o'clock, the church was well filled and when the bridal party arrived the congregation nearly packed the edifice. The decorations were not elaborate but exceeding good taste was shown in their arrangement. Smilax, palms and ferns mingled with a profusion of Easter lilies banked the pulpit and were also well distributed about the body of the church.

At the appointed time the bridal party entered and wended its way up the main aisle, while Howard M. Case, the regular organist, played with much expression the wedding march from "Lohengrin." The ushers, who joined the party at the church doors, were Howard Huntington, Thomas Rowe VanBoskerck, Dr. R. vanD. Hedges, Henry W. Lowe and Walter F. Murray, of this city, and Thomas Buek, a cousin of the bride, of New York. Following closely were the bridemaids, the Misses Agnes Hutton and Grace Howe, of Brooklyn, cousins of the bride, and the Misses Bessie Valiant and Elsie Brokaw, of Washington Park. Miss Isabel Milne, the younger sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. The bride walked with her brother, Alexander Milne, who gave her in marriage. The flower girl was Miss Elizabeth McGee, a cousin of the groom, and the page was Earle Bigelow, a cousin of the bride.

The party was met at the front of the pulpit by the groom who was attended by Orville G. Waring, of this city, as best man. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, who is an uncle of the groom, officiated and he used the ceremony of the Episcopal church. During the nuptial ceremony soft strains of Handel's Largo pealed forth from the organ. When the service was concluded the party marched gayly down the aisle while Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered.

Preceding the ceremony the following recital was given by Mr. Case: Offertoire, Tours; benediction, DuBuis; minuet, Handel; fiat lux, DuBuis; the answer, Westhelmon; and minuet, Selby.

Immediately after the creemony at the church, the bride and groom held a reception at the home of Mrs. Milne. The house was handsomely adorned, the color effect being green and white. All during the reception an orchestra, under the direction of Herbert J. Harold, rendered musical selections. Only the relatives of the young couple attended this affair.

At a late hour Mr. and Mrs. Wilson departed for their honeymoon trip. They will travel in the south and are expected to return in a fortnight. On their arrival in Plainfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside in the large house on the northwest corner of Willow and Sycamore avenues, in the Park. The groom is connected with the Standard Oil Company and has offices in New York.

For the wedding ceremony the bride was gowned in white chantille trimmed with duchesse and point Berha lace. She wore a veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. Miss Milne, the maid of honor, was gowned in white chiffon, and she carried Easter lilies. The gowns of the bridemaids were of crepe de chine. They carried huge bouquets of American beauty roses with exceedingly long stems.

The presents received by the bride were magnificent and the collection included costly specimens of the jeweler's art, elaborately designed silver, beautiful cut glass, ornaments and household furniture.

The gifts of the bride to the maid of honor and the bridemaids were orchid brooches of a neat design, while the presents of the groom to his best man and the ushers were link sleeve buttons with the initials "M.-W.," standing for the names of the young couple.

Mrs. Wilson and her mother and sister will give two "at homes" during the early part of the coming month.

OLD CRESCENT RINK ABLAZE

OIL DRIPPINGS ON THE ROOF CAUGHT FIRE FROM BURNING SOOT.

Promised a Spectacular Fire, But Proved of Slight Importance—Little Damage Done.

An alarm from box No. 21 for what promised to be a spectacular fire in one of the city's largest buildings, caused a flurry among the firemen and late pedestrians at 10:25 last night. To Patrolman Charles Flynn, who pulled the box, it appeared as if the entire rear end of the old Crescent rink, now the home of Herzig & Kapp's skirt factory, was a mass of flames. It turned out to be the burning of an accumulation of oil on the slate roof which was extinguished with a possible loss of $25.

The motive power for the skirt factory is furnished by a kerosene engine, which has an exhaust on the roof. It is covered by a muffler, to drown the noise, in which soot had gathered. A spark from this was evidently blown to the slate covering of the building where oil drippings had spread about. The firemen turned two streams on the blaze and extinguished it in a few minutes.

As a precautionary matter, Manager Kapp, of the factory firm, dismissed his employes this morning and placed plumbers at work overhauling the pipes on the roof. There was no damage to the machinery and work was resumed this afternoon.

WEDDED IN NEWARK.

Garrett J. Powers Married There Last Evening—Miss Martin Was the Bride.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, Feb. 5—Garrett J. Powers, of Craig place, North Plainfield, and Miss Elizabeth Martin, daughter of P. J. Martin, of this city, were married here yesterday afternoon. The wedding took place in the Dominican church.

The nuptial event was a quiet affair owing to the wishes of the bride, who is in mourning. It was 3:30 o'clock when the ceremony was performed, Rev. Father Grady, being the officiating priest. Miss Tessie Martin, the younger sister of the bride, was the only bridemaid. James Gallagher, of this city, attended Mr. Powers, as best man.

After the festal service, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Powers left for Washington, D. C., late in the afternoon. On the return from their honeymoon trip they will reside on Somerset street, North Plainfield. A large number of friends of the groom from Plainfield and North Plainfield attended the wedding festivities, among them being John P. Powers, his brother.

JAMES FRISBY'S FUNERAL.

Held From His Home on Race Street Yesterday Afternoon.

Funeral services over the remains of James Frisby, the former mail messenger, were held yesterday afternoon from his late residence on Race street. Rev. S. F. Tildon, of Bethel chapel, officiated. There were a number of pretty floral tributes among which was a remembrance from the mail carriers attached to the local office. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery. Those who acted as pall bearers were James Babbitt, James Harris, James Rogers, William Wikoff, George Sutler and Hill Condit.

WESTFIELD NOW LEADS PRESS BOWLING LEAGUE

Only Six Straight Victories Can Now Bring Victory to Roselle.

TO ROLL HERE FRIDAY.

PARK CLUB AND ROSELLE CASINO MEET FOR SERIES OF THREE.

Then Roselle Will Roll Three More With Cranford on the Former's Alleys—One Game Lost Means a Tie With Westfield.

The concluding matches in The Daily Press Bowling League promise to be of special interest this year. By winning three straight from the Park Club last week the Westfield Club has become a decidedly prominent factor in the race for the championship of the league and only the greatest kind of bowling can save the day for the Roselle Casino.

As they stand today, the Westfield Club is in the lead with Roselle Casino a close second. Westfield has, however, completed its schedule of eighteen games while Roselle has only rolled twelve. Friday evening the Roselle cracks will come here for a series of three with the Park Club, while Thursday evening, February 13, the Cranford Casino will send its team to Roselle to roll the last scheduled games in the league. While these are not very difficult games for Roselle, the exegencies of the situation require an unbroken string of victories for Roselle if that club is to win The Daily Press trophy for the third time.

Last season saw a somewhat similar situation which resulted in a tie between Roselle and Westfield, the deciding series of games being rolled off on neutral ground, the Cranford Casino alleys. If Roselle loses one game out of the six, which only the finest kind of rolling can prevent, there will be another tie this year to be rolled off. If more than one game is lost by Roselle it means that the trophy will pass into the hands of the Westfield bowlers to hold for another year.

As so much depends on the remaining games in the league, Friday evening's contest may be looked forward to with much interest. There are some great bowlers down at Roselle and the best of them will undoubtedly be on hand to land the trophy for that club if possible. As Roselle alrready has two victories to its credit, the bowlers from that town are particularly anxious to win this year as it will give them permanent possession of the cup. While the Parks are not rolling a particularly hot game this season, it is going to take some heavy work to defeat them three times running on their own alleys.

Even if the Roselle team succeeds in capturing three straight here, Cranford will still have to be met.

While Cranford is at the wrong end of the league, at present, its bowlers occasionally wake up and give their opponents a hot fight. So the result of the league will remain in doubt until the last game is rolled.

The games which the Park Club rolled last week on the Westfield alleys were partially responsible for the present state of affairs. It was a very poor showing the Plainfielders made while Westfield did not do much better. Westfield's game was good enough, however, to take three straight and give that team the lead in the league. All the Park Club bowlers were way off their usual game and some of the scores made were heart-breaking.

The scores follow:

Westfield Club.	1st.	2d.	3d.
Forster	164	134	145
Condit	139	168	107
Bogert	157	174	146
Hegeman	156	152	188
Smith	212	129	153
	828	757	789

Park Club.	1st.	2d.	3d.
F. O. Ball	134	145	151
Dumont	127	162	143
Willis	124	155	137
Faber	125	125	130
Hibbard	121	129	161
	631	716	722

The standing of the clubs is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Per.
Westfield Club	13	5	.728
Roselle Casino	8	4	.666
Park Club	5	10	.333
Cranford Casino	4	11	.266

Ramsey Blair, of East Second street, is detained at his home with a severe attack of the grip.

DISPOSAL BEDS ACCEPTED

ALL LACKING NOW IS THE SETTLEMENT OF A FEW DETAILS.

Council Passed Contractors' Bills—Made But Little Money on the Contract.

With the passing of the bills of Gleason, Kiely & Company, at the regular meeting of the Common Council Monday evening, the work of that firm in altering the city disposal beds was practically accepted. It will be officially recognized when certain payments are adjusted satisfactorily to the city treasurer and street commissioner.

George F. McKeough, of Syracuse, N. Y., a member of the firm, was in this city, yesterday. He brought checks with him for settlement of all claims except some small disputed amounts which are provided for by cash remaining in City Treasurer Arnold's possession. There is still $1,000 retained for six months and the company has furnished a maintenance bond of $2,000.

Through a number of mishaps and delays in construction, the profit from the contract to Gleason & Kiely, will be very small. The members have instituted suit against a Bound Brook stone firm for breaking a contract which they allege caused them a loss of at least $3,000. In bidding for the work the figures were placed very low and in consequence the city has been the profit maker.

A complete test of the beds will be made in a very short time and it is expected they will be placed in full operation before spring.

ELLIOTT T. BARROWS INJURED

BROKE HIS LEG IN FALL ON THE ICY SIDEWALK.

Was Returning From Casino When Accident Occurred—Taken Home in the Ambulance.

Former Councilman Elliott T. Barrows, of West Eighth street, met with an unfortunate accident last evening about 9:30 o'clock, while returning to his home from the Casino, where he had been attending the annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. He was walking home in company with George A. Chapman, president of the club. When near the home of Alexander Gilbert, at the corner of Central avenue and Eighth street, he slipped on some ice. He fell heavily and in doing so fractured his leg just above the ankle.

Mr. Chapman went to Mr. Gilbert's house and telephoned for the ambulance. This, in charge of Roundsman Flynn, hastended to the scene, and Mr. Barrows was taken home. In the meantime Dr. G. W. Endicott was sent for and he and Miss Margaret Cramer, the trained nurse, went at once to the home, arriving there just after Mr. Barrows reached there.

The break, while a bad one, has every prospect of knitting in a reasonable length of time. Mr. Barrows is a prominent member of the Produce Exchange and has always been very active. He weighs about 212 pounds and for this reason it was impossible to remove him to a house, last evening, until the ambulance arrived.

LIBRARY AFFAIRS.

Routine Business at Meeting of the Library Directors Last Evening.

The regular meeting of the Board of Library Directors was held last evening at the Library. There were present J. Evarts Tracy, W. H. Larrabee, Alexander Gilbert, John B. Dumont and Wm. M. Stillman.

The bills of the general library were ordered paid from the library fund, and those of the Babcock library from the Babcock fund. The sum of $500 was appropriated for the purchase of books for the general library. The librarian was authorized to purchase an extra desk for the reading room. After the reading of the librarian's report for January, the board adjourned.

TRAINED NURSE SECURED.

Placed in Charge of Carson Child Ill With Scarlet Fever.

A trained nurse was secured yesterday by Health Inspector William Addis for the care of the scarlet fever patient at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winslow Carson. There is one child remaining who has the fever and everything possible will be done to save her. The fever at this home has been of a most violent type. The three children, who recently died there, were ill but a comparatively short time.

OFFICERS FOR HILLSIDE CLUB

Annual Meeting of Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Was Held Last Evening.

CLUB IS FLOURISHING.

George A. Chapman Was Re-elected President—Only One Change—Finances in Excellent Condition—Tennis to Take a Prominent Part in the Life of the Club.

The interest in the affairs of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, as evidenced at the annual meeting held last evening at the Casino, speaks well for the success of the club for the coming season. Last season was considered to be the most successful one since the organization of the club, and it is proposed to make it even more so this year. There will be both tennis and golf to interest the members. The club will have a subcommittee on tennis, with one woman member, and the game will be made a decided feature.

The reports of the officers were received, including a circular letter issued by the president, George A. Chapman, on behalf of himself and the trustees. This gives a summary of the past season's work; also a hint as to what may be expected during the coming season. The circular letter appears on page three of this issue.

The report of the treasurer, J. vanHerwerden, shows the receipts for the past year to be $32,273.73, including $21,000 from the sale of the first mortgage bonds. There is a balance remaining of $290.48. The club's assets are $23,272.84 and the liabilities, which include first mortgage bonds, $20,500, tally with the assets. The estimated expenses to April 1, next, are $330 for care of property and $25 for sundry expenses.

Elliott T. Barrows, A. H. Atterbury and Thomas R. VanBoskerck were elected trustees for three years. Roger F. Murray, D. H. Rowland and C. Westley Abbott were chosen from the membership at large as a nominating committee for 1903.

After the meeting the trustees met and organized by electing the following officers for 1902: President, George A. Chapman; vice president, Ernest R. Ackerman; secretary, A. H. Atterbury; treasurer, J. vanHerwerden; chairman greens committee, Elliott T. Barrows; chairman golf committee and secretary for golf, Thomas R. VanBoskerck; chairman house committee, George P. Mellick.

The changes in the officers are that Mr. Ackerman takes Charles J. Fisk's place, the latter's term having expired, and Mr. VanBoskerck takes Dr. Ard's place, the latter having resigned.

MR. PUTNAM COMING.

Will Appear at P. H. S. A. A. Entertainment Next Week.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association completed arrangements with Manager Maze Edwards yesterday, for a benefit at the Casino, Tuesday night of next week, on which occasion they will present one of the strongest and most entertaining attractions of the present season. The services of Wellington Putnam, lecturer on elocution, Columbia University 1898-1901, and Professor of elocution, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, New York City, has been secured. He will give his wonderful impersonation of Stephen Phillips' great drama, "Herod" as presented by him at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York, two weeks ago.

Mr. Putnam will be remembered for his presentation of the story of "David Harum" at the Y. M. C. A. course a year ago, and it was then said the same was the best offered during that season. Tickets now for sale by all the High School, and at the usual places.

Made Address at Bethlehem.

Superintendent H. M. Maxson was last evening the guest of President Drown, of Lehigh University, at Bethlehem, where he repeated an address on charity which he recently gave at Easton, the home of Lafayette College.

—Included in the list of White Label canned goods at Neuman Brothers are extra fancy peas, small green lima beans, the noted Hudson asparagus tips and large three-pound cans of solid packed tomatoes.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Bessie Ross, of Bound Brook, has been visiting relatives in this city for a time.

Elmer Cable, of Brooklyn, has returned from a visit to Jabob Voehl, Sr., of Somerset street.

John Keiderling, of East Fourth street, has gone south in the interests of a bridge building firm.

Lambert Bodine, of the borough, has returned from a pleasant stay at Quakertown, Hunterdon county.

D. B. Martin, of Manson place, has been detained at home for the past three weeks with a severe "take" of vaccination. Dr. Cregar is in attendance.

Mrs. Ephraim Boice, of South Plainfield, who recently underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, has recovered and she returned home today.

The Misses Davis, of Park avenue, left today for Hartford, Conn., where they will be guests at the junior promenade to be given at Trinity College.

Mrs. Peter VanCamp, of South Branch, is spending two weeks with her sons, Leonard VanCamp, of Prospect place, and George VanCamp, of Somerset place.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A somewhat remarkable record has been made by Charles Keller, of Race street, by his strict attention to business. During the eleven years in which he has sold milk he has missed just one day at business. This solitary holiday, if such it could be called, was on the occasion of the funeral of a relative.

Councilmen Pray, Daniel and van Herwerden were the only three members of the Council absent from the regular February meeting held Monday evening. It was believed that they would be present in view of the fact that considerable business of importance was to be considered. Since Mr. vanHerwerden retired as chairman of the finance committee he has devoted little time to Councilmanic matters as he is in Philadelphia most of the time.

There is, at present, a fad among young women in collecting as many different kinds of calendars as possible There are a number of the fair sex about the city engaged in this sort of amusement. Among those who have succeeded in gathering a large collection is Mrs. Elvain VanName, of Madison avenue. She now has seventy-eight different kinds and nearly every day she adds one or two to the collection. The majority of them are very attractive, besides there is a peculiar value attached to the collection.

An amusing incident was noticed at the meeting of the Common Council Monday evening. The Council chamber was not any too warm. Early in the evening the stove, which is an extra means for furnishing heat, was doing good work. As the meeting progressed the fire was forgotten. This allowed the room to become quite cold. Street Commissioner Gavett, who happened to be near the stove, quickly realized the condition of things and he voluntarily stoked the fire and raised the temperature of the room. It is safe to say that the store has not been so warm in a long time.

Veterans' Entertainment.

Antietam Command, U. V. U., will give an entertainment this evening. The programme will consist of recitations and music. The Woman's Union Relief Union, an auxiliary of the command, will attend the affair in a body.

Taken to Hospital.

Abner Dunn, of Somerville, who has recently been living in the Babcock building, is very ill with dropsy. He was removed to the hospital yesterday for treatment.

—Attention is called to the advertisement of the Y. M. C. A. supplemental course of entertainments.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

SPORTING NEWS

ON THE DIAMOND.

The Westfield Baseball Association is out with its plans for the coming season. Practically the same strong team that closed last year has been engaged. Burke, VanZant, McGrath, Cary, Lenz, McManus, Beck and Mallon. Short stop is the only position unfilled. McCormack of last year's team goes to Waterbury of the Connecticut State League. Captain George Mallon will have the choice of some good man to fill that position. Games with strong, reputable teams only will be scheduled and in that line the New York A. C. team has been secured for May 24. Westfield had quite a Plainfield patronage last year and good, snappy ball is promised for them. The aim of the Westfield people has been to build up good and clean sport and their success in 1900 and 1901 was very gratifying. Baseball as conducted on these lines is not expensive and cuts out the machine work of professionalism. It would seem that Plainfield with its financial support to draw from ought to give Saturday and holiday ball that would be enjoyable the coming season and Westfield would be only too glad to meet a Plainfield team in old time rivalry. C. W. Denman, 135 Mountain avenue,
Westfield, N. J.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The Legislature will now get to work, it is hoped. The session has thus far been devoted almost exclusively to the organization, inauguration of the Governor and the election of Senator, and it would have been impracticable and unwise to attempt legislation under such conditions. The business to be transacted is weighty, but it need not occupy many weeks, if it is attacked in an earnest and practical way, with study of details and thoroughness of consideration generally. Most of the trouble and delay at Trenton may be traced to absolute neglect of business.—Newark Sunday Call.

Ellis R. Meeker, of Union, Mr. Coe, of Bergen; Senator Reed, of Somerset, and ex-Mayor Briggs, of Mercer, are the candidates for State treasurer. A very late accession to the number is said to be John W. Herbert, mayor of Helmetta, in Middlesex county, who was a candidate for United States senator a little while ago. The struggle thus far seems to be almost wholly between Mr. Briggs and Senator Reed, and the friends of each claim that their man is sure to win. Mr. Meeker's candidacy was somewhat of a surprise to Union county, but his friends would like to see him win. The State papers generally have expressed some queer opinions as to what Mr. Meeker means by entering into this rivalry. Some pooh-pooh his chances; some say that he is in the foundry business in Trenton, is intimate with the Roeblings with whom Mayor Briggs is associated, and that Mr. Meeker is in the contest only to help Mr. Briggs. But Mr. Meeker declares that he is in it for himself only, and that he has at least fourteen votes promised to him. The contest is certainly a brisk one, and it is difficult, at this time, to tell what the outcome will be.—Elizabeth Journal.

The rural free postal delivery system promises to give Congress some trouble, particularly in regard to the amount of compensation which shall be given the rural carrier. When the service was started, compensation was placed at $300 a year, and it was expected that a sufficient number of carriers would be glad to obtain the positions at that figure. The trouble is that on some routes the pay is sufficient, while on others it is entirely inadequate, and several proposals have been made as to the exact sum that would best cover all locations. The postmaster general has increased the compensation from $300 to $400 and then from $400 to $500 a year, but even the latter figure was not satisfactory, and he has asked to be relieved of the responsibility of fixing the salary, turning the question over to Congress. It is pointed out that in private life wages differ in different localities, but with the postoffice one fixed rate is given for all rural carriers, and the new figure will probably be based on an estimate sufficient to obtain employes in the most expensive parts of the country. The trouble with adopting a varying scale in accordance with varying wages paid in different localities is that each congressman would insist that the rural carriers of his State be treated as liberally as those of any other.—New Brunswick Home News.

—Grand Foreman V. W. Nash went to Camden this afternoon. This evening he will attend a meeting of Camden Lodge, No. 1, Ancient Order United Workmen, and make an address.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Groceries and meat are a necessity in every household. If you would buy the best and pay no more than a fair price, call on S. Scheuer & Son, on West Front street. They guarantee their goods to give satisfaction.

John Wirth, the West Front street confectioner, is making a specialty this week of all kinds of confectionery and pastry. Charlotte russe, cream puffs and eclaires are made fresh every day. Orders delivered promptly.

There wouldn't be any need of milk inspectors if all firms were as careful as the Plainfield Milk and Cream Company. They handle only the purest milk and there is no need for anxiety if you deal with this firm.

Aches and pains flee before the soothing effects of a Rex porous plaster, sold by Shaw, the druggist. If you are in misery and bewailing your hard luck, it is your own fault. Other medicinal preparations at the lowest of prices.

The Plainfield Art Store, located in the Y. M. C. A. building, is having a special sale of framed pictures. As a special inducement they are making a twenty-five per cent. reduction in all goods. They make a specialty of artistic framing and quote rates.

There is no better place to be these cold winter evenings than about the fireside. Such pleasure will be complete if you have a McPhail piano in your home. G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, sells this piano and nothing but praise is heard of its excellence.

The handsome decorations at the Milne-Wilson wedding in the First Baptist church last evening were the work of Mrs. L. J. Denton, of West Front street. She has received much praise for her efforts. Mrs. Denton is always prepared to furnish such decorations and give satisfaction.

Matthew J. Cashin, the Park avenue tailor, is beginning to think that he is not "to fortune and to fame unknown." Yesterday he received a letter from a fellow tailor by the name of Clarke, who lives at Audencia, San Juan, Porto Rica. It was a request for samples of a certain line of goods. Mr. Cashin doesn't know his prospective customer, but with true Yankee instinct he proposes to drive a bargain with the Porto Rican if posisble.

Quarantine Removed.

Health Inspector Wm. Addis has removed the quarantine at the home of R. M. Stelle on Stelle avenue, where there have been three cases of scarlet fever.

PLANNING TO COME THIS WAY

NEW TROLLEY LINE PROJECTED FROM ELIZABETH TO METUCHEN.

Will be Extended to Plainfield in the Near Future the Promoters Say.

Metuchen is interested in a new trolley scheme, according to a Metuchen dispatch published in the New Brunsick Times. Rahway is considering an ordinance granting a franchise to a new company which is to connect Carteret and Metuchen. The new line will have its eastern terminal at Carteret on the Staten Island sound and will come to Metuchen via Elizabeth, and Rahway. As yet Metuchen people are unacquainted with details concerning the new trolley concern.

The new trolley line will connect Rahway and the intermediate villages of Colonia, Iselin and Menlo Park, with Metuchen. The route the new company is expected to take is over Middlesex avenue nearly all the way from Rahway. The line will probably terminate at the intersection of Middiesex avenue with Main street in the heart of the borough.

It is understood that the new line, unless it connects with the Middlesex and Somerset line at this point, will extend to New Brunswick, over Middlesex avenue, or to Plainfield, or perhaps over the Bound Brook turnpike to Bound Brook. Metuchen promises to be a great trolley centre in time. The Raritan Traction Company and the Middlesex and Somerset Company have terminals there.

The Perth Amboy Company intends to extend its line to Plainfield. With three electric lines and a possibility of a fourth, and three steam railroads the Pennsylvania, Lehigh Valley and Philadelphia and Reading the town will have excellent railway facilities.

Rev. and Mrs. George Angleman, of Piermont, N. Y., have returned home after spending several days with relatives in this city.

YEAR'S WORK AT HILLSIDE

Circular Letter From Trustees to Members of Hillside Tennis and Golf Club.

A SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

The Club Is Now to Be Truly a Tennis and Golf Club—Owns Its Own Grounds—Summary of Season's Play in Competitions and Team Matches.

In place of the annual address of the president at the annual meeting of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, last evening, a circular letter was sent out by President George A. Chapman in behalf of the trustees, previous to the meeting. It contained a summary of what has been accomplished by the club during the past season; also a hint as to what may be expected during the coming season.

The circular was as follows:

In addition to the treasurer's annual report, a copy of which is furnished to each member, the trustees take pleasure in placing before you herein a resume of some things which have been accomplished by the club, and for the club, during the past year; and an outline of some of the improvements and new features which are projected for the coming season.

At the time of the last annual meeting, the club held a lease of the property it occupies at an annual rental of $573, together with an option of purchasing the property for the sum of $11,215; this option to be exercised on or before March first next. Last spring the trustees succeeded in buying the entire one hundred and six acres for $10,315, thus making a saving to the club of $900. At that time the club had bonds outstanding to the amount of $12,500, and the trustees then obtained additional subscriptions to bonds to the amount of $8,500. The original issue of bonds was retired and an new series issued aggregating $21,000, which represented the entire indebtedness of the club. These bonds are dated June 1, 1901, are redeemable at any time, and are payable June 1, 1921. They bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. until the total amount outstanding shall have been reduced to $10,000, and 4 per cent. thereafter. It is stipulated that bonds, drawn by lot, to the amount of at least $800 shall be redeemed each year from 1902 to 1907 inclusive. Although this stiplation did not provide for the retirement of any bonds until 1902, the trustees nevertheless paid off $500 in 1901. This was made possible partially by the income derived from the increase in the limit of the number of active members from two hundred and fifty to two hundred and seventy-five.

The absolute necessity for a material increase in storage capacity for water became apparent in 1900. The trustees have therefore erected a tank of over 8,000 gallons capacity at a cost of about $940. It is believed this will be adequate to supply the needs of the club for many years to come.

The marked improvement in the general condition of the golf course has elicited much commendation from our players, and the incorporation into the links of the twelve acres of land hitherto unused has introduced a variety of scene and play which has proved very attractive.

The greens committee have not been satisfied with the playing conditions of the fourth hole and under a special appropriation for this purpose, work was commenced in the fall, which when completed in the spring will, it is hoped, remedy existing faults. Some of the other holes are to be lengthened also, thus adding appreciably to the aggregate playing distance of the course.

During the season our golf team has engaged in six matches with the teams of other clubs, winning four and losing two of them.

The details are as follows:

May 25, Hillside, 8; Princeton 1904, 12; at Plainfield.

July 6 Hillside, 0; St. Pauls School, 17; at Plainfield.

July 20, Hillside, 22; New Brunswick, 7; at Plainfield.

July 21, Hillside, 46; Harbor Hill, 0; at Plainfield.

Oct. 19, Hillside, 10; New Brunswick, 6; at New Brunswick.

Nov. 2, Hillside, 16; Harbor Hill, 12; at Harbor Hill.

The following named men played on our team during the season: W. L. Glenney, J. H. P. Wharton, H. R. Stockton, R. F. Murray, F. C. Talmadge, W. Wadsworth, Robert Abbott, J. W. Baker, F. O. Reinhart, H. deP. Wright, M. J. Dumont, F. C. Ard, B. VanD. Hedges, Geo. Richards, and W. T. Kaufman.

It is worthy of note that of the above named men, four are now members of university golf teams, namely, W. Wadsworth, of Harvard, W. L. Glenney, of Columbia, and F. O. Reinhart and J. W. Baker, of Princeton, and that F. O. Reinhart is the golf champion of Princeton, and W. L. Glenney the golf champion of Columbia, and the captain of the Columbia team.

The golf committee proposes to arrange for matches during the coming season with some of the most prominent clubs in this section of the country, including Richmond County, Englewood and Fox Hills.

The record of our course (not in competition) was made by F. O. Reinhart, who returned the following card:

Out—	4	4	4	4	5	3	4	4	4—	36
In —	3	6	4	4	5	4	5	4	3—	38—74

Of the numerous cups which have been competed for by members of the club during the past season, the following have been finally awarded:

Championship cup, presented by George A. Chapman, won by W. Wadsworth.

Holiday cup, presented by E. R. Ackerman, won by G. T. VanBoskerck.

Golf Committee cup, presented by the golf committee, won by Robert Abbott.

Ladies' cup, presented by George P. Mellick, won by Miss L. vanHerwerden.

Ladies' Handicap cup, presented by Mrs. C. J. Fisk, won by Miss May Holly.

Kickers' Handicap cup, presented by H. M. Stockton, won by D. H. Barrows.

Appreciating the revival of interest in the game of lawn tennis, which has taken place during the past year, the trustees are laying out four courts which will be up-to date in every particular. They will be located adjacent to the club house so the play may be watched from the rear piazza; and the tennis committee, to be appointed, will use every endeavor to make the lawn tennis a prominent feature in the club. When this shall have been accomplished, the title "The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club" will become entirely appropriate for the first time in the history of the club.

It was again the privilege of the club to entertain its friends, the members of The Park Golf Club on Saturday, October 5. The weather was propitious and the fete was largely attended. Golfing events were arranged and took place at intervals during the day, resulting in prizes being awarded to the Misses vanHerwerden, Lapsley and M. Goddard, and to the Messrs. G. W. Abbott, H. deP. Wright and D. H. Barrows. Music and dancing in the evening closed the entertainment, which was generally voted to be a delightful success in every particular.

During the coming season the house committee will arrrange various social events; there will be a series of dinner dances given at the club house. The first one will be held in the early spring.

While congratulating the members upon the prosperous conditions now enjoyed by the club the trustees on behalf of the members would avail of this opportunity, to thank those kind friends who furnished the means with which the club was enabled to secure title to the beautiful property it occupies.

Want Modern Houses.

Owing to many improved dwellings being erected in Plainfield and vicinity, real estate owners have difficulty in renting some of their properties which are not of a modern character. These new houses are generally leased at a price not much in excess of that charged for the older houses, and the people prefer to pay a little more and have modern dwellings.

City Missionaries to Speak.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor, city missionaries, will take charge of the Endeavor Society meeting at the First Baptist church Friday evening. It will be a missionary meeting.

Supervisor Resigned.

A. A. Scott, who has for some time past been supervisor of the New Jersey Central from Somerville to Easton, including the High Bridge branch, has resigned his position.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

TWENTY-TWO YEARS OF 'PHONE SERVICE

Great Changes Since First Telephone Was Placed in Constitutionalist Office.

CAN TALK TO MILLION.

THERE ARE NOW 680 ON THE LOCAL EXCHANGE.

'Phone Communication With Bangor, Me., or Chicago, Ill., Local District Extends From Garwood to Three Bridges.

The announcement of the plans of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to increase its service in this city as published in yesterday's Daily Press, received widespread attention. No details aside from those already stated are known and cannot be learned until the arrival of the special agent tomorrow.

It is quite certain that the efforts of the company will largely increase the service. There are 680 telephones in this city at present. Within the last two years two hundred of these have been added. The system since its inauguration has rapidly increased and with it has come a reduction in the rates almost annually. Of the total number of 'phones in use in this city over 400 of them are in private residences.

There are eight operators kept constantly busy druing the day at the switch board in the central office on Park avenue. At night there are two operators. If the service increases as it has in the past this number will soon be increased. Connections can be had with over a million 'phones from the local office. A subscriber can talk to a friend in Bangor, Me., or in Chicago, Ill., and it only takes four or five minutes to get the party desired. If one desires he can speak to a party as far south as Nashville, Tenn., and the sound carries distinctly.

The first telephone placed in service by the company was that in what is now the Daily Press office, when the Constitutionalist was the sole publication issued by Force Brothers. This was in 1880. At that time the office of the telephone company was at the corner of Front street and Park avenue. In 1888 the concern removed to the McIntyre building on North avenue and four years ago it removed to the present quarters on Park avenue near Fourth street where all modern telephone improvements had been installed.

Charles W. Runyon, the present manager, was a foreman here when the local office commenced business. His services became more and more valuable to the company and in consequence he was promoted to the office of manager in 1899.

The territory of the local office extends from Garwood to Three Bridges and from Morristown to New Brunswick. There are six direct wires to the Cortlandt street office in New York and four to Newark three being a like number to New Brunswick. Between this city and Elizabeth there are three wires. The service today is in an excellent condition and the number of complaints is reduced to a minimum.

LIVES LOST IN STORM

Fifteen Thought to Have Perished on Long Island Coast.

ONE BARGE IS STILL AFLOAT.

Crew of the Stranded Ship L. Schepp Rescued After Two Days of Suffering and Peril—Another Big Blow Expected.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The body of another victim of the wreck of the barges, the debris from which has been floating ashore along the Long Island seacoast during the last two days, has floated ashore not far from Smith Point. The body was identified as that of Captain C. L. Miller of the barge Antelope, on one of the arms being tattooed the initials "C. L. M." This establishes without room for doubt that the Antelope was one of the barges wrecked. The Antelope was one of three coal laden barges which set out from Cape Henry on Friday bound for Providence in tow of the tug Richmond. Which of the other two was wrecked is not known. A part of the stern of the Antelope and a part of the stern of another lie not far from where the body washed up.

The third barge is still afloat; at least it was shortly before sundown last evening, when it was seen from Shinnecock drifting east of that point eight miles out and going farther to sea.

Another big blow is looked for. It is thought that at least fifteen lives have been lost along the coast.

The tug Richmond passed westward, evidently looking for her barges. She ran into a heavy snow flurry when east of Shinnecock and thus evidently missed the solitary barge. She continued westward and at 4:50 in the afternoon passed Fire Island well out to sea and bound westward. At 5:30 she was observed to turn and, going farther out to sea, start eastward again. From the course she took she ought to come up with her barge during the night if there are any men on board the barge and they hoist a light.

All of the crew of the stranded clipper ship L. Schepp are safe. Wind and wave subsided sufficiently to permit all but two members of the square rigger to jump to the deck of a wrecking tug which between waves and by keeping her screw going astern was able to place her nose in close proximity to the lee quarter of the sand imprisoned Hongkong ship.

Mrs. Soffel Coming to Her Senses.

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 5.—Realizing that she has ruined her husband Mrs. Soffel does not wish to bring further disgrace and humiliation upon him. She now desires a change of venue when she faces justice. In tears and with piteous pleading she made this request to Assistant District Attorney John S. Robb, Jr., of Allegheny county in the hospital here. She said she would go anywhere to have the punishment meted out to her for her disgraceful crime. She is willing to meet any fate the law may place upon her, but does not want the punishment administered in the courthouse across the street from her old home. She begged and pleaded with Mr. Robb for almost two hours to grant her this much. She begged in the name of her husband, who is Mr. Robb's friend, and told him that her husband was in no way to blame for her shameful conduct.

Not an Incendiary Fire.

WATERBURY, Conn., Feb. 5.—The talk of incendiarism as the cause of the awful conflagration which swept through the business section of the city Sunday night is pronounced rubbish by the owners of the buildings where the flames first broke out. George F. Hughes, head of the dry goods firm of Reid & Hughes, in whose building the original blaze started, said that the outbreak of the fire was undoubtedly due to defective electric light wiring. The second fire, which originated in the billiard room of the Scovill House, is now pronounced due to smoldering flame in goods from the burning buildings stored there.

A Salary Raising Bill.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Delegate Wilcox of Hawaii has introduced a bill increasing annual salaries as follows: President of the United States, $100,000; vice president, $25,000; cabinet officers, $15,000 each; members of congress, $10,000. Another bill by Mr. Wilcox fixes the salary of the governor of Hawaii at $8,000, with a schedule of salaries for various other Hawaiian officers.

Firemen Perish In St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 5.—During the progress of a fire in the building occupied by the American Tent and Awning company last night the structure suddenly collapsed, burying a company of firemen in the ruins. Four bodies have been taken out, and search is being made for others. It is not known definitely how many men were caught in the collapse.

LARGER SALARIES.

It is not to be expected that the Common Council could advance the salaries of four of the city officials without some criticism of that action being heard. A difference of $820 in the city pay-roll is bound to be noticed and it is the most natural question in the world for the most interested parties, the tax-payers, to ask why the change has been made. That is the question which is being heard on many sides today.

"The laborer is worthy of his hire" is the Biblical way in which George P. Mellick, chairman of the councilmanic finance committee, explained the reasons for recommending to the Common Council the increase in the salaries. These city officials were, he explained, exceptional men and the city should pay them a fair price for the eminently satisfactory work which they have done and are still doing. While these remarks were not made on the floor of the Council yet they perfectly expressed the reasons of the Common Council in taking the steps it did.

There can be no doubt but Plainfield has some very able public servants. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett has served the city well. He has been indefatigable in the pursuit of his duties and has never been found lacking. The increase in his salary was entirely unsolicited. Those who have any realization of the splendid work which he has done for the city will not question the justice in increasing his salary.

Never have the city finances been so well cared for as they are today by City Treasurer W. F. Arnold. His reports have been models and he has always been ready to keep the Common Council posted with the exact state of the city's treasury. Similar service to his would cost the city far more than the salary paid him. To show, however, their appreciation of his fine work, the Councilmen agreed to the raise.

The heads of the city departments of fire and police are both held in high estimation. Under their administrations, both departments have increased in efficiency. T. O. Doane has done good work as fire chief while Patrick Kiely has been successful as chief of police. To encourage a continuance of their good work and reward them for this zeal in the city's interests, they have been awarded additional pay.

Of course, there is going to be some criticism. It is expected. It is probable, however, that a majority of the people will feel that the increase in the salaries was good policy and perfectly justified by the circumstances.

In some cities, it would be considered a preliminary move to raiding the city treasury but Plainfield is well governed and its Common Council is above such low motives and influences. The change has been made because the members of the Council believe it a proper one. If, however, the policy is continued and other city officials, who are doing their work well, receive similar treatment, there is likely to come a decided howl from the tax-payers.

The school authorities on both sides of the brook have apparently been inclined to dodge the question of compulsary vaccination heretofore. The City School Board has now taken the initiative in the matter and is seriously considering the subject. Pending any action, the board is going to find out what other cities are doing and on that report, the local course is likely to depend.

The news of reduced rates for local telephones is a welcome one for the people of Plainfield.

FORMER PLAINFIELDER DEAD

REV. E. H. STEWART DIED AT MONONGAHELA CITY, PA., MONDAY.

Was Born in New Market in 1839—He Leaves One Brother and One Sister.

Word was received in this city, yesterday, of the death of Rev. E. H. Stewart, a former Plainfielder, which occurred at his home in Monongahela City, Pa., Monday evening. The funeral services will be held from his late home this afternoon.

Mr. Stewart was born at New Market in 1839. His early boyhood was spent in this city and when a young man, he entered the ministry. He remained in this section for some time and enlisted in the Civil War from Trenton, serving as a private its entire length. He eventually went west but returned to this city at various times. His last trip here was about two years ago.

He leaves one brother, D. F. Stewart, of John street, and one sister, Mrs. J. B. Martin, of Manson place.

DOMINANT FEATURES.

College Songs and Popular Music by Columbia's Musical Clubs.

Great interest is being manifested and the sale of tickets highly pleasing in connection with the concert to be given by the Columbia University Glee and Mandolin Clubs at the Casino tomorrow night. A full attendance is assured and all will be highly delighted at the splendid programme to be presented. Popular music, interspersed with college songs, will be the dominant features. The Columbia boys will be "on their mettle," for they have heard of "wondrous deeds" in song and music by other college organizations. They claim, however, equality with the best musical organizations in the country and promise satisfaction.

Death of Mrs. Pearson.

The death of Mrs. Arthur D. Pearson, of this city, occurred this morning at 60 West One Hundred and First street, New York, where she has been stopping for the winter. She was the widow of A. D. Pierson and formerly lived on Sherman avenue. The remains will be brought to this city today when the funeral arrangements will be made.

Died at Industrial Home.

Thomas Rous, a fifty-five year old colored inmate of the Industrial home, died at the institution yesterday afternoon. He was an old resident of this city and worked for many of the prominent families. His last position was with Smalley Brothers, the butchers. He leaves one brother, William Rous, of West Fourth street.

Endeavor Business Meeting.

A business meeting was held by the Warren chapel Christian Endeavor Society last evening. Preceding it were short devotional exercises, led by Charles Bryan.

Three Candidates.

Freedom Castle, K. G. E., initiated three candidates at a largely attended meeting last evening.

—The declaration that the White Label brand of canned goods are the best on the market, is never disputed. Nenman Brothers sell them.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

"Tsatlee Silk," a mixture of fine Italian silk and Egyptian cotton, delightfully soft with high lustre. Patterns include some stylish gray and white corded effects and raised figures. In solid white it is simply exquisite. Width is 32 inches. Price is 79c per yd.

"Tramsilk," similar to above in appearance but comes in solid white only. It is indescribably beautiful and must be seen to be appreciated.
Width 32 in. Price 79c yd.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Richards, of Greenbrook, was the chief participant in an exciting runaway on North avenue, yesterday afternoon. She had been in the post-office. Upon coming out she took hold of the lines before she got into the wagon. When she attempted to get into the wagon she slipped and fell, pulling on the lines and scaring the horse. The animal started to run up North avenue, but Mrs. Richards, who had grasped the wagon-body in her fall, pluckily held on to the reins. The horse finally jerked the lines from her hand and she fell, but luckily she was not struck by the wagon to the great relief of several bystanders who expected to see her severely injured. The horse continued its flight up North avenue, but was finally caught. It was found that no damage had been done, except the shock sustained by Mrs. Richards in her fall.

Ernest Peters, a popular young resident of this place, was given a surprise party last evening by a number of his friends. The occasion was the celebration of his nineteenth birthday. The company assembled in a body at Mr. Peters' home and took him completely by surprise. He soon recovered himself however and made a capital host. The evening was passed pleasantly with games, music and dancing. Refreshments were served about midnight. A number of the guests were from Plainfield and other places.

INCREASE OF SALARY FOR HEALTH INSPECTOR

Plainfield Board of Health Took Action at a Regular Meeting Held Yesterday.

VACCINATION REPORTS.

INSPECTOR ADDIS SUMMED UP WORK DURING FIVE YEARS OF SERVICE.

Raised His Salary From $63 to $75 a Month—Report of Health Officer Thurlow on Small-Pox and Vaccination.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday afternoon, when matters chiefly of a routine order were considered. There was a general discussion of the recent outbreak of small-pox and other contagious diseases and reports bearing on these subjects were presented and discussed.

Health Inspector Addis, who has been in his present position five years, presented a general report of his work for that time. This showed that he had made 10,005 visits in the five years. During last month he made 142 visits.

In view of the excellent services rendered by Mr. Addis, the board decided to increase his salary from $63 to $75 per month. The members were agreed that the inspector is deserving of more pay.

Health Officer Leon R. Thurlow submitted a report giving the history of the recent vaccination conducted by the Board of Health. There were 1,381 treated, in all about 9 per cent. of the population. The youngest person treated was four months old and the oldest eighty-five years. The table is as follows: Under 5 years, 74; 5 to 10 years, 314; 10 to 20 years, 483; 20 to 40 years, 380; 40 to 60 years, 130; over 60, 10. In connection with the outbreak of small-pox it is interesting to note that Alexander Campbell, one of the victims, had not been vaccinated since childhood, neither had Mrs. Patterson, another patient. Mr. Campbell's children had never been vaccinated.

Mr. Thurlow reported that eighteen dairies had been inspected and that progress is being made on the new sanitary code now being drafted. The general health of the city as reported to be excellent.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Considerable comment has arisen in local political and educational circles because of the bill introduced at Trenton by Assemblyman Myron J. Whitford, who represents this township. Mr. Whitford's bill proposes to establish a State university where New Jersey students may study free of expense. An appropriation of $1,300,000 is carried by the bill. According to the "New York Sun" the plan is generally opposed by the Assembly.

Several young people from South Plainfield attended the fair given by the Red Men in Saengerbund Hall, North Plainfield, last evening.

Superintendent of Schools Harry Cathers visited the different departments at the local school, yesterday.

Hollis B. Cubberley is detained at home by an attack of bronchitis.

PERSONAL.

Hon. William C. Mayne, of the Philadelphia bar, was a guest of Ralph L. Morrow, of East Fifth street, yesterday. Mr. Mayne is the Quay leader of Bucks county, Pa.

Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, is slightly improved today. His chances for recovery are considered more favorable.

L. J. Randolph, the well known florist, who has been visiting at the home of his aunts, Mrs. D. J. Boice, of Park avenue, and Mrs. Catherine Randolph, of West Front street, returned to his home in Illinois today.

Not in Trust Company.

Both State Senator Charles A. Reed and J. Fred MacDonald desire The Daily Press to state that no one has been given any authority to use their names in connection with any proposed trust company for Plainfield. They both deny any connection with or interest in such a concern.

Just as a Fire

spreads in dry grass and weeds, so does an inflammation of the throat—the result of a cold—grow down into the sensitive air-passages of the lungs. The cold, like the fire, should be promptly dealt with. When you begin to cough, use Allen's Lung Balsam. It will certainly heal the sore throat and lungs and it may save you from consumption.

FELL DEAD IN A KITCHEN

JOSEPH DILKS, OYSTER DEALER, WAS STRICKEN AT G. O. STEVEN'S HOME.

Mrs. Stevens Found Him Lying Dead on the Floor This Morning.

Joseph Dilks, an oyster dealer, living at 738 West Fourth street, died about 9 o'clock this morning under peculiar circumstances.

He left his home in his usual good health to serve oysters to his customers. Among the first places he stopped at was at the home of George O. Stevens on Compton avenue. He received Mrs. Stevens' order and gave her the oysters. She left him standing by the kitchen stove for a few minutes while she went to another part of the house. When she returned she found Mr. Dilks outstretched on the floor, dead. Heart trouble was the cause of death.

Mr. Dilks was seventy-five years of age and has lived in Plainfield about seven years. He formerly lived at Bridgeton and was for years a well-known sea captain. He leaves a wife and five sons. Of the latter one works at the Pond Machine Tool Works, one in New Brunswick, two live in Bridgeton and one in Philadelphia.

H. C. Compton, of West Front street, broke the sad news to Mrs. Dilks and she is prostrated with grief.

Fractured Arm in a Fall.

Mrs. Sophia Stahl, of Grove street, fell on the ice, yesterday morning, as she was passing the home of Rev. George Hauser, on Duer street. On arising she felt considerable pain in her right arm which was afterward found to be a fracture. The injury was reduced by Dr. Rushmore. She was first taken into the residence of Mr. Hauser and subsequently to her home.

Evening of Whist.

A card party was given at the home of L. M. French, of Craig place, last evening. Whist was the game and there were sixteen participants. Miss Lizzie Smalley won the woman's prize and Dr. Frank Whitney French the men's prize. A collation was served at a late hour.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

SALARIES INCREASED

Senate Votes Supreme Court Judges Better Pay.

AN ADDITIONAL $2,500 A YEAR.

Senator Hoar Presents a Petition For Suspension of Hostilities In the Philippines While Leaders Confer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—After brief discussion yesterday the senate passed the bill providing for a 25 per cent increase in the salaries of United States judges. All amendments were voted down, including one to increase the salaries of cabinet officers from $8,000 to $12,500 a year.

During the remainder of the day's session the urgent deficiency appropriation bill was under consideration, the Philippine tariff measure being laid aside temporarily.

Mr. Hansbrough (N. D.) made a spirited defense of Judge Arthur H. Noyes of the district court of Alaska and Alexander McKenzie, upon whom an attack was made in the senate Monday. This precipitated a long discussion of the Noyes case, legal and technical rather than personal. No action could be taken on this subject, but the discussion will be continued today under the latitude allowed when appropriation bills are pending.

Senator Hoar presented a petition signed by a number of distinguished citizens of this country praying for the suspension of hostilities in the Philippine Islands and asking that an opportunity be given for a discussion of the situation between the government and the Filipino leaders.

The following are among the names attached to the petition:

Carl Schurz, George F. Edmunds, Judson Harmon, J. Sterling Morton, George S. Boutwell, Charles Francis Adams, W. D. Howells, Mark Twain, Rev. C. H. Parkhurst, W. Bourke Cockran, Robert Treat Paine, T. K. Boyesen, Bishop Huntington, Bishop Vincent, Anson Phelps Stokes, John Burroughs and William Lloyd Garrison. Included in the list are the names of thirty-six professors in the Chicago university and a number of other educators.

Mr. John F. Dryden was inducted into office as the successor of the late Senator William J. Sewell of New Jersey.

Debate on the oleomargarine bill continued in the house, and the prospects are that a vote will not be reached earlier than Thursday.

The opponents of the bill are making a strong fight so far as the presentation of argument is concerned.

The Cuban Fraud Trials.

HAVANA, Feb. 5.—At the trials yesterday of the Cuban postal fraud cases Mr. Marshall, formerly one of C. F. W. Neely's assistant bookkeepers, testified regarding the miscellaneous accounts that many vouchers for freight were sent to the postmasters of Cuba when the goods in question were shipped to them. Former Superintendent of Mails Newman testified that he was with Neely at the time that Reeves said Neely gave him (Reeves) $4,600 to fix up the accounts. Before summoning Newman the president of the court sharply cross examined Neely regarding his whereabouts on the day in question. Neely said he did not see Reeves that day, that he was in the company of C. M. Rich up to 11 o'clock in the morning of that day and that he then met Newman, who remained with him until he sailed. Rich has previously corroborated Neely in this statement.

Wanted to See Murderers' Remains.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 5.—For a short time yesterday the public was allowed to view the remains of the Biddle brothers. The mob about the Beinhauer undertaking establishment finally became so great that the doors were closed by the police on account of the crush. Thousands of people, mostly women, were unable to gain admission to view the bodies, and for several hours after the closing of the doors hundreds lingered about the place, hoping that the doors would be opened again. Many women carried flowers for the dead, which they left with the undertaker to be placed on the graves.

Dowie Settles Out of Court.

CHICAGO, Feb. 5.—On the announcement in court by the counsel in the Dowie-Stephenson suit for a receivership of the Zion lace industries that an agreement had been reached by the parties to the suit out of court Judge Tuley dismissed the suit and announced that Elmer Washburn, whom he had named as receiver, would not be appointed. Attorneys for both sides refuse to announce the basis of the settlement, but it is supposed that the full amount claimed by Samuel Stephenson, about $250,000, is close to the amount agreed upon.

Six Lost on a Barge.

BOSTON, Feb. 5.—The Boston Towboat company has received word from Beliport, N. Y., that a name board bearing the last three letters of the name of the barge Antelope has come ashore among wreckage near that point. This is taken as confirming the fear that the barge was wrecked in Sunday night's storm and that the six persons on board, including Captain Charles Miller and his wife, perished.

Dynamite Damaged Buildings Unsafe

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—President Cantor has received a report from Building Superintendent Stewart and his inspectors declaring that the Murray Hill and Grand Union hotels, the Manhattan Eye and Ear hospital and the private dwellings at 99 Park avenue and 38 East Thirty-ninth street are unsafe as a result of the explosion in the Park avenue tunnel.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. SHORT SKIRTS.

They Are Much Longer and Much More Trimmed.

Golf skirts are growing longer and skirts for walking length shorter. The result is that the clever girl with a small income can make one garment supply the wants of two. These short skirts are slowly but surely following the general tendency to overornamentation. They are banded with rich fur, headed and edged by folds of the goods, and the seams take the form of narrow clusters of tucks stitched down flat and flaring about the feet. On all the smartest models a gored and heavily stitched flounce is a necessity.

It goes without saying that as a result of this trimming the skirt materials are much lighter in weight and that many of the skirts are made of ordinary dress goods lined with silk.

The hats which go with the short skirt costumes are soft and becoming in shape and are trimmed with pale colored ribbon or breasts.

Capes are only used for riding and other occasions where an extra wrap is required. The most useful cape is one of velvet or broadcloth cut circular and having a very full circular flounce. Both the edge of the flounce and its heading are heavily stitched. The collar can either be of the standup variety or a medici shape, fastening close about the throat. Very pretty capes are made of deep red lined with the same color or of white lined with Persian silk in pale colors.

A smart golfing costume for cold days is shown in the cut. The shirt waist is made of unshrinkable flannel, with a cape collar of plain silk of the same shade and a tie also of the same material. The waist has full sleeves gathered into a narrow cuff. The belt is of patent leather. The short skirt is of rough hairy goods and is cut so as to flare at the bottom.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

NOVEL TOUCHES.

Characteristics of Some of the Latest Gowns and Waists.

A good many collars are being cut in square lines, and the same holds true of decolletages. Short, square yokes are edged with embroidery and filled in with rare bits of old lace. In many cases the collar itself seems to be continued down into a square effect both back and front. A great many dresses even for elderly people, have strappings and embroideries across the back, simulating sailor collars, and the same line is seen on outside garments both for day and evening wear. The fashionable back must be broad and flat between the shoulders.

Belts and sashes of Persian ribbon are very fashionable just at present and figure on most of the dressy gowns. The Persian ribbons come in all widths and in all degrees of gorgeousness. They are not only used for sashes, but, joined together by lines of feather-stitching, they are made into most chic waists and petticoats, and they also figure in the tea gowns which English women have made so popular among us. They are also cut up to make tiny boleros, and the irregular applications are a feature of every smart gown.

Single large orchids are to be seen on separate waists. The orchid serves to fasten the bolero or fichu with which the waist is trimmed. These waists are used for theater and informal dinner occasions.

The toque shown in the cut is of rough white felt arranged in five folds and held down by two wide, short straps of velvet. A black and white plaid scarf forms the sole trimming. This is knotted carelessly around the brim and falls over the hair in the back.

only wait, Mr Kitwater," I replied. "Wait, and if I can help you, you shall have your treasure back again. Will you then be satisfied?"

"Yes, I'll be satisfied," he answered, but with what struck me as almost reluctance. "Yes, when I have my treasure back again I'll be satisfied, and so will Codd. In the meantime I'll wait here in the dark, the dark in which the days and nights are the same. Yes, I'll wait and wait and wait."

At that moment Miss Kitwater made her reappearance in the garden, and I rose to bid my clients farewell.

"Good-by, Mr. Kitwater," I said. "I'll write immediately I reach Paris, and let you know how I am getting on."

"You are very kind," Kitwater answered, and Codd nodded his head.

My hostess and I then set off down the drive to the high-road which we followed towards the village. It was a perfect evening, and the sun was setting in the west in a mass of crimson and gold. At first we talked of various commonplace subjects, but it was not very long before we came back, as I knew we should do, to the one absorbing topic.

"There is another thing I want to set right with you, Miss Kitwater," I said, as we paused upon the bridge to which I have elsewhere referred. "It is only a small matter. Somehow, however, I feel that I must settle it, before I can proceed further in the affair with any satisfaction to myself."

She looked at me in surprise.

"What is it?" she asked, "I thought we had settled everything."

"So far as I can see that is the only matter that remains," I answered. "Yet it is sufficiently important to warrant my speaking to you about it. What I want to know is, whom I am serving?"

"I don't think I understand," she said, drawing lines with her umbrella upon the stone coping of the bridge as she spoke.

"And yet my meaning is clear," I returned. "What I want to be certain of is, whether I am serving you or your uncle?"

"I don't think you are serving either of us," she answered. "You are helping us to right a great wrong."

"Forgive me, but that is merely trifling with words. I am going to be candid once more. You are paying the money, I believe?"

In some confusion she informed me that this certainly was the case.

"Very well, then, I am certainly your servant," I said. "It is your interests I shall have to study."

"I can trust them implicitly to you, I am sure, Mr. Fairfax," she replied. "And now here we are at the church. If you walk quickly you will be just in time to catch your train. Let me thank you again for coming down to-day."

"It has been a great pleasure to me," I replied. "Perhaps when I return from Paris you will permit me to come down again to report progress?"

"We shall be very pleased to see you," she answered. "Now good-by, and a pleasant journey to you!"

We shook hands and parted. As I passed along the road I watched her making her way along the avenue towards the church. There was need for me to shake my head.

"George Fairfax," said I, "it would require very little of that young lady's society to enable you to make a fool of yourself."

CHAPTER VIII.

Unlike so many of my countrymen I am prepared to state that I detest the French capital. I always make my visits to it as brief as possible, then, my business completed, off I fly again, seeming to breathe more freely when I am outside its boundaries. I don't know why this should be so, for I have always been treated with the utmost courtesy and consideration by its inhabitants, particularly by those members of the French detective force with whom I have been brought in contact.

On this visit I crossed with one of the cleverest Parisian detectives, a man with whom I have had many dealings. He was most anxious to ascertain the reason of my visit to his country. My assurance that I was not in search of any one of his own criminals seemed to afford him no sort of satisfaction. He probably regarded it as an attempt to put him off the scent, and I fancy he resented it. We reached Paris at seven o'clock, whereupon I invited him to dine with me at eight o'clock, at a restaurant we had both patronized on many previous occasions. He accepted my invitation, and promised to meet me at the time and place I named. On the platform awaiting our arrival was my man Dickson, to whom I had telegraphed, ordering him to meet me.

"Well, Dickson," I said, when I had bade the detective au revoir, "what about our man?"

"I've had him under my eye, sir," he answered. "I know exactly what he's been doing, and where he's staying."

"That's good news, indeed," I replied. "Have you discovered anything else about him?"

"Yes, sir," he returned. "I find that he's struck up a sudden acquaintance with a lady named Mme. Beaumarais, and that they are to dine together at the Cafe des Ambassadeurs to-night. They have been in and out of half the jewelers' shops in the Rue de la Paix to-day, and he's spending a mint of money on her."

"They are dining at the Cafe des Ambassadeurs to-night, did you say? At what time?"

"I cannot tell you that, sir," Dickson replied. "I only know that they are to dine there together to-night."

"And pray how did you find that out?"

"I made inquiries as to who she was, and where she lived, and then pumped her maid," he answered.

"You did not do anything that would excite his suspicions, I hope," I put in. "You ought to know by this time what women are."

"Oh, no, sir, you needn't be afraid," he said. "I was too careful for that. The maid and I are on very friendly terms. She believes me to be a Russian, and I've not denied it."

"It would be safest not to do so," I replied. "If she discovers that you are an Englishman, she might chance to mention the fact to her mistress. She would doubtless let it fall in conversation with him, and then all our trouble would be useless. You speak Russian, do you not?"

"Ony pretty well, sir," he answered. "I should be soon bowled out if I came in contact with a real one."

"Well, I think I will be somewhere near the Cafe des Ambassadeurs to-night just to make sure of my man. After that I'll tell you what to do next."

AGAIN THE BLIZZARD.

Western New York In the Grasp of Another Storm.

BUFFALO, Feb. 5.—Just when railroad men were beginning to get their trains moving with some regard to schedule time the storm which has prevailed intermittently since Sunday struck the city again last night with redoubled force. With the thermometer near the zero mark and the wind blowing a gale, the men who have been struggling to keep street car lines and steam railroads open are almost in despair.

Mails from the east and west arrived from one to five hours late during the day, but trains from northern Pennsylvania points had been canceled in many instances, and the regular mail service was demoralized.

No perishable freight is accepted by the railroads, and very little freight of any kind has been moved.

Railways Still Tied Up.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 5.—As an aftermath of the storm of Sunday and Monday everything is in a chaotic state on the railroads entering this city, although valiant efforts have been made to restore order. Partial success in this direction has been accomplished by but two roads, the New York Central main line and the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburg. Towns between this city and Canandaigua are completely isolated from the rest of the world. No mail either way has passed over the Auburn route since Saturday night. The Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg is completely tied up, and the same condition prevails on the Erie.

Michigan Storm Swept.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 5.—The whole of western Michigan is being swept by a terrific blizzard, the fiercest of the year and one of the worst the railroads have had to contend with in years. Trains from the north were three to five hours late, and the big plows are doing their best to prevent a complete blockade, which seemed likely last night, as the storm showed no signs of abatement, and the snow was drifting badly. Country roads are completely blocked by huge drifts, and the free rural delivery service is knocked out for the first time since its establishment in Michigan.

Schley In Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5.—The trip of Admiral and Mrs. Schley through east Tennessee from Chattanooga to Knoxville was one that they never will forget. At Cleveland, Athens, Sweetwater, Loudon and Lenoir City and smaller places along the route the entire populations of the towns met the train. At all the points Admiral and Mrs. Schley were called to the rear platform of their private car, where the admiral shook hands with the people, while Mrs. Schley was virtually buried in floral offerings from school children. Darkness did not diminish the crowds, and immense bonfires gleamed at many places. Admiral Schley's entrance into Knoxville at 8 o'clock last night was made amid a perfect din of steam whistles and bells. Packed in the Union station were fully 5,000 persons, who cheered again and again as the train arrived.

American Spongers Poaching.

NASSAU, New Providence, Feb. 5.—Considerable excitement is prevailing here over the visitation of twenty or more American sponging vessels from Key West which are gathering sponges on the Bahama banks in waters which the Bahama spongers have heretofore considered as belonging exclusively to themselves. Full details of the operations of the visiting vessels are being gathered, and there is reason to believe that the matter may be presented at Washington for consideration by the British and American governments.

Gas Works Explode.

OGDEN, Utah, Feb. 5.—A fire followed by a terrific explosion at the Rio Grande Western railroad Pintsch gas works caused the following casualties: Assistant Chief Alonzo Rogers, severely burned; Zeb Lowe, fireman, badly burned; George Lockhead, employee at gas works, slightly injured; two railroad men, names unknown, slightly burned. Ten tanks of gas exploded, and the shock was felt all over the city, causing great excitement.

Schwab Out For Pleasure.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel corporation, arrived in London last night. When interviewed, he again said that he only came to Europe for a holiday and declared the rumors that he was negotiating on behalf of J. Pierpont Morgan to be unfounded.

TAFT ON PHILIPPINES

Governor of the Islands Answers Many Questions.

MAJORITY OF NATIVES FOR PEACE.

Not Much Reliance to Be Placed on Reports by Private Letters. The War Has Been Conducted Humanely.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Governor Taft continued his narrative before the senate committee on the Philippines concerning conditions in the Philippine archipelago.

Governor Taft said that the great majority of the people of the islands desire peace and that the insurrectionists were by their acts preventing the mass of the people from settling down and earning a quiet living. Instead of being allowed to do this they were kept under a system of terrorism which should be stopped.

Governor Taft took up and analyzed the army's work in the islands. He recalled that as soon as General Otis had received re-enforcements sufficient for his purposes the Philippine army had broken up and scattered into guerrilla bands.

In response to a question by Senator Patterson as to the practices of the Macabebes Governor Taft warned the committee and others against accepting without a great degree of allowance the statements made in private letters. He considered most of these as unreliable, judging from what he had seen of them. In general it was impossible to prevent retaliation by private soldiers under all circumstances. As a rule, the witness said, American prisoners were treated well by the Filipinos. This, so far as he knew, was uniformly true of the Filipino officers who were high in command. There were some cases to the contrary on the part of subordinate Filipino officers. He had not, he said in reply to a question from Senator Culberson, known anything of the reports of the killing of Filipino prisoners with the knowledge of General Metcalf of Kansas. Governor Taft said that notwithstanding he was not in an attitude of favor to military rule it was still his deliberate judgement that "never had a war been conducted in which more compassion, more restraint and more generosity had been exhibited than in connection with the American war in the Philippines."

In this connection Senator Culberson made inquiry concerning the effect of the policy of concentration in the Philippines. Replying, Governor Taft said that General Bell's order for concentration had been published since his departure from Manila. He, however, had talked with General Bell on that point and had told him that he did not consider such an order necessary, because he was of opinion that a proper degree of pressure brought to bear on the wealthy men of Batangas would have the effect of causing the province to yield without making a sweeping order of concentration.

After reading a part of General Bell's order Senator Culberson asked if he still entertained the same opinions previously expressed as to the military policy in the Philippines. To this Governor Taft replied: "The war has been all over these islands, and that which remains is a crime against civilization. It is also a crime against the Filipino people to keep up a state of war under the circumstances. They have worn out the right to any treatment but that which is severe and within the laws of war."

In conclusion Governor Taft was questioned concerning the acts of the Philippine commission for the punishment of treason, but he expressed a desire to postpone discussion of this matter to a time when more attention could be given it. He had not, he said, been present when this law was enacted, but he had an opinion on the subject which he would be glad to give.

The committee then adjourned for the day.

Antitrust Cases Dropped.

LINCOLN, Neb., Feb. 5.—The last of the antitrust suits begun in Nebraska was disposed of yesterday by the supreme court. It was the action in which the court was asked to find that the transfer of the Argo Starch company's plant at Nebraska City to the National Starch company be declared null and void. When the case was called yesterday, Attorney General Prout made a motion to dismiss, and the court, without comment, had the case stricken from the docket.

Boy Violinist Appears.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The youngest of all violin virtuosi made his bow to a metropolitan audience at Carnegie hall last night. Florizel, who is nine years old, played a programme containing numbers from Mozart, Vieuxtemps, Wieniawski, Paganini and Bach. Music critics and students were well represented in the audience, and they expressed amazement at the broad conception shown by the boy of the several compositions he played.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Feb. 5.—Elijah Thomas, a well known old negro hermit, has been burned to death in his mountain hut near Spring Green. Thomas gave the government valuable assistance in locating moonshine distilleries in the mountains a year ago. His brother was burned to death fifteen years ago.

PREPARING TO AMEND THE MARTIN STATUTE

Newark Lawyer Has Two Amendments to the Famous Martin Act.

TO PREVENT EXACTIONS.

HOW THE ACT HAS WORKED TROUBLE IN NEWARK.

Matter Taken Up by Republican Indian League, of Newark—Drafts of Two Amendments Have Been Prepared.

For the purpose of bringing an end to exactions in the enforcement of the Martin Act, which has been taken advantage of by the City of Plainfield, as well as many other places throughout the State, it is now proposed this winter to introduce a new statute in the Legislature. The law is nearly ready and the prospects of its adoption seem to be excellent.

This movement, to change the Martin Act to prevent the imposition of exorbitant charges, has been steadily progressing. It is admitted that thousands of dollars are taken every year from unfortunate taxpayers, not by the city, but by individuals who purchase old tax liens at prices far beyond the amount of the city's claim, for the purpose of securing the high rate of interest on the whole amount and a large sum in other fees included in the charges.

The matter was taken up by the Republican Indian League, of Newark, at the instance of Lawyer John H. McCracken, who has now prepared two amendments to the law. These amendments have been carefully drawn and approved of by the League. A statement has been prepared showing the amounts realized at the Martin Act sale in Newark. The total amount of the city claim was $37,000; the total amount paid for these claims by the purchasers was $111,000, and it is on this sum that the owners of the property are required to pay 10 per cent. interest per annum when the property is redeemed for the entire period from the date of the sale until the time of redemption.

The amendments to the law prepared are two in number. One provides that the interest charge of 10 per cent. shall be made only against the sum actually due for taxes or assessments at the time of the Martion Act sale, and that no interest shall be allowed on any amount paid by the purchaser in excess of the sum actually due at the time of the sale. This would stop the collection of interest on excessive amounts bid by speculative individuals.

The second amendment relates to the fee charged for a search It provides that no search fee shall be demanded, allowed, approved or required to be paid in excess of the sum of $25 for any lot, plot or tract of land sold as one parcel, although said parcel may actually contain one or more city lots.

As Plainfield has been and is still deriving the benefits of the Martin Act no doubt there are many Plainfielders who will be interested in this movement. There are any number of people who believe that the act works a hardship and anything that will tend to relieve that will be welcomed most heartily. It will be noted that the amendments do not deprive a city from reaping a fair compensation in sales under this act.

RIPS IN THE ROCKIES.

Illustrated Lecture at Y. M. C. A. by Rev. D. W. Skellenger Tuesday.

One of the professors in the Columbian University, of Washington, D. C., in speaking of the lecture of Rev. D. W. Skellenger, says: "Mr. Skellenger's lecture was clear and graphic, and we felt that the hour spent with him was many hours gained. He knows his subject and has the happy faculty of imparting his knowledge to others."

Mr. Skellonger's lecture entitled "Rips in the Rockies" will be given in the supplemental course of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening. The lecture will be illustrated with 100 fine stereopticon views, many of them colored from nature. Tickets of admission can be obtained free of charge at the Y. M. C. A. building and at the city drug stores. An offering will be received to defray expenses.

Supreme Deputy Installed.

Protective Conclave, Improved Order Heptasophs, met Tuesday evening, when Deputy Supreme Archon J. V. E. Vanderhoef installed the officers-elect. One candidate was initiated.

AFTER ICY SIDEWALKS.

City Employes Are Busy Sprinkling Ashes on Neglected Sidewalks.

Street Commissioner Gavett placed a gang of men at work, yesterday, in order to remedy as far as possible the icy condition of the sidewalks. The men were accompanied by teams hauling cartloads of ashes which were sprinkled over the sidewalks. Many of the West End streets were treated in this way and the work will be continued in other sections until a thaw comes.

ONE MORE LICENSE WANTED

J. H. M'VEY APPLIES FOR ONE FOR HIS HOTEL AND RESTAURANT.

Two Other New Applicants for Old Locations—They Are A. B. Roesell and C. L. Strong.

The Common Council adjourned from last Monday evening to Monday evening, February 24, so that the liquor licenses can be considered and acted upon before March 1. This is necessary as the present licenses expire on the latter date.

An error was made yesterday in reporting the number of licenses. There is in reality one additional applicant. That is J. H. McVey, who did not have a license last year. A. B. Rosell, who now has the cafe adjoininng McVey's restaurant, and Charles L. Strong, of the Plainfield Hotel, are new applicants. Both of these were licensed last year, but this is the first time these men have made application for a license. Last year in each case the license was transferred. In one case from John Walshe to Charels L. Strong and in the other from George O. Stevens assignee to A. B. Rosell.

It was also stated yesterday that Michael Clark is an applicant. This was an error. It should be Bernard Clark. With an old applicant it is not necessary to get signers, but all new applicants are obliged to do this. The applications will be published, as usual, after which the Council will take action on them.

MANY AT FAIR.

Still Big Crowds Attend the Red Men's Fair at Saengerbund Hall—Programme Given.

Again last evening the feature of the Red Men's fair at Saengerbund hall was the extraordinary attendance. Each evening in turn the crowd seems to grow larger, and proportionally the patronage appears to increase.

A short programme enlivened the occasion last evening. Among the attractions was the Black Diamond quartette. The songs and stunts of these comical colored men were greeted with hearty applause. The Edgar trio, which was booked to appear Tuesday evening, was one of the features. The variety performance given by these young people caught the crowd and produced a complimentary reception. F. O. Smith recited cleverly.

As for the minor contests they were well patronized and a goodly sum was realized from this source during the evening. The Imperial orchestra was present and it furnished the music for the dancers, who crowded the floor during the major part of the evening.

This evening the Gesang and Turn Verein will be present in response to an invitation.

NEW STATE SECRETARY.

Y. M. C. A. Committee Selects E. W. Hearne, Will Begin March 1.

Edward L. Hearne, who lately was engaged in the work of the army department of the Y. M. C. A. at Manila, has been made State Secretary of the New Jersey Y. M. C. A., and will enter upon his new duties about March 1. He is a graduate of Iowa Wesleyan University, and was engaged for a short time in the college department of the Young Men's Christian Association.

In 1894 Mr. Hearne became local secretary at Oskaloosa. For three years he was a member of the National Guard of Iowa, and in April 1898, enlisted for service in the Spanish-American War, and shortly afterward was sent to the Philippines, where he participated in a number of engagements, remaining until mustered out, having previously received the rank of first lieutenant.

A Hat Talk.

The programme for the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary Society Saturday evening, includes a "hat talk." The proposed constitution will also come up for consideration.

PLAINFIELD'S SHARE IN M'KINLEY MEMORIAL

This City Has So Far Contributed But $104 to That Very Worthy Fund.

AMOUNT ASKED FOR.

CONTRIBUTIONS MAY BE SENT TO ALEX. GILBERT OR THIS OFFICE.

Money Has Been Asked For on Basis of $18 for Each 1,000 Persons—Plainfield's Share Would be $275.

Another appeal has been made by the McKinley Memorial Association, of New Jersey, to the people of this city. The request is that the citizens show their love to the memory of the martyr president by contributing to the funds, which it is intended to use in fittingly perpetuating the greatness of the lamented chief executive of the Nation.

It is pointed out by John S. Gibson, the secretary of the association, that Plainfield has not showed the spirit of patriotism in the matter, and that the subscriptions from this city do not come up to expectations so far as the total amount is concerned. Thus far only $104 has been received from Plainfield and this falls far short of what the association believed would be the sum total of the contributions.

From the State, the McKinley National Memorial Association expects at least $30,000. Taking this as a basis, $18 is the sum marked up against each 100 persons in the total population. From this city it was naturally supposed that at least $400 would be received, but as stated the collections do not come anywhere near that sum. All the association really asks for is $275, and it is declared that all citizens should contribute even a small amount to this worthy cause. It has been said that the object is one free from politics and rises far above it. The aim, as stated by one contributor, is to appropriately commemorate the nobility of the fallen chosen leader of a great nation.

Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, has been selected to receive any and all contributions and to properly acknowledge the sums donated. Any one desiring to contribute may send the offering to his address, No. 318 West Eighth street, or to this office.

Out of a total population of over 17,000, there has only been found eleven persons to respond to the initial call issued by the State association, and only forty per cent. of the amount expected has been contributed. These are the men, who have shown by their acts that they venerate the memory of William McKinley:

A. W. Gilbert	$ 25.00
B. A. Hegeman	10.00
M. W. Tyler	10.00
J. T. Baker	5.00
W. R. Coddington	5.00
F. C. Ard	2.00
A. W. Day	10.00
Geo. H. Frost	5.00
Chas. W. Beebe	2.00
Ernest R. Ackerman	25.00
A. L. Force	5.00
	$104.00

REPORT WAS EXPECTED.

Generally Believed That Street Committee Would Make Report.

It was expected that the street committee would make some report last Monday evening regarding the proposition of street sprinkling. This matter has been under consideration ever since the first of the year. While it is not expected that the city will undertake the work, it was believed that the committee would have something to say regarding their investigations. In view of the fact that the Council has increased the salaries of four officials, besides giving the Board of Health an extra $3,000, it is quite improbable that the city will undertake street sprinkling this year.

Criminal Cases Tuesday.

The criminal cases in the Union County Court of Quarter Sessions, in which Plainfielders are defendants, will come up for trial Tuesday. The case of embezzlement in which Wm. Sweeney is defendant is included among this number.

Patriotic Social.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a patriotic social Tuesday evening, Feb. 18, in the lecture room of the church. Other societies in the city will be invited to attend.

CAME TO NAUGHT.

Case Against J. Linn Edsall in City Court Yesterday Was Dismissed.

The charge, preferred by Minnie Lude, of Dekalb avenue, against J. Linn Edsall, came to naught at the trial before City Judge Runyon yesterday afternoon, and the complaint was dismissed on request of Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh upon the admission by the girl that she had sworn falsely.

The girl, who claimed to be seventeen years old, was under direct and cross examination for nearly an hour and answered all questions fluently, but at the last gave directly contradictory testimony, which invalidated from a legal standpoint all evidence that she had previously given. At that junction Mr. Marsh, whose witness she was, on behalf of the city in the suit brought by Overseer of the Poor Ayers, arose and asked that the complaint be dismissed, the complainant having perjured herself. He said he could ask no conviction after that.

The defendant was represented by G. W. V. Moy, and was not called to testify, the charge being dismissed before any witnesses for the defense were called.

Dr. J. H. Carman, Overseer of the Poor Ayers and the plaintiff were the only witnesses called.

HAVE JUST FINISHED AUTO-PLATE MACHINE

An Invention Which Will Work Wonders in Making Stereotype Plates.

FOR THE CAMPBELL CO.

WAS BUILT AT THE POTTER PRESS WORKS UNDER EXPERT DIRECTION.

A Machine Which Promises to be of Great Value to the Modern Up-to-Date Newspapers in Mechanical Department.

The employes of the Potter Press Works have just completed for the Campbell Printing Press Company a machine which is expected to mark an epoch in newspaper making. It has been in process of construction for many weeks and every detail has been closely observed and directed by experts brought from England for the purpose. Eight years and thousands of dollars have been spent by the inventor and builders in bringing it to a state of perfection and without doubt their expectations have been realized, as far as mechanical skill is concerned.

The invention is styled an auto-plate machine and is intended to make newspaper forms or plates in an incredibly short time and supersede many men. To the layman it seems to be endowed with human intelligence, taking huge pots of molten lead into its interior and shortly afterward turning out neat, trimmed and compact forms ready for the printing press. In this way the work of getting out many editions or "extras" of large dailies will dwindle from a knotty problem to a simple thing.

There are at present three machines of similar construction in use in the office of the New York Herald, but they represent an earlier effort of the inventor and are not nearly as mechanically perfect, although marvels in themselves.

The present completed machine will be shipped in two weeks to the London Daily Express, the final tests having been made Monday. Two more are now in course of construction at the local shop but on their completion the manufacture will be taken directly in control by financiers.

INSTITUTED NEW TRIBE.

Great Prophet Wm. Newcorn Officiated at Summit Last Evening.

Great Prophet William Newcorn instituted the new tribe of Red Men at Summit Tuesday evening. The name of the tribe is Owrapokomum, No. 232, Improved Order Red Men. He was also elected a representative to the Great Council which meets at Trenton, February 27.

Mr. Newcorn will institute a tribe at Madison Friday evening, and it is expected that a delegation from Plainfield will accompany him.

HYDRANT FROZEN.

One Discovered at Watchung Avenue and Fourth Street.

On attaching a hose to the hydrant at Watchung avenue and Fourth street, Tuesday night, for the skirt factory fire, the opening was found choked with ice. It was impossible to get a stream from it for several minutes. In the event of a serious fire, it would have been a grave delay. This is the first time in the history of the local department that a hydrant has been found frozen.

A BIG VAULT FOR THE CITY

HIBBARD-RODMAN-ELY SAFE COMPANY HAS THE CONARACT.

Will Put it in the Rear of the Smalley Building on the Ground Floor.

The fire-proof vault, which is to be built in the Smalley building for the use of the city, will be constructed and installed by the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely Safe Company, of this city. This action on the part of Smalley Brothers in giving the contract to a local firm is highly commended by all. Besides, while the above safe company does not usually cater to such small contracts, as a matter of local pride it is anxious to do the work.

The vault will be placed in the rear part of the store, which is to be used as offices for the city. It will be thirteen feet long and eight feet high and will occupy the space which is now an alcove. The flooring will be taken out and the vault will rest on heavy substantial brick pillars. There will be a covering of concrete which will bring the bottom of the vault up even with the office flooring.

There will be two doors to the vault and the structure will be so arranged that a person can walk around inside. There will be an abundance of room for all city papers, books, maps and other valuables owned by the city. The vault will be a modern one in every respect and, as the lease says, it will be absolutely fire-proof.

It is expected that the work of installing it will be commenced soon. Owing to a heavy demand for some parts of the material used in the vault it may be nearly April 1 before it is completed.

MEN'S SOCIAL CLUB.

Will be Formed by the Men of the Congregational Church After the Morning Service Next Sunday.

After the service at the Congregational church Sunday morning, the men of the church will hold a meeting for the purpose of forming a Men's Social Club. There are a number of social organizations among the women and children in the church, but up to the present time the men have no such organization.

It is proposed to first effect an organization and then decide upon some source of amusement, such as a series of lectures or entertainments for the men. There seems to be no doubt but that there is room for such a club in the church and success is predicted for it. In this way the men will be more united and no doubt their efforts will result in bringing other men into the church.

RESIGNED PASTORATE.

The Bound Brook Congregational Church Will Lose Its Pastor.

Rev. John Owen Jones, who for nearly six years has been pastor of the Congregational church at Bound Brook, has resigned his pastorate to accept a charge at the Congregational church at Wallington, Conn. Rev. Mr. Jones succeeded Rev. Lincoln B. Goodrich, who was formerly principal of the Plainfield High School.

Mr. Jones went to Bound Brook direct from the Yale Divinity School, at New Haven. For several years he has been secretary of the Congregational Association of New Jersey.

Remarkable Man.

W. Bradford Williams, who will address the men's meeting at Y. M. C. A. Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, is spoken of as being in many respects a very remarkable man. He possesses much elocutionary ability, having recited before large audiences in the Star Course of the Young Men's Christian Associations quite generally over the country. His conversion two and a half years ago so completely changed his life that since that time he has devoted himself to preaching and teaching. He preaches before some of the best congregations in New York and Brooklyn, and is in constant demand.

—Neuman Brothers will quote special rates to those desiring White Label canned goods in large lots, by the dozen or case.

WISHED HIM SUCCESS IN HIS NEW FIELD

Prominent Roman Catholic Clergymen Gathered at St. Mary's Rectory Yesterday.

A DINNER WAS GIVEN.

BISHOP O'CONNOR WAS THE GUEST OF HONOR AT THE GATHERING.

Father Egan Thanked His Visitors For Their Kind Remarks Which Followed the Repast—Those Who Were Present.

In honor of Rev. Andrew M. Egan, the newly appointed pastor of St. Mary's R. C. church, a large number of the prominent clergy of the dioceses of Trenton and Newark gathered at the rectory, yesterday afternoon. A dinner was the principal feature of the happy occasion, which proved especially enjoyable to those who were unacquainted with the prosperous parish in this city.

The dining hall was tastefully adorned. The new priest acted as host and his bishop, Rt. Rev. Dr. John O'Connor, of the diocese of Newark was the guest of honor. After the feast had been finished, short speeches were made by a number of those present.

Bishop O'Connor congratulated the pastor on the loyal service he had rendered the church and wished him success in the new field. Monsignor Doane, rector of the cathedral at Newark, followed with a few remarks eulogistic of Father Egan, and Dean McNulty, of Paterson, had some complimentary things to say concerning his brother in the church. Vicar General Fox, of the diocese of Trenton, told of the any good qualities of the pastor. Father Egan responded to the addresses and expressed his appreciation of the honor conferred him by his appointment to the local parish. He also thanked the clergy, who had made addresses, for the kind words they had spoken about him. It was late in the afternoon when the banquet ended and the priests departed for their homes.

Among those present were: Right Rev. Bishop O'Connor, of the diocese of Newark, there were Right Rev. Monsignor Doane, of the cathedral of Newark; Very Rev. Dean McNulty, Paterson; Very Rev. Father Fox, vicar-general, Trenton; Chancellor O'Neil, Newark, and Rev. Fathers Poels, of Newark; Kernan, Passaic; Bogan, Rahway; Miller, North Plainfield; McKeever, Newark; Dittrich, Bound Brook; Brennan, Trenton; Tallon, Newark; Shepherd, Jersey City; Brown, Morris Plains; Hedges, Seton Hall College; McMannus, Callahan, Carroll and Wallace, Newark; Farley, Plainfield; McCarthy, Short Hills; Quinn and Boylan, Jersey City; Dr. Morris, chancellor of the diocese of Trenton, and Dr. Schotthoever, Boonton.

MADE A KNIGHT.

Assemblyman Newcorn Received Third Rank at Unity Lodge.

Assemblyman William Newcorn is now a full-fledged knight. Last evening at a meeting of Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., the third rank was conferred on him. During the evening one proposition for membership was received. There were present visitors from Perseverance Lodge, and after the transaction of business there was a social time.

Rev. Mr. Craig to Speak.

Miss Redway will not be able to speak in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, as announced, at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. R. M. Craig, synodical missionary for New Mexico and Arizona, has kindly consented to take her place. Mr. Craig preached in the First Presbyterian church, Sunday, to the great delight of all his hearers. New Jersey people are interested in him as the young people support him in his work.

Living Pictures.

This evening at the Y. M. C. A. Hall there will be given "living pictures" under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and King's Daughters of the Park Avenue Baptist church. Miss Aimee Emmons, reciter, and Elmer Cutting, tenor soloist, will assist in the entertainment. The programme prepared is an excellent one and those who attend will enjoy a treat.

Y. M. C. A. Election.

The annual meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A., for the election of officers of the association, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

WHAT PEOPLE ARE DOING

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Rev. Milton Craft, of Trenton, is visiting his mother in this city for a time.

Miss Caroline V. Drake, of Duer street, is visiting friends in Orange, N. J.

Edward Connors, of West Third street, is recovering from a recent severe illness.

Miss Margaret Kennedy, of Somerset street, has recovered from a recent severe illness.

Rufus Larew, of West Fourth street, expects to go on the road shortly for a large tobacco concern.

Mrs. S. P. Bacon, of Middletown, Conn., has returned after an extended visit with borough friends.

Miss Ella Hand, of Elmwood place, has recovered from her recent illness and is able to be out again.

Miss Fannie Burke, of Plainfield avenue, has gone to South Carolina for the remainder of the winter.

Gifford W. Cooley, of Washington Park, who was recently operated upon at the hospital, was discharged yesterday, cured.

David C. Smalley, the North avenue butcher, who recently injured his hand, is gradually recovering the use of this member.

Ira and Russell Vail, of Elmwood place, has been detained from school over a week, on account of troubles resulting from vaccination.

Miss Minnie Burke, of Plainfield avenue, is able to be out again, after being confined to her home by a severe "take" of vaccination.

Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, who was recently operated upon for appendicitis, is now able to sit up and continues to gain strength.

H. G. Runkle, of West Eighth street, is recovering from an operation for appendicitis, which was performed a few days ago at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, by Dr. Bull.

HARBINGERS OF SPRING.

Two Blue Birds Seen in Rear of Front Street Stores.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Behind the crockery store of Mr. Gavett, on West Front street, is a spot of ground kept bare by the warmth from a steam pipe buried beneath the surface.

My attention has just been attracted to it by dozens of sparrows taking a dust bath and undoubtedly enjoying the warmth from beneath. While watching their lively and rather quarrelsome antics, I was greatly surprised and delighted to observe a blue bird roosting on a crockery crate nearby, the rufus of his breast and the indigo of his back showing brilliantly against a snowy background.

Shortly he was joined by another, and together they tried to join the sparrows, but no; the sparrows were not inclined to be sociable, and repeatedly drove them back to the cold rails of the crockery crate where they are at the present time patiently waiting for spring. Observer.

AT REFORM HALL.

Special Programme for Tonight's Meeting of the Reform Club.

The California tragedian, Richard Foote, Miss Suzanne Kranz and Miss Margaret Hoffman will contribute to this evening's entertainment at Reform Hall. They have arranged several pleasing features, one of which will be of especial interest to members of Pythian lodges. The usual temperance session will precede the entertainment.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

It appears that the Central Railroad is manhandling Bayonne shamefully. First it "threw" the city by cutting off the owl train that carried belated theatre-goers home from New York. Then it landed an uppercut by raising commutation rates from Elizabethport, and smote the city again by issuing an unhandy ticket book. Its latest assault consists in a fence that makes passengers stand in the cold. Commissioner Meigs, he of the short-skirt ordinance, says this last piece of railroad impudence endangers the health of the community. The citizens who went to New York to complain about the fence were told that they didn't "cut any ice," and the popular indignation arising therefrom knows no bounds. For the sake of humanity the Central Railroad should give Bayonne a breathing spell, at least. The man looking for excitement, who can't find enough of it to suit him in the classic city by the bay, ought to consult an alienist.—Newark News.

The proposition of Assemblyman Whitford, of Middlesex, that the State should appropriate $1,300,000 for the establishment of a State University, is almost as idiotic as his proviso that it may be established anywhere within the State outside of Trenton.

The State of New Jersey has very little need of a free State University; has no means wherewith to establish and maintain it; and has less reason to act to the prejudice of the capital of the State. If the State wants to place a free university education at the disposal of its youth, that end may be reached much more effectively and economically by the purchase of a number of scholarships at Princeton University, and holding them as a prize for the best results secured in the public schools of the State. Such a prize would stimulate the efforts of the pupils in the public high schools, and would act as a spur in all the grades.

Princeton University is the result of vast endowments of money, and is fully capable of providing a higher education to any aspiring youth. Its instructors and system are the result of years of experience and expense, and a young man who goes there will have advantages which no State University can provide at any time within fifty years.

But perhaps the Middlesex member has in view the purchase and improvement of Rutgers College, which, if all reports be true, is in the last stages of decadence. If so, his purpose might be stated without his fling at Trenton.—Trenton True American.

DOING GREAT WORK.

Results of the Recent Meetings at Mt. Olive Baptist Church.

The good work being carried on by Rev. E. E. Jackson, as pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, is resulting in many accessions to the church roll. Last Sunday fifty-five persons were baptized and in the evening over one hundred were received into membership. It is believed that there will be nearly as many more to unite with the church within the next few weeks. Mr. Jackson has conducted a series of revival services in a manner that has won for him commendation.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

Doctors' bills are saved by wearing good strong shoes these days. Flynn Brothers, of West Front street, have the right kind at the right price.

They make the wearer happy and the repairer sorrowful. They seem never to wear out. Those are the Waldorf shoes. Call and examine them at 132 North avenue.

There's an art in canning goods that few can understand. Some can can and others can't can. The line of canned goods handled by Fred Firstbrook, the Liberty street grocer, is the best in the market.

There is never a question about the quality or price of the goods at Peck's store. He carries an exceptional line of fine laces, embroideries, handkerchiefs and flannel goods. There are all the pick of the market.

There is nothing so delicate as the mechanism of a watch. Why let an inexperienced man care for it, just because he will do it cheap? Moraller & Son, of Park avenue, are experts in the work of repairing fine watches.

Chocolate chips of a delicious quality are sold by E. S. F. Randolph, the pharmacist, corner of North and Watchung avenues, "where the trolleys stop." He also sells all varieties of high grade candies and bon-bons.

Every day is bargain day for the present with W. H. Sebring, the West Front street clothier. He is closing out his stock preparatory to removal to his former store in Park avenue. It is a good opportunity to purchase good clothes reasonable.

What's the use of going about with ill fitting, ache producing glasses when Collier, the Park avenue optician, will adjust the proper kind. Call and have your eyes examined free and perhaps save yourself from future troubles with your sight.

Tomorrow will be Friday. Of course you know that and also that it will be "fish day," but do you know the Rogers Sea Food Company will deliver orders before breakfast? Everything in the sea food line is to be found at this store and it's strictly fresh.

A few days ago many Plainfielders were amused at hearing a hand-organ on the streets. This is considered a sure sign of spring, but a better sign is the handsome display of goods to be found at Woodhull & Martin's store. The men's furnishing goods department, as well as the carpet department and basement, are filled with goods at reasonable prices.

THEATRICAL.

According to recent reports from New York city, Boston, Philadelphia and Providence, a new and very contagious "habit" has fastened itself upon the people of these cities, and once contracted it is impossible to throw it off. It is called the "Keith Habit," being named after B. F. Keith, the builder of the big vaudeville theatres in the cities mentioned. It seems that one visit to Keith's Theatre is sufficient to innoculate the amusement-loving public with the germs of delight, and once infected, the "habit" remains, and constant visits to Keith's cause it to grow with proportionate pleasure. At Keith's Theatre in New York, next week, Wilfred Clark, the famous English comedian, with his supporting company of artists, will be the chief distributors of amusement. Mr. Clark has been a successful star for many years under the management of Augustin Daly, and was the principal comedian with Booth and Barrett. Owing to his tremendous success, the great Rudinoff has been retained for another week to exhibit new smoke paintings, bird imitations and hand shadows. Hickey and Nelson, the greatest of all comedy acrobats, are also featured, as well as Mlle. Marzella and her performing birds; Marion Manola, the operatic star; Little Elsie, the mimic; Karsy's Myriophon, the latest musical novelty, and a host of others.

—Miss Ada VanHorn, of Duer street, has resigned her position as stenographer with W. G. DeMeza in order to accept a similar one with Nelson & William N. Runyon.

Messrs. Ely Bros.:—I suffered from a severe cold in the head, and was about dead from want of sleep. I used your Cream Balm and woke up with a clear head and cold almost gone. I would not take five dollars for my bottle of Cream Balm if I could not get another. S. K. Lansdale.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

It has been suggested that when the new city offices on North avenue are taken possession of by the city, it would be a good idea to have the several titles of the offices placed in a prominent conspicuous position, where people can see them without much trouble. That is one thing that has been a source of inconvenience to many people at the present location of the city offices. To many it is not an easy thing to find the offices and there is nothing outside of making inquiries to assist a person in finding the offices.

The Secretary of War has transmitted to Congress a table of figures showing the organized strength of the militia in the several States and Territories at the present time. For New Jersey Secretary Root reports two generals and forty-seven members of the general staff, sixty-nine regimental, field and staff officers, 155 company officers, 788 non-commissioned officers, 248 musicians and 2,729 privates, making a total of officers and men now in the service of the State of 4,038. Of the total number, 3,674 are in the infantry branch of the service. The Secretary further reports that the total number of men in the State who are available for military duty in case of an emergency and could be called into service if they were needed is 385,273.

he trials and tribulations of a collector of taxes are many, as a visit to the office of Collector Smith any day will show. There is scarcely a day that passes that some complaining taxpayer does not try to make life miserable for this official. A few days ago one of these kind of taxpayers, whose troubles had been considered by the Council, and were believed to have been settled satisfactorily, returned to Collector Smith and resumed his kicking. Mr. Smith has a genial nature and does not usually lose his patience, but when the taxpayer had said enough, he informed him in no uncertain tones that he had better call on the corporation counsel or somebody else and air his troubles. This the man consented to do and since he has failed to visit the collector's office.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

INVITATION TO CUBA

Resolution Before Congress to Ask Her to Join the Union.

RECIPROCITY TEMPORARILY OFFERED

Representative Newlands of Nevada Says Cuba Will Soon Be In a Position to Express Her Will Regarding the Matter.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Representative Newlands (Nev.) of the ways and means committee, who was the author of the resolution annexing Hawaii, has introduced a joint resolution inviting the republic of Cuba to become a part of the United States, first as a territory and then as a state of the Union, to be called the state of Cuba; also authorizing a 25 per cent reduction of duty on the present crop of Cuban sugar in consideration of Cuba's granting preferential rates to the United States. The resolutions confine the 25 per cent reduction of duties to the period prior to Jan. 1, 1903.

The provision as to annexation is as follows:

"That in the meantime the republic of Cuba is invited to become a part of the United States of America and her people to become citizens of the United States, with the assurance that Cuba will be entitled at first to a territorial form of government under the constitution and laws of the United States, with a delegate in congress to represent her people, and that ultimate statehood will be granted when in the judgment of the congress it is advisable to admit Cuba, including such other West India islands belonging to the United States as may be deemed advisable, as a single state in the Union, to be called the state of Cuba."

Mr. Newlands, in explanation of his resolution, said:

"All those who have appeared to voice Cuba's needs and requirements have indicated that an invitation to Cuba of annexation would be accepted.

"Annexation by force would not be justified. It must be accomplished, if at all, by the free act of the Cuban people. At present there is no machinery in Cuba by which the popular will can be tested. But the Cuban constitution has been adopted. The Cuban congress will meet in February, Cuban government will be organized, and the United States will then leave the government and control of the island to its people. Cuba then will be in a position to express her will, and it is only necessary to tide over the present emergency by a temporary measure, such as I have introduced, reducing the duty on Cuban sugar one-fourth for one year and inviting Cuba to become a part of the United States under a territorial form of government under the constitution, her people to be citizens, not subjects, with the assurance that ultimately statehood will be granted.

"By coming into our political union Cuba will secure immediately the highest degree of freedom and with it a large market for her varied products.

"Such annexation is entirely in line with the traditional policy of the country. When the time for statehood comes, Cuba, Porto Rico and other West India islands in our possession can be incorporated into the Union as one state, thus doing away with the danger of overrepresentation in the senate."

Erie Has Been Tied Up Four Days.

HORNELLSVILLE, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The Erie is the only railroad yet closed as a result of the big storm of Sunday and Monday. All of the other roads were opened during the last twenty-four hours and are running trains, regardless, however, of scheduled time. Not since 1878 has the Erie suffered as in the present storm. It is completely tied up south of this city, and not a train has arrived or departed since early Sunday morning. Between Lima and Livonia the drifts are reported as from fifteen to twenty feet high, and in cuts the snow is even with the level of the high banks.

The vessel will start north from Newport News on the 10th inst.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 6.—Early last evening the searchers in the ruins uncovered the dead bodies of Thierry, Krenning and McBride, the last in the ruins. The three bodies lay close together. Apparently the men had been caught in the crash as they started to ascend the stairs to rescue their imprisoned companions in the upper stories.

WHAT POWERS DID

A Paris Authority Declares English Statements False.

ANTE-SPANISH-AMERICAN WAR FACTS

Spain's Proposals For Intervention Promptly Refused by Russia and Germany—England Did Not Hold Them In Check.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The following statement regarding European action at the outbreak of the Spanish-American war is made by an official who held a very high position during the early days of the trouble, and it is undoubtedly authentic:

"The Spanish government believed that Queen Victoria would support any step taken with a view to preventing the war and coming to the aid of the queen regent. It attributed at that time perhaps too great an importance to the intervention of the queen in the councils of the British government. It was not ignorant of the fact that Mr. Chamberlain was in agreement with Lord Salisbury in the desire to endeavor to render the United States a signal service, but information of a very confidential character which reached it conveyed to the Madrid government the idea that any mission of pacification would be well received by England. English society entertained the most hostile spirit toward the United States. It had not been able to forget the Venezuela affair, and in London it was thought the proper thing to support the Spaniards.

"Thus the principal diplomatic effort of Spain was brought to bear on the central European powers and, more particularly Russia. It was not thought that England would take the initiative in its favor; but, being convinced, and, as it appears, justly so, that England would not dare to stand aloof from a common action undertaken by Europe to bring about peace, Spain thought before everything else to win over Russia to her cause.

"The Austrian emperor for family motives had taken the initiative in proposing to the various powers an intervention tending to induce Spain to grant concessions and by averting war to strengthen the dynasty. France and Germany were first well disposed to the Austrian proposal, and an accord of the continental powers would undoubtedly have been possible had Russia given her support. The Spanish diplomats of whom I have already spoken told me that at Madrid those who were in touch with the negotiations anxiously awaited the upshot of the conversation that the Spanish embassador at St. Petersburg was to have with Count Muravieff. When the result became known, the disillusion was all the more bitter because hope had been so high.

"'If such a step,' said Count Muravieff, 'is confined to a simple council, it will have no result, and if it implies anything resembling a threat the result obtained will be contrary to that desired.' This reply quickly undetermined the friendly disposition that France and Germany had at first shown toward Spain, and the pacific action of the powers, instead of being exercised collectively and of great moral authority, reduced itself to individual advice counseling Spain to make concessions.

"'England was not, therefore, called upon to declare itself. The sympathies of certain statesmen in the Conservative cabinet were certainly for the United States, but they were not required to display them. They afterward insinuated that their role had been to hold Europe in check to the advantage of the United States. As is seen from the foregoing they did nothing of the kind."

A GERMAN STATEMENT.

Government Refused to Take Any Steps to Prevent the War.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—The German foreign office confirms the substantial accuracy of the subjoined statement on the subject of Germany's course toward the United States during the war with Spain, which the Kreuz-Zeitung prints. After a preface quoting the statement made by a British foreign office official it says:

"Almost exactly four years ago the Spanish embassador here asked Germany whether Germany would lead in action against the United States for the protection of the monarchic principle. The answer was a definite refusal, and the same answer was given a month later, about the middle of March, when the invitation reached Germany to participate in the intervention undertaken upon the initiative of Austria."

Military Prisoners Escape.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6.—Ten of the military prisoners confined in the stockade in one of the camps at the Presidio escaped and have not been traced. Their exit from the inclosure in which they were confined was made by a tunnel through the ground, which they had evidently been secretly constructing for several nights.

Narrow Escape For Oil Plant.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—A fire on Van Rensselaer island, just outside of Albany, destroyed $50,000 worth of property and narrowly escaped destroying the big storage plant of the Standard Oil company. P. J. McArdle of New York is the heaviest loser. The loss is covered by insurance.

Boston Singer Before the Emperor.

BERLIN, Feb. 6.—Geraldine Farrar of Boston, who has just been engaged by the Royal Opera for a term of five years, sang before Emperor William and the empress this morning at the Schloss on the command of the emperor.

QUEER DUTCH ACTION

Lord Salisbury Makes Light of Peace Note.

THIS CURIOUS STEP UNAUTHORIZED

Boer War Is a Matter of Business to Be Pushed Through, Says the British Premier — The Irish Question.

LONDON, Feb. 6.—Lord Salisbury the premier, unveiled a life size marble statue of the late Queen Victoria at the Junior Constitutional club last night.

Speaking at a dinner after the unveiling, the premier referred to the recent Dutch note in a tone, for him, of unusual flippancy. Lord Salisbury said that doubtless some of his auditors thought it a bit of luck to catch a cabinet minister and extract from him some information concerning that abortive crisis which had lately filled columns in the newspapers. The speaker said he doubted, however, if they would extract much. For himself he was unable to imagine the object of the Dutch government, for whose friendly feelings he had the greatest admiration but he could not see the precise object they hoped to gain by this curious step.

"It was clear that the Dutch," continued Lord Salisbury, "had no authorization from our enemies on the continent, since from the moment this action or the part of the Netherlands government was announced these enemies vied with each other in declaring the Dutch action to be undesired.

"His majesty's government," he said, "certainly knew nothing of the genesis of this movement. The fact that such a step was taken, however, reminds me that we have arrived at a condition of things which in a critical period of this character always occurred, a period when there would be many persons attempting to bring numerous people of different views together and when there would be many suggestions which it would be neither easy nor desirable to notice."

"There is no longer any question of sentiment," continued Lord Salisbury "We have entered upon a matter of business which we must push through. What we are now seeking is security. Any peace which recognizes fully the rights of the sovereign and gives us security for the empire we should accept not only with willingness, but with delight.

"It is useless to tell us to behave so as to leave a pleasant recollection in the minds of those with whom we are fighting.

"The only result that can compensate for the sacrifice of blood and treasure is that for the future there shall be security in that part of the empire upon which the ambition of Mr. Kruger has poured this abundance of sorrow and desolation.

"The maintenance of our position in Ireland is the most vital object the empire has, and it can only be attained by strenuous exertions," said the premier.

The premier asked if the Irish people loved the government better than they did formerly and replied himself that they did not. He said the feelings of hostility which had been expressed were more uncompromising than any expressions which had ever issued from the lips of Parnell or O'Connell. An Irish government with power to accumulate arms and ammunition would constitute a more serious threat than had the Boers.

Shorter Hours For French Miners.

PARIS, Feb. 6.—The chamber of deputies, after a long discussion, by a vote of 338 to 219 adopted a bill regulating the period of daily work in the mines. This bill provides that a nine hour day shall be instituted at the coal pits at the end of six months from the day the measure is adopted. At the end of two years a day's work shall be reduced to eight and a half hours, and at the end of another two years it shall be reduced to eight hours.

Soldiers Off For the Philippines.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—A train of ten cars containing 300 soldiers from Fort Slocum left the Central railroad station at Communipaw, N. J., yesterday en route to San Francisco. The men were fully equipped except for arms. They were in command of Major E. E. Hardin of the Seventh infantry. Two hundred of the men are for the infantry service and the other hundred are for the cavalry. It is supposed they are bound for the Philippines.

THE END IS NOT YET.

A bitter factional fight in the State Legislature was the means of defeating Senator Charles A. Reed for the State treasurership at the joint caucus of the legislators, held Tuesday afternoon. It was a close fight, however, for only a single ballot would have turned the contest the other way. It is likely that some of the Assemblymen will have that fact recalled with unpleasant force some day in the future.

Senator Reed has to buck against the friends of United States Senator Dryden who were outspoken in their opposition. Clerk in Chancery E. C. Stokes also aided Mr. Reed's opponent. But the senator from Somerset county has some warm friends in south Jersey and they stood by him to the end. With few exceptions, the newspapermen sided with Frank O. Briggs as they did not forget that Senator Reed had opposed their admission to the senatorial caucus. In the "Third House," there was a strong element against the North Plainfield man.

It was, however, as Senator Cross said. Mr. Reed had served his party well and was entitled to the place if any one was. While some of his friends believe that he could display his abilitites to better advantage in a legislative or judicial position, Mr. Reed is a man of honor and integrity in whose hands the people of New Jersey could have safely trusted the State funds. He would have made New Jersey a competent official. The fight has been decided, however, and it now remains to see what the future will bring forth. As Senator Reed and his friends are only one less than a majority in the dominant party in both houses, it is easy to see that they form a decided power in State affairs.

NEW CITY OFFICES.

The Common Coucnil did what was expected and what The Daily Press predicted it would sometime ago. It was decided to give up the old city offices in the Coward building on Park avenue and rent new ones in the Smalley building on North avenue. Laying all personal feeling aside, it is only fair to the Comomn Council to say that the move appears to be in the best interests of the city, an act of progress.

While the city was fairly well equipped in the old quarters, there were several objections against them. It was necessary to climb a flight of stairs to reach them. There was not sufficient room for the various departments. A suitable fire-proof safe to contain all the city papers was lacking. The rooms were not satisfactorily heated. Then there were some minor considerations. Some of these objections Mr. Coward promised to overcome but, with others, it was not possible.

Mr. Coward is an old resident and has served the city well in more ways than one. He has worked for years in the interests of the dominent party. At present, however, the faction with which he is identified is out of power in the First ward. This fact, combined with the knowledge that Mr. Smalley sides with the other faction, has naturally caused considerable talk. The Councilmen declare, however, that it is strictly a matter of business. A careful and unprejudiced review of the situation cannot help but result in a decision in favor of the change such as has been made by the Common Council.

An ex-Governor of a western agricultural State, himself a practical farmer, says the Philadelphia Record, has noted that some farmers are much more prosperous than their neighbors, although laboring under practically the same material conditions. An investigation showed that the successful farmer takes a daily newspaper and keeps himself informed as to the daily variations of the prices of farm products, which enables him to choose the best time to sell. He reads the advertisements and learns the best time to buy things. The town merchant reaches the buying farmer with his daily newspaper advertisements.

With all this talk of new financial institutions, it is comforting to know that the existing ones are in a particularly healthy state. The annual statement of the Dimes Savings Institution this year is very satisfactory. The list of assets shows that the bank's funds have been well and carefully invested while a surplus of $54,748.35 shows up well on the opposite side of the balance sheet. Plainfield seems particularly favored in possessing strong and substantial financial institutions.

Of all the golf clubs in the immediate neighborhood of New York, there are none which can show a better and more satisfactory state of affairs than exists at present in the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club. Plainfield has a fine club and his perfect reason to be proud of the fact.

The finish to The Daily Press Bowling League promises to be as thrilling as anyone could desire. There remain two series of three games each to be rolled and there is every indication that the final standing of the clubs will not be settled until they are all rolled.

The only member of the State Senate who fought against Senator Reed in the race for State treasurership was Senator McCarter, of Essex. Mr. McCarter may have cause to remember that some day.

TO AID ATHLETICS.

Entertainment to be Given at the Casino Tuesday Evening.

It is a conceded fact that athletic sports and indulgencies are great incentives in education generally, and the Plainfield High School boys have an organization of which they are justly proud. Unwilling to solicit subscriptions from the school proper the association has secured the services of Wellington Putnam, one of the foremost professors of dramatic elocution, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Putnam will impersonate the several characters of Stephen Phillip's great drama, "Herod," in which he has achieved great success in New York, Boston and other cities. It is a noble work of dramatic imagination, dealing greatly with great passion. In addition to the drama, Mr. Putnam has kindly consented to present "The Albany Depot" by Wm. Dean Howells, so all attending, and there should be an overflowing attendance, "will get their money's worth."

WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

"Tsatlee Silk," a mixture of fine Italian silk and Egyptian cotton, delightfully soft with high lustre. Patterns include some stylish gray and white corded effects and raised figures. In solid white it is simply exquisite. Width is 32 inches. Price is 79c per yd.

"Tramsilk," similar to above in appearance but comes in solid white only. It is indescribably beautiful and must be seen to be appreciated.

"Plumetis Soie." A silk tissue which comes in black only. It is sheer but strong. A most desirable warm weather cloth.
Width 27 in. Price 50c yd.

"Egyptian Tissue." The most popular sheer cotton fabric we have ever shown. 32 in. wide, very even thread, elastic finish, and washes splendidly. Corded effects predominate. Some very choice grays are included in the colorings.

KILLED INSTEAD OF WEDDED

FLAGMAN ARNER HAD HIS SKULL CRUSHED BY CAR WHEELS.

Accident Happened at South Plainfield on Lehigh Valley—Was to Wed on Sunday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield, Feb. 6—Elmer L. Arner, of Weissport, Carbon county, Pa., was killed here at 12:45 o'clock, this morning. He was flagman on a mixed freight train, from Jersey City, on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

In appearance he was a finely built man and weighed 226 pounds. He was twenty-six years of age.

The accident happened 200 yards from the depot. Arner had been out with the flag while the remainder of the train crew were making up their load. The engineer blew the whistle to recall the flagman and then slowly started out of the yard. Arner jumped on the step of one of the rear cars but slipped and fell under the wheels. The brakeman, who was on the same car, grabbed for the falling man but was unable to hold him. The brakeman shouted but it was too late when the train came to a stop. The man died instntly, with his skull crushed and left foot cut completely off.

The brakeman, with Charles Arner, the conductor of the train and a brother of the mangled man, helped to take the body to the station. Coroner Henry, of Perth Amboy, was called and gave a permit for the removal of the body.

Arner has been employed by the Lehigh Valley road for two years. Six months ago he fell from the top of a freight car and had to be taken home on a stretcher. He is a widower and leaves one child, five years of age. The invitations for his second marriage were out and it was to have been celebrated Sunday. He leaves five brothers, one, John, is engineer on the Perth Amboy local passenger train, and another, Charles Arner, is conductor of the train which killed the deceased man.

Arner was a member of Washington Camp, No. 122, P. O. S. of A., of Weissport, Pa., and also of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Relief Fund Association.

A recitation entitled "The Face Upon the Floor" was given by Robert Mattox. "The Story of the Rose" was the name of the selection sung by Joseph Randall, whose wife acted as his accompanist.

Mrs. Hancock, the State organizer of the Women's Union Relief Union of the U. V. U., made an address telling much concerning her work and ended by reciting an original poem. She was followed by Dr. William A. Conover, of Red Bank, who also made an interesting address. A piano solo by Miss Symons, a harmonica selection by Harvey Wentrick, a solo by Miss Kranz and a recitation by Richard Foote were the other features of the affair. Refreshments were served during the evening.

OVER THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

A PLAINFIELD YOUNG MAN WRITES OF HIS TRIP.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, Enroute For the Orient, Tells of His Experiences.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of 'Sandford avenue, who is now on board the British steamer Maristow, bound for the Phillipines and Japan, reached the port of Algiers, January 19, in safety. From that point he mailed several letters to his family and friends at home which have just reached their destination.

In one of his letters, he writes in very interesting fashion concerning his trip across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean Sea. He says in part:

"The fresh winds which prevailed the day we sailed from New York turned into winter gales after leaving Sandy Hook, and the gentle roll became a delightful combination of razzle-dazzle and loop the loop.

"There were 100 tons of coal piled on the decks, and the second night out seventy tons were washed overboard. It was a typical North Atlantic gale, the solid seas breaking over the ship and carrying every movable thing before them, the spray froze as it fell, making everything icy and slippery.

"At this season of the year the North Atlantic is covered with hundreds of fierce gales each one covering a comparatively small area and traveling at a very rapid rate, we no sooner ran through one of these gales than we struck another, until finally on the ninth the climax was capped at 11 o'clock in the morning. I was standing on the bridge with the captain and second mate at that time and the wind which had been southeast was falling rapidly. The captain remarked that we should probably have a blow shortly, and had no sooner spoken than a gust of wind hit us from the northwest with terrific force, and then how it did pile into us! The wind and seas were something frightful. The vessel would ride over one huge green mountain, and burrow under the next. It was impossible to see the bow of the ship from the bridge. It is equally impossible for one to give you even the faintest idea of the grandeur of that scene. At the end of four hours the hurricane commenced to abate slightly, and by the next morning had pretty nearly spent itself.

"We passed two of the Azore Islands, Fayal and Pico, almost touching each other. It was a lovely day and we steamed close under the lee of the islands and saw the quaint little villages all whitewashed and glistening in the sun. The houses were built of stone and had tile roofs, were of plain architecture and had two stories usually although some had but one. The green blinds and red tile roofs made pretty contrasts, with the white stone. Most houses were surrounded by green hedge. The Padre's little white church was always visible and occasionally a hedge surrounded cemetery could be seen way up on the hillside.

"Pico rises straight into the air a mile and a half and the summit is covered with snow. The Island is covered with vineyards and semi tropical fruit orchards.

"Jan. 17—We passed through the strait this morning. The view was somewhat obscured by haze but was very interesting. On the right we could see the piled up peaks of Morocco and on the left Spain's sunny slopes. We signaled Pt. Spartel as we entered the strait. We soon saw the sun shining on Tariffa, one of the oldest cities of Spain, appearing from the distance to be a very pretty place. At the same time on the other side we could see Tangiers, the capital of Morocco, and home of the Sultan, on the shore of a snug little bay. All of the south shore of the strait is of volcanic origin, the most imposing spectacle being Ape's Hill, a mass of jagged peaks rising several thousand feet above the water. It was once inhabited by thousands of monkeys who used to throw stones at the passing sailing vessels, and the sailors believed the monkeys had a submarine tunnel running across to Spain.

"January 18—Approaching Algiers. Sliding along through the Mediterranean enjoying a moonlight night, soft balmy breeze. Will reach Algiers 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, and spend Sunday ashore."

Death of G. L. Laflin.

George Lawrence Laflin, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Laflin, Chicago, and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Francis de Lacy Hyde, of this city, died from pneumonia at the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., February 3. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at the Hill School and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, officiated.

Too Slim a Crowd.

Counter attractions resulted in a very slim crowd appearing last evening to take part in the St. Mary Fife and Drum Corps second annual ball in T. A. B. Hall. Afrer waiting a sufficient length of time without any noticeable increase in the attendance, the management concluded to postpone the affair until a more auspicious evening.

Good Reports.

A regular meeting of the McAll Auxiliary was held yesterday, when reports of the work were received and an informal discussion followed. There was a good attendance of members and all were much encouraged at the progress of the work in the various stations, especially the one in France supported directly by the Plainfield branch.

He visits the hospital three times a week to have his foot dressed. He expects to return home in the near future.

Getting Ready for Supper.

Farewell Reception.

This evening at Warren chapel a farewell reception will be given to R. D. Schoonmaker, who is soon to go to Africa as a missionary.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

ELEVEN LIVES LOST.

Chicago Family Wiped Out by Gas Explosion.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6.—By an explosion of gas in the basement of a two story frame building at 376 Twenty second street last evening a number of people, the total [illegible] eleven, lost their lives and the building was blown into kindling wood. By 8:45 p. m. five bodies had been recovered from the ruins. They were all of one family. Not a member of the family escaped.

The bodies recovered are those of Otto Trostle, proprietor of a meat market at 376 Twenty-Second street; Mrs. Otto Trostle, Otto Trostle, Jr.; Minnie Trostle and Annie Trostle.

Persons who claimed to know assert that there were at least six more people in the Trostle's meat market when the explosion occurred.

Among the dead are supposed to be three children of the Trostle family, whose bodies have not yet been recovered. It is not known positively that they were in the house at the time, but a search of the neighborhood has not shown any trace of them. There were six children in the family, and there is little doubt that all the eight members of the family were killed. The three other people who are said to be dead are supposed to be customers in the meat market at the time of the explosion.

The direct cause of the explosion is not known, but all indications show that it was due to escaping gas in the basement of the Trostle house.

The explosion came without an instant's warning. There was a dazzling flash, a deafening roar and a cloud of dust and shattered timbers where the Trostle house had stood.

Window glass throughout the neighborhood was broken, and bottles and glassware in the dwellings and stores were thrown to the floor and broken.

SENATE PASSED LUNACY BILL.

New Measure Abolishes New York State Hospital Boards.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 6.—The lunacy bill has passed the senate by a vote of 31 to 18. These Republicans voted with the Democrats against it: Elsberg, Malby and Willard.

Mr. McEwan (Rep.) was absent.

The Brackett-Rogers bill abolishing state insane hospital boards and centralizing authority in the state lunacy commission was a special order in the senate yesterday morning.

Senator Malby made the first speech of the morning.

The introducer of the senate measure, Senator Brackett, then addressed the senate at length. He said the idea that the state care of the insane would suffer by the enactment of this bill was a mistaken one and declared this was simply part of the evolution in the scientific management of the affairs of the various institutions of the state.

Senator Davis, chairman of the committee on canals, yesterday afternoon presented to the senate the canal bill appropriating $28,800,000 for the enlargement and deepening of the Erie canal, with a number of amendments, and asked that it be reprinted and then recommitted to the committee. The most important amendment is one which indicates the intention of canal advocates to continue the agitation for the construction of a 1,000 ton barge canal.

Costly Fire In Syracuse.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Feb. 6.—Fire of unknown origin which broke out at 8:45 o'clock last night partially destroyed, with its contents, the historic old New York Central freighthouse in South West street, a one story brick structure about 300 feet long, built many years ago. The building was filled with freight, said to be worth in the neighborhood of $100,000. The fire started in the extreme west end and worked its way east, devouring everything in its path. The entire fire department battled with the flames for five hours, and several slight explosions of gasoline and naphtha made the work of the firemen perilous. Patrick Gallagher, a fire captain, and two pipemen were buried under a roof which fell. The captain was hurt seriously.

Colombia Revolutionists Defeated.

PANAMA, Colombia, Feb. 6.—The steamer Taboga, which has arrived here from Chiriqui with cattle and passengers, reports the defeat of a small revolutionary expedition sent by General Herrera, the capture of a number of revolutionists and their arms and of sixty horses destined for the revolutionary forces. Everything was quiet at Chiriqui when the Taboga left that port. The boat sent with dispatches for the government general Castro was met near its destination by the Taboga. The fleet of the revolutionists, composed of three gunboats, is still off Yeguala.

Oleomargarine Production.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—The census bureau has issued an advance bulletin on the manufacture of oleomargarine in the United States. It shows that the number of establishments increased from twelve to twenty-four between 1880 and 1900, with a total capital invested of $3,023,646, an increase of 376 per cent.

Legislature's Work Void.

CHEYENNE, Wy., Feb. 6.—The discovery has been made that every law enacted by the last legislature, which met a year ago, is invalid for the reason that the bills were not read and recorded properly in the lower house.

Daughter of the Revolution Dead.

Doan's Kidney Pills relieve backache,
Cure every kidney ill.
Plainfield citizens endorse them.

Mrs. Henry Bender, of 118 West Front street, says: "I suffered almost constantly from a dull aching pain across my back and hips. Any hard work always increased it. I was also subject to severe headaches and dizziness when stooping and though I tried different plasters and home remedies I could not get relief. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such troubles as mine, got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store, used them according to directions and obtained a great deal of relief from them. In my estimation and from my experience Doan's Kidney Pills are a good reliable kidney medicine."

HEPBURN & CO.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

ORIGINAL EVENING GOWN.

Dressmakers Vie In Producing Striking Effects.

To be a success this season an evening gown must have the stamp of originality. True, it follows the prescribed lines of fashion, but it is in the detail and the coloring that the keynote of chic is sounded. Take, for instance, a dress of fawn colored chiffon over oriental satin of the same shade. The decolletage is surrounded by a frilled and toothed bertha of chiffon heavily embroidered with autumn leaves in their natural colorings. These heavy embroideries are taking the place of the flower appliques, which have been a trifle overdone and which can be purchased in any shop by the yard, thus putting them within the reach of everybody.

Boleros figure prominently on decollete dresses. However, they are so shortened and curved that they resemble yokes or fancy collars. The latest have oddly shaped revers and are fastened together and ornamented with narrow ribbons.

Veiled effects, either in skirts or entire costumes, are among the novelties

OF PALE BLUE VEILING.

This style was undoubtedly derived from the empire tunic worn over the tight fitting princess slip.

The cut shows a gown which illustrates some of the points described. It is made of pale blue veiling. The waist has a bolero edged with bands of black and white spotted panne. This opens over a full blouse, which is shirred into a band over the bust. From the points of the bolero to the belt are two bunches of narrow velvet ribbon. The sleeves are unique. They reach only to the elbow and consist of a slashed upper sleeve which reveals a shirred undersleeve. The skirt has a full overskirt extending half way around and bordered with the black and white panne. The underskirt is plain, with a shirred flounce.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

LINGERIE AND STOCKS.

The Latest Petticoat—Stocks For Dressy and Ordinary Wear.

Now is the time of the year to invest in pretty lingerie and stocks. The newest and prettiest French petticoats are made with a graduated flounce reaching very high up in the back and correspondingly low in front. On this are set any number of narrow little ruffles edged with lace. This makes an ideal petticoat for a long trained skirt.

Black and white combinations are very smart in taffeta petticoats. Many of them have heavy white beading run through with black velvet ribbon. Corset covers entirely made of beading and ribbon are also all the style.

The up to date stocks have bows of tulle under the chin or else many looped bows of lace and narrow ribbon. It is quite the thing to have one-half the bow of one material and the other half of something entirely different. White taffeta stocks embroidered in pale colors and having short ties with round ends also embroidered are considered smart. A black taffeta bow and stock stitched in white is very useful for morning wear to go with flannel waists.

A tailor made flannel blouse is shown in today's illustration. It is made with stitched tucks forming a yoke. It fastens on the side by means of a stitched flap with buttons. There are two stitched pockets. With this are worn a turndown collar and a four-in-hand of black silk.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VIYELLA BLOUSE.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"Very good, sir," he returned. "I suppose you will be staying at the same place?"

"Yes, the same place," I replied. "If you have anything to communicate, you can either call, or send word to me there."

I thereupon departed for the quiet house at which I usually take up my abode when in Paris. The big hotels are places I steer clear of, for the simple reason that I often have business in connection with them, and it does not pay me to become too well known. At this little house I can go out and come in just as I please, have my meals at any time of the day or night, and am as well cared for as at my own abode in London. On this occasion the old lady of the house greeted me with flattering enthusiasm. She had received my telegram, she said, and my usual room awaited me. I accordingly ascended to it in order to dress myself for the dinner of the evening, and as I did so thought of the pretty bedroom I had seen on the previous day, which naturally led me to think of the owner of the house, at that moment my employer. In my mind's eye I could see her just as she had stood on that old stone bridge at Bishopstowe, with the sunset behind her and the church bells sounding across the meadows, calling the villagers to evensong. How much better it was, I argued, to be standing talking to her there in that old world peace, than to be dressing for a dinner at an up-to-date French restaurant. My toilet completed, I descended to the street, hired a fiacre, and drove to the restaurant where I had arranged to meet my friend. The place in question is neither an expensive nor a fashionable one. It has no halls of mirrors, no dainty little cabinets, but, to my thinking, you can obtain the best dinner in all Paris there. On reaching it I found my guest had been the first to arrive. We accordingly ascended the stairs to the room above, where we selected our table and sat down. My companion was a witty little man with half the languages of Europe on his tongue, and a knowledge of all the tricks and dodges of all the criminal fraternity at his finger-ends. He has since written a book on his experiences, and a stranger volume, or one more replete with a knowledge of the darker side of human nature it would be difficult to find. He had commenced his professional career as a doctor, and like myself had gradually drifted into the detective profession. Among other things he was an inimitable hand at disguising himself, as many a wretched criminal now knows to his cost. Even I, who know him so well, have been taken in by him. I have given alms to a blind beggar in the streets, have encountered him as a chiffonier prowling about the gutters, have sat next to him on an omnibus when he has been clothed as an artisan in a blue blouse, and on not one of those occasions have I ever recognized him until he made himself known to me. Among other things he was a decided epicure, and loved a good dinner as well as any of his compatriots. Could you but see him with his napkin tucked under his chin, his little twinkling eyes sparkling with mirth, and his face wreathed in smiles, you would declare him to be one of the jolliest-looking individuals you have ever encountered. See him, however, when he is on business and has a knotty problem to solve, and you will find a different man. The mouth has become one of iron, the eyes are as fierce as fierce can be. Some one, I remember, likened him to the great Napoleon, and the description is an exceedingly apt one.

"By the way," I said, as we took a peep into our second bottle of Perrier-Jouet, "there is a question I want to put to you. Do you happen to be acquainted with a certain Mme. Beaumarais?"

"I have known her for more years than she or I would care to remember," he answered. "For a woman who has led the life she has, she wears uncommonly well. A beautiful creature! The very finest shoulders in all Paris, and that is saying something."

He blew a kiss off the tips of his fingers, and raised his glass in her honor.

"I drink to her in this noble wine, but I do not let her touch my money. Oh, no, la belle Louise is a clever woman, a very clever woman, but money trickles through her fingers like water through a sieve. Let me think for a moment. She ruined Marquis D'Esmai, the Vicomte Cotforet, M. D'Armier and many others whose names I cannot now recall. The first is with our noble troops in Cochin China, the second is in Algeria, and the third I know not where, and now I have learnt since my arrival in Paris that she has got hold of a young Englishman, who is vastly wealthy. She will have all he has got very soon, and then he will begin the world anew. You are interested in that Englishman, of course?"

"How do you know that?"

"Because you question me about Mme. Beaumarais," he answered. "A good many people have asked me about her at different times, but it is always the man they want to get hold of. You, my astute Fairfax, are interested in the man, not because you want to save him from her, but because he has done a little something which he should not have done, elsewhere. The money he is lavishing on Mme. Louise, whence does it come? Should I be very wrong if I suggested gems?"

I gave a start of surprise. How on earth did he guess this?

"Yes! I see I'm right," he answered with a little laugh. "Well, I knew it a long time ago. Ah, you are astonished! You should surely never allow yourself to be surprised by anything. Now I will tell you how I came to know about the gems. Some time ago a certain well-known lady of this city lost her jewel-case in a mysterious manner. The affair was placed in my hands, and when I had exhausted Paris, I went to Amsterdam, en route if necessary for London. You know our old friends, Levenstein and Schartzer?"

I nodded. I had had dealings with that firm on many occasions.

"Well, as I went into their office, I saw the gentleman who has been paying attention to the lady we have been discussing, come out. I have an excellent memory for faces, and when I saw him to-night entering the Cafe des Ambassadeurs, I recognized him immediately. Thus the mystery is explained."

He shrugged his shoulders and spread his hands apart, like a conjurer who has just vanished a rabbit or an orange.

"Has the man of whom we are speaking done very wrong?" he inquired.

"The stones he sold in London and Amsterdam belonged to himself and his two partners," I answered. "He has not given them their share of the transaction. That is all."

"They had better be quick about it then, or they are not likely to get anything. It would be a very big smu that would tempt la belle Louise to be faithful for a long period. If your employers really desire to punish him, and they are not in want of money, I should say do not let them interfere. She will then nibble-nibble at what he has got like a mouse into a store of good things. Then presently that store will be all gone, and then she will give up, and he, the man, will go out and shoot himself, and she will pick up somebody else, and will begin to nibble-nibble just as before. As I say, there will be somebody else, and somebody else, right up to the end of the chapter. And with every one she will grow just an impereceptible bit older. By and by the wrinkles will appear; I fancy there are just one or two already. Then she will not be so fastidious about her hundred of thousand francs, and will condescend to think of mere thousands. After that it will come to simple hundreds. Then there will be an interval—after which a garret, a charcoal-brazier, and the morgue. I have known so many, and it is always the same. First, the diamonds, the champagne, the exquisite little dinners at the best restaurants, and at last the brazier, the closed doors and windows, and the cold stone slab. There is a moral in it, my dear friend, but we will not look for it to-night. When do you intend to commence business with your man?"

FORGOT POVERTY IN DRINK

POLICE FOUND HER INTOXICATED IN COLD BARE ROOM.

Neighbors Feared She Would Freeze to Death Was Given a Home for Sixty Days.

A room almost as cold as the street without, a partially intoxicated woman on the floor and a general air of abject poverty, was the scene which greeted Patrolman Higgin's gaze when he entered a house on East Front street, near Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. He was called to the place by another tenant who feared the woman would freeze to death, having refused a proffered seat near a warm stove.

The inebriant was taken to police headquarters. This morning she described herself as Sarah O'Connor, friendless and, with the exception of the bare room, no home. She couldn't tell where she came from and the only part of her early history the police could learn was that once upon a time she had lived in Ireland.

The neighbor who called Patrolman Higgins testified she occupied the room but a short time and was intoxicated the greater part of it. As Mrs. O'Connor seemed indifferent as to her plight, City Judge Runyon decided to give her a home for the winter and sent her to jail for sixty days.

FRIGHTENED FELINE.

Took Refuge in a Big Store and Refuses to Leave.

For several days past there has been a cat imprisoned in Woodhull & Martin's store. The clerks have made vain endeavors to catch the feline but they have not yet succeeded. Tuesday evening the cat was located, but she was so wild that it was impossible to get near enough to her to capture her. The animal entered the store a few days ago and appeared to be very wild, evidently having been chased by a dog. Yesterday another attempt was made to find the cat, but without success.

TESTING BEDS.

Street Commissioner Gavett Trying to Find Out If Disposal Works Are a Success.

The recently erected septic tank and contact beds at the city disposal works have been in operation for a short time and Street Commissioner Gavett is already making tests to see if they are working properly. The tank has been in use three months and the contact beds three weeks. Samples of the effluent passed from each have been taken with a view to ascertaining whether it will become clear or clouded.

Mr. Gavett finds that the liquid becomes perfectly clear and that but a very faint odor, almost imperceptible, remains. It is supposed as the beds continue to be used the effluent will become improved and there will be nothing objectionable to the plant.

Several days ago Mrs. M. Weinberger, of Central avenue, missed a diamond ring valued at $200. Yesterday the stone was found by Miss Bullock, principal of the Franklin school, and later was returned to the owner. One of the children had the diamond and a few inquiries dispelled the mystery.

WARREN CHAPEL BADE FAREWELL TO WORKER

Reception Given to Rev. R. D. Schoonmaker on Eve of Departure to Africa.

PRESENTED WITH PIANO

REV. DR. RICHARDS AND REV. J. O. M'KELVEY MADE ADDRESSES.

Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker Made Reply—Solos by Miss Willis—Presented Him With a Baby Grand Piano—Many Present.

As a fitting testimonial of the esteem in which he is held by all the members of the church, a reception was given to Rev. R. D. Schoonmaker in Warren chapel, last evening. The guest of honor will shortly depart for Africa, where he will labor in the missionary cause, and this affair furnished an appropriate occasion for his friends to wish him God speed.

Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, made addresses, eulogistic of him as a man and as a Christian worker. During the course of the formal exercises Miss Bertha Van Nais Willis rendered several soprano solos, and received enthusiastic applause for her work. Miss Saidee Mae Howell acted as accompanist.

Rev. Mr. McKelvey had many words of praise for Mr. Schoonmaker, and told how much he had enjoyed having the young pastor as an assistant in his work at the chapel. Incidentally he told of the fruitful labors of the newly fledged missionary while at Warren chapel, particularly dwelling upon the great good he had done in the primary department of the Sunday-school, of which he has been the superintendent.

A general and at the same time able address on the subject of foreign missionary work formed the theme of Rev. Dr. Richards' talk. This topic gave him an opportunity of explaining the great value Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker will be in his new calling. He referred to the duty of all church people to lend their efforts in advancing the work among the heathen. In his opinion Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker is specially fitted for the work, and he took occaison to wish him the utmost success at the precious task.

When Rev. Dr. Richards had concluded his remarks, Rev. Mr. McKelvey addressed the young missionary and said that a number of his friends had wished to present to him some token of their esteem, and that a baby grand piano has been selected by them as a suitable gift. He expressed regret that the instrument was not there to be given him, but remarked that it had been sent on to his post of duty in Africa. Rev. Mr. Schoonmaker expressed his thanks for the thoughtfulness of his friends and made a short address on his work in the past and the prospects of African labor. The exercises were concluded with benediction by Rev. Dr. Richards.

After the meeting the members of the congregation and other friends crowded about Mr. Schoonmaker for the purpose of saying good-bye and wishing him success in his chosen labors.

A. building and at the city drug stores. A free will offering will be received.

CANVASSING CITY.

Corps of Men Started by the N. Y. and N. J. Telephone Company.

A corps of five contract men was placed at work canvassing the city, yesterday morning, by the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. These agents are in charge of L. M. Green, who is superintending this feature of the work.

The residents of the borough as well as the city will be visited and the scheme of the company clearly explained to them. At least a week will be devoted to this work. H. G. Kerr is the representative of the company, so far as the actual execution of the agreements is concerned.

THE BIG CROWDS CONTINUE

Dancing and Informal Entertainment Divided the Evening's Honors.

The fourth evening of the Red Men's week's fair, in Saengerbund hall, showed that interest in the attraction is not diminishing as time passes. There was a good sized crowd present again last evening, and from all appearances it is believed that the affair will be the most successful one to be held by a fraternal organization in some time.

There was more or less entertainment to interest the people, who cared not for the merry waltz. For those who wished to dance, however, the Imperial orchestra furnished the music. The Singing Society of the Gesang and Turn Verein, assisted by some members of the Liberty Society of Elizabeth, rendered a number of tunes, dear to those from the Fatherland. Some clever work was done by the Clarence Pope acrobatic troupe, the best of which was the performance of Bertram Hansen, who did some difficult feats.

A handsome pillow was won in a contest by Patrick J. Melvin. Some other prizes will be awarded this evening. The number of chances taken last evening on the various contests proved that more interest is being taken in this feature of the affair.

A MASTER HAND.

"Robert Louis Stevenson" Was the Subject of Final Lecture on the Modern English Novel.

The final talk in the series of five lectures on the construction of the modern English novel, given by Miss Antoniette Carroll, of New York, took place at the home of Henry E. Bowen, of Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. "Robert Louis Stevenson" was the topic selected for the concluding lecture, and it was handled in a masterly way.

Miss Carroll dwelt upon the style and particularly the good qualities of this great poet. She told of his early efforts and passed on to his life at Samoa, where he sent out to the world some of the best fiction of modern times. His works were contrasted with those of other authors of renown in the same line of literary work. Miss Carroll showed wherein he excelled in building up the framework of a novel.

STANDARD AUTHORITY.

Last Edition of Webster's International Dictionary is Very Valuable.

It is an accepted fact among scholars that Webster's International Dictionary is the standard authority so far as the English world is concerned. 25,000 new words were added to the last edition and the work is the most complete of its kind in existence. In all details it is thoroughly abreast of the times.

In the last edition the plates are all new and they attract the eye. The newest words, phrases and definitions were prepared under the direction of W. T. Harris, the United States Commissioner of Education, assisted by a large corps of competent specialists. There are over 5,000 illustrations. It contains exactly 2,364 pages from cover to cover, and the bindings are exceedingly rich. The work is published by G. & C. Merriam Co., of Springfield, Mass.

Verdict for Plaintiffs.

A verdict of $18.15, in favor of the plaintiffs, was rendered in Justice Hand's court yesterday afternoon, in the contract case of Henry F. Simons and Company against George Cook. The case was tried before a six man jury composed of U. B. Crane, Frank VanWinkle, C. E. Hepburn, John Rafferty, Jr., Dr. Herbert and William Henry.

VARIED SCENES WERE PICTURED IN LIFE

Series of Tableaux Given at Y. M. C. A. Hall by Church Societies.

MUSICAL SELECTIONS.

UNDER AUSPICES OF ENDEAVOR SOCIETY AND KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Connected With Park Avenue Baptist Church—Those Who Took Part in the Living Pictures—What They Were.

The living pictures given last evening in the Y. M. C. A. Hall under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society and King's Daughters of the Park Avenue Baptist church, attracted an appreciative audience.

Frederick Green, attired to represent a negro, announced the various tableaux and other numbers on the programme in a style that convulsed the audience with laughter. Mrs. Frederick Green presided at the piano and rendered appropriate selections throughout the evening.

The first tableau, "Rock of Ages," was given by Miss Emily Runyon, while Miss Elsie Giles sang the hymn. "The Three Graces," were represented by Miss Elsie Giles, Miss Lillian Richardson and Miss Mary Giles. Miss Priscilla Beatrice Emmons gave a portrayal of "Diana in the Moon."

In a series of three pictures, "The Artists' Dream," was given. In the first picture Arthur Krom appeared as a sculptor. In the next two pictures Miss Bessie Giles appeared as the finished product of the artist, while the artist was asleep. Elmer D. Cutting, accompanied on the piano by Clifford Braider, gave a pleasing solo that won a hearty encore.

The next tableau was a representation of "The Soldier's Farewell," in which Miss Adelaide Runyon, Ernest Whitney, and the Misses Arline and Marjorie Brown appeared. Mr. Whitney was the soldier, while the others as his family, were bidding him goodbye. Miss Jennie Giles appeared as a "homeless" waif. One of the tableaux that elicited much interest was that entitled "Outside the Lines." It was a picture of one soldier assisting another by giving him a drink of water. The soldiers were Clinton Hall and Herbert Brokaw.

Miss Aimee Emmons recited "The Sign of the Heart," and for an encore she recited Eugene Field's charming selection "Little Boy Blue." Miss Emmons was given a cordial reception and her work was of a high character. She possesses a remarkable degree of mastery and is prefectly at ease while reciting.

The next tableau was entitled "Off Duty." Wesley R. Brokaw, as a policeman, and Miss Elizabeth VanWinkle, as a servant, were represented as courting. Mrs. E. Frank Vail, as mistress, finally appeared and as tell-tale evidence she discovered the imprint of the female hands on the poilceman's back. "Comin' Thro the Rye," was the title of a tableau given by Miss Elizabeth VanWinkle and Harry Cuming, after which Mr. Cutting again favored the audience with a solo. He was obliged to respond to an encore and he sang a very pretty selection.

"Uncle Tom," "Eva," and "Topsy," were cleverly portrayed by J. M. Hawkins, Miss Florence Hawkins and Miss Marjorie Brown, while "Love in a Spring," as the title of another clever picture in which A. D. Thompson, Jr., and Miss Florence Hawkins appeared in burnt cork.

Preceding the next tableau, Miss Arline Brown gave two amusing recitations. "The Cake Walk," was an amusing picture in which Miss Florence Hawkins, Miss Elizabeth Van Winkle, J. M. Hawkins and A. D. Thompson, Jr., appeared.

The entertainment concluded with a series of five pictures representing George Washington at different stages in his life. The first picture pictured him as a babe in the cradle, while his mother, in the person of Mrs. Arthur Krom sat near. In the next picture George appeared in the person of Walter Cuming carrying a hatchet. Clinton Hall, as the father, stood by admonishing his son for cutting down the cherry tree. The third picture represented George wooing. The object of his affection was Miss Adelaide Runyon, his sweetheart.

The fourth picture was "Valley Forge," and the soliders, Clinton Hall as George Washington, and Ernest Whitney, Harry Thompson and Herbert Brokaw, as members of the army were about a fire getting warm. The last picture was entitled "The Crowning of Washington." In this tableau Elsie Giles appeared placing a wreath upon George's head, while the Misses Arline and Marjorie Brown were seated at his feet.

The success of the entertainment is due particularly to the earnest efforts of J. M. Hawkins, although all who took part put forth their best efforts.

READY TO CONSIDER NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

Committee Appointed From Borough School Board to Look Into the Subject.

A MEETING TOMORROW.

THE POSSIBILITIES OF WARREN CHAPEL SITE WILL BE DISCUSSED.

Committee Appointed to Consider the Advisibility of Securing Additional Quarters for School Accommodations.

The agitation in favor of a new school building for the borough gives evidence of bearing fruit, for already a committee has been appointed from the borough Board of Education to consider the advisibility of securing additional quarters for the school accommodations. This committee consists of Henry A. McGee, chairman, A. D. V. Honeyman and Dr. J. H. Cooley.

It has been arranged to hold the first meeting of the committee, tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The members will meet in the Somerset street school house and it is probable that Superintendent Homer J. Wightman will attend the session. The object of this is that he may be able to answer any question concerning the present condition of the schools so far as relates to accommodations.

One of the aspects of the subject to be considered will be the possibility of purchasing Warren chapel. If this is done the edifice will be torn down and a substantial structure erected. Of course, the whole matter will have to be submitted to the citizens before anything is done. It is understood that the site at the corner of Prospect place and Grove street is out of the question, because it is not for sale.

There have been many inquiries as to why the temporary arrangement made in the seventh grade relating to half time is not applied generally in the schools. It is explained that there are two objections to this course. One is that the older children could not use the tiny desks in the lower grades, as would be necessary and the other is that such a step would play havoc with the State appropiation. This appropriation is based on the total number of days of actual attendance, and by running on half time the sum would be considerable reduced. Last year the schools received nearly $11,000 and that amount is none too much for the requirements.

INJUNCTION DEMANDED.

Jury Will Have to Settle Trouble Between McDonough Brothers and Cornelius Ackerman.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield Feb. 7—The trouble existing between Cornelius Ackerman and McDonough Brothers, ice dealers, over the right to use certain lands, will have to be decided later by a jury. An attempt was made to secure an injunction prohibiting the ice firm from flooding a certain strip of land near Clinton avenue and cutting ice from the same. The land comprises about an acre and was used this year by McDonough Brothers.

The matter was taken into the Court of Chancery, A. A. Clark, of Somerville, representing the plaintiff, Mr. Ackerman. An injunction was applied for and the defendants were asked to show cause why this should not be granted. They claimed that they were using the land according to an agreement with the plaintiff. The latter denied this claim, saying that no agreement exists.

The Chancellor refused to grant the injunction, saying that it was a matter for a jury to decide. The matter will probably come up at the May term of court.

THERE IS HARMONY IN REPUBLICAN RANKS

That's What Clerk in Chancery E. C. Stokes Told Newark News Correspondent.

THE PARTY'S LEADERS.

HE DECLARES TALK ABOUT LEADERSHIP IS IDLE.

Logical Leaders Are Two Senators and Governor—He Speaks High of Some Others Prominent in Party Counsels.

Clerk in Chancery Edward C. Stokes, who is the acting head of the Republican State committee, and who is regarded as one of the most conservative political leaders in New Jersey, in an interview, published by the Newark News, declared that there was no cause for alarm for the future of the party. The rumors of serious conflict over leadership, he said, were entirely unwarranted, and he takes a very optimistic view of the outlook for the important Congressional and local fights that are coming on this fall.

"All this talk about fighting for leadership is idle," he said. "It simply indicates that there are many prominent and worthy Republicans who are ready to counsel for the general good of the cause. The logical leaders of the party are the two United States Senators and the Governor, all of whom hold official positions of influence and power and to whom the party naturally looks for direction and guidance as to its policies. They are the great leaders of the party in the State."

In speaking of local leadership, as applied to the various sections of the State, Mr. Stokes expressed the belief that the Republicans were in excellent condition, despite the reports to the contrary. Speaking particularly of south Jersey, the chancery clerk declared that the party was united and harmonious, and had strong men to carry their standards.

"Congressman Gardner," he said, "is a man of great ability, and the legislative experience, both State and national, that he possesses is second to none. The party will always have the benefit of his wisdom, as he will undoubtedly be continued in Congress as long as he may desire.

"Sheriff Baird is a man to whom everybody goes for advice and counsel. He is a vigorous Republican, a man of splendid business ability and capacity, and a natural leader of men. He was General Sewell's closest political friend and confidant, and is a great harmonizer. His recognized worth and genial disposition have made for him hosts of warm friends in our end of this State., who gladly rally round him. He is thus well equipped for keeping the party in south Jersey united, and in condition for effective work.

MARKS THE BOXES.

Red Light Placed Above Fire Alarm Boxes in the Borough.

Chairman Lee, of the city councilmanic fire committee, has devised a novel arrangement to be used as a fire alarm box sign by night. It is a retangular glass device, which is placed around the electric light above the box.

The red light can be seen some distance, and it avoids delay and confusion by a want of knowledge concerning the location of these boxes. Few people are acquainted with the exact situation of the alarms, and this fact has frequently caused much trouble when a fire occurs.

The arrangement is being given a trial, one of them havnig been placed about the electric light opposite fire headquarters. If it proves satisfactory, the device will be put into general use throughout the city.

Bar Association Dinner.

The annual dinner of the Somerset County Bar Association will be given at the Somerset, Fury's, this evening. Hon. Charles E. Littlefield, of Maine, will make an address. Chancellor Magie, Chief Justice Gummere, Justices Garretson and Pitney, Former Attorney General Griggs and other prominent members of the profession in New Jersey have been invited and will probably attend.

Made Walk of Ashes.

Taking advantage of an unusual accumulation of ashes at the plant of the electric light company, the street men have commenced placing a coating on Rock avenue from Front street to the isolation hospital. It will make a very substantial walk.

CHINESE NEW YEAR.

Local Celestials Will Not Celebrate Here, But Go to New York.

The Chinese New Year opened last evening and the festival will be continued for a fortnight. Here in Plainfield the Celestials hold no celebration, but those who desire to observe the occasion go down to New York, where "Chinatown" is alive.

This morning the local Chinamen received a large batch of mail. The letters contained New Year's greetings. The cards are strips of scarlet and upon them are written the names of the senders. Sometimes the word "Fuh" is added. This means "Happiness."

FIRM CREDITORS AFTER THE PERSONAL ESTATE

Suit on Trial in the Orphans' Court Against the Estate of David M. Demarest.

TAKING OF TESTIMONY.

HAD BEEN A MEMBER OF TWINE FIRM OF DEMAREST & JEROLOMAN.

Litigation Involves Nearly $50,000—W. A. Coddington Appeared for Henry M. Demarest, of Plainfield, the Executor.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 7—In the Orphans Court, yesterday, there was the beginning of the taking of testimony in the matter of the estate of David M. Demarest, over the contest between the creditors and executor of the estate.

The matter grows out of a partnership in New York between Demarest & Jeroloman, who did a large business in the sale of nets and twins. Mr. Demarest, who lived in Plainfield, died in 1898, after the surviving partner assigned the firm property for the benefit of the creditors. The creditors filed claims against the assignee and participated in the dividends of the assignment. Two years after the death of Mr. Demarest the firm creditors filed partnership claims against the personal estate in New Jersey. There has been more or less litigation between the executor and firm ever since.

Now the demand of the firm creditors is to share in the distribution of the personal estate of Mr. Demarest, equally with his personal creditors. The firm creditors also claim that the income, derived from certain real estate pending the time that it was unknown that the assets of the firm of Demarest & Jeroloman would not be sufficient to pay the firm creditors in full, should be withheld from the legatees under the will and be deposited in the residue of Mr. Demarest's personal estate and be distributed among the creditors before any part should be paid the legatees.

These are the questions raised in the case and it will take several days to complete the testimony so that a decision can be given by the court. The litigation involves between $40,000 and $50,000. The lawyers engaged include Charles DeHart Brower and Fred Seymour, of New York city; Cowles & Carey, of Jersey City; Colie & Duffield, of Newark, and Reed & Coddington, of Plainfield. Mr. Coddington conducted the legal matters before the court yesterday in behalf of the executor, Henry M. Demarest, of Plainfield. The case was adjourned to Monday, February 17.

EQUAL TO THE OCCASION.

Columbia Boys Lacked Entire Club and Had to Present an Impromtu Programme.

Although the leader of the mandolin club was ill and a number of members of the clubs missed their train, the Columbia University Glee and Mandolin Clubs proved themselves equal to the occasion and gave a very enjoyable concert at the Casino, last evening. The absence of the members compelled a complete change of programme at the last moment but it was a versatile crowd and the programme pleased the Plainfielders who turned out. The audience was by no means as large, however, as was deserving for an entertainment of that character.

The college boys sang well under the leadership of George S. Parsons who also individually entertained with some humorous musical selections and a solo. The solo whistling of A. F. Robinson was particularly fine. The university octette, minus one, found much favor. The mandolin players missed their leader but did very well nevertheless. The audience was generous in its applause and there were a number of encores.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The indignant taxpayers of Plainfield, whose anger has been aroused because the salaries of a few city officials have been raised to a respectable figure, should remember that Plainfield is not bidding for a reputation as a cheap town. A progressive community, with over 16,000 population, cannot expect to keep abreast of the times if the men who carry on its affairs are working for starvation wages.—Newark News.

No act in the recent public career of Senator Charles A. Reed, of Somerset, is so deserving of general approbation as the vote which he cast for his opponent in the Republican legislative caucus, thereby electing the latter to the State treasurership and defeating himself. In this instance the vote of the Somerset Senator was cast upon the side of political honor and decency. Of course, it was unintentional and in a way compulsory, but why question motives when the result is so agreeable to the public sense of propriety and so different from anything that could be expected?

Aside from the boomerang effect of the Somerset Senator's vote, the credit for electing Mr. Briggs and saving the party's good name belongs almost exclusively to the members of the Assembly. That discredited fetich, "senatorial courtesy," availed to give Senator Reed the votes of every one of his colleagues in the Upper House. That a majority of these Senators did violence to their own convictions is certain, and it is a pity that they were not brave enough to ignore a custom which in this instance, at least, would have been "more honored in the breach than in the observance." It is but fair, however, to exonerate Senator McCarter from blame in this matter since his vote was practically cast for Mr. Briggs by Senator Reed.—Newark News.

Senator Strong, of Middlesex, has introduced in the Senate a bill—Senate No. 13—which may or may not abolish every board of chosen freeholders in this State. It is a referendum bill, that is, a bill which provides that the people of each county may decide, by ballot, whether they will continue their board of chosen freeholders as at present constituted, or create a new board consisting of five members, to be elected in the county at large by the people. The members of the new board—or commission—will devote their entire time to the county's business, and will be paid fixed salaries instead of per diem, etc.

A bill of this nature, or even much more drastic, would have been passed by the legislature years ago, had it not been for the high character of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union county. Nothing but this prevented the abolition of all boards of freeholders. In the majority of the other counties the boards of freeholders were rank. They descended to all sorts of tricks and evasions to cheat the counties and to put money in their own pockets; they became, in several instances, a stench in the nostrils of the people, and any change seemed to be advisable so that the corrupt boards of freeholders could be abolished. But the Union county board stood, the honorable exception.

The Union county people have not wanted a change, because county affairs have been managed wisely, economically, honestly and well. Nevertheless, the rest of the State demands a change, simply because the population has doubled in the past thirty years, the county business has increased proportionately and the laws relating to boards of freeholders are becoming inextricably mixed. The bill introduced by Senator Strong is a referendum bill. If it becomes a law it cannot affect Union county unless the people, by a majority of their votes, decide to abandon the old system and adopt the new. Something will have to be done soon, or our board of freeholders will, under existing laws, increase until it will contain between thirty and forty members.—Elizabeth Journal.

THEATRICAL.

Proctor's theatres in New York and Newark are enjoying a remarkably succesful season due not only to the general popularity of these theatres but because of the superior excellence of the bills which are presented. The topping feature will be the Svengalis, a quartette of Europeans who present a mystifying and novel offering. "Innocent as a Lamb" will be enacted by the Proctor Stock Company at the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street. It will be preceded by Clay H. Greene's newest travesty, "Four Times Foiled." The Proctor Stock Company tests its versatility in a presentation of Hoyt's "A Trip to Chinatown" at the Fifth Avenue. William Corthell, Mabel Montgomery and Pearl Evelyn will be the leaders. Special scenery has been prepared and an excellent performance is assured.

HIGH LIFE NUPTIALS

Secretary Hay's Daughter Becomes Mrs. Payne Whitney.

SEASON'S GREATEST SOCIAL EVENT.

The President, Heads of Departments, Diplomats and Statesmen, With Leaders of Wealth and Fashion, Attend.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Two distinguished American families have been united by marriage at the Church of the Covenant in this city. The bride was Miss Helen Hay, daughter of the secretary of state, and the bridegroom was Mr. Payne Whitney of New York, son of Mr. William C. Whitney, former secretary of the navy.

It was a notable gathering that assembled within the beautifully decorated edifice at high noon to witness the happy culmination of a romance which is said to have had its beginning two years ago when the brother of the bride, now dead, and Mr. Whitney were classmates and college chums at Yale. The engagement of Miss Hay and Mr. Whitney was announced several months ago while Mr. Whitney was visiting at the summer home of Secretary Hay at Lake Sunapee, N. H. Although the badge of mourning has hung over the Hay household throughout the entire social season because of the sudden death of Adelbert Hay, the eldest son of the Hay fam the arrangements for the wedding just celebrated have gone steadily forward, and the social world has been kept fully advised of the event which was to lift the pall from one of the brightest and most attractive homes in the capital city.

The marriage ceremony partook of a national as well as an international flavor, as the young couple were surrounded by representative men and women from Europe and America. Nearly a thousand invitations were sent out, so that the capacity of the church was tested to find space for those who came to witness the union of these two illustrious households.

The Church of the Covenant was transformed into a beautiful flower garden, in which Small was allowed to exercise without limit his skill as a floral artist. The result surpassed anything in the nature of wedding decorations seen in Washington.

The president, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice Roosevelt and Miss Carow, followed by the members of the cabinet and their wives and families, occupied seats in the front pews just across the aisle from Secretary Hay and his family and the family of the bridegroom. The senate and house, the judiciary, the army and navy, the diplomatic corps and all official Washington were represented in the company. There was also a large delegation from New York and other distant cities who came on to attend the wedding.

The middle aisle was transformed into a bridal path of Easter lilies fastened in great bunches to staffs secured to the backs of the pews.

The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Hay, sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Whitney, the young sister of the bridegroom. They were both attired in gowns of pale gray crepe de chine over white taffeta and large picture hats of white felt, trimmed with ostrich tips. They carried bouquets of white lilies of the valley and white orchids.

The bride entered the church leaning upon the arm of her father. She was elegantly attired in a rich white satin with full court train, with a veil of tulle kept in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. Though possessing what is said to be the handsomest collection of jewels in the city—heirlooms handed down by her maternal grandmother, and being also the recipient of many costly gems which have arrived in the last month as wedding gifts—none was worn by the bride.

Instead of the usual stiff bridal bouquet Miss Hay carried a graceful spray of orange blossoms and orchids tied with white ribbons, which suggested a floral muff, with a cascade of blossoms that hung almost to the hem of the gown.

The bridegroom, attended by Eugene Hale, Jr., son of Senator Hale of Maine, met the bride at the improvised platform upon which the ceremony was performed. The Rev. Junis S. Hamlin, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, officiated. He was assisted by the Rev. H. C. Hayden of the Stone Presbyterian church, in Cleveland, O., which was erected by the bride's grandfather, the late Amos Stone.

The wedding breakfast which followed at the residence of Secretary Hay was attended only by the members of the bridal party and the immediate relatives of the two families. The president and Mrs. Roosevelt were present, and the president proposed a toast to the young couple prior to their departure for Thomasville, Ga., where they expect to remain a month.

Seldom has any bride received so many beautiful and costly gifts as those bestowed upon the fair daughter of Secretary Hay.

The wedding gifts were displayed in one of the rooms on the second floor of Secretary Hay's home. The magnificent collection of jewels received from close relatives of the young couple attracted general admiration and comment.

Here is a partial list of the presents:

President and Mrs. Roosevelt, antique clock, three feet high, of old mahogany, curiously inlaid and beautiful in design. With it two vases of the same antique design and workmanship, the whole contained in a box of mahogany inlaid with lighter wood. The face of the clock is of light metal, with long, slender gold hands.

Payne Whitney, the bridegroom, a diamond necklace, each stone of which he personally selected; from the pendant a pear shaped opal, two inches in length; also a painting by Sir Joseph Reynolds.

Secretary of State Hay and Mrs. Hay, a diamond tiara and a silver tea service of highly polished repousse work on a silver salver.

William C. Whitney, brooch of diamonds and rubies, three and a half inches in diameter, to be worn as a corsage ornament, with a pendant of three solitaire diamonds, each nearly an inch in diameter; also a ruby ring.

Colonel Oliver Payne, uncle of the bridegroom, a $150,000 necklace, a mansion on Fifth avenue, New York, and a beautiful residence at Tuxedo, with spacious grounds. Within this house he has placed a complete outfit of china and the greatest portion of the furnishings.

Miss Dorothy Whitney, emerald ring set with diamonds.

Mr. and Mrs. Almeric Paget, diamond and ruby brooch in the shape of a large bee.

Mr. and Mrs. Mather, uncle and aunt of the bride, a set of flat silver table service.

The Mather children, cousins of Miss Hay, a beautiful repousse silver toilet set.

Mr. and Mrs. Dimmock, the latter a sister of William C. Whitney, a yellow and white diamond ring of great value and brilliancy.

Clarence Hay, brother of the bride, an antique silver box for jewels.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant B. Schley, piece of Russian bronze, "The Messenger of the Czar."

Senator and Mrs. Mark Hanna, an empire clock of great beauty.

Captain Leonard Hay, uncle of Miss Helen Hay, an oil portrait by Sully of one of the bride's ancestors.

Mrs. Woodfall, aunt of Miss Hay, a jade rosary of rare workmanship.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hay, uncle and aunt of the bride, a richly embroidered portierre.

Ivory Coast Interests Combined.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Negotiations have been completed between the Ivory Coast Goldfields company and Albert Kahn, the Paris representative of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. of New York, by which Mr. Kahn's concessions, amounting to nearly 350,000 acres, are amalgamated with the first named company. Reginald Ward and other Americans, both here and in America, are interested in the company. The developments on the Ivory Coast are attracting attention here and on the continent, and, according to the company's reports, a big and new field for American mining machinery will be opened.

New Orleans Carnival Open.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 7.—The carnival of 1902, which socially has been in swing for three weeks past, actually opened last night with the parade and ball at Momus. The annual arrival of Rex occurs on Monday, and among those who will assist in the reception will be the Burgess corps of New York. Proteus has his pageant on Monday evening, and the Rex procession occurs Tuesday. The Comus pageant on that evening and balls by Comus and Rex will close the carnival.

The President's Dinner.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—President Roosevelt invited a number of well known men to dinner at the White House last night to meet Governor William M. Taft of the Philippines, who is now in Washington. They included the following: Secretary Shaw, Secretary Root, Speaker Henderson, Senators Foraker, Lodge, Spooner, Fairbanks, Hanna and Beveridge, Representatives Grosvenor and Henry A. Cooper, Dr. Arthur T. Hadley, president of Yale university; Rev. Lyman Abbott and Mr. J. B. Bishop.

TAFT ON TAXATION.

Governor of Islands Again Before Philippine Commission.

SMALL PRIVATE LAND OWNERSHIP.

Out of 65,000,000 Acres of Agricultural Territory Only 5,000,000 Under Title—Valuation of Manila Small.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Governor Taft made a lengthy statement on the subject of taxation at yesterday's meeting of the Philippine commission. He said there never had been a land tax in the islands, and he attributed this immunity to the influence of the friars, who had large holdings, and to the owners of large haciendas. The commission had imposed a land tax. There had been opposition to the system, but this was disappearing. The income from this tax would be small for a time because of the fact, due to the retarded development of the country, that only 5,000,000 of the 65,000,000 acres of agricultural land in the Philippines is held by private owners.

Judge Taft said that the assessable taxable property in Manila would not exceed $30,000,000. This, he added, would not exceed one-sixth of the valuation of an American city of the same size, and yet Manila would require a far larger expenditure than would an American city of the same class. One considerable item of expense for administration there would be that of maintaining sanitary conditions. It was necessary at all times to guard against the plague, and there are from 15,000 to 20,000 lepers in the entire archipelago.

These conditions, he explained, rendered it necessary for the central government to bear part of the expenses of municipal government.

Taking up the subject of general taxation, he said the commission is making an effort to make the customs tariff the only source of revenue, "and while," he said, "we should be glad to have free trade with the United States in order to insure the progress of agriculture, we cannot but feel that if it is fair to collect a tariff on goods coming into the Philippines from the United States it is only fair to provide for a tariff on Philippine articles coming into the United States. In our judgment the customs tax is absolutely necessary, as the government could not be supported by direct taxation."

The Libertador Not Sunk.

COLON, Colombia, Feb. 7.—The rumor that the Libertador, formerly called the Ban Righ and now operating in the interests of the Matos revolution against President Castro of Venezuela, had been sunk at Puerto Colombia, Colombia, by a Venezuelan man-of-war, is unfounded. According to news received here, the Libertador was at Cartagena, Colombia, last Saturday and left Sunday, after coaling and taking on board supplies, for an unknown destination. Other news just received here from Cartagena is to the effect that ninety-four political prisoners who were lodged in prison in that city managed to effect their escape Feb. 1.

Cubans Ask Fifty Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—The Cuban planters' committee, headed by F. P. Machado, has addressed an open letter to the committee on ways and means imploring a 50 per cent reduction of the tariff on Cuban sugars and expressing a willingness to accept any of the methods proposed to accomplish this object. The letter states that two large estates have already closed, and the situation is described as critical.

Young's Shortage Made Good.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 7.—The bond company which was surety for the late Stuart R. Young, formerly city treasurer of Louisville, who committed suicide last November after a shortage in his accounts with the city had been discovered, has sent to Mayor Grainger a check for $42,040, covering the entire amount of the shortage, excepting $332, which was paid by Colonel Bennett H. Young, father of the dead official.

Burglars Rob an Armory.

PEORIA, Ill., Feb. 7.—Some time Wednesday night a burglar entered Troop G armory and stole forty army revolvers belonging to the United States government. They were valued at $700 and were bonded by Captain S. C. Tripp, deputy United States marshal. The police have a good clew and expect to capture the burglar soon.

PORT TOWNSHEND, Wash., Feb. 7.—Wreckage from the missing steamer Matteawan found by Indians south of Cape Flattery has been brought from Neah bay on the steamer Alice Gertrude. It consists of a medicine case, life preserver, life buoy and a bucket. The name "Matteawan" was on all except the medicine chest.

British War Losses.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—The war office publishes a summary of the British losses in South Africa. Up to Jan. 31 the total reduction of the forces from death or permanent disability was 25,305 men. The total of the casualties, including surviving wounded, was 5,240 officers and 100,701 men.

Five Bodies Washed Ashore.

TREATY IS OPPOSED.

Ministers Cause a Halt In Russo-Chinese Matter.

RUSSIAN CRAFTINESS REVEALED.

M. Lessar Arranging Agreement, While Agents of the Czar Are Negotiating For the Banking Privilege.

PEKING, Feb. 7.—The British, American and Japanese ministers here have renewed their opposition to the Manchurian arrangements between China and Russia. It is probable that this action will result in the further postponement of the consummation of this treaty.

The powers opposing the Manchurian treaty are now beginning to recognize the force of the representations of the Chinese plenipotentiaries that China is making the best terms possible for herself and incidentally for the equal rights of the other nations in China and are shifting their protests to Russia as the responsible party.

Paul Lessar, the Russian minister here, is endeavoring to maintain the transparent diplomatic fiction that the Manchurian treaty and the Russo-Chinese bank agreement are not related. He has informed his colleagues that the Russian government has no official knowledge of the negotiations of the Russo-Chinese bank.

The Russian agents are playing their parts with the greatest regard for appearances, while M. Lessar is arranging the treaty with China. The manager of the bank, M. Pocatillo, one of the most able and trusted of the Russian agents in the east, is negotiating the bank agreement with Wang Wen Shao.

In the light of the statements of Chinese officials, which were repeated yesterday—namely, that Russia insists upon the simultaneous signing of the Manchurian treaty and the bank agreement—the representations of M. Lessar fail to carry weight. The native newspapers are filled with stories that Russia is trying to gain her ends by offers of heavy bribes.

Germany remains a disinterested spectator of the affair. Chang Chi Tung, the viceroy of Hankow, and Liu Kun Yi, the viceroy of Nankin, continue their efforts against the treaty. They are co-operating with the Japanese minister. The draft of the agreement provides that China shall build all railways and develop all mines in Manchuria. If she is unable to command the capital, she shall apply to the bank. If the bank is unable or unwilling to enter into arrangements, China may apply elsewhere for capital.

The final clause stipulates that the agreement shall in nowise impair the existing rights of other nations, which clause is palpably nullified by the preceding conditions.

Gold In Northern New York.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Feb. 7.—Gold has lately been discovered on the rocky farm of J. Lincoln Hockens of Depeyster. The matter has been kept secret, awaiting the report of an expert assayist. This report, just made, places the ore at a value of $75 per ton. Mr. Hockens has commenced mining on a small scale, having taken out a ton and a half of gold bearing quartz. The vein was found near the surface and runs into the side of a hill. Expert miners say the find is a valuable one. Preparations are being made for extensive mining operations in the spring.

Carnival at Mobile.

MOBILE, Ala., Feb. 7.—The carnival of Mobile began with the Mystic ball of the Order of Dragons. The hotels are rapidly being filled with visitors. Monday Emperor Felix will arrive and be tendered the freedom of the city. There will be public concerts and illuminations in his honor. Tuesday there will be two day parades, and at night the two famed Mystic societies, the Infant Mystics and the Order of Myths, will turn out. The parades this year are to be unusually brilliant.

Entire Family Suffocated.

ERIE, Pa., Feb. 7.—The entire family of Grant Shirley, a Lake Shore railroad brakeman, including his wife and five children, were overcome by escaping fuel gas at their home during the night. Neighbors forced an entrance to the house and found one child, a seven-year-old boy, dead. The mother and two other children are still unconscious and may not recover. Shirley was away on his run.

New Yorkers Get Ohio Oil Wells.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 7.—New York capitalists have concluded the purchase of the Dewey-Stair-Bigelow oil leases in Wood county, with seventy producing oil wells and a daily production of 360 barrels of oil, of Thomas Percy of Bowling Green for a consideration of $250,000.

Monument Authorized Long Ago.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Representative Jones of Virginia has introduced a bill to appropriate $50,000 for the erection of a monument at Fredericksburg, Va., to General Hugh Mercer. The monument was authorized by an act of congress passed April 8, 1777.

Cannot Agree.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 7.—No agreement was reached yesterday by the joint committee upon which a basis of settlement of the differences between the United Mine Workers and operators of the four competitive mining states can be made.

TIME TO ACT.

Just because the borough of North Plainfield has grown and thrived and no great pestilence has broken out in the past, there are some people in that community who are now vigorously opposing the establishment of a sewage disposal plant for the borough on the ground that it is best to "let well enough alone." Never was a greater mistake made. There is need for a system of sewers for North Plainfield and some method to dispose of the sewage.

It was a step in the right direction when Mayor Smalley appointed a commission of borough citizens to look into the subject and discover, if possible, the most satisfactory means of disposal. There was much delay on the part of the commission in getting down to work. Some of it was excusable and part was not. That is past, however, and the commission has now regularly organized and begun its work.

One of its first acts will be to inspect the disposal plant of the city of Plainfield. The alterations there have not been given a long enough trial to determine their success. According to the reports of Street Commissioner Gavett, there is every prospect that the new plan is being successfully operated. This will be very interesting for the borough sewage commission for it may be the means of leading them to recommend a similar plant for North Plainfield.

It is understood that the commission will make some kind of a report to the Borough Council. It is not at all unlikely that a request will be made for funds for the commission to pursue its investigations. If such a request is made, there should be no hesitancy on the part of the Borough Council to appropriate a proper sum without delay. It will be remembered that $100 was given to the municipal ownership committee and never used. The men who compose the sewage commission appear to be more in earnest than were the members of the other committee and, if the funds are given them, there is no doubt but they will be well expended and the borough will be the gainer thereby.

The borough has outgrown the antiquated system of cisterns and cesspools. It is both expensive and unhealthy. The time has come when North Plainfield should be put on a plane with other progressive communities. The sooner that sewers are built there, the better it will be for all concerned.

There are many people who do not realize the benefits which the city of Plainfield would have directly derived from the election of Senator C. A. Reed to the office of State treasurer. Those who have looked into the subject greatly regret that the office did not come to the Somerset county man. With few exceptions, that is the feeling of the leading Republicans of Plainfield and they particularly deplore that the vote of the local Assemblyman was cast against Mr. Reed.

According to the Philadelphia Record the manager of a shoe firm which conducts numerous retail stores says: "I can tell you that our advertising in 1901 has borne good fruit. This is proven by the fact that in a season generally conceded by shoe dealers to be dull every one of our stores shows a substantial increase in trade. But, of course, that is what advertising is intended to do."

The expected orders have been issued by Governor Murphy for the formation of an additional regiment of the National Guard of New Jersey. The new regiment will be the Fifth and will have regimental headquarters at Paterson according to the orders of the State executive. As a result, Newark will probably have an entire regiment of the State militia.

All along the line of the Elizabeth-Plainfield trolley, the people are kicking at the service. There has been a trifling improvement under the new management but it takes time to remedy those things as appears quite evidently in this case. The new management has promised relief, however, and it will be royally welcomed when it appears.

Will the municipal ownership committee of the Borough Council actually attempt to report on that very important subject when it is well-known that the members have done little or nothing to look into the subject to which they were assigned?

When one considers all the wealth contained in this city, it is indeed remarkable that such a small sum should have been given for the Mc Kinley Memorial fund. There should be no trouble in raising $275, Plainfields' share in the State's fund.

It was the Board of Health which took the initiative against the fence at the West Eighth street station at Bayonne. Why does not the Plainfield board see that the fence separating the tracks at the North Avenue station gets a proper colored coat of paint?

It must be welcome news to the people of New Brunswick that the tracks of the Pennslyvania Railroad are finally to be elevated. Grade crossings are one species of trouble which Plainfield has not had to think of for many a year.

An exchange says that the North Plainfield Review has so many subscribers in Watchung that "it is obliged to get out an extra edition." Is it a "suburban special" or "night extra?"

NO ONE KNOWS.

No Plans Yet Been Made Regarding the Presiding Elder of the Elizabeth District.

It can be stated on the best of authority that Rev. Dr. G. W. Smith, now presiding elder for the Elizabeth District, does not know at present whether he will continue in his present position after April 1. Considerable has been said that he would probably be pastor of the First M. E. church. The highest authority in the church has not disclosed such plans and until the conference meets at Elizabeth in April the question will not be decided. Dr. Smith has held his present position six years, his term expiring this year.

As far as Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, is concerned, his continuance as pastor has not been determined one way or the other, and will not be until April.

ARRANGEMENT OF OFFICES.

How City Officials Will Divide Up the New Offices.

The arrangement for the new city offices will probably be that Collector F. H. Smith will occupy the office nearest the front of the building, while the city clerk will have the middle office. Street Commissioner Gavett will have the rear office. The room will be divided off into three offices with suitable partitions and each office will be properly furnished.

Economy at Bound Brook.

"The Central's economy has struck this section again," remarks the Bound Brook correspondent of the Somerset Messenger. "Commencing with February 1 it dispensed with the services of one of the day operators, throwing the work on Operator G. C. Somers. He now has to take charge of the Central, Reading and Western Union work, and probably no one knows but that the next move will be to give him the baggage to handle."

Plainfield Not Represented.

It is a noteworthy fact that at the annual meeting of the Grand Lodge, F. and A. M., at Trenton, last week, not a single Free Mason from this city was selected for an office in the Grand Lodge. This seems to be unusual.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Charles Maltby, of this city, to Miss Margaret M. Schuck, of Vine street, in the borough.

WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

"Tsatlee Silk," a mixture of fine Italian silk and Egyptian cotton, delightfully soft with high lustre. Patterns include some stylish gray and white corded effects and raised figures. In solid white it is simply exquisite. Width is 32 inches. Price is 79c per yd.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The boys in town have been enjoying for several days their first coasting in a number of years upon Spencer's hill. The rain which followed the snow made the hill one mass of slush. The cold weather of the past several days froze this and the hill is now a glare of ice. The coasting has been fine.

Cornelius Young, who recently installed a furnace at his residence, is experiencing considerable difficulty in the attempt to properly heat his house. The furnace, which was purchased in Flemington, refused to radiate any appreciable amount of heat. Mr. Young then built his chimney higher but the strong winds blew that down. At present the family are living in an poorly heated house and the plumbers and tinsmiths are in a fair way to reap a good harvest.

SOMETHING IS DOING IN NORTH PLAINFIELD

Considerable Business is to Come Before the Borough Council This Evening.

A REPORT ON SEWERS.

SEWERAGE COMMISSION WILL HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY.

It May be That the Committee on Municipal Ownership Will Also Have a Report to Make.

A lot of business is scheduled to be transacted at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council this evening. It is expected that nearly all the special as well as the regular committees will have some reports to submit and the session is apt to be a lengthy one.

A report has been drafted by the sewerage commission, and this will be presented in person, either by B. A. Hegeman, Jr., the chairman or by D. J. Kenney, the secretary, who was recently chosen. This body has arranged to visit the Plainfield sewer beds, and the inspection will probably take place Saturday afternoon. It is the intention of the members to make trips to other cities where such a system is in use, in order to ascertain definitely the merits of the various kinds of beds in operation. The report to be made this evening is preliminary in nature and will be supplemented by a more thorough communication at a later date.

The matter of municipal ownership will reach a critical stage at the meeting this evening, according to all accounts. Chairman Lee will report the results of the committee's investigations, but it is improbable that the committee will be dropped should the report be unfavorable to the project as many expect it will be. Some of the members of the body are of the opinion that there is a growing sentiment among the citizens in favor of municipal ownership of a water plant, and for this reason will urge that the investigations be most searching.

CONCERT ON ROCKS.

Till Family Appeared Here Again This Time at Monroe Ave. Church.

The versatile Till family, with its marvelous ringing rocks, unique musical instruments and other entertaining features, delighted a very large audience at the Monroe Avenue church, last evening.

Although the rock band has been heard in this city before, it was a source of much wonderment. The pieces of rock are as hard as steel and are scaled to conform with the keys of a piano.

Miss Esther Till recited in a manner which captivated her audience, the prolonged applause bringing her back several times. Three contralto solos were rendered by Miss Mildred Till.

The concert was given under the direction of the Woman's Home Missionary Society and the proceeds will be used in supporting the Deaconesses Home at Newark.

Pictures of Home.

Picture the children at play
Out with sleds, on a clear crisp day.
Picture them tired with their fun,
In dreamland when the day is done.
Picture their papa late at night
Shoveling coal. His heart is light
And he laughs at the keenest winds that blow,
For a patron is he of Comsumers' Coal Co.

Endeavor Day.

The Christian Endeavor Society, of Bethel chapel, will celebrate Endeavor Day with appropriate exercises at 8 o'clock, this evening. Rev. W. A. Alexander, of Brooklyn, will be present and address the society. Refreshments will be served to those present. All are welcome.

Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." STATE OFFICERS.

Chosen at State Convention of the Knights of Columbus Recently Held at Hoboken.

The seventh annual State convention of the Knights of Columbus was held in Hoboken Wednesday evening. Grand Knight John A. O'Keefe, of Watchung Council, No. 552, of this city, was in attendance.

The action of the United States convention in increasing the rates of premiums on insurance was approved. There is $700,000 in the insurance fund at the present time. In the State there are now thirty-four councils.

The officers elected were: State deputy, W. H. Macklack, of Elizabeth; State treasurer, John J. Fallon, of Hoboken; State secretary, James A. McNamee, of Atlantic City; State advocate, Thomas Fay, of Long Branch; State chaplain, Rev. Father Cantwell, of Long Branch; warden, Thomas McLaughlin, of Newark; representatives to the Grand Council, Thomas Maxey, of Orange, and Peter Bachus, of Long Branch.

CONDEMNED DRILL AT SCHOOL.

At a Discussion Which Took Place at Young Friends' Asssociation.

At a regular meeting of the Young Friends' Association at the meeting-house on Watchung avenue, Wednesday evening, the question of military drilling in public schools was taken up and considered at some length. The result was that the practice was condemned.

Clarence B. Vail, a delegate to the recent Peace Conference of Friends in Philadelphia, led the discussion and it was the general opinion that war and its practices should be discouraged. It was believed that military training fostered a war spirit and should be prohibited by the Legislature. Edward D. Hutchinson and R. M. Speer also presented interesting papers on the subject.

THROUGH A BLIZZARD.

J. H. McVey Came Back on the Black Diamond Express.

John H. McVey, the hotel man, returned from a business trip to Buffalo, Wednesday, with a large supply of snow storm stories. He came on the Black Diamond express, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, which had to proceed slowly through New York State and the greater part of Pennsylvania owing to a raging blizzard. Most of the way it traveled under telegraphic orders, it having been an impossibility for the engineer to see signals. The drifts in Buffalo streets, he says, are higher than the heads of pedestrians.

Entertained Card Club.

Mrs. William E. MacClymont, of Washington avenue, entertained the Wednesday Afternoon Card Club at her home, this week. There were four tables. Mrs. MacClymont won first prize and Mrs. Brown the second. A collation was served at the conclusion of the games.

Wood at Relief Yard.

There is an accumulation of wood at the relief wood yard and the managers of the Relief Association would be glad of purchasers. The price is the same as at other dealers, and the wood is well seasoned and prepared.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 9, "The Pathway of Peace"—Text, John xiv, 25-31; Isa. xxvi, 3.

"Peace I leave with you. My peace I give unto you."

Peace is quietness. It is restfulness and calm. It is the absence of agitation, fear and restlessness. It is based on confidence or assurance of safety. It has an element of contentedness and comfortableness; a consciousness that things are going well, and I am secure from harm.

Christ's legacy is the priceless boon of peace. He is declared to be the Son of God, and Paul pronounced Him to have been the Creator and Preserver of all worlds. Yet in His earthly lifetime He said of Himself, "the Son of Man hath not where to lay His head." In departing from among men in the visible world He made no will apportioning kingdoms among His chief followers, as did Alexander. He gave no crowns during lifetime, as did Napoleon. His sole possession at death was an outer robe, which His Roman executioners tore in pieces and divided and an inner garment for which they gambled.

Multitudes have fought and perished for the possession of His tomb, which was not His at all, but only borrowed for a few hours at most. Other multitudes have sought for the wood of His cross as a holy thing, and it was not His at all, but Roman, and may have tortured many before and after. Crosses, sepulchers and kingdoms in plenty shall His followers find, but these are not His legacies. What the world had never before found and never since seen, except as He gave it, that is the heritage left His loved ones—peace!

Isaiah foresaw and foretold, "Thou wilt keep Him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on Thee."

Peace He leaves with us because we now have confidence in God's plans and purposes. Never before could men rest assured that things were working for good. The problem of Job was the problem of every man, but the end of Job was reached by few, and strife instead of peace seemed the lot of most. Hope was hardly to be indulged, but endurance must be cultivated the best possible. All is so changed by the coming of Jesus. He endured to the end, and hope for us rises with His resurrection and does not go when He ascends. We have not seen the end of God's working, but we have seen Jesus and believe in God. We trust and have peace.

His peace! That is more than the conviction that God is ruling and that "all things work together for good." It is more than passive resting in divine protection. It is the active outgoing of passionate heart affection and yearning desire to bless. It is adoration of the all excellent One with absorbing soul fervor. "Having loved His own, He loved them unto the end." He gave Himself for and to them. They find peace in this love.

"Not as the world giveth." Surely not! Not given because, dying, it can no longer be hoarded or selfishly used. The world gives what it can no longer keep. Jesus gives what He will ever increase as ages pass and our capacity enlarges—love—boundless, refreshing, soul satisfying, the peace of quenchless love, attested by death, abiding in endless life—perfect peace!

Two Great Truths.

The Christian religion emphasizes two great truths. First, it declares with emphasis that men do not have eternal life on the ground of their merit. In this it differs from all false, earthborn religions. False religions usually represent men as seeking God in order to secure salvation. The Christian religion represents God as seeking men in order to save them. Our Lord said to His disciples and through them says to every true disciple, "Ye have not chosen Me, but I have chosen you." He says again, "No man can come unto Me except the Father who sent Me draw him." The Bible reveals no less clearly and emphatically another great truth, and that is men are saved from their sins, not in them.—Presbyterian Messenger.

Our Pledge.

I will earnestly seek for myself and do what I can to help others attain the highest New Testament standard of experience and life. I will abstain from all those forms of worldly amusement forbidden by the discipline of the Methodist Episcopal church, and I will attend so far as possible the religious meetings of the chapter and the church and take some active part.

In Victory or Defeat.

Two graces need to be learned by every Christian—patience and submission under defeat and modesty in victory.—Christian Intelligencer.

Wherefore?

Wherefore dost thou doubt, O soul!
Wherefore dost thou doubt?
Cannot Christ, thy loving Lord,
Work life's problems out?

Has He not delivered thee
Many a trying hour?
Is He not the same today
In almighty power?

Has His blood not purchased thee?
Art thou not His own?
Through the whelming waters deep
Dost thou go alone?

Would'st thou know the reason why
All these things go wrong?
He will show thee by and by;
Change thy sighs to song.

He will surely bring to thee
Whatsoe'er is best;
Guide thee all thy journey through
To His promised rest.

Doubt Him not, O troubled soul!
Wherefore be afraid?
Arms of love encompass thee!
Be thou not dismayed!

The Publisher's Claims Sustained.

UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS.

The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."

We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.

It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition; and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 9—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The pathway to peace.—John xiv, 25-31; Isa. xxvi, 3.

Departing friends are always filled with a desire to leave something to the loved ones who remain behind. This desire possessed even the Lord Jesus Christ, and as He was about to leave His disciples He bequeathed to them a priceless legacy. Christ had no material effects to distribute among them, but there are legacies even among men of more value than material things—a good name, a good example, an honorable position. Christ's legacy to the disciples and to us as His disciples was peace. About to go away, He makes this bequest to all who are His: "Peace I leave with you; my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

Peace is an inward blessing. It is the "result of equilibrated forces, the poise of antagonistic elements, held in check by one another. Of these the most placid lake hidden in the hills and reflecting the sunshine and shadows is a remarkable example. The peace Christ leaves is power to hold the wildest fear in pause, to still a clamor or hush a cry. It is the coming of mercy to a sense of sin, of life to the fear of death."

The peace of Christ has several distinguishing characteristics. 1. It is similar to the peace which Christ Himself possessed. "'My' peace I give unto you." Christ's life was one of tumultuous conflict, and when He uttered these words He was facing the crisis of it all; yet how calm His soul, how peaceful His mien, how absolutely His will harmonized with the will of God! This peace He promises us. 2. Christ's peace is real peace. "Not as the world giveth, give I unto you." The world says, "Peace, peace," but it cannot give it. Christ not only speaks peace, but gives it. 3. It is perfect peace. Isaiah says, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace." Perfect peace—"peace within, peace without, peace with God, peace of conscience, peace at all times, peace under all events, God's own peace!" What a desirable peace for all to possess! The preservation as well as the gift of peace is promised. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed in Thee." Peace possessed may be preserved on one condition. Our minds must be stayed on God, on Christ, on heavenly things. The man who centers his mind supremely on earthly things cannot keep peace. It is only the man who centers his mind supremely on God who can do so. Such a man trusts God, and God never fails.

Christ's peace is needed by all men. Life is full of turmoil, of struggle, of conflict. It has well been likened to the restlessness of the ever boisterous sea. Under such circumstances the soul, that it may be calm, that it may be possessed in peace, needs Jesus Christ to say to it, "Peace, be still." Only He can give peace and preserve it. Is He your peace?

BIBLE READINGS.

Num. vi, 24-26; Job xxii, 21; Ps. lv, 8; xxxiv, 14; cxxii, 1-9; Isa. lvii, 21; Rom. v, 1; Eph. ii, 14; Phil. iv, 1-7; Col. iii, 17.

Christ's Law of Love.

Christ's law of love knows no exception. It embraces all that can be loved. It looks upward to God, the giver of all good, and outward to every human being. It excludes no foreigner and no enemy, for even the enemy is to be loved as oneself. Above all, it does not forget God. It recognizes Him as the universal Father, the source of every blessing, the fountain of goodness and love, the author of life, temporal and eternal, through whose Son we have salvation, and it gives Him the fullest love of the heart. It reaches out beyond family and neighbors and citizens to all humanity everywhere, the most ignorant and degraded, and it despises none; it loves all. It is the grandest, the most expansive of all sentiments, that which most enlarges the soul, that which brings man nearest to God. If the church by its ideals is lifting, and if it shall finally conquer the world, it is because its outreach is larger than any other that the world knows. Patriotism is noble, but Christian consecration is divine. Jesus gave the highest law, the most philosophical rule of pure ethics—nay, of pure religion—the world has ever heard, that beyond which human speculation cannot rise, when He laid down that law, not of justice or of righteousness, on which Christianity rests, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and thy neighbor as thyself."—Independent.

The Lifelong Promise.

Just as the man who makes his will is careful to add to the specific bequests a general one disposing of "the rest, residue and remainder" of his estate, so God graciously provides in His will not only for the specific needs of His children, but covers their ever conceivable necessity by such blanket clauses as that found in Deut. xxxiii. 25, "Thy shoes shall be iron and brass, and as thy days so shall thy strength be." God enriches every life with opportunities, and so just is the economy of God that if one is quite sure he has never had his opportunity it may be safely affirmed that it awaits him yet. —Examiner.

Troubles Will Pass.

Now, I want you to think that in life troubles will come which seem as if they would never pass away. The night and the storm look as if they would last forever, but the calm and the morning cannot be stayed. The storm in its very nature is transient. The effort of nature, as of the human heart, is ever to return to its repose, for God is peace.—George MacDonald.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"At once," I answered. "He knows that I am after him, and my only fear is that he will make a bolt. I cannot understand why he is dallying in Paris so long?"

"For the simple reason that he is confident he has put you off the scent," was my companion's reply. "He is doing the one foolish thing the criminal always does sooner or later; that is to say, he is becoming over-confident of his own powers to elude us. You and I, my friend, should be able to remember several such instances. Now, strange to say, I came across a curious one the other day. Would you care to hear it?"

He lit a cigarette and blew a cloud of smoke while he waited for my answer.

"Very much," I said, being well aware that his stories were always worth hearing.

"This is a somewhat remarkable case," he said. "I will mention no names, but doubtless you can read between the lines. There was a man who murdered his wife in order that he might marry another woman. The thought which he gave to it, and the clever manner in which he laid his plans, not only for the murder but also for the disposal of the body, marked him as a criminal in the possession of a singularly brilliant intellect. He gave no hint to anybody, but left the country without leaving the faintest clew concerning his destination behind him. I was called in to talk over the case, but after some consideration could make nothing of it. I have no objection to admitting that I was completely baffled. Now it so happened that I discovered that the man's mother was of Irish extraction. He, believing that he would be safe on that island, engaged a passage on board a steamer from Havre to Belfast. She was to pick up at Southampton, Plymouth and Bristol, en route. My man, who, by the way, was a very presentable person, and could be distinctly sociable when he pleased, endeavored to make himself agreeable to the passengers on board. On the first evening out of port, the conversation turned upon the value of diamonds, and one of the ladies on board produced some costly stones she happened to have in her possession. The murderer, who, you must understand, was quite safe, was unhappily eaten up with vanity. He could not forego the boast that he was the possessor of a magnificent ring, which had been given him by ex-Emperor Napoleon III. Needless to say this information excited considerable interest, and he was asked to produce it for the general edification.

"He declared that it was too late to do so that evening, but said that he would do so on the morrow, or, at any rate, before he left the vessel. In the excitement of reaching Southampton, the matter was for the moment forgotten, but on the day that they arrived in Plymouth one of the lady passengers reminded him of his promise. This was followed by another application. Thus surrounded, the unhappy man found himself in the unpleasant position of being discovered in the perpetration of an untruth, or of being compelled to invent some feasible tale in order to account for his not being able to produce the ring. It was at this juncture that he made his great mistake. Anxious doubtless to attract attention, he returned from his cabin with the astounding declaration that the lock had been forced, and the famous ring stolen from his trunk in which it had lain concealed. He certainly aced his part well, but he did not realize to what consequence it would lead. The matter was reported to the police, and a search was made through the vessel. The passengers were naturally indignant at such treatment, and for the rest of the voyage the man found himself taking what you English call 'the cold shoulder.' He reached Belfast, made his way into the country, and presently settled down. Later on, when the pursuit had died down, it was his intention to ship for America, where he was to be joined by the woman, to obtain whom he had in the first place committed the crime. Now observe the result. Photographs of the missing man and of the murdered woman were circulated all through France, while not a few were sent to England. One of these pictures reached Plymouth, where it was shown to the officer who had investigated the case on the boat on its way to Ireland. He immediately recognized the man who had made the charge against his fellow-passengers. After that it was easy to trace him to Belfast and his hiding-place on land. Extradition was of course granted, and he left the place. Had he not imagined that in his safety he could indulge his vanities, I confidently believe I should never have found him. When you come to think of it, it is hard to come to the guillotine for a diamond that never existed, is it not?"

I agreed with him, and then suggested that we should amuse ourselves by endeavoring to find out how the dinner at the Cafe des Ambassadeurs was progressing.

"They will proceed to a theater afterwards, you may be sure," my companion said. "In that case if you like we could catch a glimpse of them as they come out. What do you say?"

I answered that I had not the least objection.

"One night does not make much difference. To-morrow morning I shall make a point of meeting him face to face."

"Should you require any assistance then, I shall be most pleased to give it to you," my companion replied.

I thanked him for his offer, and then we left the restaurant together, hailed a cab, and drove to his flat. It consisted of four rooms situated at the top of a lofty block of buildings near the river. From his windows he could look out over Paris, and he was wont to declare that the view he received in exchange was the most beautiful in the world. Fine as it was, I was scarcely so enthusiastic in my praise.

Among other things they were remarkable for the simplicity of their furniture, and also for the fact that in the sitting-room there was nothing to reveal the occupation of their owner. His clever old servant, Susanne, of whom 'twas said she would, did she but choose, make as clever a detective as her master (she had served him for more than 40 years), brought us coffee so quickly that it would almost seem as if she had been aware that we should reach the house at that particular moment.

"We have plenty of time to spare," said my host. "In the meantime it will be necessary for us to find out what they are doing. If you will wait I will dispatch a messenger, who will procure us the information."

He wrote something on a half-sheet of note-paper, rang the bell, and handed it to Susanne.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

A CHICAGO FIRE.

Forty-seven Families Driven From an Apartment House.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—The Varsity flat building, situated at the southeast corner of Sixtieth street and Ellis avenue and near the Chicago university buildings, has been destroyed by fire, entailing an aggregate loss upon the owner of the structure and the tenants of $160,000.

The building was four stories high and contained forty-seven flats, all of which were occupied. All the tenants had ample time to escape, however, and no lives were lost. The fire started in the basement in a pile of rubbish, and for a time it was impossible to locate the blaze. The building became so filled with smoke that everybody was out before the flames were discovered.

During the fire an explosion of gasoline in a grocery store located in the building hurled Fireman James Tillman from the fire escape on the second story to the ground, breaking his thigh and injuring him internally. Robert Hartley, another fireman, was thrown from a window in the second story, and his head was badly cut. He was also badly burned by the explosion.

GERST UNDER ARREST.

Buffalo's Former Treasurer Charged With Grand Larceny.

BUFFALO, Feb. 7.—Philip Gerst, former city treasurer, has been arrested, charged with misappropriating $27,000 of the city's funds.

When arraigned in the police court, Gerst pleaded not guilty. He was then taken to the private office of County Judge Emery, and bail was fixed at $5,000. Bondsmen appeared without delay, and he was released.

Gerst was removed from office in December last by former Mayor Diehl. He was charged at that time with misconduct in office and during the investigation of the charge admitted misappropriating $50,000.

The allegations upon which the warrant was issued charge that Gerst drew a check for $27,000 on April 17, 1901, and that he converted the proceeds to his own use. In other words, it is alleged he used the proceeds of that check for the purpose of making good with the Metropolitan bank.

PRESBYTERIAN CREED REVISION.

Committee Has Decided Upon Several Important Changes.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 7.—The Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, the stated clerk of the last general assembly, who is a member of the general committee, has given out the following statement:

"The committee has decided tentatively to revise the doctrines of the third chapter of the confession by declaratory statement; also chapter 10, section 3, on the salvation of all infants; also chapter 35, section 7, on good works.

"The other parts, chapter 22, section 3, on oaths, and chapter 25, section 6, by revision of the text. They appointed subcommittees to prepare a final form.

"They will consider the brief statement of doctrine for popular use."

It is expected that the subcommittee will make reports on Sunday. Beyond the above information nothing was given out for publication.

Schley Leaves Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 7.—Admiral Schley and his wife left this morning at 8:30 o'clock for Washington. A brilliant reception by the Cumberland club last night was the closing feature of Knoxville's generous welcome. The entire clubhouse was decorated handsomely in the tricolors. The punch-bowl was imbedded in the hold of a miniature of the Brooklyn made from choicest flowers. Hundreds of prominent men were present and enjoyed the occasion. The admiral spoke briefly on account of a severe cold, thanking Knoxville for its hospitality. While this event was in progress Mrs. Schley was the guest at an elegant dinner tendered by Mrs. Lawrence D. Tyson.

Explosion Victims Given Up For Dead

PITTSBURG, Feb. 7.—The four people missing since the explosion of the boilers of the towboat John W. Ailes of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company near Braddock early Wednesday morning have been given up as dead. The presumption is that they were either killed outright or blown into the river and drowned. The missing are: John W. Bake, deckhand; Florence L. Sill, chief engineer; William Campbell, deckhand, and John Caufield, watchman. The company has offered a reward of $50 for each of the four bodies recovered.

WINTER SPORTS.

The hockey teams of the City and Borough High Schools will meet tomorrow afternoon. It has not been decided where the contest will take place.

The first sport on the track of the Plainfiled Driving Park Association since the close of the fall season took place yesterday afternoon, when there was some impromptu trotting and pacing. Leonitio L., owned by George Franks, of Metuchen, won the best of three heats against three swift animals. Bell, owned by A. I. Smalley, won the odd heat. The others in the event were Thomas Brantingham's sorrel gelding and J. W. Johnson's sorrel gelding, the latter being driven by John Osborne.

GOLF.

These are trying times for the golfers in this vicinity. Frigid weather, accompanied with ground covered with ice and snow, are not conducive to the ancient game, and it's now more than any other period that the busy Northern business man envies his Southern cousins, or his more fortunate neighbor who is spending a month or two in Florida or some other genial clime. Every course in this section of the State is practically "out of commission" at present.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The bowling match between the Park Club and Roselle Casino has been postponed from tonight to next Tuesday night.

W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, completed a settlement last week, of the Chancery suit, for the partition of lands in Perth Amboy owned by the estate of the late Samuel Dally, of Woodbridge. The case has been pending in the Chancery Court for nearly five years.

It involved a large tract of unimproved lands sold by Charles W. Parker, special master in chancery, for $11,050. In the matter, Mr. Coddington, represented the widow of Mr. Dally, while C. C. Hommonn and J. W. Beekman, of Perth Amboy, represented the other side. This disposition of interests involved in the action is considered a very good one to all parties concerned.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

KILLED HIS FOWLS.

More Hard Luck Comes the Way of Farmer Orator James E. Martine.

James E. Martine is travelling in hard luck as the saying goes, fate having apparently marked him for continued losses. This morning when the Farmer Orator inspected his estate he found in the hennery exactly sixty-one chickens dead. Somebody's dog had gotten in the hen house during the night and now Mr. Martine is minus over two hundred pounds of chicken meat.

Following in the wake of a loss of $500 by the alleged negligence of a suddenly departed tenant from his house on East Ninth street, the blow is too much for the farmer who spares no adjectives in recounting his recent experiences.

QUIET MARRIAGE OF MISS MARY WILSON

Wedded at Her Home to Jos. B. Truitt, Prominent Manufacturer, of Philadelphia.

A VERY QUIET AFFAIR.

CEREMONY WAS PERFORMED AT "TUNLAW," EARLY THIS AFTERNOON.

Rev. T. Logan Murphy Officiated at the Marriage—The Only Attendant Was the Bride's Brother, Who Was Best Man.

Miss Mary E. Wilson, the only daughter of Col. John, F. Wilson, of "Tunlaw," North Plainfield, was united in marriage to Joseph B Truitt, a prominent resident and business man of Philadelphia, this afternoon, at the spacious home of the bride's father. Owing to the recent death of a relative of the groom, the wedding was void of any ostentatious features, and it was witnessed only by the immediate families.

The wedding took place at 1 o'clock and was performed by Rev. T. Logan Murphy, formerly rector of the Church of the Holy Cross, a warm and personal friend of the bride and her father. The impressive ceremony of the Episcopal church was performed in the parlor, where the decorations were of pink and green.

The bride wore a gown of pale grey cloth, and a violet toque. She was unattended, although her brother, Alan Wilson, was best man. There were no others in the bridal party.

Following the ceremony there was a cordial expression of the hearty wishes offered by the guests, after which a wedding breakfast was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Truitt left early this afternoon to enjoy a honeymoon of four weeks' duration. They will be "at home" after March 1, at "The Gladstone," Eleventh and Vine streets, Philadelphia. The very many tokens of value and beauty received by the bride, gives much evidence of the high esteem in which she and her husband are held.

The bride, who has spent most of her life in Plainfield, has during recent years been prominently identified with many of the affairs given by local society. She has been interested in charity enterprises and her zealous work has led to the success of many undertakings. Mrs. Truitt is not only prominent in this city, but in Philadelphia, where she has visited a great deal, she has been identified with the best society.

Mr. Truitt is one of the best known business men in Philadelphia, being one of the largest manufacturers in this country. He is the owner of the Keystone Knitting Mills and the Quaker City Mills, which are located in and near Philadelphia. He is also one of the founders of the Manufacturers' Club, besides being a member of the Union League Club and Art Club, all of Philadelphia. He was a leading member of the Reciprocity Convention which met in Washington a few months ago. Mr. Truitt belongs to one of the oldest families of Delaware, direct descendants of Revolutionary stock.

REPRESENTED KINDS OF CAKE

YOUNG WOMEN WERE GOWNED TO SUIT KIND THEY SERVED.

Novel Kind of Cake Social Given by Epworth League of First M. E. Church.

Following the regular monthly business meeting of the First Methodist church Epworth League, last evening, the members enjoyed a delightful hour under the term "a cake social."

It was out of the ordinary run of affairs of this kind and consisted of guessing the names of cake represented by young men and women in costume. There were fifteen in all and while the guessers were racking their brains to hit upon the right names, cookies were passed around. Angel cake was pictured by a young woman bearing imitation wings; Martha Washington by a Leaguer in colonial costume; fruit cake by a young woman bearing strings of fruit and so on.

Those who took part were the Misses Drucilla Smith, Lillian Snodgrass, Gertrude Sharp, Mattie Humble, Ida Courser, Mrs. Frank Mac Donald, Mrs. James A. Stafford and Ralph Lane and Albert Steiner.

The affair was in charge of the social committee of which Miss Persis Snodgrass is chairman.

SOCIETY AT CHARMING TEA

GIVEN BY MRS. HARRY M. STOCKTON, OF CENTRAL AVENUE.

After the Tea Yesterday Afternoon, Some of the Receiving Party Remained for a Dance.

One of the charming events in local society circles was the tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, of Central avenue, from 4 to 6 o'clock. The guests included a majority of the Plainfield's society women, while there were a few out of town guests present.

The home was prettily decorated. In the parlor there was a profusion of pink roses and smilax, while dark red carnations were used exclusively in the dining room. Mrs. Stockton was assisted in receiving by Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. W. T. Kaufman, of this city; Miss Stockton and Mrs. Skellinger, of Philadelphia.

In the dining room, Mrs. Edward M. VanBuren and Mrs. Clifford M. McGee presided at the table, while the young women assisting were Miss Helen Bushnell, Miss Elsa Pfeiffer, Miss Lotta Lowe, Miss Mary Anderson Reinhart, Miss Fanny C. Cox, of this city; Miss Sylvester, of Philadelphia and Miss Fisk, of Trenton.

In the evening some of the younger married and unmarried people remained for dinner and a social time followed.

UPSET OIL STOVE.

Was in the Wagon When the Latter Collided With a Barrel.

While starting on his route Thursday morning, shortly after 4 o'clock, W. B. Smith, of New Market, an employe at Voehl's bakery met with a pecuiar accident. He was driving through Exchange alley, when his wagon collided with a garbage barrel, upsetting the vehicle.

Mr. Smith jumped out of the side window, but some damage was done to the wagon. A kerosene oil store, used for heating purposes in the vehicle, upset and a blanket was burned. The bread was scattered about through the alley. Beyond this no damage was done.

TALKED ROADS.

Fire Marshal James M. Glenn, of Perth Amboy, Visited Here.

James M. Glenn, the fire marshal of Perth Amboy, was a visitor at fire headquarters yesterday afternoon. During the day he held a consultation with Mayor Smalley regarding methods of macadamizing.

Mr. Glenn was at one time a member of the volunteer fire department of Philadelphia and was one of the first to become a regular firemen in the paid department of that city. He is at present a member of the Veteran Firemen's Association of the Quaker City.

UPSON BADLY HURT IN ROW

John Huff, His Assailant, Held Without Bail, Pending Result of Upson's Injuries.

HUFF ADMITS BLOW.

It Was Culmination of a Series of Petty Quarrels at Cafe Rosell —Big Show Window Broken by Falling Screen—Hearing This Afternoon.

Arthur J. Upson, manager of the Waldorf shoe store, lies in the Hotel McVey annex in a precarious condition from the effects of a blow on the head which he received in the Rosell cafe, late last night. His assailant, John Huff, a bartender in another saloon, is locked up at police headuarters awaiting the result of his injuries. If Upson recovers sufficiently today to make a statement, Huff will be arraigned before Justice Nash at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Huff admits striking the blow.

As near as can be ascertained, the assault committed on Upson was the culmination of a series of petty quarrels which occurred in the cafe during the evening and in which he figured. According to the bartender, John Sedgewick, the others bandied words and made threats but the only blow struck was the one Upson received at the hands of Huff. The direct cause of its delivery has not been made clear.

The first quarrel occurred at 8:30. This was settled amicably and matters were all serene when the party was joined by Huff. Shortly after his entrance, according to the story of Mr. Rosell and his employes, there was a dispute between Upson, Walter L. Hetfield, Charles Bock and Huff, as to which was the better fighter, Upson or Hetfield, $100, it is said, was posted for a battle which was to take place in North Plainfield, when again the cafe employes put an end to the wrangle.

The whole party then left only to return at 10:30 and, according to the story, hostilities commenced anew this time between Bock and Upson over a check. Huff stepped between them, seemingly as peacemaker, when suddenly he and Upson grappled and a heavy screen was knocked over. It fell against the front window smashing it and also the glass in the front door. The next instant Upson was sent to the floor with the blow on the head. He remained unconscious.

The frightened witnesses carried him to a rear room. Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, who was called, declared the man to be in a serious condition. He worked over the inert form for some time and eventually restored him to partial consciousness. He was then taken to his room in the annex but, on being placed in bed, sank into a comatose state. He appeared to grow worse and Dr. Endicott was called. Both physicians remained with him until this morning, but his recovery is not yet assured. The first blow was evidently all he received as there is no cut or abrasion on his head, as would be the case if in falling, he had struck the screen or tiled floor.

Huff was not arrested until this morning as the seriousness of the case was not at first apparent. He was arraigned before Justice Nash, but was not allowed to plead, it being Chief Kiely's request that he be remanded without bail. The court acceded and Huff was placed in a cell.

COUPLE DREADED PUBLICITY

SO THEY WERE MARRIED ON THE QUIET LAST AUGUST.

Have Just Announced the Fact and Received the Parental Blessing.

After keeping the matter a secret from their nearest friends for the past six months, Bernard Clark, Jr., of West Third street, and Miss Mary Mullowney, daughter of Martin Muldowney, of the same thoroughfare, have announced that they are man and wife.

The wedding was first made known by the young people, Wednesday evening, when they sought and received the parental blessing. The ceremony was performed August 1, at the rectory of the Church of the Epiphany, New York, Rev. Father Ludlow, officiating. Joseph Skiffington, of New York, a near friend of the groom, and Miss Mary A. Ludlow, a sister of the rector, were the only others in attendance.

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Clark will assign any reason for their sudden determination to get married, other than they dreaded publicity. They will go to housekeeping on March 1. The groom is the youngest son of Bernard Clark, Sr., the West End hotel man, and is employed in one of the local machine shops.

After the business of the evening was concluded, a pleasant time was spent by the members. Refreshments were served before the guests departed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Feb. 8—Miss Sarah Drake, who has been ill with pneumonia for a week past, died at her home yesterday. WORKER IN WEST.

Stories Told of Mission Life Out in Arizona and What is Needed There Now.

A number of people gathered in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, yesterday afternoon, and listened to an able and interesting address by Rev. Robert Craig, the synodical missionary in New Mexico and Arizona. Mr. Craig went to this home mission field a few years ago for his health, and the climate agreed with him so well that he remained there and took up mission work with much success.

Mr. Craig spoke of his work which consists chiefly in establishing churches and chapels among the people and visiting the members of the numerous tribes of Indians on their reservations given by the Government. The speaker related many things not heard of before. He made a plea for more teachers, as well as financial aid. He said the people in that country, where he is laboring, are very anxious to learn of Christ and they afterward make the best of citizens.

SCHOOL BOYS HUSTLING.

Big Crowd is Expected at the Benefit at Casino Tuesday.

The High School boys are hustling, and indications point to an overflowing house on the occasion of the High School Athletic Association benefit at the Casino, Tuesday night. Wellington Putnam, who is to give an impersonation of Stephen Philips' great play, "Herod," and Wm. Dean Howell's sketch, "The Albany Depot," is without doubt, one of the most prominent impersonators and readers in the country. He has met with unbounded success wherever he has appeared, and his services now are in great demand. He has been heard here before, a little more than a year ago, when it was the popular consensus, that "unquestionably the work of Mr. Putnam was the best offering the Star Course ever presented in Plainfield."

SPIRITED DASH.

Pole Checked Progress of Runaway—Little Damage Was Done.

Startled by a too sudden application of the whip, a spirited horse belonging to Jerome Sykes, of South Plainfield, and driven by him, ran away at the corner of Plainfield avenue and Seventh street, yesterday afternoon.

The frightened animal continued at a terrific pace down Plainfield avenue, threatening every moment to overturn the vehicle. At Third street it collided with a pole and was brought to a partial stop. It was then captured by Frank Williams. The only damage was sustained by the wagon. The driver was uninjured beyond a shaking up.

INSPECTING APPARATUS.

Chief Doane and Chairman of Fire Committee Went to Mt. Vernon.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, and Chairman Robert Lee, of the city councilmanic fire committee, left this morning for Mt. Vernon, N. Y. They propose to visit the fire headquarters at that place, and will inspect a combination chemical engine and hose wagon in use there.

The local fire committee is considering the advisability of introducing a vehicle of this sort in the Plainfield department, and before taking any definite action in the matter all types now in use will be inspected.

GOING AFTER CITIZENS WHO DIDN'T PAY TAXES

Borough Council Turns Over Delinquent Taxes to Chief Borough Marshal.

ARRESTS WILL FOLLOW.

APPROPRIATED $100 FOR EXPENSES OF SEWER COMMISSIONERS.

Brief Report From D. T. Kenney, Secretary of Sewer Commission —No Municipal Ownership Report Was Presented.

Quite a lot of buisness was transacted in a short space of time at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Council, last evening. The chief action taken was the decision to place in the hands of the chief marshal all delinquent personal and poll taxes now in the hands of Collector George F. Brown. Second only to this was some favorable action in regard to the most feasible method of making public the annual borough report.

For the first time in many months every member was present and all entered heartily into the evening's work. The election of Philip Currin as a member of Warren Engine Company was confirmed.

Dr. Pittis, the borough physician, presented his report in the matter of vaccination. It showed that all told 155 persons were treated free by himself and Dr. Dundon, during the week when the citizens were vaccinated by order of the councilmanic body. A vote of thanks was extended to the two physicians. Mayor Smalley announced the appointment of George D. Hallock as a member of the sewer commission in place of George P. Dupee, resigned.

The aggregate amount of the bills for the month of January was $2,400, and these were ordered paid. Chairman Robert Clark, Jr., of the street committee, reported that $42.67 was the total amount of expenditures in that line of public work during January. Itemized his report was as follows: Cleaning catch basins, cross walks and sidewalks, $22.50; services of H. C. VanEmburgh as engineer, $20.07.

On motion of Councilman Nichols a resolution was passed authorizing the chief marshal to take proper steps to enforce the collection and payment of all delinquent poll and personal taxes for the year 1901. The amount due is over $500.

Chairman Lee, of the police committee, reported that there had been two arrests during the month and that the fines amounted to $2. Mayor Smalley stated that the condition of the treasurer's report would be considerably changed before the time it is published. There is $9,000 uncollected for 1901 and $3,000 for 1900, and a part of this sum is expected to be realized before the expiration of the month.

The condition of the borough treasury, said he, is about the same is it was a year ago, excepting the fact that there has been an increase of expenditures due to the widening of Somerset street.

The sewer commission's work was introduced by the Mayor, and he called upon D. T. Kenney, the secretary of that body, to make a report. Mr. Kenney told of the progress made and said incidentally that no provision had been made for the expenditures that may arise on account of the investigations of the commission. An appropriation of $100, suggested by the Mayor, received councilmanic favor and was passed. A resolution was passed to borrow $6,500, or such sum in excess as may be necessary to lift a note for $7,000, payable on demand.

It was at this juncture that the question of printing the borough's annual report came up for consideration. Mayor Smalley announced that he believed that the interests of the citizens would best be served by publishing the statement in the daily papers of this city, rather than by issuing a pamphlet, which he said was generally thrown away. In this opinion Councilman Clark concurred, he declaring that method to be the one in general use in all up-to-date places.

A good suggestion was made by Councilman Lee, in this connection. He said that it would have a good effect inasmuch as it would publicly proclaim who the delinquents are in the tax lists. It was finally decided to leave the matter to the judgment of the committee on stationery and supplies, of which Councilman Harri-

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

NO SPITE WORK BY SENATE

SENATOR REED DENIES ANY HOLDING UP OF ASSEMBLY BILLS.

Says Rumors of Such Action is Rank Nonsense and Fool Talk.

The rumor current through the State that the members of the State Senate would hold up the Assembly bills out of spite because the members of the Lower House were instrumental in defeating Senator Reed for the State treasurership, was denied by Senator Charles A. Reed in an interview with a Press reporter yesterday afternoon.

"It is fool talk," said Senator Reed.

"I have not heard it suggested or even intimated by any member of the Senate that any such course would be pursued. There is absolutely no truth in the story that the Senate will in any way attempt to block or interfere with the action of the Assembly. It is rank nonsense

"The Senate does not pass or refuse to pass bills because they originate in one house or because they are introduced by one person or another. The question is always upon the merits of the measure or its political effect and the result of the contest for the office of State treasurer does not enter into that consideration at all."

—William Wright and family, of Spooner avenue, will remove shortly to New London, Conn., his former home.

—At the meeting of Senate Lodge, Knights of Honor, Thursday evening, there was one initiation and one proposition for membership was received.

PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR PRIVATE TOURS

A Number of Tours Are Being Arranged for This Season by A. V. D. Honeyman.

OF VARIED LENGTHS.

THE LONGEST TRIP TAKES IN SPAIN AND NORTH AFRICA.

Seventy-Day Visit to Great Britain—Another Shorter One—One Tour Through Central Europe—Holy Land Party Next Winter.

The full circulars of Mr. Honeyman's Private Tours for the summer season have been issued and comprise the following:

The first, a long tour, starts May 17 and goes direct to Spain and north Africa. Beside going completely through Spain, including Granada, Seville, Cordova, Madrid, Barcelona, etc., it takes in the French Riviera—Cannes, Monte Carlo, Mentone, San Remo, etc—to Genoa, and then nearly a week is occupied with the island of Sicily in the vicinity of Mt. Etna, where is said to be some of the most charming views and ancient ruins in southern Europe. Those two recent books, F. Marion Crawford's "The Rulers of the South," and Miss Lorimer's "By the Waters of Sicily," have attracted much attention to that peculiar island, and Mr. Honeyman proposes to show its antiquities on these excursions.

After this the party will take in Italy from south to north, and beside the usual great cities of Naples, Rome, Florence and Venice, they will visit Tivoli, Assissi, Perugia, Siena, each connected with Tuscan and early Roman times. Following this is a magnificent Swiss trip, including the region of the Matterhorn and a number of the passes of the Alps. The party then goes to Paris and finally winds up with coaching in England. All in all this is probably the finest tour which has yet been planned by any party starting from Plainfield. The party is already two-thirds full and there will probably be no vacancies after a week or two.

June 28, there are two parties, one making what is called a long Great Britain tour, occupying seventy days, taking in Ireland, Wales, Scotland and England; the other going direct to Belgium and takes in Belgium, Holland, the Rhine, Switzerland, France and England, and will be absent sixty-three days.

July 19, a short party will start to visit Ireland, Scotland and England for forty-three days, and an extension has been provided for this party to include Paris.

The prices for these various excursions range from $250 to $720, depending upon time and accommodations.

Mr. Honeyman also announces a special Holy Land party, to start in February, 1903. Head office is at 181 North avenue, where full circulars can be obtained.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

There is nothing so attractive at an afternoon tea, reception or other social affair than a tasteful arrangement of cut flowers. Such, for instance, as are sold at C. L. Stanley's store on North avenue.

A person well shod seldom suffers from colds or pneumonia, and those who purchase their shoes of John H. Doane, of West Front street, will always be satisfied. His goods are well made for wear and they are perfect fit.

Specials in chocolates, caramels and mixed candies at Fowler's candy kitchen today. Nothing but the purest of materials used in the manufacture of his goods and none but skilled workmen. Workshop always open to visitors.

The old established furniture firm of Powlison & Jones is showing some fine bargains in household goods. New spring goods will soon be coming in and now is the time to take advantage of the clearing sales. All goods delivered at the convenience of the purchaser.

The finest truss known to the medical fraternity is that constructed by the Seeley Truss Company, of Philadelphia. John P. Powers, of the Somerset pharmacy, is the local agent for this house, and he has just received a consignment of all the varied styles. Call and examine them.

Harry Werner, the West Front street clothier, has secured the contract to make the summer uniforms for the employes of the entire system of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway. It was given Mr. Werner through the reputation for fair dealing and honest methods which he enjoys.

It will not be long before gentle spring will supplant the biting winter winds. In order to prepare for the change one should begin to think what they will wear during the warm weather. Crosby & Hill, the wide-awake merchants, are preparing for the coming season and are showing some attractive goods.

As a special inducement for people to do a cash trade with W. W. Wilson at his model meat market and grocery, the proprietor has arranged to give all cash customers double trading stamps, whether meat or groceries be purchased. Mr. Wilson's business is growing rapidly and this will serve to give it a fresh impetus.

Quarterly Meeting.

An invitation is extended to all Plainfield colored residents to attend the quarterly meeting of the A. M. E. Zion church, No. 12, of Westfield, which is to be held tomorrow. There will be preaching by Pastor R. T. Taylor and prominent colored divines.

Walter L. Higgins, of Elizabeth, is spending a few days with relatives in town.

LENTEN SEASON BEGINS WITH ASH WEDNESDAY

Forty Days of Fasting, Prayer and Self Denial Observed by Many Churches.

STARTS ON WEDNESDAY.

MANDATE OF BISHOP O'CONNOR REGARDING RULES FOR CATHOLICS.

The Season Will be Observed by Roman and Greek Catholics and Episcopalians — Services in the Local Parishes.

Lent, or quadragesima, the Holy season commemorating the Saviour's temptation and fasting of forty days in the wilderness, commences Wednesday. This period of the church year is observed by the Roman and Greek Catholics and the Episcopalians throughout Christendom.

The Lent of forty days has been recognized almost from the time of the Apostles. In computing the time, Sundays are excluded in the count, and the season ends with the close of Holy Week, which is Easter Sunday. Ash Wednesday, which is the first day of Lent, was originally the day when ashes were sprinkled on the heads of notorious offenders, who were then excommunicated. Preceding this day is Shrove Tuesday, which in early days was the time when all good Christians were absolved from their sins.

In all the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches in the city and borough, speeial Lenten services will be held throughout the season. Services will be held every day. At St. Mary's R. C. church, tomorrow, the Episcopal mandate will be read by Rev. Father Egan. Simultaneously it will be read in all the other Roman Catholic churches in the diocese of Newark. It is as follows:

"First—All the week days of Lent from Ash Wednesday until Easter Sunday are fast days of precept; only one meal being allowed with the addition of a moderate collation, in the evening. Second—The precept of the Lanten fast includes that of abstinence from flesh meat. By Apostolic Indult, however, the use of flesh meat is allowed in this diocese at every meal on Sunday, and at the principal meal on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, with the exception of the second and last Saturdays of Lent. Third—It is forbidden to use fish with flesh meat at the same meal in Lent. Fourth—The use of eggs, butter, cheese, although not allowed by the general law of the Lenten observance, has been introduced by custom, and is permitted by Indult both at the collation and at the principal meal, provided that the regulation, prescribing the quantity of food permitted be complied with.

"Fifth—Lard, butter or dripping of any kind may be used in preparing Lenten viands. Sixth—The use of flesh meat is allowed on Thursday in Holy Week. Seventh—The use of eggs, milk, butter and cheese is permitted on Good Friday. Eighth—When the principal meal cannot be conveniently taken at noon, the collation may be taken in the morning and the dinner in the evening. Ninth—Those who are exempt from the obligation of fasting are allowed to use flesh meats, eggs and white meats several times each day that the use of these viands is permitted at one meal to all the faithful.

"Tenth—The church exempts from the obligation of fastings the following classes of persons: First, those who are sick, infirm or convalescent from illness; second, those whose duties are of a laborous or exhausting character; third, those who have not yet attained the age of twenty-one years; fourth, those who are enfeeble by old age; fifth, women who are approaching maternity or nursing infants. Eleventh—The foregoing classes are not exempt from the law of abstinence from flesh meat, except in special cases of infirmity or sickness. Twelfth—All priests exercising the faculties of this diocese are empowered to grant dispensations from the precept of fast and abstinence in particular cases and for sufficient cause.

"A plenary indulgence has been conceded by the Holy See to all the faithful of this diocese, who, on the feast of St. Patrick, or within the octave, receive with proper dispositions the sacraments of penance and the Blessed Eucharist, and, visiting a church or chapel, offer prayers to God according to the intention of the Holy Father and for the propagation of the faith.

"The ceremony of blessing of the holy oils will be performed this year in the cathedral at 10 o'clock in the morning on Holy Thursday, March 27. The holy oils will be distributed in the afternoon of the same day from 2 o'clock until half-past 3. In accordance with the direction of the Third Plenary Council of Baltimore, a collection will be taken up in all the churches of this diocese on the first Sunday of Lent, in aid of the propagation of the faith and of the Indian and colored missions.

"With the view of encouraging this salutary work of mercy, and of animating the Christian zeal of the faithful for the salvation of perishing souls, our Holy Father, Pope Leo XIII., has benignly granted a plenary indulgence to all who have contritely confessed and worthily received Holy Communion on that day, devoutly visit a church in which the collection is made, assist at the sermon and the other observances of divine worship that may be celebrated on that occasion, and offer prayers for the propagation of the faith and the intention of the sovereign pontiff.

"In compliance with the command of our holy father in his brief of December, 1887, a collection for the Holy Land will be taken up in all the churches of this diocese either on Good Friday or on the third Sunday after Easter this year."

BASEBALL AT HIGH SCHOOL

CANDIDATES FOR TEAM WILL SHORTLY BE CALLED OUT.

Four of Last Year's Nine Are on Hand—Much Good Material.

Already there is talk among the pupils of the Plainfield High School as to the probable completion of this year's base ball team. There is a lot of material on hand and quite a number of prospective candidates are on the anxious bench waiting the call of Manager Harold Nomer for the practice.

From last year's nine there are four players remaining in the school and all of these are likely to make the team. Fred VanAuken, last year's twirler, will in all probability be in the box, while Moynihan will remain behind the bat. Denton and Munroe are the other two players and they are depended upon to fill in at any position.

During the coming week it is expected that all those wishing to have the opportunity of qualifying for the team will be called out for practice. Where the boys will play has not been decided upon, but it is believed that the Hope chapel grounds will be used temporarily.

FREF CHICKEN DINNERS.

Farmer Orator Distributed His Chickens, Killed in Raid by a Naughty Canine.

A number of colored families in Plainfield today enjoyed chicken dinners at the expense of James E. Martine, whose occupation is stated in great big type in the Plainfield directory as "farmer." As a result of the work of a stray canine, whose acquaintance Mr. Martine desires to make, there were sixty plump fowls distributed yesterday.

After the discovery of the killing of his chickens, the farmer orator took a good part of the morning yesterday in spending his eloquent energy with "words of learned length and thundering sound." When his excusable anger had subsided, he gathered about him some of his trusted colored friends, who are always with him, except on election days, and gave them the dead chickens. The colored men expressed their sorrow over Mr. Martine's misfortune but the orator remarked that "What is one man's loss, is another man's gain."

KICKS BEING HEARD ALL ALONG THE LINE

Formal Protests Against Trolley Service Registered in Rahway and Elizabeth.

AND IN OTHER PLACES.

ELIZABETH BOARD OF TRADE APPOINTS A COMMITTEE TO VISIT COMPANY.

Rahway Citizens Have Petitioned Common Council for Relief—General Manager Ackarman Working to Set Things Right.

There are continued outcries along the lines of the Eliabzeth, Plainfield and Central New Jersey Street Railway Company against the present condition of the service. The protests are not confined to any particular feature of the service nor to any particular point on the lines.

In Elizabeth the public opinion has been expressed in the appointment of a committee of the Board of Trade to outline the grievances to the proper officials of the company. It is claimed that the company has been derelict in not properly heating the cars and in some instances placing an unsightly old stove in the car in place of an electric apparatus. The schedule is not kept by the company and the cars are dirty, especially the rear platforms.

In addition to the complaints mentioned the Elizabeth people are protesting against the use of flat wheel cars and against cars which they declare are unsightly. In Rahway the citizens are also worked up over the subject. A large number of the residents have sent a communication to the Common Council protesting against the treatment they receive as patrons of the line between that city and Picton and Garwood. Complaint has also been made against the service between Sewaren, Woodbridge and Rahway. The substance of the remonstrance is about similar to that in the protests made at Elizabeth.

General Manager J. N. Ackarman, of the road, who assumed his duties January 1, declines to talk at present. He declares that he will make no statement until he has had an opportunity to set matters right, which he thinks he will accomplish at an early date.

In this city he will have complaints to meet. The old flat wheel car run on the Somerset street line, has caused a loud protest and this will constitute one of the many objections to the local service.

CALIFORNIA.

Thirty-One Days' Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad personally-conducted tour to California will leave Feb. 25. Passengers will be transported to El Paso, Tex., in special Pullman cars. At the latter point they will be transferred to the "Mexico and California Special," composed exclusively of Pullman parlor-smoking, dining-room, drawing-room, sleeping, compartment and observation cars, which will be used over the entire trip back to New York. While the best hotels will be used where extended stops are made, the train will be at the constant command of the party.

Round-trip tickets, covering all necessary expenses, $375 from all points on Pennsylvania Railroad except Pittsburg, from which point the rate will be $370.

For further information apply to ticket agents; or address Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Philadelphia. 2-8-2-s

DIVINE TRAGEDY.

Will be Rendered Sunday Night at Reform Hall.

Sunday evening at 8:30, the California tragedian, Richard Foote, will give his rendition of the "Divine Tragedy" at Reform hall. The unusual time of commencement is selected in order not to interfere with the regular church service.

Mr. Foote will be assisted musically by Miss Suzanne Kranz and Miss MargaretHoffman. Admission will be by invitation only and none will be issued to those under sitxeen. No one will be admitted without an invitation. They may be secured at the office of The Daily Press.

High Praise.

The Washington Star, one of the best papers published in that city, in speaking of the lecture to be given by Rev. D. W. Skellenger, in the supplementary course of the Y. M. C. NO SPITE WORK.

The newspapers all over the State have been, figuratively speaking, holding up their hands in horror over what they declared the members of the State Senate were going to do because Senator Charles A. Reed was defeated for the State treasurership. Assembly bills were, they said, to be held up out of spite and the Upper House was to do all in its power to retard the work of the Lower House.

As a matter of fact, there appears to be not the slightest reason for this wild report. While it was broadly stated right after the joint caucus that the Senators had made threats of that nature, the only statement which has been quoted was that of Senator Francis. He declared that it was a poor day for the Republican party when Senator Reed was defeated and further added that some people would not forget it. This was immediately passed along and magnified so that the Senator himself would not have been able to recognize it.

In another column will be found an interview with Senator Reed on this same subject. Senator Reed declares that he has never heard such a course suggested or even intimated by any member of the Senate. There will be no such foolish course pursued by the members of the Upper Huose. It is only another of those improbable tales which eminate from the group of correspondents which congregate at the State capital.

Those children who have not been vaccinated will not be able to attend the public schools at Somerville hereafter. Monday is the time set down by the Somerville Borad of Education before which the operation must have been performed. The working of this ruling will be watched with interest by each place where the dread disease is feared.

Owing to the press of advertising in this issue, local news will be found on the third as well as the second page.

GOING AFTER CITIZENS WHO DIDN'T PAY TAXES

son Coddington is the chairman.

The report of the borough collector for the month of January is as follows: Taxes and interset, $2,667.70; board of health, $3,105; special school, $1,175.24; bills payable, note, $7,000; Frank Rowly, clerk, fines $2 and licenses $10; balance on hand January 1, $6,899.91; total receipts, $17,785.90; disbursements, $14,762.84; cash on hand February 1, $3,023.06. Before adjournment it was decided to hold an extra session, Friday evening, February 21. At this time the annual reports of the various councilmanic committees will be presented.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

WASH GOODS FOR 1902.

The manufacture of Wash Fabrics is fast becoming one of the fine arts. Already they rival silk in beauty, permanence of finish and durability. Our display for the coming year is a crowning illustration of the wonderful loom fabrications that the most skillful and artistic of our American weavers are now producing in close competition with the latest examples of elegant and costly foreign workmanship. By the adroit manipulation of pure Italian silk filling an extra lustre is imparted to many fabrics that gives them the charming radiancy which so distinguishes the elaborate Parisian creations that have no cotton admixture. We have endeavored this season to surpass all our previous efforts in maintaining our reputation as a Wash Goods House.

"Tsatlee Silk," a mixture of fine Italian silk and Egyptian cotton, delightfully soft with high lustre. Patterns include some stylish gray and white corded effects and raised figures. In solid white it is simply exquisite. Width is 32 inches. Price is 79c per yd.

Width 27 in. Price 50c yd.

MISSION BAND ENDS YEAR

WORK SUMMED UP AND NEW OFFICERS WERE ELECTED.

Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed Church Held Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, was held yesterday afternoon, when officers for the ensuing year were chosen.

Most gratifying were the various reports read. Especially so was this the case with the statement of Miss Grace Emmons, the secretary, which showed that a vast amount of good had been accomplished in a quiet way by this helpful organization of the church. It was particularly pleasing to the members of the society to find that the treasury report of Miss Anna Searing, showed that department to be in an excellent condition and that the new year for work can be commenced auspiciously. The balance remaining, after the payment of all bills, was exactly $144.98.

Rev. Dr. Schenck, the pastor, made a short address in which he took occasion to commend the efforts of those who had striven to up build the society. His remarks were principally upon the work already accomplished, although he incidentally pictured in glowing colors the prospects of the organization. Owing to the absence, by illness, of Miss Lillian A. Force, the president, Miss Lillian Remsen, the vice president, occupied the chair and directed the proceedings.

The following officers were elected to serve for the coming year: President, Mrs. F. S. Cutter; vice president, Miss Grace Nevius; recording secretary, Miss Jessie Little; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. C. Van-Emburgh, and treasurer, Mrs. Theodore Mantz.

At Annual Dinner of Somerset County Bar Association.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 8.—The annual dinner of the Somerset County Bar Association, at the Somerset Hotel, last night, was one of the most pleasing events of the season. The proprietor furnished one of his most elaborate menus. Forty covers were laid. Hon. James J. Bergen, president of the association, acted as toastmaster.

The toasts responded to were "Genius of the Republic," Charles E. Littlefield, Congressman from Maine; "The Court of Common Pleas," Alfred F. Skinner, of Newark; "Municipal Indebtedness," Frank Bergen, of Elizabeth; "Men and Things," Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook; "The Parting," A. A. Clark, of Somerville.

Many prominent members of the bar were present. In the gathering were Chancellor Magie, Chief Justice Gummere, Justices Garretson and Pitney, Former Attorney General Griggs. Former Governor Voorhees was unable to be present. Plainfield was well represented.

Commission Meets Tonight.

A meeting of the borough sewer commission will be held in the Council Chamber tonight. All the members of the board are requested to attend as the body purposes to take early action in the assigned task.

Will Carry Mail.

Wm. Holloway, colored, has been awarded the contract for carrying the mail between the postoffice and the railroad station. His bid was $300 a year. He will enter upon his duties at once.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

BROKE RECORD FOR READING

MADE TRIP FROM PHILADELPHIA TO JERSEY CITY IN 84 MINUTES.

J. Pierpont Morgan Passed Through Plainfield Yesterday Morning on the P. and R.

J. Pierpont Morgan passed through this city yesterday morning about 11:30 o'clock. He didn't see much of Plainfield, however, for he was aboard a special Reading flyer bound from Philadelphia to Jersey City.

The train travelled at cyclone speed, making a mile and a half in a minute frequently on the stretch. When whirling by here the speed was some what less, but it was sufficient to astonish those who saw the train. Mr. Morgan left the Reading Terminal, in Philadelphia, at 10:01, in company with President George F. Baer, of the road.

The engineer was instructed to "break a record," and this he did by beating the time made eighteen years ago. The run of ninety miles was made in eighty-four minutes, and this included a stop at Elkins, Pa., and Bound Brook, by which six minutes was lost.

Wanted in Hunterdon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 8—Wm. Dorsey, colored, was arrested in this place yesterday and lodged in the county jail by Detective Totten. It is expected that the Flemington authorities will be after Dorsey today.

Asked to Wear Robe.

Hedges, secretary of the Plainfield Board of Health, has sent out notices to all local physicians requesting, in the name of the board, that doctors wear some suitable robe or garment while attending a patient afflicted with a contagious disease. This is for the purpose of preventing the spread of the disease.

RAILROAD CENSURED

State Commission's Report on Tunnel Disaster.

CENTRAL OFFICIALS WERE NEGLIGENT

Company Has Not Kept Pace With Increasing Traffic, but Has Been Unprogressive and Derelict and Lax in Discipline.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The state board of railroad commissioners has handed down its decision regarding the recent disaster in the Park avenue tunnel, New York city. The commission censures the New York Central Railroad company for allowing an inexperienced engineer to run a train through the tunnel. It also recommends that at some time in the future the roof be taken off the tunnel, using bridges at intersecting streets. However, in this connection it says that such a change would be intolerable unless electricity is substituted as a motive power for trains in the tunnel and recommends legislation to allow such change.

Among other things the report says that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company was grossly negligent of its obligations to the public in putting an engineer of such limited experience and ascertained capacity as the engineer of the Harlem train to be in charge of a passenger train for operation through this tunnel in what are called the "rush hours."

The New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company has been negligent, derelict and unprogressive in failing to take measures to increase its terminal facilities at the Grand Central station and yard by such dimensions as would reasonably keep pace with the yearly increasing traffic necessities of the lines entering this station.

The said railroad company has been negligent in failing to examine more closely into the qualifications of new engineers and lax in discipline in failing to hold engineers to accountability for violation of the running rules in this tunnel.

The board recommends various changes in the position of tunnel signals and says the proposed increase of yard room and the separation of the suburban traffic from the through traffic by carrying the suburban trains underground from the tunnel by a loop system to an independent station and operating the local trains by the multiple unit electric plan is a wise plan, but that it will not be operative within two years.

Temporary changes in the yard tracks, to be made on newly purchased property, are to be begun forthwith and completed without delay.

The proposed underground suburban traffic loop, the plans for which have been adopted by the board of directors of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company and which have been put in evidence before the board, is to be carried to completion with all diligence as soon as the necessary legislation is had.

The board in closing says:

"The time is not many years distant when, even with the contemplated improvements in operation, the increasing traffic of the great city and of this triple railroad terminus will require enlarged and better facilities. It may be here noted that possible ways of anticipating this need are (a) through the extension of the company's facilities by establishing a new trainyard on the Long Island side of East river, or (b) by increasing and improving the company's existing terminal facilities on the west side of the city in the vicinity of Thirtieth and Thirty-fourth streets and the North river. By this means perhaps all, or a large part, of the suburban traffic might be carried to this terminal and to that extent relieve the Grand Central station. The surface and elevated roads would quickly extend their connections so as to make that terminus easily accessible, and in any event the probable early advent of the Pennsylvania railroad to that part of the city would make such a terminal desirable, perhaps necessary."

Harvard-Princeton Debate.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 8.—After three days of discussion the Harvard Debating club sent the following question for the annual debate to Princeton: "Resolved, That Mayor Low should strictly enforce the excise law in New York city." Princeton will announce its choice of sides Feb. 26, and the debate will take place in Sander theater, Cambridge, on March 26.

HORTON, Kan., Feb. 8.—Fire in the big car works of the Rock Island railroad yesterday afternoon caused the death of two persons and the destruction of $250,000 worth of property. The dead are P. H. McKeown, president of the board of education, and W. H. Davis, the oldest employee of the car works.

Railroad Bridge Burned.

PORT HENRY, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The draw in the Portland railroad bridge across Lake Champlain has been burned, and traffic will be delayed for several weeks. The draw tender was severely burned. The cause of the fire is unknown.

I have used Ripans Tabules with so much satisfaction that I can cheerfully recommend them. Have been troubled for about three years with what I called bilious attacks coming on regularly once a week. Was told by different physicians that it was caused by bad teeth, of which I had several. I had the teeth extracted, but the attacks continued. I had seen advertisements of Ripans Tabules in all the papers but had no faith in them, but about six weeks since a friend induced me to try them. Have taken but two of the small 5-cent boxes of the Tabules and have had no recurrence of the attacks. Have never given a testimonial for anything before, but the great amount of good which I believe has been done me by Ripans Tabules induces me to add mine to the many testimonials you doubtless have in your possession now. A. T. DeWITT.

I have been a great sufferer from constipation for over five years. Nothing gave me any relief. My feet and legs and abdomen were bloated so I could not wear shoes on my feet and only a loose dress. I saw Ripans Tabules advertised in our daily paper, bought some and took them as directed. Have taken them about three weeks and there is such a change! I am not constipated any more and I owe it all to Ripans Tabules. I am thirty-seven years old, have no occupation, only my household duties and nursing my sick husband. He has had the dropsy and I am trying Ripans Tabules for him. He feels some better but it will take some time, he has been sick so long. You may use my letter and name as you like.
MRS. MARY GORMAN CLARKE.

I have been suffering from headaches ever since I was a little girl. I could never ride in a car or go into a crowded place without getting a headache and sick at my stomach. I heard about Ripans Tabules from an aunt of mine who was taking them for catarrh of the stomach. She had found such relief from their use she advised me to take them too, and I have been doing so since last October, and will say they have completely cured my headaches. I am twenty-nine years old. You are welcome to use this testimonial.
MRS J. BROOKMYER.

I want to inform you, in words of highest praise, of the benefit I have derived from Ripans Tabules. I am a professional nurse and in this profession a clear head is always needed. Ripans Tabules does it. After one of my cases I found myself completely run down. Acting on the advice of Mr Geo Bower, Ph. G., 568 Newark Ave., Jersey City, I took Ripans Tabules with grand results.
Miss BESSIE WIEDMAR.

Mother was troubled with heartburn and sleeplessness, caused by indigestion, for a good many years. One day she saw a testimonial in the paper indorsing Ripans Tabules. She determined to give them a trial, was greatly relieved by their use and now takes the Tabules regularly. She keeps a few cartons Ripans Tabules in the house and says she will not be without them. The heartburn and sleeplessness have disappeared with the indigestion which was formerly so great a burden for her. Our whole family take the Tabules regularly, especially after a hearty meal. My mother is fifty years of age and is enjoying the best of health and spirits, also eats hearty meals, an impossibility before she took Ripans Tabules.

TRADE RIPANS TABULES MARK

Reading some of the testimonials in favor of Ripans Tabules, I tried them. Ripans Tabules not only relieved but actually cured my youngster, the headaches have disappeared, bowels are in good condition and he never complains of his stomach. He is a normal, chubby faced boy. This wonderful change is due to Ripans Tabules. I only wish they would benefit anyone from the cradle to the age of 70 if taken according to directions.
E. W. PRICE.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES packed in a paper box (convenient glass) is now for sale at some drug stores FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for those who need the remedy but are economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty cents in stamps to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may also be had of some grocers, general storekeepers, news agents and at some liquor stores and barber shops. They banish pain, induce sleep, prolong life. One gives relief.

POINT D'ESPRIT AND NET.

Forecast For Spring and Summer Shows They Will Lead.

Point d'esprit and net lead among the fashionable materials for evening dress. White point d'esprit, which used to be a material considered suitable for debutantes, is now being worn by matrons. It is made up in a variety of attractive ways and richly trimmed with lace and ribbon. Velvet ribbon in graduating widths is considered an especially smart ornamentation, and the waist is banded horizontally with it as well as the gored flounce of the skirt.

BLACK NET GOWN.

These point d'esprit evening gowns are very useful, and they will be much worn next summer, with the addition of a transparent guimpe of lace. Yellow lace and white point d'esprit are considered particularly effective together.

Black point d'esprit is being made up into a variety of ruffled gowns, which are all the rage. Some of these models are a mass of tiny ruffles from the decolletage to the bottom of the skirt. Others have big flounces on the skirt and a plain waist with a fichu or bolero arrangement of ruffles. All are particularly chic and youthful looking, and narrow velvet appears as the principal trimming.

Black brussels net with white rings is the material of the gown in the illustration. The skirt is cut with three gathered ruffles edged with narrow black velvet ribbon and is trimmed at intervals with wavy bands of this same narrow velvet. The waist is also trimmed with it and has in addition a puffed scarf around the decolletage held in at intervals with pearl buckles.

REGARDING HATS.

The Shapes Are Gradually Changing. Fur Models.

Already the new spring models in hats are being shown. There is not much change. The flat shape is gradually giving way to the shepherdess and walking shape. The latter is raised on both sides with a suggestion of a tilt on the left, and it is trimmed with a wreath of flowers or two or three carelessly disposed rosettes. The under part of these upturned brims is highly trimmed with shirrings of chiffon, narrow velvet ribbons, appliques, etc.

Autumn leaves figure a good deal on hats just at present, and a most chic combination is one of black roses and brilliantly colored autumn foliage. Black flowers of all kinds are very much the rage, and they differ from those of last year by being made of all silk instead of silk and velvet.

Three cornered shapes of fur are being seen on every hand. Fur hats, in fact, are the most stylish millinery for this time of the year. These fur hats are trimmed very simply with scarfs of lace or crepe de chine in pale colors.

Flowers on hats are reappearing again, and the larger blossoms are preferred. They are combined with lace and fur and are grouped on the brim with apparent carelessness. The edict has gone forth that the hat must match the gown—in fact, that the entire costume must be en suite. This is carried out even in the trimmings of some of the new hats where flowers, leaves and foundation all match.

The illustration shows a sable hat in the popular turban shape. It is trimmed with a fringed scarf of pale pink crepe de chine passed through gold buckles. With this are worn a stole shaped scarf of the sable and a soft collar and stock of pale pink chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"Give that to Leon," he said, "and tell him to be off with it at once."

The woman disappeared, and when she had gone we resumed our conversation. Had he not had the good fortune to be such a great success in his own profession, what an admirable actor the man would have made! His power of facial contortion was extraordinary, and I believe that on demand he could have imitated almost any face that struck his fancy.

"And now with regard to our little excursion," he said. "What would you like to be? As you are aware,

TO MY OVERWHELMING SURPRISE NO LESS A PERSON THAN GIDEON HAYLE ENTERED THE ROOM.

I can offer you a varied selection. Will you be a workman, a peddler, an elderly gentleman from the provinces, or a street beggar?"

"I think the elderly gentleman from the provinces would suit me best," I answered, "while it will not necessitate a change of dress."

"Very good, then, so it shall be," he replied. "We'll be a couple of elderly gentlemen in Paris for the first time. Let me conduct you to my dressing-room, where you will find all that is necessary for your make-up."

He thereupon showed me to a room leading out of that in which we had hitherto been sitting. It was very small, and lighted by means of a skylight. Indeed, it was that very skylight, so he always declared, that induced him to take the flat.

"If this room looked out over the back, or front, it would have been necessary for me either to have curtains, which I abominate, or to run the risk of being observed, which would have been far worse," he had remarked to me once. "Needless to say there are times when I find it most necessary that my preparations should not be suspected."

Taken altogether, it was a room that had a strange fascination for me. I had been in it many times before, but was always able to discover something new in it. It was a conglomeration of cupboards and shelves. A large variety of costumes hung upon the pegs in the walls, ranging from soldier's uniforms to beggar's rags. There were wigs of all sorts and descriptions on blocks, pads of every possible order and for every part of the body, humps for hunchbacks, wooden legs, boots ranging from the patent leather of the dandy to the toeless foot-covering of the beggar. There were hats in abundance, from the spotless silk to the most miserable head coverings, some of which looked as if they had been picked up from the rubbish-heap. There were peddlers' trays fitted with all and every sort of ware, a faro-table, a placard setting forth the fact that the renowned Prof. Somebody or Other was a most remarkable phrenologist and worthy of a visit. In fact there was no saying what there was not there. Everything that was calculated to be useful to him in his profession was to be found in the room.

For my own part I am not fond of disguises. Indeed on only two or three occasions, during the whole course of my professional career, have I found it necessary to conceal my identity. But to this wily little Frenchman disguise was, as often as not, a common occurrence.

Half an hour later, two respectable elderly gentlemen, looking more like professors from some eminent Lycee than detectives, left the house and proceeded in the direction of the Folly theater. The performance was almost at an end when we reached it, and we mingled with the crowd who had assembled to watch the audience come out. The inquiries we had made proved to be correct, and it was not very long before I saw the man I wanted emerge, accompanied by a female, who could be no other than Mme. Beaumarais. Hayle was in immaculate evening dress, and, as I could not but admit, presented a handsome figure to the world. A neat little brougham drew up beside the pavement in its turn, and into this they stepped. Then the door was closed upon them, and the carriage drove away.

"That's my man," I said to my companion, as we watched it pass out of sight. "To-morrow morning I shall pay him a little visit. I think you were quite right in what you said about the money. That woman must have made a fairly big hole in it already."

"You may be quite sure of that," he answered. "When she has finished with him there will not be much left for anybody else."

"And now to get these things off and then home to bed. To-morrow will in all probability prove an exciting day."

I accompanied him to his room and removed the disguise which had enabled me to see Hayle without his being aware of my identity, and then, bidding my friend good night, returned to my abode. Before I went to bed, however, I sat down and wrote a report of my doings for Miss. Kitwater. Little as I had to tell, the writing of this letter gave me considerable pleasure. I could imagine it coming like a breath from another world to that quiet house at Bishopstowe. I pictured the girl's face as she read it, and the strained attention of the two men, who, needless to say, would hang on every word. When I had finished it I went to bed, to dream that Gideon Hayle and I were swimming a race in the Seine for five gigantic rubies which were to be presented to the winner by Miss Kitwater.

Next morning I arose early, went for a stroll along the boulevards, and returned to breakfast at eight o'clock. In the matter of my breakfasts in Paris, I am essentially English. I must begin the day with a good meal, or I am fit for nothing. On this particular occasion I sat down on the best terms with myself and the world in general. I made an excellent meal, did the best I could with the morning paper, but my French is certainly not above reproach, and then wondered when I should set out to interview the man whose flight from England had proved the reason of my visiting Paris. Then the door opened and the concierge entered with, the words: "A gentleman to see monsieur!" Next moment, to my overwhelming surprise, no less a person than Gideon Hayle entered the room.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

PRESIDENT'S SON ILL

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Is Stricken With Pneumonia.

MOTHER SUMMONED TO BEDSIDE.

Latest Reports From Lad's Sickroom at Groton, Mass., Are Not Alarming — The School Closed Because of Much Sickness.

GROTON, Mass., Feb. 8.—The condition of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of President Roosevelt and a student at Groton school, who is ill of pneumonia, is reported "as comfortable as could be expected." Those who are in attendance at the lad's bedside decline to give anything more definite. It is understood at the school, however, that the patient shows some improvement.

The school is now practically deserted, for nearly all of the 160 students have departed for their homes.

Mrs. Roosevelt arrived here from Washington via Boston on the first morning train. Arrangements had been made to meet her at the station, the school being about half a mile distant.

From sources outside the school it was learned that the president's son caught cold a day or two ago, and the trouble proved stubborn. Thursday evening the symptoms grew more serious, and at midnight Dr. W. B. Warren, the school physician, was called. Remedies were prescribed at once, and yesterday morning the patient was no worse, and it was hoped that aid had been given in time to check the progress of the disease. President Roosevelt was informed of the situation, and it was suggested that the boy's mother should come to Groton. This course was decided upon.

An attempt was made to induce President Peabody to talk about the case, but his refusal was as persistent as it had been previously. He did say, however, that besides abiding by the rules of the school in refusing to give out news he was acting in accordance with the expressed wish of President Roosevelt.

There has been a great deal of illness at the school of late. There are several other cases of pneumonia besides that of young Roosevelt, and the school has been closed for two weeks on account of the prevailing sickness. The boys have been in the habit of running about bareheaded all winter. This is thought to account for some of the serious colds.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SUMMONED.

President's Wife Hastens to the Bedside of Her Sick Boy.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Roosevelt, the wife of the president, left Washington last evening for Groton, Mass., where their son, Theodore, Jr., is lying seriously ill of pneumonia. She traveled in a drawing room car on the regular train of the Pennsylvania road which goes through to Boston without change, arriving there this morning at 7 o'clock. From Boston the first available train will reach Groton at 10:33 a. m. Mrs. Roosevelt is accompanied only by a maid.

The first information to reach the president and Mrs. Roosevelt of the illness of their son was received at the White House by telegraph at 9:20 yesterday morning. The message was signed by the president of the college where the young man is a pupil and stated in effect that a slight indisposition had developed into an acute and sharp attack of pneumonia and that he was seriously ill. Another message received during the cabinet meeting stated that the young man's temperature was 104.

Arrangements were at once set on foot for Mrs. Roosevelt's departure for Groton, and since the first intelligence was received the president has been in almost constant communication by telephone and telegraph with the college faculty. According to these frequent reports, the son's condition remained almost unchanged yesterday. There is no attempt to minimize the danger of an acute attack of pneumonia, and the president and Mrs. Roosevelt are well aware that the young man's condition is serious. Everything possible is being done for him, and the best physicians and nurses are in constant attendance.

Exposition Plans Changed.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The illness of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., has changed very greatly the plans of the president for his trip to Charleston to visit the exposition there. The trip possibly may have to be abandoned altogether, but the present purpose is to make a flying visit to the exposition and to return immediately after the most important functions in which it has been arranged the presidential party should participate. No ladies will accompany the presidential party owing to the absence of Mrs. Roosevelt and the hurried nature of the modified arrangements.

Canoe Maker Cremated.

BANGOR, Me., Feb. 8.—Charles R. Gould of this city, a well known canoe maker, has been burned to death in a fire which destroyed a hunting camp conducted by his brother, George W. Gould, at Ingalls Siding, on the Bangor and Aroostook railroad. George W. Gould and his wife and two other persons who were in the camp narrowly escaped death. Mr. and Mrs. Gould were slightly burned. The others, both men, were more severely hurt.

INSPECTED SYSTEM AT CITY DISPOSAL WORKS

Borough Sewage Commission Has Begun Its Labors of Investigation.

WERE WELL PLEASED.

CITY SYSTEM SEEMED TO BE WORKING IN SATISFACTORY FASHION.

Members Carefully Examined the Workings of the Plant Under Charge of Chas. Peterson—One Boroughite Talks.

As prearranged, the sewage commission, of North Plainfield, consisting of Former Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., William C. Smith, George D. Hallock, and David T. Kenney, has visited Plainfield's sewage farm and inspected the system in use there. Elston M. French is a member of the commission but, on account of being in New Orleans, he could not be present. Mayor Smalley was also absent.

The commission was met at the farm by Charles Peterson, who is in charge there, and the members were given a very clear explanation of the system as it is today. They visited the septic tank, the contact beds, watched the operation of the system and finally went to the brook, where they saw pure water running from the beds. Each one tasted the water and they say that they could not detect any unpleasant taste or odor. So much for the visit.

The members of the commission, after the visit, were non-committal regarding opinions. It was learned, however, that they believed that Plainfield has more money to spend on such a system that has North Plainfield, and they prefer to profit by Plainfield's experience. The boroughites were much pleased with the treatment received and the courtesy extended in allowing an inspection.

One member of the commission, in conversation with a Daily Press representative, said that while in many respects the system seems to be all right, there is room for doubt as to its ultimate success. It is claimed by the supporters of the system that the longer it is used the better it will work. In justice to the system the visitors admitted that they could scarcely detect any odor about the farm, outside of the septic tank.

The commission will meet Friday evening of this week, when it is proposed to have Jospeh O. Osgood present. Mr. Osgood had considerable to do with Plainfield's new system and the borough commission want to learn something from him regarding it. They desire to know how the system has worked elsewhere, where it has been employed for any number of years. After gaining this information, the commission believes that it will be ready to make a report to the Borough Council.

BROUGHT A BRIDE.

James Gray Returned Home From Easton With a Surprise for His Friends.

James Gray, son of William G. Gray, of West Third street, returned to this city last week from Easton, where he has been employed for some time past in one of the large machine shops. He brought with him a young woman, who he introduced to his friends as Mrs. Gray. It was the first intimation that any of them had that he was married.

The ceremony was performed at Easton, January 1, the bride being Miss Carrie Fisher, of that place. The young people will reside at the home of the groom's parents.

Illness of Her Brother.

Mrs. McVey, of North avenue, has received word of the serious illness of her brother and his wife at Buffalo, N. Y. Yesterday they were reported much worse, but last evening word came that there was a change for the better.

Col. Tyler Improved.

Col. Mason W. Tyler, of West Seventh street, who has been ill with pneumonia, is much better today. He has a small per centage of fever, but the presence of asthma has retarded somewhat his improvement.

To Close at Noon.

At a recent meeting of the local Grocers' Association, the members decided to close their stores at noon, Wednesday, Lincoln's Birthday.

—The union Bible class, taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns, will meet at Y. M. C. A. Hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:15 o'clock.

IT'S ROSELLE OR WESTFIELD

TOMORROW'S GAMES LIKELY TO DECIDE DAILY PRESS LEAGUE.

Roselle Casino Bowlers Must Take Three Straight From Parks to Hold the Trophy.

Interest in the finish among the clubs that form The Daily Press Bowling League is decidedly high. At the request of the Roselle Casino team, the match between that club and the Park Club, was postponed Friday night until tomorrow evening. As a result, the two deciding series of games will both be rolled this week unless the Roselle-Cranford game, scheduled to take place at Roselle Thursday evening, is also postponed.

Just at present, the Westfield Club leads in the league. Westfield has, however, completed its schedule. Roselle has lost one less game than Westfield and has two series of three games each to roll. If Roselle wins all six of the games then The Daily Press trophy becomes its property. A single defeat will mean a tie with Westfield while two lost games for Roselle gives victory to Westfield. Under these circumstances, it is only natural that the remaining games should be watched with much interest.

The Westfield Club had made arrangements to send quite a crowd of rooters to Plainfield last Friday night to use their encouragement in behalf of the Parks. The games were then postponed until Tuesday night. As there is a masquerade ball at the Westfield Club that night, it will naturally keep most of the Westfield rooters at home.

It now remains with the bowlers of the Park Club to decide the contest. If they are successful in winning the series with Roselle, then the latter's chances in the league are lost. Roselle is preparing to send its strongest team to Plainfield. Captain W. R. Faber will also get the best material he can for the contest and the hottest fight of the season on the local alleys may be expected.

MUSIC HALL WAS NOT SOLD

ALTHOUGH NEGOTIATIONS TO THAT END ARE UNDER WAY.

Expected That the Deal Will be Completed in a Day or Two.

The article published by another paper last Saturday to the effect that Music Hall has been sold to Walter S. Butterfield, an old theatrical manager, was premature. A Press representative, in conversation with Lawyer William M. Stillman, yesterday, was informed that the deal has not been consumated, and he was afraid that the premature publication of such a story might seriously interfere with negotiations which have been pending for some time past.

Mr. Stillman did not deny that such a deal was talked of, but he denied absolutely the story that the hall has been sold. He said that the person who furnished the information was premature for the papers had not even been signed. It is a well-known fact that for several months past efforts of one sort or other have been made to open Music Hall. Well-known theatrical men have visited Plainfield and many plans have been discussed for the opening of the hall.

As stated some time ago, Chief Doane, of the fire department, has been opposed to the plan proposed for the entrance to the hall through the drug store. It might work all right for persons entering the hall, but as an exit it would be far too small as well as unsafe. There are two other exits which might be used but these are not now arranged advantageously for they would bring people into the open through long alley-ways.

Appointment Deferred.

It was expected that the various committees would be announced at the Unitarian church yesterday, but owing to a lack of quorum of trustees, the matter was deferred until tomorrow evening. At that time it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

Cost of Epidemic.

It is estimated that the smallpox epidemic at Hackettstown will cost the town $10,000, provided that the present indications of its being under control prove true. It is proposed that the town issue bonds to meet the expenses.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Mary Graves, of Liberty street, to Wesley R. Brokaw, of West Front street.

Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION.

The State Convention at Camden Closed Saturday Evening.

The thirty-second annual convention of the Young Men's Christian Association, closed at Camden, Saturday evening, after a three days session. It was one of the most successful the association has ever held. Those who attended from this city were Stephen Cahoone, John Valiant, Frederic H. Andrews, William D. Murray, Walter E. Cahoone, C. E. A. Heywood, George S. Bolsterli, E. K. Hartley, Herbert S. Brokaw, Neil Neilson, J. H. Manning and Frederick H. Cranston.

MEN'S CLUB WAS ORGANIZED

FORMED AT CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH YESTERDAY MORNING.

Men of the Congregation Will Meet Once a Month—The Officers Were Elected.

The movement to form an association for the men of the Congregational church resulted yesterday morning in the formal organization of the Men's Club of the Congregational church. A constitution was adopted, officers were elected and nearly fifty men expressed a determination to be enrolled in its membership.

At a meeting of the men of the church two weeks ago, Frank A. Weekes, Alex. Millar and M. C. VanArsdale were appointed a committee to draw up a constitution. It was expected that the formal organization would be effected a week ago, but the meeting was postponed until yesterday on account of the bad weather, which kept many at home.

Much interest was shown at yesterday's meeting. The regular meetings of the club will be held on the first Tuesdays of each month. The executive committee will provide the programme. The election of officers resulted as follows: President. W. B. Wadsworth; vice president, Alex Millar; secretary, G. F. Updike; treasurer, H. W. Tomlinson; executive committee, A. C. LaBoyteaux and J. A. Powlison. The pastor, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, and the officers will form the other members of the executive committee.

This organization was the outgrowth of the belief that the men of the church should be organized. Heretofore, the women, the children and the young people have been organized but there has been nothing particularly for the men. It was believed that the example, set by many churches in other cities in forming men's clubs, had met with much success. So this club was started.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CHOIR.

To be Organized at First Baptist Church as a Training School for the Church Choir.

C. W. McCutchen, of the First Baptist church, announced at the session of the Sunday-school, yesterday, that an effort would be made to form a Sunday-school choir from among the members of the school. If a sufficient number take an interest in the project plans will be formulated to give a concert during the Lenten season.

It is also proposed to train the choir so that recruits for the regular church choir may be secured. In this way the members of the church who can sing will be given the first preference when vacancies occur in the choir. Those having good voices will no doubt be pleased with the opportunity to have their voices trained to a greater degree of usefulness. There seems to be no doubt but what the plan will be successful. Several persons signified their willingness yesterday to join the choir.

HUFF OUT ON HEAVY BAIL

Arthur Upson, the Injured Man, is Still in a Very Precarious Condition.

HUFF WAS ARRAIGNED.

Held Under $5,000 Bail for Hearing Friday Afternoon—Interview With W. L. Hetfield, Sr.,—Says Huff Was Justified—Explains His Participation.

After remaining in a cell at police headquarters all day Saturday, John Huff, the assailant of Arthur Upson, was released on bail to appear for a hearing Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Bail was fixed by Justice Nash at $5,000, and was furnished early in the evening. Huff was represented by Walter L. Hetfield, Jr.

In fixing bail, Justice Nash declared it was not the custom to release prisoners in similar affairs but having received word from the attending physicians that Upson was improving, he had decided to do so. He expressly declared, however, that in the event of Upson's becoming worse, Huff was to give himself up.

Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., who was one of the witnesses of the striking of Upson, was interviewed by a Press reporter this morning. He said that Upson was in a quarrelsome mood that night and had attempted to pick a quarrel with Hetfield. Mr. Hetfield said that his own participation in the affair was confined to frankly telling the man what he thought of him after Upson had become very insulting.

Mr Hetfield said he was present at the time when the blow was struck. He declares that Upson made two passes at Huff and that the latter then struck the single blow. Huff, he said, was in his opinion perfectly justified in striking the other when the latter's remarks were considered.

WHY HE BELIEVES IN HELL

REV. JOHN M'MURRAY SAYS THAT THE MASTER TAUGHT IT.

Nothing is Said, However, That Hell Fire is Literal Fire—It Will be as Bad.

At the Monroe Avenue church, last evening, Rev. John MacMurray, delivered another sermon on his series of the "Future Life." The subject was "Sheol, Hades and Geheena" and was one of the most interesting yet given.

After briefly explaining the meaning of the three terms, Mr. MacMurray declared that the main ground for the support and belief in future punishment is that the Master taught it. The gentle and loving Saviour, who loved man to such an extent that He gave up His life for him, taught His disciples to believe that there is a future state of punishment. They believed it at the time and the great body of the Christian church has done so ever since.

Throughout His entire teachings, said Mr. MacMurray, He cautioned the people to prepare for the future and the great beyond. He spoke understandingly and as one who had come down from Heaven with the teachings of God He did not teach that symbols were literal and not figures, that Hell is a literal kingdom, nor that there is a literal fire there, nor they who were gathered there are literally tormented as men in dungeons and inquisitional prisons were. But He did imply that the sins of men would bring down upon them penalties here and penalties hereafter and the dungeon is neither light nor temporary.

And theory of the future life, the speaker said, which takes the responsibility away from any man or lessens his feeling the awfulness of sin, is unchristian and dangerous. "As long as I hold to the Divintiy of Christ," said the preacher, "I cannot but hold the truth He taught me to believe and to teach others, that sin will be visited in the other life with terrible punishments such as no imagination can perceive."

RED MEN'S FAIR IS OVER

LARGEST ATTENDANCE AT ITS CLOSING EVENING SATURDAY.

Everything Disposed Of—Results of the Contests—Prizes Awarded to Ticket Holders.

The fair, that was held last week in Saengerbund Hall under the auspices of Miantonomo and Wetumpkah Tribes, Improved Order Red Men, and Iona Council, Degree of Pocohontas, came to an end Saturday. The closing night was the biggest of the week, there being an unusually large attendance. Everything offered for sale was disposed of at good prices.

As an extra attraction for the wind-up the Black Diamond quartette appeared and gave a number of popular selections. The dancing, of course, was the feature.

Great interest was centred in the awarding of the various contests, as follows: Doll, Miss Marguerite Boehm; second prize, watch, Miss Finger; Past Pocohontas jewel, Mrs. Charles L. Holstein; diamond ring, Mrs. William A. Westphal; bicycle, Charles Montross. The gold watch, which was chanced off, was won by Fred Smith.

To each ticket sold during the week a coupon was attached. Nine of these coupons drew prizes. They were as follows: First prize, No. 2559; second, 1100; third, 1938; fourth, 719; fifth, 617; sixth, 1308; seventh, 2758; eighth, 2912; ninth, 580.

To the committee in charge and all those assisting is due the credit for the success of the fair. Much praise is given Suhr's orchestra for the very satisfactory music given each night. The committee will meet in a few days and settle up all accounts, when the organization will receive their proportionate share.

BELIEVES THE WORLD IS GROWING BETTER

Rev. J. W. Richardson Answered the Question "Up or Down Grade" in a Sermon.

HE GAVE HIS REASONS.

BASED HIS BELIEF ON MANY FACTS AND FIGURES.

While Wickedness May Be Pronounced at Times, There is Reason to Believe the World is Growing Better.

"Up, or Down Grade," was the subject of the discourse delivered yesterday morning at the Park Avenue Baptist church, by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Richardson. The text was Ecclesiastes vii:10: "Say not, what is the cause that the former days were better than these? For thou doest not inquire wisely concerning this."

The speaker said in part:

"Some people tell us that the Christian faith is dying out. Christianity may yet change the seat of its glory as the centre of civilization was transferrred from the Nile and Euphrates, to England and America. But Christianity cannot die. Christ is its soul. 'He was once dead, but now is alive forever more.' So long as Christ sits on the throne Christian faith cannot die.

"In 1890 out of a population of 60,000,000 over 20,000,000 were members of Christian churches. One church member in every three of the population does not indicate failure. In 1900, ten years later, while the population of the country increased at the rate of 2.18 per cent. annually, church membership gained at the rate of 2.67 per cent. annually. True many of these church members are only nominal Christians; but on the other hand think of the thousands who pray to Christ and whose sympathies are with the church, and who contribute to her necessities, but for some reason have not identified themselves with any church. These may more than counterbalance the nominal Christians.

"Also judging from the enormous sizes of the 'Christian Endeavor' organization, 'Young People's Societies,' their matchless enthusiasm, their spiritual boldness and the way they mold public opinion, it is very evident that Christian sentiment is very much alive in this country, and the millions of the rising generation will not espouse atheism. It is still a fact that the leading business men of this country are Christians. It is still a fact that the greatest statesmen of modern times are devout Christians. It is a fact that today there are more Christian books than any other kind of literature.

"Wickedness may be very pronounced today, infidelity like the frogs of the swamp may set up a greater croaking, heretics may hang out red flags and blow fog horns! But Christianity in the person of the true believer was never more firmly rooted in our civilization than now. There are in all these Evangelical churches thousands who would go to the stake for Jesus Christ.

"Christian devotion is not a lost art! The true Christian is not a friendless tramp! Men who have a faculty for displaying the spectacular in religion are making the most noise just now, are sending up religious sky-rockets that fiz and make a dazzling light, but rockets burn out. On the other hand, the millions upon millions of evangelical tracts and books and magazines that are sold and distributed every year, show that the quiet people who read and think have not changed their sentiments regarding a crucified Christ. The world is not yet in the hands of a profligate Liberalism to be handed back to the license and barbarism of the middle ages."

The Borough's Share.

The McKinley Memorial Association of New Jersey has apportioned $125 as the share desired to be contributed by North Plainfield. Contributions may be sent to Senator Charles A. SPORTING NEWS

GOLF.

According to reports the golf links at Finderne will be put into service next summer. The course will be under the management of the hotel and it is said that there will be attractive features including several contests.

Edward Erickson, the expert at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club last year, has made arrangements to contine in the same position this year. Mr. Erickson is just the man for the place and the members will be pleased that he is to remain.

Secretary B. F. Reimund, of the New Jersey State Golf Association, announces that a meeting will be held at the office of Paul Wilson, 220 Broadway, New York, February 13, for the purpose of electing officers for the ensuing year. Other business will also be transacted. The question of where to hold the next association championship tournament will come up for serious consideration.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course is in excellent condition for this time of the year. There has not been any continued bad weather and the absence of this has tended to benefit it much. The chances are that if the present weather continues for the balance of the season, the course can be opened at an early date. As Mr. Barrows, chairman of the greens committee, is detained at home with a fractured leg, he may be handicapped somewhat in looking after the work at the club with the same activity that has heretofore characterized his efforts. The work will not be slighted, however, for Mr. Barrows will personally see that it is attended to properly. T. R. VanBoskerck, the new chairman of the golf committee, will bring to that position much careful attention and thought. He will devote considerable time to looking after his department and will endeavor to make it all that it should be. The other officers of the club are well known, having devoted much time to the interests of the club. That their interests will not be less than in the past is assured.

This promises to be one of the most important months of the year for golfers, epsecially in this locality. In addition to the annual meeting of the United States Golf Association, to be held in New York the latter part of the month, both of the New Jersey bodies are to hold their meetings. Secretary Reimund's announcement of the New Jersey Association was made Tuesday, and now comes the news that the East Jersey League will meet probably within a fortnight's time.

The coming meeting of the East Jersey League will be of importance in that a change in membership is likely to result. It is said that the Forest Hill Field Club in contemplating dropping out, and should this take place the vacancy will be at once filled, as the South Orange Field Club is desirous of gaining membership.

There is also another club anxious to join the league, which may cause food for considerable debating at the coming meeting, for the wish is to restrict the membership to five clubs, if possible.

With more than five clubs the team circuit championship series could be made to a certain extent unwieldly. Past experience has proven the five-club circuit to be the most satisfactory.

FORESTERS JUBILEE.

Big Time at Cranford is To be Repeated Here Soon.

Dr. H. H. Lowrie, of this city, high chief ranger, assisted in the installation of 156 candidates into the Independent Order of Forresters at a gathering in Newark, Wednesday evening. The horses are each six years old, dapple gray, and the combined weight is 2,900. They were known as the finest team in Northampton county, Pa., and probably sold for $900."

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

There is in the office of W. A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, an old-fashioned arm chair. A friend of the former Judge made him a call a few days and was attracted by the odd piece of furniture, it being in contrast with the other pieces of modern pieces of furniture that occupy the room. Mr. Coddington replied, in answer to a query as to whether the chair was an heir-loom, that he prized the chair highly and would not part with it for anything. When asked why he considered it so valuable, the genial lawyer replied that it was the first chair he owned immediately after he began the practice of law. It has always occupied a prominent position in his office and besides it is one of the most comfortable chairs in his office.

Safeguards against liability for damages are sought all the time by railway officials, who know that the public sues on the slightest provocation. The gates at crossings protect the company as well as the people. One leading road gave the most illustrious attorney in Pennsylvania a good many thousand dollars to write a crossing sign that in itself would non-suit any claim for damages arising from accident where the sign might be displayed. The lawyer figured out a sign reading:

RAILWAY CROSSING.
STOP, LOOK AND LISTEN.

No legal flaw has ever been found in this sign, and it renders the company using it practically immune from paying for broken limbs and crushed-out lives. The wording has been patented, and other roads, failing to invent a better warning for their crossings, have to pay big money to use the one the attorney wrote.

Royal Arcanum Whist Club.

There will be an important meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, this evening, when the question of forming a Royal Arcanum Whist Club will be discussed. Arthur A. Freeman has consented to take charge of the club. A full attendance of members is earnestly requested.

There will be a regular meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association Thursday evening, February 13, when matters pertaining to the approaching State convention will be discussed.

EXTENT OF LIBRARY INTERESTS OF JERSEY

Summed Up in Annual Report of New Jersey Public Library Commission.

SOON TO BE PUBLISHED.

THERE ARE THIS YEAR 1,597 LIBRARIES IN THE STATE OF NEW JERSEY.

Of That Number 1,495 Are Free School Libraries Purchased Under Provisions of New School Law.

With one of the finest libraries for a city of its size in the State and some talk of the organiztion of another in North Plainfield, the report of the New Jersey public library commission is of interest. The report, which will be published in a few days, gives an account of the work of the commission for the past year, together with some interesting observations as to the conditions among the libraries of the State and observations as to their future management and control.

The statistical table prepared for the commision's hand book is also submitted as a part of the report and shows, for the first time, the extent of New Jersey's library interests. With the exception of about half a dozen seminary and preparatory school libraries, which declined to answer requests for information, the table contains all of the libraries of the state of the existence of which knowledge could be obtained by persistent inquiry.

Besides the 102 libraries named, the commission has been informed at the offices of the superintendent of public instruction that there are 1,495 free school libraries in the State, purchased under the provision of the school law, which grants financial aid for the purpose in cases where the schools have raised a certain amount of money. There are also about twenty-five teachers' libraries formed under a similar provision.

"In preparing the library laws for publication," says the report, 'it became apparent that there were many conflicting and superfluous provisions. No attempt was made to simplify or reconcile these, the purpose being to present in their entirety the laws on the subject."

The work of the past year shows a growing interest in the subject of libraries and in commenting upon what has been accomplished the report says:

"During the past year the new public libraries at Jersey City, Newark and Hackensack have been finished and occupied; a large addition has been made to that at Paterson; in Trenton a new public library is being erected at a cost of over $100,000 for the building and site, and it will be ready for use early in the new year with nearly 20,000 volumes. Vineland has voted to accept the provisions of the law and has organized a library of more than 2,000 volumes, which are kept in a room set apart for library purposes in the city hall.

"Freehold, Branchville and Fair Haven have recently organized libraries, and Phillipsburg is considering the establishment of one. East Rutherford opened a new library September 24, the necessary funds having been raised by a fair held for the library's benefit last winter.

"The fear of political interference, it is needless to say, is groundless. In Jersey City, Newark, Paterson, Passaic, New Brunswick, Trenton, Hoboken and other cities there has been no such experience. And though there would undoubtedly be a change in management, the appointing power, it has been found, is very willing to designate as trustees those who are interested and experienced in library management.

"According to reports made to the commission some of these subscription libraries are but little used, are rarely opened to the public and are unprovided with the means of maintaining the institutions. The commissioners feel that they will be doing quite as efficient work in revivifying some of these established libraries as in establishing new ones."

The total number of books and pamphlets in all of the public and semi-public libraries in the State will probably reach 1,200,000. Sunday-school libraries are not included in this estimate. Fifty-two of the 102 libraries reporting are free and 38 subscription, and of the 88 cities and towns in which libraries are located 76 have libraries in the public schools also.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The State treasurer question has been settled by the caucus of the Republican members of the Legislature. By the closest possible vote Mr. Briggs won the contest, receiving thirty-two votes to Senator Reed's thirty-one. The majority of one was not "as deep as a well nor as wide as a barn door," but it was enough. It is to be hoped that the contest will leave no hard feelings, but there is fear that it will. That Mercer county will feel the effect to a greater or lesser degree can hardly be doubted.—Elizabeth Journal.

The defeat of Senator Reed for State treasurer by the narrow margin of a single vote was aggravating, to say the least. He had the support of all the Senators except McCarter, and he felt sure of his election up to the time of entering the caucus. But the opposing forces were too much for the managers of his campaign, and Senator Reed will now have no weightier matters on his hands in Trenton than to represent Somerset county. Had he been elected he would probably have served out his time as Senator and then assumed his new duties. The Trenton True American suggests that Senator Reed will now be the candidate of the Hancock-Gummere faction for member of Congress from this district. But the Senator denies any such aspirations.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

Just why the State should spend money for an executive mansion is hard to understand. A bill calling for an appropriation for that purpose is up before the Legislature at the present session. It contemplates buying the Green residence and grounds, closing a street and tearing down a block of buildings. Extensive improvements will have to be made, landscape gardeners put to work and ornamental bridges built. All this will be done at a large cost to the treasury, and it is impossible to see any need that warrants the expenditure.

The capital city is within a few hours' journey of any part of the State. Not one governor in ten would care to move his household thither or to live there at all. Governors in former times have found it no hardship to journey to Trenton when their services were required at the State house. No doubt New Jersey can afford to buy clothes that she does not often wear, but the spare change in the treasury might better be spent for other purposes. The Executive Mansion bill ought to be turned down.—Newark News.

The proposed amendments to the road law increasing the appropriation from $150,000 a year to $250,000, and at the same time increasing the proportion that the State shall pay towards the construction of these roads comes with rather bad grace from the only county in the State that has never taken advantage of the State's generosity in this line.

Other counties have built miles of stone roads and received the State help, and now Hunterdon county, before beginning such work, asks the State to increase its quota.

With the increasing demand upon the State treasury under this law, we believe it would be good policy to increase the appropriation, but until the increase can be made very material it would be better to keep the proportion down to that already fixed. To follow out Mr. Loudenburger's views would be to increase the State's appropriation without building any more roads. We doubt the expediency also, of permitting an issue of bonds to construct roads under this law by boards of freeholders. It opens the door to too many abuses.

We believe that the only change needed in the present law is the one suggested by Governor Murphy to increase the appropriation. The State can afford to do this, and it is a direct benefit to the farming communities. The farmers failed to comprehend this at first, but they fully realize it now.—Somerville Unionist-Gazette.

No Serious Results.

It is a noteworthy fact that notwithstanding the large number of persons vaccinated during the past few weeks, there has been no serious results therefrom, as some people predicted there would be. Nearly everyone so treated has recovered from the effects of the virus and the majority of people vaccinated are now glad that the operation was performed.

CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY

TITLE SELECTED FOR S. D. DRAKE'S NEW ENTERPRISE.

Directors Will be Plainfield Men, it is Said—Also Some Trenton Capital.

The Central Trust Company is the designation to be given the proposed new trust company to be started in this city. The board of directors, it is said, will be selected from the number of prominent business men here.

S. D. Drake, who is engineering the scheme, says that some Trenton capitalists are interested in the project and that they will subscribe for a good share of the stock. The entire capital of the concern will be $110,000. The par value of a share will be $110. It is proposed to have Plainfielders invest $60,000 in the company and the remainder of the stock will be taken by the Trenton people. This it is planned will give the control of the institution to Plainfielders, so that there will be no successful interference on the part of non-residents.

As yet no site has been selected for the proposed institution, but in all likelihood it will be situated on Front street. There will be eleven directors in the concern, and the officers of the company will be men in this city. Mr. Drake declares that the company will be doing business by April 1. It is planned to have the institution pay three per cent on all deposits.

TALK OF BIG SHOPS FOR LEHIGH VALLEY

Rumors Are That Canda Property, Near Carteret, is to be the Location of Them.

CAUSE OF THE TALK.

NEW JERSEY TERMINAL RAILROAD IS TRYING TO REACH THE WORKS.

Suit Pending in Court of Chancery to Determine How Terminal Company Shall Cross Tracks of Another Company.

There is a suit pending in the Court of Chancery between the New Jersey Terminal Railroad Company and the Carteret and Sewaren Railroad Company, which has for its object the determination by the court of how and on what terms the New Jersey Railroad Company shall cross with its tracks the tracks of the Carteret and Sewaren Railroad Company.

The proposed crossing is on what is known as the Canda property, near Carteret. The N. J. Terminal Raiload Company, which filed its certificate of incorporation with the Secretary of State, November 2, and at the same time filed a map of its proposed route, which shows that it intends to run a railroad from a point on the Pennsylvania Railroad near the reformatory at Rahway to a point near the Arthur Kill adjacent to Carteret, has been very careful to keep its backing and its real plans a secret.

The Canda plant was sold out to the American Car and Foundry Company, the car trust, eight years ago.

Work at the Canda shops was then stopped by the trust. It did not take possession of the plant, nor did it remove or destroy it. Everything is just as it was nearly eight years ago, when the fires were banked. The machinery in the buildings has not suffered. It is in as good condition today as it was when last used.

The New Jersey Terminal Railroad is going to the Canda property, and for the purpose, it is alleged, of establishing there a large railroad repair plant. It is rumored, and the rumor comes from a good source, that the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company has secured possession of the works and the property surrounding the shops, and that it will convert the Canda tract into a repair plant such as the Pennsylvania Railroad Company maintains on the Hackensack meadows and the Erie Railroad maintains at West End.

The Lehigh Valley already has extensive connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and it could run its cars over that line to Rahway and thence over the new railroad to the shops.

At present the main repair shop of the Lehigh Valley Company is at the other end of its line. The need of extensive car shops near the New York terminus, where the rolling stock can be overhauled and repaired, is pressing, it is said, and the company has been planning for some time to establish shops in this vicinity.

In the Canda property it has secured a plant ready made and in condition for immediate use. All that will be required when the tracks of the New Jersey Terminal Railroad Company have been laid will be to open the doors of the eight large shops, rub down and oil the machinery and build fires. Everything is in readiness for the resumption of work at the shops. In addition to the car shops there is land enough to make a large yard for the storage of coal and freight cars and the establishment of immense coal pockets. The Lehigh Valley already has extensive connections with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and it could run its cars over that line to Rahway and thence over the new railroad to the shops. Perhaps this is the explanation of the Terminal Railroad Company about which its incorporators will say nothing.

ANOTHER ELECTION LAW.

Instead of repealing the Meeker Election law, which abolished the spring elections in the cities of the State, there is fair prospect that the Legislature will extend the scope of the movement this winter so as to include all the municipalities of the State, without regard to size or class. A bill to this effect will be introduced by Assemblyman Holman, of Ocean county, at today's session of the Legislature.

If last year's November election was any criterion of the way in which the Meeker law is going to work, then there can be not doubt about its success. Despite the claims that the consolidation of State and municipal elections would tend to draw party lines more strict in city elections, there has never been an election in New Jersey when the voting for city officials has been so independent and on such strictly local issues. This was the case, almost without exception, throughout the State.

In Plainfield, it did not appear that the State ticket carried the local one through to victory. While both Republican tickets were successful here, there was an unusual amount of cutting on both sides and the vote on city and county officers was remarkably different when compared by election districts. The strength of the campaign in behalf of Col. Mason W. Tyler will be remembered. It was strongest in that part of the city which, on the State and county ticket, gave the Republican candidates the largest pluralities in Plainfield. In the vote for councilmen, the same thing was equally evident.

Assemblyman Holman's bill, which is scheduled to make its appearance today, designs to extend the consolidation of elections to all the municipalities in the State. That the bill will have considerable strength is well known. It is a question, however, whether the opposition from some of the rural counties can be overcome. The successful operation of the Meeker act will undoubtedly help. There appears to be no good reason why the principle should not be just as successful in the smaller municipalities as in the cities while the change is bound to result in a large saving to the people of the State in more ways than one.

The grand work done here by the Christian Endeavor Societies of the local churches has long been the subject for general satisfaction among the Christian workers of this city. It has been considered that the Endeavorers have been one of the strongest Christian organizations in the State. The criticism in The Presbyterian, the official organ of the Presbyterian church, of that society is a general surprise. The Presbyterian prints an editorial in which it declares that the Christian Endeavor Society is an excellent thing theoretically but that, practically, it has made a poor showing. As far as Plainfield is concerned, it would look as if the reverse was the case.

The largest retail shoe dealer in New York is also the largest shoe advertiser, says the Philadelphia Record. Recently he said to a representative of Printers' Ink: "We have used magazines and we have tried outdoor display, but we have withdrawn from these and other kinds of advertising in order to expend our appropriation on the daily newspapers."

The general impression prevailed that the raise in Street Commissioner Gavett's salary was coming out of an increase in the annual appropriation for streets. As a matter of fact, however, the increase is given on account of his added labors at the city disposal works and the added salary will come out of the money appropriated for sewers and disposal plant.

It ill becomes Hunterdon county to ask that the State pay half the cost of macadam roads hereafter. There is no reason why Hunterdon county should receive any more assistance than have the counties which have been in the road building business for many years.

Readers of The Daily Press will find local news on page three today. Local news is now always printed on page two and it frequently happens that the press of advertising makes it necessary to devote a portion of the third page to the local news.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure. Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

DIED WHILE ON A VISIT

MRS. MARY MAHONEY, OF BROOKLYN, STRICKEN AT SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Taken Ill While Going to the Train—Was Carried Back to Home of Robert Horn and Died.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

South Plainfield, Feb. 10—Mrs. Mary Mahoney, of Brooklyn, died suddenly, last evening, at the home of Robert Horn, where she had been spending the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Mahoney and daughter, ten years of age, came out from Brooklyn, yesterday morning, to spend the day with Mrs. Robert Horn, who is a sister-in-law of Mrs. Mahoney. After a very pleasant visit, and no premonition of the impending calamity, the party, in company with Mr. Horn, went to the Lehigh Valley Railroad depot, which is but a few hundred yards distant.

The weather was chilly and consequently Mrs. Mahoney walked rather rapidly. When she stopped at the railroad crossing to wait for a train to pass she was nearly exhausted and complained to Mr. Horn, upon whose arm she leaned, that she was out of breath. Accordingly they walked around the train but the stricken woman was rapidly becoming worse and sank down upon a near-by baggage truck.

As her condition continued to become more serious, a stretcher was called into service, and she was conveyed to the house which she had just left.

A telephone call was sent to Dr. W. Kempton Browning, of Plainfield, but before his arrival the attack had become fatal and Mrs. Mahoney expired at 8 o'clock. It is thought that heart disease was the cause of the death.

Remember the Benefit.

Remember the benefit of the High School Athletic Association at the Casino tomorrow night, on which occasion the boys present as an attraction, Wellington Putnam, impersonator and reader. It is considerable of an undertaking for an entertainer to furnish an entire evening's programme which will hold the attention of an audience, but this is what Mr. Putnam does, and his success has been astonishing. He will tomorrow night impersonate the several characters of Stephen Phillips' great drama of "Herod," and Wm. Dean Howell's sketch, "The Albany Depot."

Talk on "Palestine."

A special missionary meeting will be held in Warren chapel Thursday evening. The meeting will be under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. A. V. D. Honeyman will give a talk on "Palestine" and there will be instrmental and vocal musical features. The affair will be held in the interests of the work of the city missionary, E. R. Taylor.

Services by a Porto Rican.

The services at the Salvation Army, yesterday and Saturday evening, were led by Henry DeFano, the only native Porto Rican in the organization. He is an energetic worker and speaker and related many of his experiences in an entertaining way. He left this morning for New York where he is to conduct large meetings.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." A TEN MILLION BLAZE

Paterson, N. J., Desolated by the Fire Fiend.

ONE THOUSAND FAMILIES HOMELESS.

Public Buildings, Churches, Banks, Newspaper Offices and Business Blocks In Ruins—Fire Fighters of Many Cities Baffled.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 10.—A great fire has swept through Paterson, and in its desolate wake are the embers and ashes of property valued in preliminary estimates at $10,000,000. It burned its way through the business section of the city and claimed as its own a majority of the finer structures devoted to commercial, civic, educational and religious use as well as scores of houses. There was but small tribute of life and injury to the conflagration, but hundreds were left homeless and thousands without employment.

A relief movement for the care of those unsheltered and unprovided for has already been organized, and Mayor John Hinchcliffe said that Paterson would be able to care for her own without appealing to the charity of other communities and states. The great manufacturing plants of the place are safe, and the community temporarily dazed by the calamity has already commenced the work of reorganization and restoration.

The fire came at midnight and was only checked after a desperate fight that lasted until late Sunday afternoon. Every city and town within reach of Paterson sent firemen and apparatus to the relief of the threatened city, and it took the united efforts of them all to win the battle. A northerly gale gave the conflagration its impetus and carried its burning brands to kindle the blaze afresh at other points. The firemen made stand after stand before the wall of fire, but were repeatedly driven back, and when victory came to them they were grimed and exhausted.

A partial list of the properties destroyed is as follows:

Public Buildings.—City hall, Public library, old city hall, police station, No. 1 engine house, patrol stables, high school and school No. 15.

Churches.—First Baptist, Second Presbyterian, Park Avenue Baptist, St. Mark's Episcopal and St. Joseph's Roman Catholic.

Banks.—First National, Second National (partially), Paterson National, Silk City Trust, Hamilton Trust and Paterson Trust.

Clubhouses.—Young Men's Christian association, Knights of Columbus, Progress club, St. Joseph's hall and Hamilton club.

Office Buildings.—Romaine building, Katz building, Marshall & Ball's, Cohn building, Old Town Clock, Old Kinne building and Stevenson building.

Telegraph Companies.—Western Union and Postal Telegraph.

Theater.—The Garden.

Newspapers.—The Evening News and Sunday Chronicle.

Stores.—Quackenbush & Co., dry goods; Boston store, dry goods; Globe store, dry goods; National Clothing company, Kent's drug store, Kinsilla's drug store, Muzzy's hardware and general merchandise, Marshall & Ball, clothiers; John Norwood, paints; Oberg's grocery, Wertendyke's grocery, P. H. & W. G. Shields, grocers; "The Paterson," dry goods; Jordan's piano store, Sauter & Co., pianos; Feder & McNair, shoes; Zendler's confectionery, Lappin's tea store, Ragowski's millinery, Brohal & Mueller, shoes; C. E. Beach, automobiles; Morehead & Son, clothiers; Paterson Gas and Electric company, Skye's drug store and Mackintosh drug store.

An estimate made from a general inspection of the smoldering ruins placed the number of dwellings and apartment houses destroyed at 500 and the number of families left without shelter at 1,000. A re-estimate when order succeeds confusion may alter these figures.

The fire began its work of far-reaching destruction at the power house of the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson Traction company, which fronted on Broadway and extended a block to the rear on Van Houten street. It was in the car shed that it commenced, and it was burning fiercely when one of the employees detected it. It was leaping through the roof, and the gale was lifting it in forks and swirls when the fire apparatus came clanging into Broadway, Main and Van Houten streets. The firemen tried to hem it in, but it speedily crossed Van Houten street in one direction, Main street in another and, gaining vigor as it went, burned unchecked down into the business district.

What started the fire is not certain, but it is thought one of the feed wires running into the car barns was responsible. From the car barns the flames leaped to other buildings close by, and these were burned before the first call firemen reached the scene. Inside of two hours the fire reached Main street. This was the critical point of the fire. The firemen sought to hold it and failed.

From Main street to Paterson street, between Van Houten and Market streets, there is but little left. On the block bounded by Main, Washington and Market streets not a single building, excepting that of the Paterson Savings institution, stands. All along the west side of Main street property is wiped out and on the east side also from Market to Van Houten streets.

Along the south side of Broadway, between Washington and Church streets, great damage has been done.

Van Houten street is reduced to smoldering debris, so far as buildings are concerned, for some distance.

Ellison street suffered from the neighborhood of Prospect street, on its north side, as far as Church street. On the south side of this street there is widespread ruin from a short distance west of Main street to the parsonage of the Second Presbyterian church, near Paterson street.

Market street is a pile of ruins from Main street to the Market Street church on the north side and on the south side.

Nowhere was the scene of devastation more marked than north of the Erie railroad, in the district bounded by Sixteenth avenue and Market street. There was simply nothing but ashes left to tell that a busy and populous section of the city had ever existed.

On Washington street between Broadway and Market street there is practically nothing left.

Church street is wiped out on its west side between Ellison and Market streets, as it is on the east side.

It was in its newest and best built portions that Paterson suffered, though some of the property which now lies in blackened heaps had an interest which came with age and usage.

Neither the home of John W. Griggs, formerly attorney general of the United States, nor that of Mrs. Garret A. Hobart, widow of Vice President Hobart, was harmed by the fire, both being well out of the path the flames took.

Scores of persons were hurt and burned, but the loss of life is not thought to be great. There are many persons supposed to be missing, but in the excitement and fright most of these are supposed to be separated from their families and friends. Until order is brought out of the chaos which existed here nothing definite can be known.

ELEVEN BURNED TO DEATH.

St. Louis Lodging House Destroyed, With Many Inmates.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10.—An early morning fire which destroyed the Empire hotel, a large three story lodging house at 2700 and 2702 Olive street, occupied by men exclusively, caused the death of eleven persons, ten men and one woman, and dangerously injured eight others. Ten or more who had narrow escapes from death in the fire were more or less injured by being frostbitten. It is estimated that there were between thirty-five and forty persons in the building at the time, and it is believed all have been accounted for. The financial loss is nominal. It is thought that $20,000 will cover the damage to the building and contents, which were totally destroyed.

The fire started about 3:30 a. m., when but few persons were abroad, and gained considerable headway before it was discovered and the alarm given. There was considerable delay in turning in an alarm, and when the engines finally reached the scene the whole front of the building was in flames and the interior was a seething furnace. By that time all who escaped death had got out of the building by jumping from the windows or climbing down ropes made of bedclothes. A few escaped from the ground floor through the front door. Some of the escapes were very narrow.

Tents For Fire Sufferers.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 10.—Quartermaster General Donnelly, in response to an appeal from Mayor Hinchliffe, has sent to Paterson by special train a great quantity of tents, blankets and other camp equipments for use to relieve the condition caused by the big fire in that city. Orders were issued from the adjutant general's office calling out the Paterson battalion of the national guard to do patrol duty and otherwise assist in meeting emergencies that might necessitate their assistance. The battalion was placed under command of Colonel Campbell of the First regiment.

Lehigh Freight Piers Burned.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—Fire started in the freight piers of the Lehigh Valley railroad, Jersey City, entailing a loss roughly estimated at from $600,000 to $700,000. Two piers, two warehouses and about a thousand barrels of flour were destroyed. The Lehigh piers are situated just between the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Central railroad stations. A high wind was blowing, and it was a hard fight to confine the flames to the Lehigh property.

Costly Fire In Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—An official estimate of the damage done by the fire which destroyed the plant of the Shadbolt Manufacturing company in Brooklyn fixed the loss at $300,000. Fourteen people were injured and taken to the hospitals, and a number of others were attended by ambulance physicians on the spot.

Storm In Western New York.

BUFFALO, Feb. 10.—Chautauqua county has again been the storm center of western New York. Reports received indicate that the blizzard was the worst of a week of remarkable storms. It took a train from 4:30 Saturday afternoon until 3:30 Sunday afternoon to cover the sixty-eight miles between Jamestown and Buffalo, over the Buffalo and Southwestern railroad.

Georgia Town Fire Swept.

ELBERTON, Ga., Feb. 10.—A fire here has destroyed nearly all of the business section of this place, doing damage which is estimated at $100,000. The city has no fire protection, and the bucket brigades formed by citizens were of no avail in a temperature of 20 degrees and a high wind.

Cancer Germs Produced.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—According to the Calcutta correspondent of The Daily Mail, the Indian Medical Gazette announces that Dr. Rost of the Indian medical service has successfully cultivated cancer and has infected a guinea pig with his culture.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

CHAPTER IX.

At the moment that I saw Hayle enter my room, you might, as the saying goes, have knocked me down with a feather. Of all that could possibly have happened, this was surely the most unexpected! The man had endeavored to get me out of his way in London, he had played all sorts of tricks upon me in order to put me off the scent, he had bolted from England because he knew I was searching for him, yet here he was deliberately seeking me out, and of his own free will putting his head into the lion's mouth. It was as astonishing as it was inexplicable.

"Good morning, Mr. Fairfax," he said, bowing most politely to me as he spoke. "I hope you will forgive this early call. I only discovered your address an hour ago, and, as I did not wish to run the risk of losing you, I came on at once."

"You appeared to be fairly desirous of doing so last week," I said. "What has occurred to make you change your mind so suddenly?"

"A variety of circumstances have conspired to bring such a result about," he answered. "I have been thinking the matter over, and not being able to determine the benefit of this hole-and-corner sort of game, I have made up my mind to settle it once and for all."

"I am glad you have come to that way of thinking," I said. "It will save us both an infinity of trouble. You understand, of course, that I represent Messrs. Kitwater and Codd."

"I am well aware of it," he replied, "and in common fairness to myself, I can only say that I am sorry to hear it."

"May I ask why you are sorry?"

"Because you have the honor to represent the biggest pair of scoundrels unhung," he answered. "And in saying this I pledge you my word that I am by no means overstepping the mark. I have known them both for a great many years, and can, therefore, speak from experience."

Before going further with him I was desirous of convincing myself upon the point.

"You knew them, then, when they were missionaries in China, I suppose?"

"That's the first time I have ever heard what they were," he replied. "Kitwater a missionary! You must forgive my laughing, but the idea is too ludicrous. I'll admit he's done a considerable amount of converting, but it has been converting other people's money into his own pockets."

He laughed at his own bad joke, and almost instantly grew serious once more. He was quite at his ease, and, though he must have known that I was familiar with the story, or supposed story, of his villainy, seemed in no way ashamed.

"Now, Mr. Fairfax," he went on, "I know that you are surprised to see me this morning, but I don't think you will be when we have had a little talk together. First and foremost, you have been told the story of the stones I possess?"

"I have heard Mr. Kitwater's version of it," I answered, cautiously. "I know that you robbed my clients of them and then disappeared!"

"I did not rob them of the stones," he said, not in the least offended by the bluntness of my speech. "It is plain that you do not know how we obtained them. Perhaps it's as well that you should not, for there's more behind, and you'd go and get them. No! We obtained them honestly enough at a certain place, and I was appointed to carry them. For this reason I secured them in a belt about my waist. That night the Chinese came down upon us and made us prisoners. They murdered our two native servants, blinded Kitwater, and cut out Codd's tongue. I alone managed to effect my escape. Leaving my two companions for dead, I managed to get away into the jungle. Good heavens! man, you can't imagine what I suffered after that."

I looked at him and saw that his face had grown pale at the mere recollection of his experiences.

"At last I reached the British outpost of Nampoung, on the Burmah-Chinese border, where the officers took me in and played the part of the good Samaritan. When I was well enough to travel, I made my way down to Rangoon, where, still believing my late companions to be dead, I shipped for England."

"As Mr. George Bertram," I said, quietly. "Why under an assumed name, when, according to your story, you had nothing to fear?"

"Because I had good and sufficient reason for so doing," he replied. "You must remember that I had a quarter of a million's worth of precious stones in my possession, and, well, to put it bluntly, up to that time I had been living what you might call a make-shift sort of life. For the future I told myself I was going to be a rich man. That being so, I wanted to start with a clean sheet. You can scarcely blame me!"

I did not answer him on this point, but continued my cross-examination.

"You reached London, and sold some of the stones there, later on you disposed of some more in Amsterdam. Why did you refuse the dealers your name and address?"

Once more he was quite equal to the occasion.

"Because if I had told them, everybody would have to know it, and, to be perfectly frank with you, I could not feel quite certain that Kitwater and Codd were really dead."

"By that I am to presume that you intended, if possible, to swindle them out of their share?" I asked, not a little surprised by his admission.

"Once more, to be frank with you, I did. I have no desire to be rude, but I rather fancy you would have done the same had you been similarly situated. I never was much of a success in the moral business."

I could well believe this, but I did not tell him so.

"When did you first become aware that they were in London?"

"On the day that they landed," he answered. "I watched every ship that came in from Rangoon, and at last had the doubtful satisfaction of seeing my two old friends pass out of the dock-gates. Poor beggars, they had indeed had a hard time of it."

"Then you could pity them? Even while you were robbing them?"

"Why not?" he answered. "There was no reason because I had the stones that I should not feel sorry for the pain they had suffered. I had to remember how near I'd been to it myself."

This speech sounded very pretty, though somewhat illogical.

"And pray how did you know that they had called in my assistance?"

"Because I kept my eyes on them. I knew Mr. Kitwater of old, you see. I watched them go into your office and come out from a shop on the other side of the street."

The whole mystery was now explained. What an amount of trouble I should have been spared had I only known this before.

"You did not approve, then, of my being imported into the case?"

"I distinctly disapproved," he answered. "I knew your reputation, of course, and I began to see that if you took up their case for them I should in all probability have to [illegible]

Dogs in Mississippi.

The supreme court of the state holds that a dog is not of pecuniary value, and therefore when he is killed by the railroad the party is not entitled to recover damages. The case which brought forth this interesting statement from the court was that of W. R. Holliday vs. the Mobile & Ohio railroad. Holliday lived at Prairie station, on that road, and owned a dog of uncertain breed, which one day strayed from its home, got on the right of way of the defendant company and was run over by a freight train. Holliday brought suit in the lower court and obtained a judgment against the road in the sum of $100. The supreme court reversed the case. Justice Calhoun, in delivering the opinion of the court, said that a dog was an agile creature, and it could get out of the way of a railroad train, and then the court held besides that the majority of dogs had no pecuniary value whatever. The court held that dogs could not be allowed to interfere with the arteries of commerce, and that the man was not entitled to recover.—Vicksburg Herald.

His Strenuous Remarks.

The elevated train came to a stop at Scollay square with such suddenness that an old man with a silk hat and three bundles, was hurled down the aisle as if from a catapult. The bundles and the hat took various directions, but the old man brought up against a stout young woman, who promptly measured her length upon the floor.

The young woman picked herself up The old man said as he groped about for his bundles: "I—confound it—know it—confound it—couldn't help myself—confound it. Then as he left the car he glared at the guard and indulged in his final outburst: "Confound it all, I say!"

A man seated in the car said to his neighbor: "The old fellow is a church member." "Perhaps," was the reply, "but he put a good deal of expression into his words."—Boston Herald.

A Homeless Community.

Some people live in New York, others exist. It is certain that a majority of our citizens never owned a home. They live in rented flats or houses all their lives, and do not know the meaning of possession. Many millionaires dwell in hired residences. Their homes are in other states, but they must be in Fifth avenue during the social season, and they must keep house. Philadelphia has been spoken of as a "community of homes." New York is a community of rents. More than half of our people don't know what it is to pay taxes. Their obligations of citizenship are settled by the landlord, who takes everything out in the rent. We are becoming a characterless mob.—N. Y. Press.

IS HOLDING HIS OWN

Young Roosevelt's Condition Not Causing Alarm.

THE PRESIDENT AT SON'S BEDSIDE.

The Lad Greets His Father Cheerily Upon Arrival—Four Cases of Pneumonia in Groton School—One Has Resulted Fatally.

GROTON, Mass., Feb. 10.—The condition of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., shows no change of any importance, and it is probable in the nature of the illness that it will be several days or more before the outcome will be apparent.

Although President Roosevelt upon his arrival at the Groton school did not find his son Theodore alarmingly ill with pneumonia, still the lad's condition was not sufficiently reassuring to warrant the president's immediate return to the national capital. His boy, with two schoolmates, Horace B. Porter of New York and William Gammell of Providence, both having pneumonia, lie in large airy rooms on the second floor of the college infirmary. Mrs. Roosevelt has been with her son for two days. The boy greeted his father cheerily upon his arrival. Absolute quietness reigns. The school has been dismissed, and the 150 boys have scattered to their homes upon an enforced vacation.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, JR.

All the sick boys are having the best medical attention and nursing, and everything is being done to bring them back to health. The president's stay here is indefinite.

The president arrived here at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon after an uneventful trip of fourteen hours from Washington. He came on the private car Rambler, arriving in Jersey City soon after 7 a. m. The car was immediately transferred by boat across the Harlem river and left Mott Haven as a special train at 8:20 a. m. A stop was made at New Haven, where a dispatch was handed to the president stating that the boy's condition was encouraging. No other stops were made until Providence was reached, where there was a slight delay on account of an accident to the engine. The train pulled into the South station in Boston at 12:45 p. m., but was immediately hauled out from the station and around the city through Cambridge to the Grand Junction station of the Boston and Maine railroad. The run from Boston to Ayer Junction was made in a little over forty minutes, and there the car was transferred to the Worcester, Nashua and Rochester division of this road, the train arriving in Groton at 2:30.

It appears that quite a number of boys have contracted colds during the past three or four weeks, probably from strenuous exercise and lack of caution afterward. It is said that it has been the habit of some of them to play handball in the closed court and then while perspiring freely to dash across the campus to the gymnasium clad only in the lightest of clothes. Only four, however, contracted pneumonia, although one case resulted fatally, that of Edward Hodges, who died here about ten days since.

Blizzard In Western Pennsylvania.

CORRY, Pa., Feb. 10.—All travel has been abandoned between Oil City and Brocton, on the Chautauqua division of the Pennsylvania railroad. The blizzard is the worst in this section's history. Train No. 3 lay all night in a huge drift at Summit, and yesterday morning food was carried to the imprisoned passengers. The officials abandoned hope of moving trains and have decided to run through trains from Brocton to Ashtabula via the Lake Shore. The Dunkirk division of the Erie, also the Dunkirk, Alleghany Valley and Pittsburg division of the Lake Shore are blocked, and no trains are moving.

Hindoo Twins Cut In Twain.

PARIS, Feb. 10.—The Hindoo twins, Radica and Dordica, who were united in a manner similar to the Siamese twins, who were exhibited throughout the world, have been separated by Dr. Doyon. The operation lasted twenty minutes and was entirely successful, but owing to the weak condition of the patients, due to the illness of one of the twins, who has been suffering from thrush, the final result of the operation is still doubtful.

Steamer on the Rocks.

HALIFAX, N. S., Feb. 10.—The Allan line steamer Grecian, Captain Harrison, from Liverpool via St. John's, N. F., is upon the rocks on the western shore five miles from this city and now has water in her fore and after holds, with the engine room free. Her position, however, is a very bad one. She had on board one passenger, Mr. John Blair of St. John's, who has been landed, and 300 tons of cargo, part of which has been taken out.

MUCH ROAD BUILDING DONE IN THIS STATE

Summary of the Year's Work In Behalf of Good Roads For Jersey.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

IN ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMISSIONER OF PUBLIC ROADS.

Was Assisted in Preparation by State Supervisor of Roads R. A. Meeker, of Plainfield—Some Very Interesting Facts.

Something of interest to every resident of the State will be contained in the eighth annual report of Commissioner of Public Roads Henry I. Budd, of Mount Holly, which is to be submitted soon. It will be especially interesting to Plainfielders inasmuch as the greater part of it is relative to work planned and directed by Street Supervisor of Roads Robert A. Meeker, of this city.

The report will show that more good road building has been accompilshed throughout the State during the past year year than any previous similar length of time. This is partly due to the privileges allowed counties and townships under the recently enacted State Aid law. By its provisions, if freeholders or township committeemen decide to build a road with either stone, gravel or oyster shells, they cause a survey of the thoroughfare to be made and plans and specifications to be prepared. They are afterward submitted to the State commissioner of public roads and if they meet with his approval, the projectors will receive one third the cost of construction from the money appropriated by the State for that purpose At present this amount is to $150,000 per annum.

In Mr. Budd's report the statement is made that during the past year there have been built and paid for, 109 miles of macadam and gravel road. In the northern part all have been constructed of macadam while the southern sections have mostly gravel. The latter is placed in the same manner as macadam and is made thoroughly compact. It varies in thickness from six to ten inches.

There have also been built under the State Aid law about eight miles of shell road. These have been constructed in Salem county which has no other available material. Oyster shells are brought in large quantities in Philadelphia and are applied to the roads in much the same manner as broken stone or gravel. Although not as good as stone, it answers every purpose and accommodates the traffic.

The great object in view of this department of the State is the building of continuous lines of road, the entire length and breadth of the State. In accordance with this plan the State commissioners have a continuous line of stone road from Lake Hopatcong, through Morristown, Bernardsville and Somerville. There is now building a link from South Somerville to connect with the road already constructed at Belle Mead. It is intended some time in the near future to continue this road to Princeton where it will connect with the macadam turnpike to Trenton, thus giving a continuous line from the lake to the capital of the State.

In the other direction, from east to west, there has been completed a macadam road from Newark, through Elizabeth, Rahway, Metuchen, New Brunwick, Deans, Cranbury and Hightstown to Trenton. The connecting stretch just east of Trenton was completed this year.

Another good move last year was the continuing of the Paterson and Hamburg turnpike, running west from Paterson to Pompton and on to Newfoundland. At Chambersburg on the line of this road, the State is building a line northward through Echo Lake to West Milford. In time this road will be continued to Greenwood lake, thus giving residents of the State easy access over stone roads to its most famous inland summer resorts.

Of more local interest is the road that has just been completed from Somerville to Far Hills. This completes a circuit of fifty-two miles of macadam road, all in fine condition, as follows: Beginning at Plainfield, thence to Scotch Plains, to Springfield, to Madison, to Morristown, to Bernardsville, to Far Hills, to Pluckemin, to Somerville, to Bound Brook to Dunellen and thence to Plainfield. It is a splendid course for automobiles and as it becomes better and more widely known it will no doubt attract many drivers of the silent steed from this vicinity and the metropolitan district.

The general supervision of all this work is entrusted to Mr. Budd, assisted by Mr. Meeker, State supervisor, who is in reality, State engineer. All plans, specifications and engineering questions are referred to him for his decision. This requires him to visit all portions of the State before, during and after the completion of the work, in order to ascertain whether the State is having its roads built in accordance with the provisions and specifications; that is, whether the quantity and quality of the material for roads furnished is what it should be, in other words, that the State is getting what it pays for. This has all been accomplished by Mr. Meeker in a thorough and most satisfactory manner.

For the coming year, it is planned to construct many other important sections of road. Specifications and plans have been prepared for over 400 miles, ninety of which have already been contracted for. When all are completed the State will be gridironed with a network of thoroughfares such as will be hard to find in any other section of the country.

TO MAKE UP SHORTAGE.

Delinquent Tax Collector Cook, of Scotch Plains, Short $120 in His Accounts.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, Feb. 11—At a special meeting of the Fanwood Township committee, last evening, publicity was given to a shortage in accounts of Henry Cook who, for years, has served the township as delinquent tax collector. It had been discovered that Mr. Cook was $120 short and had failed to turn that amount over to the committee.

At a meeting last evening, which was called to take final action, Mr. Cook appeared. It was arranged that one of his bondsman should call on Miss Maggie Cook, a sister of the collector, and she would make good the shortage. This is to be done today Mr. Cook explained the shortage by saying the money was either stolen or lost. The bondsmen were Wm. Van Valkenburg and Louis Morel.

NEW CHURCH SITE.

Holy Cross Church Sold Property Bought for Another Church.

Charles A. Sebring has purchased a large tract of land at the corner of Grove street and Prospect place, from the rector, wardens and vestrymen of the Church of the Holy Cross.

The dimensions of the lot are eighty-seven by one hundred and fifty feet. Originally the plot was purchased by the congregation of the Church of the Redeemer, which was subsequently merged into the parish of the Church of the Holy Cross. When it was bought the intention was to erect an edifice there, but after the union of the two parishes took place, there was no further use for the land.

Through their counsel, Francis J. Blatz, both entered a plea of non vult. Sentence will be pronounced later. The trial of William Sweeney, of Plainfield, charged with embezzlement, was deferred until Thursday morning.

CHARITY OF NEW CENTURY

Address by President H. M. Maxson, of the Local Organized Aid Association.

GIVEN LAST EVENING.

Dr. W. H. Allen, Secretary of State Charities Aid Association, Told of the State Conference Soon to be Held at Trenton—Mr. Maxson's Discourse.

The increased interest in matters of charity was shown last evening in the large attendance of charity workers in the parlors of the Crescent Avenue church, when a meeting was held under the auspices of the Organized Aid Association. The meeting was called especially to give all presons interested an opportunity to hear President H. M. Maxson's address on "Twentieth Century Charity," and incidentally to hear Dr. William H. Allen, general secretary for the State Charities Aid Association, tell something of the coming conference of charity workers at Trenton, February 20-21.

Dr. Allen, who recently assumed his present position, seems to have already taken a firm grasp on the work in this State. The conference of charities and corrections to be held at Trenton will be the first of the kind ever held in this State. There will be many prominent speakers from Governor Murphy down, all of whom have something to do with charity enterprises. President Maxson, of the local Organized Aid Association, will give a talk on "Truancy Legislation."

The conference will discuss the abolishment of the present plan of mingling boys and girls with hardened criminals for trivial offences. The speaker said that last year there were three hundred people committed to the Union county jail who by law should not have been there on account of age, offences, etc. Dr. Allen advanced the theory that there is profit in the probation officer, who looks after persons who commit minor offences.

President Maxson then gave his address on "Twentieth Century Charity." He spoke as follows:

"We are an open-handed nation, giving millions for charity each year, but a large part of this gift does little or no good and some of it does real harm to those who receive it because, in the great majority of cases, the methods of charity are still the same as those used in the days of the stagecoach. It consists chiefly in giving material relief. In all other matters of life we have made great strides of improvement in recent years, and we ought to improve our methods in charity to correspond with our methods in business and in other matters of life.

"There are two general conditions of men: those that are honest, industrious and self-supporting, and those that, for one reason or another, are not able to win their daily bread or who are lazy, indifferent or vicious. The normal man is industrious and self-supporting. When we find a man who is dependent, we must consider him as, in a certain sense, abnormal and our effort ought not to be simply to meet his present needs, but rather to restore him to the normal condition of self-support. That is, we must look at a case of need the same as a physician looks at a person who is sick. A case of need requires a diagnosis and a prescription in order that charity may be wisely given.

"The aim of all efforts, therefore, to help those who need assistance is, first, to cure the case; and second, to care for those who are incurable in such a way that they shall be comfortable and at the same time shall not be able to increase the pauper population. The old form of charity—giving—is largely emotional and gives little consideration to cause and effect. The new charity believes in the emotion, but holds that it should be directed along carefully considered lines in order to really help the person in need.

"Indiscriminate giving simply lifts the person out of the need of today and drops him into the misery of next week. The new charity aims to raise the needy one permanently to a level where no gift is needed.

"The old charity gives temporary relief. The new charity seeks a permanent cure or a permanent provision and oversight for cases that are incurable.

"The old charity had no thought of prevention. The new charity aims to conquer pauperism by preventing the production of paupers as well as by restoring needy ones to the condition of self-support.

"The old charity has but one method of expression—giving. The new charity, aiming as it does at permanent cure, has a thousand avenues of expression in its efforts to uplift the recipient.

"To do this work wisely all charitable associations in a community must be brought together to work in unison. This gives rise to a joint society which is called by various names in various places, such as the Associated Charities, the Organized Aid Association, etc. The aim of this association is to utilize and bind together all the charitable forces of the community so that they shall work together for the highest good of all who need help. Its work is two-fold—relieving present destitution and preventing pauperism.

"In relieving it follows out four lines of work.

"First, Investigation. Before aiding a case, it is necessary to find out all the conditions of the case, its past, its present, and the prospects of the future. This is the physician's diagnosis.

"Second, Registration. The investigation must be recorded for the confidential use of all the societies and as a basis of the treatment which may run over several years.

"Third, Visitation. The case must be visited more or less frequently by a sympathetic visitor who will give the person moral support and counsel, and, it may be, personal guidance.

"Fourth, Co-operation. It must induce all the societies to co-operate and at the same time to avoid interference with each other in treating any case. Churches need the work of the Organized Aid Association as much as individuals do.

"I do not advocate the church giving up its charitable work entirely to anyone, neither do I propose a charity trust but indiscriminate giving is wasteful and injurious, whether it is done by individuals or churches. The only safe way to give aid is after a careful study of the case. Almost every church is defrauded by hypocritical persons who pretend an interest only to get something. The church should have all doubtful cases investigated and the Organized Aid has an expert worker who is glad to do this for any one free of charge. It should not surrender its case bodily to any one, but should make sure that it is not helping the same person that other churches are helping. Recently a case being helped by a church was investigated and found to be helped from seven sources, each unknown to the other. Any one of these could have found out about the case by applying to the Organized Aid.

"In its work of prevention the society aims first to reduce the outdoor relief given by the city, which, in very many cases, tends to produce pauperism. Many cities give no outdoor relief. Others have reduced it to one-tenth of what was formerly given. The society aims also to reduce pauperism by stopping indiscriminate giving. It aims to decrease the supply of paupers by having feeble minded and pauper women segregated where they cannot prepetuate their kind. It looks after the orphan and neglected children to see that they are put in good homes. It aims to improve the character of the homes of the dependent, that the children may be brought up to self-respect and self-support. It aims to secure better laws and the better housing of the working people. It strives to decrease and put a stop to frauds and mendicancy in the community.

"The Associated Charities does not aim to give relief, but to assist the case to relieve itself by providing that all relief which is given shall be given after investigation, and in such a way as to tend to prevent pauperism and to really help the needy one. It does not aim to separate the worthy from the unworthy. There is no case which is not worthy of being helped. The society aims to find out whether it can be helped and how it can be helped and to provide permanently for the cases that cannot be helped. Help does not simply mean giving money or food. It means much more than that—continuous and permanent assistance and encouragement to self-support. There is no danger of any case suffering while being investigated because emergency cases are always provided for whether investigated or not. It is not 'against the poor,' it is rather the best friend of the poor, because it aims to put the needy one onto a basis where he will cease to need any gift whatever. It strives to impress on very person the idea that if any help is to be given it should not be given spasmodically, but regularly and

CASINO DANCE CLOSES SEASON

Society Assembled on Eve of Lenten Season for Its Third Formal Dance.

GIVEN AT THE CASINO.

The Cotillion Was Led by Lewis G. Timpson — Particularly Attractive Decorations — Valentines for Favors—Society Turned Out Well—The Subscribers.

Coming as it did almost on the eve of the Lenten season, the third of the series of Casino dances was a society event enjoyed last evening by at least a couple of hundred Plainfielders and their friends from out of town. As at like occasions there was much brilliancy attached to the affair. It marked the close of the local social season until Easter.

Particularly attractive were the decorations of the ball room, the American flag and bunting being used with charming effect. Pound's New York orchestra occupied the stage and needless to say the music was of the fascinating sort. This was the first formal gathering of the local fashionable set since the New Year's masque ball, and the attendance showed that the series of affairs have struck a popular chord with society.

The cotillion commenced at 11:30 o'clock, and it was led by Lewis G. Timpson. It was preceded by the supper, arranged by Steward Ivany. The favors for the evening were dainty little valentines, miniature silk American flags and cut flowers. Mrs. Charles F. Abbott, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. J. W. Rinehart and Mrs. O. T. ENCOURAGED CATTLE RAISING

STATE SECRETARY DYE TALKED TO SOMERSET COUNTY FARMERS.

Quarterly Meeting of County Board of Agriculture Was Held at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 11—The quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Argiculture in the Court House here, Saturday afternoon, was attended better than any previous session in years. The principal address was by State Secretary Franklin Dye, of Trenton, on "Encouragements to the Business of Agriculture."

A few of the points made by Mr. Dye were:

"I believe there is an opportunity today for any young man with sufficient capital to breed cattle here in this State with good financial success. In the year past farmers of New Jersey have brought 12,000 head of cattle from other States. Placing these at $40 a head you can see at a glance the money being sent out of the State. Why do not our young men take up that branch of the farming business and keep that money here?

"Farms are so cheap it is encouraging. The young man with limited means can start out with every assurance of success. There never was a time when farms, the condition they are in today, were so cheap.

"The United States Board of Agriculture is one of the grandest works of the day. It makes investigation on every line throughout the land for the benefit of the agriculturist. Its publications are numerous and are free to the farmer. Every farmer should put himself in touch with his Congressman and get them.

"Agriculture is the foundation industry. It must be encouraged. The farmers make it possible for others to live on the land.

"The agricultural experiment stations at New Brunswick are doing a noble work. Every farmer should go to New Brunswick to see what Prof. Voorhees is growing."

Charles Howell Cook, of Trenton, who owns a large dairy farm at Belle Mead, was called on for a speech. He made a telling hit when he asked if anyone present could tell how much it costs to produce a ton of hay; or how much to make a pound of butter. Not one could tell. He said: "There is not a manufacturer today who could do business that way. He must know the cost to produce in order to compete with other manufacturers."

The meeting wound up with a general discussion, in which the farmers all took part.

The funeral services will be held from the late residence Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. J. A. Cubberly will officiate. The interment will be in the cemetery at South Plainfield.

TURN VEREIN HELD ITS MASQUERADE BALL

That Annual Event at Saengerbund Hall Was Largely Attended Last Evening.

SOME STRANGE SIGHTS.

A "COON OCTETTE" WAS A FEATURE OF THE EVENING.

Grand March Preceeded by a Burlesque Given by Members of the Society — Some of the Costumes That Were Worn.

The masquerade ball of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein, held in Saengerbund Hall, last evening, was declared to be an unqualified success. It was the fourteenth annual affair of this nature held under the auspices of the society.

After a few preliminary numbers had been rendered by Professor O'Reilly's full orchestra, the grand march took place. It was led by the members of the managing committee.

Preceding the march an original sketch, burlesquing Prince Henry's proposed visit to this country, was given by several members of the society and won prolonged applause. Charles Meyer, Sr., attired as "Uncle Sam," and attended by Alexander Blume, as his body guard, presented a miniature yacht to "Prince Henry," in the person of Alfred Luthman.

Another feature was the appearance on the floor of a "coon octette" in wihch Mrs. I. H. Boehm, representing "Mother Coon," led about eight others. The latter were Mrs. Charles Meyer, Mrs. Herman Klinsman, Mrs. Rudolph Spiegel, Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, Mrs. George Haurand, Mrs. Henry Hertel, Mrs. Adolph Barry and Mrs. Hall. All were attired in appropriate costume.

Among some of the other most noticeable costumes were: Mrs. Frank Keller, western girl; Miss Annie Mercier, school girl; Miss Pauline Wahl, fairy; Miss Christina Sorensen, "sweet sixteen;" Mrs. Charles Schantz, Ophelia; Miss Annie Martin, morning; Miss Irene LeMair, fairy; the Misses Fisher, folly; Miss Annie Feller and Miss Emma Weigman, ballet girls; Miss Lottiie Cockley, Dolly Varden; Miss Lizzie Barkalew, Carmen; Edward Koechlin, private; William Hardy, sailor; Frank Haurand, flag guard; Frank Lievers, Mexican; Charles Schantz, night guard; and William Claassan, bartender.

TO AID LOCAL CHARITY.

Young Women of Church of The Holy Cross Interested in the Work.

A committee on local charity has been formed in the church guild of the Church of the Holy Cross. Mrs. H. R. Phillips is the chairman and there is a large membership in the committee. Mrs. Phillips has succeeded in interesting many of the young women of the parish in the work.

On every Friday afternoon during the Lenten season the committee will meet in the parish house for the purpose of sewing. Whatever garments are made will be given to the Children's Home, although it is probable that some work will be done for the hospital. These are the two institutions to which the committee desires to devote its attention. The members have entered enthusiastically into the spirit of the work and much good is expected from this branch of the guild.

FELL OVER FENDER.

Mrs. P. B. Laire Injured While Alighting From a Trolley Car.

Mrs. P. B. Laire is confined to her home on Steiner place with an injured knee cap, which will require several weeks to mend. It resulted from an accident several weeks ago.

She was on the way to visit friends on East Second street, near Richmond. Alighting from a trolley car at the switch there, using the front door at the conductor's solicitation, she stepped almost directly in front of another car. Becoming confused she attempted to cross the tracks hurriedly and fell over the fender of the car on which she had been a passenger. Her knee was struck and it has since had to be placed in a cast. It is the intention of Mr. Laire to enter suit against the company.

TONIGHT'S RECITAL.

Wellington Putnam Will Give an Entertainment at the Casino.

Attention is particularly called to the High School Athletic Association benefit, which takes place at the Casino tonight, and for which, the valuable services of Wellington Putnam, professor of elocution, American Academy of Dramatic Arts, New York City, impersonator and reader, has been secured. Mr. Putnam will present Stephen Phillips' drama, "Herod" and Wm. Dean Howell's sketch, "The Albany Depot."

Of Mr. Putnam's splendid work the following from the Brooklyn Times, November 21, is submitted:

"At the Baptist church of the Redeemer, last evening, was given an evening of dramatic reading by Wellington Putnam.

"The reading was Phillips' 'King Herod,' and Mr. Putnam's delineation of the various characters was so true that it required no straining of the imagination to place the whole scene before the mind. He was especially forceful in the second scene, when Mariamne denounces Herod for the murder of Aristobulus, her brother, and in the final scene, when Herod goes mad after the death of Mariamne. He also gave a very faithful portrayal of the characters of Cyprius, Salome and others."

Ice May Cost More.

It seems to be the general opinion of ice dealers that the price of ice next summer will be about the same or a trifle more than it was last season. It then averaged about 20 cents a hundred. It has been said that at that price money was being lost. It is possible that a little more may he asked if the crop should be smaller than it was a year ago.

Cat is Missing.

The feline that has been making his home at Woodhull & Martin's store for two weeks past, is missing and the people in the store are much pleased. It is believed that the cat has departed for parts unknown.

Filled His Ice Houses.

John H. Tier, Jr., of Bank place, has completed his ice cutting for this year. His houses are all filled with an excellent quality of ice.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Should S. S. Childs be nominated for Congress in the new Fourth District against the present Senator from Somerset, the patrons of a number of restaurants need not be surprised if they find Reed birds on the bill of fare after next fall's election.—Newark News.

New Brunswick is slowly but surely completing its quota of the McKinley Memorial Fund. Plainfield has less than a third of hers, and what she has was subscribed by a dozen or so of citizens. Patriotism doesn't seem to be one of Plainfield's boasted modern improvements.—New Brunswick Home News.

Assemblyman Newcorn, of Plainfield, the home of Senator Reed, defeated that gentleman in the treasurership fight by voting for Briggs. Plainfield bankers consequently have their hammers out for Newcorn. The Middlesex men, who were on the losing side, may also get some knocks from the banks.—New Brunswick Home News.

The friends of Senator Reed regret that he lost the State treasureship, especially by so narrow a margin. There seemed to be a feeling among the Assemblymen that the place should be held by one who was possessed of a business training rather than a lawyer. It is hoped that the contest will not tend to complicate matters in this congressional district next fall.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

In three years a good many things may have a very different aspect from present conditions, but it is not in the nature of things that United States Senator Kean shall be re-elected, and his term will have seen its finish in that period. There are plenty of good guessers who seem to regard that proposition as settled already, and that there is scarcely any need of discussing it further. The complications of the Senatorial fight brought that about, and the whole trend of active thought is as to who will succeed the millionaire banker, trolley, gas and water magnate. It is about certain that Congressman Gardner has decided to remain in the field as an active, alert candidate for the succession, and that all of the work to be done by his friends in the coming months is to be done with the set purpose of furthering his cause. Whether David Baird shall make the try again is a question for the future, and his friends, to answer. He says it is not possible to answer it for himself at this time. The sturdy and influential friends of Senator Stokes will see to it that he is not lost in the shuffle. They will insist in keeping him very much in the foreground, and if, when the time comes, it shall be deemed expedient to present him as a candidate he will have his fences in good trim for the best results.—Philadelphia Record.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

No housekeeper, who is thrift and economical, should fail to visit H. E. Gayle's hardware store. There one finds an endless variety of things that are needed in the home, from a stove or range to the smallest article used.

"Don't cast your pearls before swine," is a Biblical verse. If you purchase pearls and jewelry, such as J. Hervey Doane, of Park avenue, sells, you will have treasures of great value and will not want to throw them away.

If you are a stranger in these parts you may not know where to find Harper's Bazaar and for fear the little ones have not told you let it be remembered that it is on Park avenue, near Fourth street. It's the doll hospital of Plainfield.

There's no place like home for happiness and no place like I. H. Boehm's for bargains. Drop in his store while on West Front street and inspect the household goods which are being sold at prices so low as to astonish the veteran bargain counter patron.

Have you noticed that there are more well-dressed men in Plainfield than there were a few years ago? This is a fact and no doubt it is due to the bargains offered by M. Weinberger, the West Front street clothier. He has a superior stock of men's and boys' clothing.

A man likes to order others about and sometimes this trait is a failing. There is an exception to be noted, however. Bantle, the Watchung avenue tailor, will not in the least object to your ordering a suit of clothes to be made by him. Bantle's custom work has a reputation. Find out for yourself.

NEW JERSEY AFFAIRS.

State Comptroller Hancock Resigns Because Briggs Is to Be Treasurer.

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 11.—State Comptroller Hancock last night placed his resignation in the hands of Governor Murphy. The resignation was purely a formal one, but its presentation was the result of the election of ex-Mayor Briggs of Trenton to the office of state treasurer. Mr. Hancock is also a resident of Trenton and opposed Mr. Briggs' election. At the time he stated to the governor that if Mr. Briggs was elected he (Hancock) would resign as state comptroller.

A number of Republican leaders held a conference, and it was practically agreed as far as they were concerned that Mr. Hancock's place should go to Camden county, and the Camden members of the legislature held a consultation and agreed to present the name of J. Willard Mergan, formerly city solicitor of Camden. Mr. Morgan will have the solid support of Essex county, and it is generally conceded that he will be selected for the place. This is taken to mean that Attorney General Grey, who lives in Camden and whose term is about to expire, will not be reappointed by Governor Murphy.

The principal work of both houses of the legislature last night was the introduction of bills.

The two houses adopted a resolution for a joint session at noon today to elect a state treasurer. The place will go to Frank O. Briggs, who is now filling the position and who received the caucus nomination at the hands of the Republicans last week. The Democratic members of the legislature held their caucus and decided to support W. Holt Apgar of Trenton.

The commission appointed a year ago to revise the tax laws presented a report which took the shape of a bill introduced in the senate.

THE NEW NAVY.

Cost of Construction and Repairs to Date Made Public.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The new navy has cost the United States $99,803,928 for construction and $9,343,235 for repairs on completed vessels. These figures were supplied in a statement just forwarded to the senate by the secretary of the navy in response to a resolution adopted by the senate in February, 1901, and is the result of the labors of a number of navy department employees for the past year.

The statement covers the period from 1883 and begins with the building of the Chicago, Atlanta and Boston.

Of the completed vessels the Oregon cost the greatest amount, $6,575,032. The Massachusetts is second in point of cost, $6,047,117. The total cost of the Maine was $4,677,788.

Governor Odell's Mother Dead.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Mrs. Benjamin B. Odell, wife of ex-Mayor Odell and mother of Governor Odell, is dead at her home, 188 Grand street. Several days ago she took a bad cold, and pneumonia developed. As her condition became serious her children were summoned, and they were at the bedside when she passed away. Mrs. Odell is survived by her husband and the following children: Governor Odell, Hiram B. Odell, postmaster of Newburg; George C. T. Odell, a professor in Columbia university, and the Misses Ophelia and Clara.

Michigan Bank Robbed.

MUSKEGON, Mich., Feb. 11.—Between Saturday night and Monday morning robbers tunneled under the Muskegon Savings bank until they reached the vault. They bored a hole through its thick cement floor large enough for a boy or small man to pass through. As only $329 in bills and old silver coin is missing it is thought the thieves were frightened away before they could penetrate the steel door of the inner vault, where larger sums were stored.

Separate Savings and National Banks

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—The committee on banks and banking, acting on the governor's recommendations regarding the separation of savings and national banks, reported to the legislature a bill providing for the complete separation of all such institutions and their officers by the 1st day of July, 1904. A fine of not more than $500 is imposed as a penalty for violation of the law.

The reassembling of the international sugar conference at Brussels was postponed until Feb. 17.

CITY REFUSES HELP.

Paterson's Stricken Citizens Not at All Dismayed.

BANK TREASURES ARE UNHARMED.

Loss From the Terrible Fire May Not Exceed $8,000,000—Insurance Covers About One-half of This Amount.

PATERSON, N. J., Feb. 11.—A feeling of confidence in the future pervades the minds of the citizens of Paterson. Mayor Hinchliffe has the situation well in hand, and to an offer of assistance which came from Mayor Low of New York an answer was returned containing thanks and the assurance that Paterson is managing to care for those in need.

Money and securities said to amount to $3,000,000 were safely recovered from the two huge vaults under the ruins of the First National bank late yesterday. Books, papers, bullion and paper money were found to be uninjured. Guarded by files of soldiers with fixed bayonets, the treasure was conveyed to the Paterson Savings institution in a two horse dray.

Buried beneath the ruins of the city hall were found the safes which belonged to the comptroller's office, and in these also the papers, legal documents and public records were found unharmed. The safes of the Passaic Water company beneath the ruins of the building which stood at 107 and 109 Washington street were destroyed, however, and the only part of their contents recovered was $500 in silver.

The greatest tangle in the city affairs will result in the tax office. So far as can yet be ascertained the records of the department are all destroyed. There is a set of books which shows the valuation, etc., of each piece of property in the city, and the assessors have their field books, from which all this could be duplicated without overmuch work. It is said, however, that it is almost certain that the records showing who paid their taxes and who had not are all destroyed and that there is not in existence anything from which the information could be obtained.

The work of clearing up the burned district has not begun, but the firemen are busy with ropes and dynamite tearing down the shaky walls that endangered those who had to be inside the burned area.

Conservative opinion inclines to cut $2,000,000 from the aggregate loss of $10,000,000 agreed upon formerly, and $8,000,000 will probably be accepted finally as the actual cost of the fire. No tabulation of individual losses that can be accepted as reliable has yet been made, and it will be several days before satisfactory figures can be prepared.

Equally incomplete is the estimate of insurance. It was stated here that the insurance amounted to between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, but what gave basis to the calculation was not clear.

The board of aldermen assembled last night. It was not a formal meeting, the body sitting as a committee of the whole. Mayor Hinchliffe read the telegrams from all over the country offering the city aid. The aldermen voted thanks to all who had proffered assistance.

Marcellus Hartley's Estate.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Application has been made for permission to probate the will of the late millionaire, Marcellus Hartley. The application states that the estate is worth "more than $10,000." Marcellus Hartley Dodge, the grandson, is not named, as the will was drawn twenty years ago. Mr. Hartley left a letter to his wife and his daughter, Mrs. Helen Hartley Jenkins of Morristown, N. J., asking that they see that he have suitable participation in the estate. An estimate from a reliable source places the value of the estate at $20,000,000.

Another Costly Fire.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 11.—The Great East street shops built by William N. Whitely, the reaper millionaire, at a cost of $2,000,000 and owned by Senator Fairbanks have been destroyed by fire. The shops were occupied by the Springfield Foundry company, the Progress Stove and Furnace company, the Indianapolis Frog and Switch company, the Krell French Piano company, the Miller Gas Engine company, the Champion Chemical company and the Owens Machine Pool company.

A Black and White License.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Feb. 11.—Robert Hale, a colored man who figured prominently in the Huss murder case, has been granted a license to marry Mamie Cassell, a white girl, aged seventeen. The license was procured through the oversight of Clerk Dennert. The people of Waterford, where the two reside, are thoroughly aroused, and talk of violence to Hale is being made. The reputation he gained in connection with the Huss case has served to ostracize him in the community.

A Fire at Sea.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 11.—Tatham's life saving station last evening reported a big fire at sea about ten miles south of that station. Tatham's life saving station is twenty-five miles south of Atlantic City and eleven miles south of Cape May.

Australia's Wheat Crop.

ADELAIDE, South Australia, Feb. 11.—The Register estimates the wheat yield of the colony at an average of five fifty pound bushels per acre on 1,500,000 acres and the exportable surplus of wheat at 146,000 tons.

CHANGE FOR WORSE.

Young Roosevelt Now Has Double Pneumonia.

NEW YORK PHYSICIAN SUMMONED.

Sudden and Unexpected Turn In the Case Lends the President to Send For the Family Doctor.

GROTON, Mass., Feb. 11.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the eldest son of President Roosevelt, has double pneumonia. Otherwise his condition is unchanged. The lad is seriously sick, but it is too early to say what the chances are for his recovery.

This is the statement issued by Mr. George B. Cortelyou, secretary to the president, and was made after a careful examination of the boy by Dr. Alexander Lambert, the family physician of President Roosevelt, who has arrived here from New York.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt spent a long, anxious day yesterday in the infirmary, awaiting the crisis of the disease which in the morning appeared to have taken such a strong hold of their son. The change for the worse in the lad's condition occurred during the night and showed itself when the regular morning examination was made by Dr. Shattuck and Dr. Warren. Secretary Cortelyou, who is the only means of communication with the sickroom, made the announcement of the patient's serious condition, although he said then it was not alarming.

"His temperature is higher," said Mr. Cortelyou, "and his respiration is weaker, but his pulse is better."

He also said that there was no immediate change, but only the natural progress of the disease. In conclusion he announced that the disease had spread and involved both lungs.

This sudden and unfavorable turn warned the president that the most skillful medical treatment was necessary, and so last night he called to the aid of Drs. Shattuck and Warren his family physician, Dr. Alexander Lambert of New York, an eminent practitioner and a man well acquainted with the boy's physique.

Young Roosevelt was taken ill last Thursday afternoon, so that he has entered upon his fifth day. The crisis is expected today or tomorrow. All reports from the sickroom show that the young patient keeps up his strength and that he takes some nourishment. It seems certain that oxygen has been administered, although not in large quantities.

When the president was outdoors for his short stroll, he stopped to speak with some workmen. It was noticed that his countenance lacked the bright cheerfulness which usually overspreads it, and he seemed very grave and worried.

No arrangements whatever have been made for the president's return to Washington.

General Gomez Honored.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 11.—General Maximo Gomez arrived here last night on his way to Santo Domingo. He was given a great demonstration when he landed from the steamer. A large crowd had assembled, with bands of music. The municipal police and the firemen also turned out to welcome him. General Gomez was averse to discussing the political situation. He said, however, that he believed the United States would fulfill its pledges to establish a stable government in Cuba. This he considered impossible without close commercial relations between the two countries.

To Legalize Boycotting.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Senator Sullivan has introduced a bill which permits or legalizes boycotting and amends the law relative to conspiracy by stating that it shall not be conspiring to aid a person to secure advance in wages or peacefully aiding other persons to obtain redress for any grievance against employers. It shall be lawful for a body of men or women to call on employing corporations to persuade them to enter into an agreement regarding wages, etc.

Princeton's New Gymnasium Begun.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 11.—Thirty laborers are breaking ground for the new quarter million dollar gymnasium which will be erected on the south campus. The contractors have already received a large quantity of material and will keep a large force of men employed to rush the construction as rapidly as possible. Work on the new Little hall is also progressing very rapidly.

General Lee In Chicago.

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—General Fitz-Hugh Lee lectured here last night at the Auditorium under the auspices of the National union, a patriotic fraternal order. There was a large audience, and the welcome accorded General Lee was in the nature of an ovation. His subject was "Peace and War In the United States and Cuba."

Aid For a New York School.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Adolph Lewisohn has given $75,000 to the Hebrew Technical School For Girls toward a fund for another school building. The president, Nathaniel Myers, added to this contribution $5,000. The school is located on Henry street for the education of poor east side girls.

Prominent Politician Dead.

OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Hon. S. C. Green of Little Valley, this county, is dead after an illness of a few weeks. He was a former member of the assembly and was postmaster of the state senate for several years. He was a Republican leader in the county for many years.

DETROIT BANK CLOSED.

The Vice President Who Wrecked It Under Arrest.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 11.—Vice President Frank C. Andrews of the City Savings bank, which has been in the hands of State Banking Commissioner George L. Maltz since yesterday morning, was arrested and arraigned at 9:30 o'clock last night on the charge of "willfully, fraudulently and knowingly" securing from the bank without security and without the knowledge of the other directors a sum exceeding $1,000,000. He was released on $10,000 bail, and his examination was set for Feb. 21. Cashier Henry R. Andrews, through whom F. C. Andrews is said to have secured the money by means of overdrafts and certified checks, is seriously ill at his home with nervous prostration.

In addition to a total indebtedness to the City Savings bank of $1,158,000, to secure which Mr. Andrews has signed over to the institution all his real estate holdings and stocks, bonds and other securities, which, it is estimated, will total about $1,000,000, four local banks and a trust company hold his checks, certified to by Cashier Andrews, to the amount of $662,000. A considerable number of these checks are protected by securities deposited with them by Mr. Andrews.

As soon as Commissioner Maltz took charge of the institution he immediately began an examination of its books. It was found that Cashier Andrews had permitted F. C. Andrews to overdraw his account $914,000.

The examination showed that the record of F. C. Andrews' transactions was not kept in the regular way, but in a memorandum book. The first record of a transaction between Cashier Andrews and F. C. Andrews is Jan. 11, but the examiners estimate that the transactions have been going on for about six weeks.

There was nothing like a panic at any of the other banks in the city, and comparatively few deposits were withdrawn as a result of the excitement.

Newspaper Correspondents Blamed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—Rev. Henry Otis Dwight of the American mission at Constantinople, who is now in this city, has received from missionary sources in Turkey a letter giving a new phase of the causes which have delayed the surrender of Miss Stone. The letter says: "Prospects of the release of Miss Stone, the American missionary, are much lessened by the well meant activity of newspaper correspondents. The situation is extremely critical. It has taken months to convince the captors of Miss Stone that the ransom money has reached its limit. Men chosen for the delicate mission because of their acquaintance with orientals have faced serious personal risk in the attempt to carry that mass of gold into the wild region where the brigands can be met. Now, besides these difficulties, they find newspaper correspondents appearing on the ground with orders to be present when the money is paid and the captives are released. The brigands simply will not risk the presence of any stranger."

Dr. Pfeiffer Improving.

BOSTON, Feb. 11.—Dr. Immanuel Pfeiffer, the self exposed smallpox patient, is considerably improved, and the very dangerous exterior conditions which were apparent earlier have somewhat subsided. The business offices of Dr. Pfeiffer have been disinfected and sealed up. Upon the same floor are the offices of a press association, and these were ordered vacated and were closed after they had been fumigated.

A score of the most prominent leaders of both parties in the legislature will be present, together with several well known public men who have graduated from Albany life.

Every department in the local shops is taxed to its utmost, getting out new and repair work, and men have been working considerable overtime.

"A HELPING HAND."

Is Gladly Extended by a Plainfield Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Plainfield prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of 75 Grandview avenue, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for six years: I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp, darting pain across my back, and if I ever exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son bought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once, following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

SOUTH AFRICAN FIGHTING.

Kitchener Reports Lively Times and Heavy Casualties.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—A report received from Lord Kitchener at Pretoria shows last week to have been the liveliest week, with the heaviest losses on both sides, for several months past. Lord Kitchener gives the Boer casualties a total of 69 killed, 17 wounded, 57 surrendered and 574 taken prisoners. The British captured 480 rifles, one pompom and the usual grist of munitions and live stock.

The most serious British losses during the week was the capture of sixty donkey wagons convoyed by 160 troops. At a point thirty miles from Beaufort West, Cape Colony, the enemy swooped down on the donkey wagons and cut up the convoy before assistance arrived. They were able to remove only twelve of the wagons and burned the rest. In this engagement the British lost two officers and eleven men killed and one officer and forty-seven men wounded, while the Boers lost twenty-four killed and forty-seven wounded.

The Boers also rushed a detachment of a hundred men of Colonel Doran's column the night of Feb. 3, when the British lost three officers and seven men killed and seventeen men wounded.

Von Donop surprised Potgieter's lager near Wolmaranstad, Transvaal Colony, Feb. 7, killing three Boers and capturing thirty-six, as well as twenty-five wagons and live stock.

Dr. Mueller Brings Dispatches.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The Hague correspondent of The Daily Telegraph understands that Dr. Mueller, former consul of the Orange Free State to Holland and now on his way to New York, is taking dispatches from the Boer delegates in Europe for President Roosevelt and that Dr. Mueller will remain in the United States as an official Boer agent.

CONGRESS DOES LITTLE.

Both Branches, However, Talk a Great Deal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Throughout nearly the entire session of the senate yesterday the Philippine tariff bill was under consideration. Mr. Turner (Wash.) concluded his speech, begun last Friday, on the legal and constitutional phases of the Philippine question. He held in the main that as the Filipinos had established an independent government in the islands prior to the fall of Manila the United States under the principles of international law had no right in the islands.

Mr. Teller (Colo.) took the floor to deliver a speech on the pending measure, but had scarcely introduced his argument before he requested that he be allowed to continue his address today.

General debate on the oleomargarine bill was closed. The friends of the bill have decided to offer an amendment to make the 10 cent tax apply to oleomargarine in imitation of butter "of any shade of yellow." The amendment is designed to meet the charge of the opponents of the bill that without this amendment the language of the bill might be construed to absolutely prohibit the sale of oleomargarine.

Senator Hoar from the senate committee on privileges and elections reported favorably the amendment to the constitution introduced by himself changing the day for the inauguration of the president of the United States from March 4 to the last Thursday in April. The resolution provides that the change shall take effect in 1905 and extends the term of President Roosevelt from March 4 to that date. The resolution also provides that hereafter the terms of senators and members of the house of representatives shall begin on the last Thursday of April instead of March 4, as at present.

James Enjoins a Play.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 11.—Frank James, who at one time was a member of the famous James boys' gang, has secured a temporary injunction in the circuit court here restraining a theatrical company now playing at a local theater from presenting the play "The James Boys In Missouri," in which the members of the James family are made to represent train robbers, bank looters and outlaws of the worst character. Mr. James says his main objection to the play is that it glorifies outlawry and is injurious to the youth of the country.

The Illinois Sails.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The navy department has received a telegram announcing that the battleship Illinois, which is to be the flagship of the reception squadron to meet Prince Henry, had left Newport News for New York. The naval board of inspection and survey is on board, it being the purpose to run off the vessel's final acceptance trial on the way north.

Funston Gaining Rapidly.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 11.—Dr. E. F. Robinson, General Frederick Funston's physician, has forwarded to the war department a certificate in support of an application for a three months' extension of leave of absence for General Funston. The general's leave will expire March 10 under the present order. General Funston is recovering rapidly.

Carnegie Makes Another Gift.

A DIPLOMATIC TILT.

United States Forces Russia to Alter Chinese Scheme.

ATTEMPTED VIOLATION OF PLEDGES.

Objectionable Feature of Manchurian Treaty Would Exclude American Trade—Secret Agreement Calls Forth Another Protest.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Negotiations between the United States government and the government of Russia relative to Manchuria are progressing with the exhibition of a great deal of energy on our part, though the exchanges are in the kindliest spirit. The attitude of the Russian government in this matter has shifted materially since the beginning of the negotiations.

A treaty was drawn up originally between Russia and China providing for the evacuation of Manchuria by Russian troops, who have been in military possession of the country since the early days of the Boxer outbreak. This treaty contained a great many rather complex guarantees in Russia's favor, but a singularly objectionable proviso was one placing the Russo-Chinese bank in practical control of the commercial and material interests of Manchuria.

It was quickly perceived that the provision, if executed, practically would exclude Americans from competition in Manchuria, which is very valuable as a market for our manufactured cottons. Therefore Russia's attention was directed to our existing rights under treaty with China and also to her own promises made directly to the United States government during the early days of the Russian occupation of Manchuria.

Apparently our representations were effectual, for the objectionable proviso touching the Russo-Chinese bank was withdrawn from the treaty and that convention, save in some minor respects, was regarded as unobjectionable. However, it has been discovered that the Russian government, following a practice known in European diplomacy, has drawn up a secret agreement with China conferring upon the Russo-Chinese bank all the powers contained in the original treaty proviso. Therefore the United States government has renewed its objections, not only addressing itself to the Russian government, but making a very strong protest to the government of China.

It is expressly declared that in so doing our government has acted independently, though it is a matter of common knowledge that other great commercial powers whose interests in Manchuria are almost as considerable as our own have addressed similar representations to both China and Russia.

Captain Carter's Friends In Court.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 11.—The case of B. D. Greene, John F. Gaynor, F. T. Gaynor and W. H. Gaynor, indicted jointly with O. M. Carter, formerly captain of engineers, U. S. A., and Michael A. Connelly, Carter's secretary, was called in the federal district court today. The indictment charges conspiracy to defraud the government in river and harbor contracts, and it is alleged the government was actually defrauded in a sum approximating $2,000,000. All of the defendants are here with the exception of Carter and will appear personally in court to plead.

Cloudburst In California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11.—The town of Dunsmuir, Siskiyou county, 300 miles north of here, experienced a cloudburst that wrecked six houses and delayed railroad traffic many hours. No fatalities have been reported. By almost a miracle the occupants escaped injury. The flood carried immense tree trunks and bowlders with it and deposited some of the debris on the Southern Pacific railroad track, which parallels the Sacramento river at that point.

Cattle Starving In Colorado.

DENVER, Feb. 11.—Humane Agent H. B. Kerr has left for a tour of the southeastern counties to investigate the reports about starving cattle. In Baca county thousands of cattle on the ranges are said to be dying from starvation and exposure to the weather. The cause of the mortality is due to a scarcity of grass and the freezing of the water holes.

Serious Condition In India.

LONDON, Feb. 11.—The viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, telegraphs that the famine outlook is very serious. No rain has fallen, and the plague of rats in Gujerat, Rajputana and central India is assisting in the destruction of the crops. The relief works are being rapidly extended.

VANCEBORO, Me., Feb. 11.—A westbound immigrant special over the Canadian Pacific railroad was derailed two miles east of Moosehead. One boy was killed, and twelve other passengers were injured. The immigrants were sent forward on a special train.

Baseball Players In Session.

A THEATRE FOR PLAINFIELD.

The fact that a progressive city the size of Plainfield was without a theatre has naturally attracted the attention of theatrical men throughout the east. Despite the fact that the last theatre was not a paying investment, there has seemed to be a good field for an up-to-date theatre of moderate size. Several projects looking toward the establishment of a theatre here have been started during the winter. At last, there is evidence of something definite before many days.

There is no doubt that the majority of the people of Plainfield would very much like to see a model little opera house in existence and that, provided that dramatic entertainments of a high grade were given there, the place would receive good support. The experience of one winter without any theatre might have its effect in giving such a place better support in the future.

A prominent theatrical man has been in communication with the owners of Music Hall with a view of purchasing that property and converting it into a modern play-house, utilizing the drug store front as an entrance. Despite statements to the contrary, the announcement made in town Saturday, that the deal had been completed, was premature. No one is better qualified to talk on the subject than William M. Stillman, who represents the Stillman estate, and he declared that while the deal was under consideration, the papers had not been signed and no definite decision had been reached.

There are other projects in the air looking toward the erection of an entire new building for the purpose of a theatre. If the other plan is consumated, then it is likely that the other schemes will come to naught as there is not the slightest possible use for two theatres. One way or the other, however, it looks as if Painfield was going to have an opera house in the course of the next six or eight months and the people of Plainfield will greatly rejoice at the news.

It should not be forgotten that North Plainfield as well as Plainfield has its share to raise for the fund of the McKinley Memorial Association. The borough has shown in the past that it possesses its share of patriotism and should not fail to rise to the occasion this time. Its share amounts to $125 and there should be no trouble in raising that amount among the citizens of North Plainfield who were admirers of the martyr president, William McKinley, and desire to see a proper memorial. Subscriptions can be sent to Charles A Reed, who is a member of the executive committee of the New Jersey State Memorial Fund Association, or will be received at this office and forwarded to the proper destination. Subscriptions sent here should be designated as for city or borough fund so that the credit will be given to the proper county.

Paterson's experience is one which is at any time liable to happen to any city of that size. Once such a fire is started and gains a strong headway with a strong wind behind it, it is almost impossible to check its progress before thousands of dollars' worth of property has been sacrificed. Plainfield's chance to prevent a similar catastrophe is to catch it in its incipiency. The promptness with which the local department has responded to alarms has been the means of checking many a fire before it obtained any headway. There have been fires in the centre of the business section which would have caused great destruction of property but for this promptness for which the Plainfield fire department is deservedly famous.

With this long continued spell of cold weather, the lovers of skating in city and borough might have enjoyed their favorite sport to their heart's content, had there only been proper arrangement made for a skating pond here. Another season should see the establishment of such a pond where skaters might go for a small fee and have their interests catered to rather than feel that they were intruders.

It is welcome news to know that the city isolation hospital has been closed, the patinets having fully recovered from their attack of smallpox. No one is anxious to have any more cases of the dread disease in Plainfield than is possible. It is very comforting, however, to know that there is a place where such cases can be well taken care of, ready to be opened at an hour's notice.

The Philadelphia Record points out the fact that the authorities of the University of Chicago have recognized the importance of advertising, that subject being included in the lecture course of the institution along with banking, railroad management and commerce generally. The lectures on advertising will be delivered by prominent advertising agents and by merchants.

Hackettstown's epidemic of smallpox has proved a very expensive thing for that municipality. To meet the cost of caring for all the patients and the enforcement of the quarantine, special bonds will have to be issued.

Despatches from London tell what a rushing business the insurance companies are doing in a new kind of insurance which insures against smallpox. The rates are greatly reduced to those who have been vaccinated.

Let the good work go on. The borough sewage commission cannot act too soon in selecting some desirable method for the disposal of the sewage of North Plainfield.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure Very pleasant to take. The little ones like it. L. W. Randolph.

David Boehm Lost His Store.

Among the heavy losers in the Paterson fire, Sunday, was David Boehm, a former resident of this city and brother of I. H. Boehm, the West Front street dry goods merchant. He was proprietor of the Globe store which was destroyed at a loss of $10,000. M. Boehm had built up a fine business and his establishment was one of the finest in the city.

Former Plainfielder Wedded.

Cards have been received by several Plainfielders announcing the marriage of Mrs. Gotheil, formerly of West Sixth street, to William Dressler, of New York. The wedding was celebrated a week ago in New York and the bride and groom are living in Eighty-eighth street, that city.

Workmen Were Ready.

Grand Foreman V. W. Nash was ready yesterday to offer any assistance needed to the members of the Ancient Order United Workmen at Paterson. It was believed that some might have suffered losses. Later in the day it was learned that the members were all right.

Allowed Alimony.

In the matter of the divorce proceedings instituted by Robert Rushton against his wife, the Court of Chancery has allowed the respondent's petition for alimony, pending the final decree. Lawyer Robert M. Clark represents Mrs. Rushton.

His Relatives Escaped.

U. G. Pierson, of Richmond street, went to Paterson, Sunday, to see the big fire. He has relatives living in that city, but fortunately they did not suffer by the fire.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. Wm. Carman lost a roll of bills of a considerable sum yesterday, but recovered it later in an extremely lucky way. She had gone to Garretson & Gray's office on business and when she reached there found the bills which she had were gone. Search was made immediately and the bills were found near the office and some a considerable distance away, where they had been carried by the wind. Fortunately all the bills were recovered.

Mr. Shott took for his text, "It is better to go into a house of mourning, than in a house of feasting." The home was filled with the sorrowing friends who had gathered with the bereaved family to pay their last respects to the one they had loved. The floral offerings spoke tender words of sympathy from friends and relatives. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

BOROUGHITES ASKED TO AID M'KINLEY FUND

North Plainfield's Share of State Fund is $125, Which Should be Raised.

WHERE TO CONTRIBUTE.

BELIEVED THAT BOROUGH WILL RESPOND TO THE APPEAL.

Senator C. A. Reed Will Receive Contributions in the Borough and Alex. Gilbert in the City —Press Will Also Receive.

While the Plainfielders are responding to the call for liberal donations to the fund being raised by the McKinley Memorial Association of New Jersey, that organization is desirious that the cause be not neglected by the citizens of the borough. A large amount is expected from the National Association and in order that it may be realized every place, however small, must contribute something.

Although North Plainfield is reputed to have an unusual number of men of means, yet the State association's committee only asks that the sum of $125 be raised in the borough. As yet not one penny has been turned in by a boroughite and the time is rapidly passing. The appeal made in this patriotic cause is above party. There are no distinctions made in the selection of the various committees so far as party affiliations are concerned. All that is wanted is a suitable memorial to be brought about by all Americans in honor of the late martyr president.

In each district throughout this State, there is some designated person to receive contributions. In this city, Alexander Gilbert, of West Eighth street, has been authorized to do so. Senator Charles A. Reed, who is a member of the State executive committee of the association, is the authorized person to receive donations in the borough.

Anyone wishing to make a contribution may send the donation to the Senator, either at his home address in the borough or at his law office on North avenue. The Daily Press will also receive contributions from the people in this city and in the borough. Proper acknowledgement will be made of any offerings.

SAYS 'TWAS IMPURE.

Secretary of Borough Sewage Commission Disagrees About Water From City Disposal Plant.

To the Editor of The Daily Press—In yesterday's issue of The Press I read an article in reference to the borough sewer commission investigating the Plainfield city sewer disposal works, in which it states that "they (the commissioners) saw pure water running from the beds. Each one tasted the water and they say that they could not detect any unpleasant odor."

The above statement is not true. The writer, who was present, desires to state that he did not see any member of the commission taste the water and did not taste it himself, but instead of seeing pure water running from the beds, saw very impure looking water, which had an unpleasant, foul odor, running from the beds to the brook.

I therefore would request that you will kindly give this correction equal prominence in your valuable columns.

David T. Kenney.

(The statement referred to in Mr. Kenney's communication was made on the authority of one of the members of the commission, who declared that the effluent from the beds appeared perfectly clear and had little or no odor. He also stated that the members of the commission tasted the water.—Ed.)

No Change Yet.

The Music Hall deal stands today just where it has for several days. W. W. Stillman has not yet closed the sale. All of the signatures to the contract have not been received, neither has the price been paid. The deal is expected to go through within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Seals, of East Front street, are rejoicing over the arrival of a thirteen and a half pound boy. The young man arrived last night.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

A JOKE TRANSLATED.

English Version of One of Mr. Depew's Favorite Stories.

Chappie Did His Best to Entertain the Crowd, But Nobody Saw the Point of the Anecdote But the Narrator.

"When the average Englishman attempts to narrate a characteristic American humorous story he is almost certain to make a 'hash of it,'" remarks a Washington chapman who spent a good deal of his time abroad, to a Star reporter. "This fact was instanced in a funny way in the smoking-room of the steamer upon which I last returned from England. A middle-aged Englishman, a civil engineer, I believe he was, was called upon to do his share of the entertaining—we were making a late sitting of it—and he started in to tell a story that he had heard Senator Chauncey Depew narrate at a dinner in London. Now, I had heard Mr. Depew tell that story, too, and it went about this way:

"A New York lawyer named Strange, noted for his wit, was upon his last bed of sickness. He knew that his end was near, and so he called his wife to his bedside to give her a few final directions.

"'Little woman,' said he to her, 'I know that I am going to die, and I am ready to go. But I could not die in peace if I thought there was going to be a lot of fuss and feathers made over me after my death. I don't, as you know, believe in ostentation as applied to the dead. Now, I don't even want my name carved on my headstone. I wish you'd just have a modest headstone erected over my grave, with these words carved on it: "Here lies an honest lawyer."'

"The dying lawyer's wife demurred at this.

"'How,' she asked her husband, 'will people visiting the cemetery know from the inscription on the headstone who lies in the grave?'

"'Oh, they'll know, all right,' replied the passing man of law, with a faint smile. 'They'll read the inscription, and then they'll say: "That's Strange."'

"HERE LIES AN HONEST LAWYER."

"Now, Mr. Depew told this story in England because he knew how dearly the English people love stories that hinge upon a play of words. The story always tickled his English listeners immensely.

"Well, this Englishman in the smoking-room of the steamer started off to tell that story—something in this wise:

"'Well, y'knaw, I heard one of your fellows—man named Depew—senator or something—tell a deuced good story, 'pon me waird, at a dinner awhile ago—deuced good, I declare. It appears, y'knaw, that a New York fellow—man of law, y'know—barrister, I believe—was dying, y'see. Don't seem to remember the fellow's name. Let me see, what the deuce was the fellow's name, anyhow? Well, 'pon me waird, if I haven't clean forgot his name! However, no matter. Well, this chap, y'knaw, was dying, and he was blooming good natured about it all, y'see, and he wanted to make his wife feel less shocked over it all, y'knaw, and so he called her to his bedside.

"'"My dear," says the chap to her, y'see, "I don't want to have a lot of botheration and kick-up business, y'see, after I'm gone. I don't want my name"—deuced annoying that I can't recall that chap's name!—"engraved on my headstone. Just put a small stone at the head of my grave, y'knaw, and have carved on it these words: 'Here lies an honest lawyer.'"

"'Well, y'knaw, the legal chap's wife didn't like the idea of this, and she told him so.

"'But," she said to him, "how will folks, y'knaw, that read the inscription know who rests in the grave beneath the headstone?"

"'Well, y'see, this legal chap was a deuced humorous fellow, y'knaw, and he was bound to have his final joke, y'see, and so he answered her:

"'"Oh, don't bother about that. They'll read the inscription on the headstone, and they'll say to each other, y'knaw: "That's extraordinary, y'knaw."'

Was Favored by Nature.

A dignified bishop, while passing along a London street, heard three vegetable peddlers engaged in a rather blasphemous argument. Intending to rebuke them, he said to one of the offenders: "My good man, where did you learn to swear like that?" "Lord luv yer, guv'nor," replied the brawny peddler, clapping him genially on the shoulder, "ye can't learn it; it's a gift!"

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

The Publisher's Claims Sustained.
UNITED STATES COURT OF CLAIMS.
The Publishers of Webster's International Dictionary allege that it "is, in fact, the popular Unabridged thoroughly re-edited in every detail, and vastly enriched in every part, with the purpose of adapting it to meet the larger and severer requirements of another generation."
We are of the opinion that this allegation most clearly and accurately describes the work that has been accomplished and the result that has been reached. The Dictionary, as it now stands, has been thoroughly re-edited in every detail, has been corrected in every part, and is admirably adapted to meet the larger and severer requirements of a generation which demands more of popular philological knowledge than any generation that the world has ever contained.
It is perhaps needless to add that we refer to the dictionary in our judicial work as of the highest authority in accuracy of definition and that in the future as in the past it will be the source of constant reference.

"I HAVE BEEN ON THE MINSTREL STAGE FOR FORTY YEARS, and although I am sixty-two years old am in almost perfect health. Time has not sat lightly upon my shoulders and my profession is one that causes a great strain on its members, both physically and mentally. From a physical standpoint I am younger than I was ten years ago. Then I could neither sleep nor eat well and indigestion was constantly with me. I lost flesh and my nervous condition was very bad. This condition was brought about by the irregular living that almost every member of the theatrical profession is subjected to. Road life is both unpleasant and menacing to health. Riding in sleepers, often sitting up half the night to make a train, eating hurriedly at railroad lunch counters, as well as eating the heavy and often improperly cooked food served up at hotels in small towns, coupled with the hard and wearing work incidental to the profession, all combine to wreck one's nerves and stomach. Such was my condition. My nerves were unstrung and at times I thought I had no stomach. I was in almost constant pain and was forced to diet, limiting myself to the simplest and most easily digested dishes. Last August, after having suffered in this manner for over nine years, I was at Asbury Park. The change did not benefit me as I expected, but instead I had a severe attack of nervous prostration. A friend advised me to try Ripans Tabules, saying he had used them and found much relief. I was very skeptical, not believing that they could have any good effect on such a severe case as mine, but I tried them. Much to my surprise I was relieved at once. I continued to take one a day and sometimes two, and within a few weeks was almost well. I gained in flesh, was able to sleep quietly and refreshingly, and eat heartily and enjoyably of almost any dish I fancied. My nervous condition was toned up and strengthened, and before cool weather came I felt as well as I ever did. The promptness with which Ripans Tabules relieves is astonishing. They tone one's entire system and not only put one in good condition but keep him so. I recommend Ripans to every one, and especially to members of the profession."

WANTED!—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. R-I-P-A-N-S, 20 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

The "NEW MAN" Doctrine

If there be a new woman doctrine, there is certainly beginning to appear a new man idea to match it.

A California woman's husband beat her, drove her and the children from home and refused to support them, so that she had to go out washing to do so. She applied for divorce on all three grounds. She got it on the charge that her husband had beaten her and driven her out of the house, but not on the complaint that he would not make a living for her. Judge Waldo M. York—let us hail him pioneer champion of the new man!—gave this decision and said: "I believe the women should bear some of the responsibility of the support of the family upon their shoulders." So the wife got her divorce, but had to continue to go a-washing.

This new doctrine emanates from the rose embowered town of Los Angeles. Judge Morrow of the same city agrees with it and says further, "The better man should take the lead in marriage, as in everything else, and the usual notion that man is the breadwinner is often contradicted by facts."

Finally, to clinch matters, United States Attorney Marshall Woodworth of the Los Angeles district, being interviewed on the question, said, "It would seem that if the wife is entitled to sue for maintenance the husband should be entitled to the same right." It "would seem," therefore, to use the English of District Attorney Woodworth, that there is both state and federal authority for the doctrine of the new man. "It would seem" also that this authoritative enunciation of a wife's equal right to support the family would be precisely what the new woman wants and that it would please her through and through. One is surprised, however, to find it the other way.

One lady tackles the decision in a newspaper and quotes the old common law that the husband owes the wife support and she owes him service. If the husband is to be released from supporting the wife, argues this logical lady, is not she on her part to be released from serving him—performing, let us say, such duties as blacking the husband's boots, which thousands of British wives do to this day? Or maybe, continues the logical lady, instead of freeing the wife from service, the doctrine of the new man will also impose on the husband the duty of rendering service to the wife.

In that case perhaps we are to think of the husband as blacking the wife's boots, as cooking the corned beef and cabbage for dinner and tending the babies while she over the washboard earns the family living.

The logical lady takes a view of the result of the new doctrine which is depressing or otherwise according as one considers the continuance and increase of the race on this planet as a good thing. She remarks, "These opinions are likely to still further discourage women from matrimony." For myself, I have not observed that women are yet being discouraged from matrimony, at least in my neighborhood, though they may be farther on. But from my observations of the masculine sex I believe this new man doctrine will become popular among men.

Any man will think he can afford to marry if the law decides his wife shall take care of him. So soon as the knowledge of the California decisions becomes general throughout the Union men will no doubt marry early and often. I look to see a regular rush of weddings—at first, that is. Women who have long sighed for soulmates will find them on every hand. Then will come the reaction. "Gittin' married is as easy as pie," said a pretty mulatto serving woman, "but gittin' out of it—oh, my!" Girls will find that hustling for themselves and a man as well, even a soulmate man, is not all their fancy painted it. Wives who must not only mother children, but also maintain them, will stand on every hand as an awful example. The young woman contemplating matrimony will be obliged more than ever to see to it that she is first able to support a husband. Final result of the California new man doctrine—more old maids than ever.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"It is doubtless for that reason you called upon me, representing yourself to be Mr. Bayley, managing director of that South American Mining company? I can now quite understand your motive. You wanted to get me out of the way in order that I might not hunt you? Is that not so?"

"You hit the nail upon the head exactly. But you were virtuous, and would not swallow the bait. It would have simplified matters from my point of view if you had. I should not have been compelled to waste my money upon those two roughs, nor would you have spent an exceedingly uncomfortable quarter of an hour in that doorway in Holywell street."

This was news indeed. So he had been aware of my presence there? I put the question to him.

"Oh! Yes! I knew you were there," he said with a laugh. "And I can tell you I did not like the situation one bit. As a matter of fact, I found that it required all my nerve to pretend that I did not know it. Every moment I expected you to come out and speak to me. I can assure you the failure of my plot was no end of a disappointment to me. I had expected to see the men I had sent after you, and instead I found, you yourself."

"Upon my word, Mr. Hayle, if I cannot appreciate your actions, I must say I admire your candor. I can also add that in a fairly long experience of—of—"

"Why not say criminals at once, Mr. Fairfax?" he asked, with a smile. "I assure you I shall not be offended. We have both our own views on this question, and you, of course, are entitled to air yourself if it pleases you. You were about to observe that—"

"That in all my experience I had never met anyone who could so calmly own to an attempt to murder a fellow-being. But supposing we now come to business."

"With all my heart," he answered. "I am as anxious as yourself to get everything settled. You will admit that it is rather hard lines on a man who can lay his hands upon a quarter of a million of money to have a gentleman like yourself upon his trail, and, instead of being able to enjoy himself, to be compelled to remain continually in hiding. I am an individual who likes to make the most of his life. I also enjoy the society of my fellow-men."

"May we not substitute 'woman?'" I asked. "I am afraid your quarter of a million would not last very long if you had much to do with Mlle. Beaumarais."

"So you have heard of her, have you?" he answered. "But you need have no fear. Dog does not eat dog, and that charming lady will not despoil me of very much!" Now to another matter! What amount do you think your clients would feel inclined to take in full settlement of their claim upon me?"

"I cannot say," I answered. "How many of the gems have you realized upon?"

"There were 93 originally," he said, when he had consulted his pocket-book, "and I have sold 60, which leaves a balance of 33, all of which are better than any I have yet disposed of. Will your clients be prepared to accept £50,000, of course, given without prejudice?"

"Your generosity amazes me," I answered. "My clients, your partners, are to take £25,000 apiece, while you get off scot-free, after your treatment of them, with £200,000."

"They may consider themselves lucky to get anything," he retorted. "Run your eye over the case, and see how it stands. You must know as well as I do that they haven't a leg to stand upon. If I wanted to be nasty, I should say let them prove that they have a right to the stones. They can't call in the assistance of the law—"

"Why not?"

"Because to get even with me it would be necessary for them to make certain incriminating admissions, and to call certain evidence that would entail caustic remarks from a learned judge, and would not improbably lead to a charge of murder being preferred against them. No, Mr. Fairfax, I know my own business, and, what is better, I know theirs. If they like to take £50,000, and will retire into obscurity upon it, I will pay it to them, always through you. But I won't see either of them, and I won't pay a halfpenny more than I have offered."

"You don't mean to tell me that you are in earnest?"

"I am quite in earnest," he answered. "I never was more so. Will you place my offer before them, or will you not?"

"I will write and also wire them to-day," I said. "But I think I know exactly what they will say."

"Point out the applicability of the moral concerning the bird in the hand. If they don't take what they can get now, the time may come when there may be nothing at all. I never was a very patient man, and I can assure you most confidentially that I am about tired of this game."

"But how am I to know that this is not another trick on your part, and that you won't be clearing out of Paris within a few hours? I should present a sorry picture if my clients were to accept your generous offer, and I had to inform them that you were not on hand to back it up."

"Oh, you needn't be afraid about that," he said, with a laugh. "I am not going to bilk you. Provided you play fair by me, I will guarantee to do the same by you. With the advantages I at present enjoy, I am naturally most anxious to know that I can move about Europe unmolested. Besides, you can have me watched, and so make sure of me. There is that beautiful myrmidon of yours, who is so assiduously making love to Mlle. Beaumarais' maid. Give him the work."

I was more than surprised to find that he knew about this business. He saw it, and uttered one of his peculiar laughs.

"He didn't think I knew it," he said. "But I did! His cleverness is a little too marked. He overacts his parts, and even Shakespeare will tell you how foolish a proceeding that is. If you doubt my word concerning my stay in Paris, let him continue to watch me. You know where I am living, and for that reason you can come and see me whenever you like. As a proof of my sincerity, may I suggest that you give me the pleasure of your company at dinner to-night. Oh, you needn't be afraid. I'm not a Caesar Borgia. I shall not poison your meat, and your wine will not be drugged. It will be rather a unique experience, detective and criminal dining together, will it not? What do you say?"

The opportunity was so novel, that I decided to embrace it. Why should I not do so, since it was a very good excuse for keeping my man in sight? He could scarcely play me any tricks at a fashionable restaurant, and I was certainly curious to study another side of this man's complex character. I accordingly accepted his invitation and promised to meet him at the well-known restaurant he named that evening.

"In the meantime you will telegraph to your clients, I suppose," he said. "You may be able to give me their reply this evening when we meet."

Feet Across the Sea.

Great Britain has still a great deal to learn, so the lecturer had said, before she could command the undivided admiration and respect of the whole world, and he was the man to show her how it was to be done.

"What does this nation need?" shouted the impassioned orator. "What does this nation require if she steps proudly across the broad Atlantic—if she strides boldly across the mighty ocean in her march of trade and freedom? I repeat, what does she need?"

"Rubber boots!" suggested the grossly materialistic person in a near seat.—Chicago Journal.

An Impossible Person.

Mrs. Query—Isn't she a member of your club?

Mrs. Gadabout—Not any more. We had to get rid of her, or she would have disorganized us.

"You don't say?"

"Yes. At one of our sessions we were discussing the servant girl question, and she said the best way to solve the problem was for all of us to stay at home and do our own work."—Philadelphia Press.

Literary Underwriting.

One well-known firm of publishers runs a good deal of its business on the following lines: It secures a popular novelist, offers him so much for his next book and then forms a little syndicate in the city to share the expense. A new book by a popular author is a considerably safer investment than many newly discovered gold mines.—Literature.

Barely Possible.

Softleigh—Is Miss Uppton in?

Maid—No, sir. But she told me to say if you called that it was very kind of you.

"Very kind of me! Now, I wonder what she meant by that?"

"I really don't know, sir; but I think she meant it was kind of you to call when she was out."—Chicago Daily News.

TRUE SNAKE STORY.

Twenty-Six Big Reptiles Killed in the Midst of Winter.

Farmer Hadsell Discovers the Cause of Trouble with a Spring and Inaugurates a War of Annihilation.

According to the Hartford (Conn.) correspondent of the New York Sun, Deacon Joseph Pepper, of the Methodist church of West Avon, is truthful and a teetotaler, and doesn't see snakes where no snakes are. Through him a remarkable tale of snakes has been made public.

Silas Daniels is a member of Deacon Pepper's church, and he was an eyewitness of part of the occurrence and was in at the death. It was from him that Deacon Pepper learned the particulars.

On the farm of Adelbert Hadsell, a neighbor of Daniel's, is a fine spring that never freezes over, even in the coldest weather. Hadsell carries the water from the spring through a pipe to the barn for watering his live stock.

Recently the cattle refused to drink the water, and Hadsell noticed a few days ago that the water, which is usually clear and pure, had become slightly muddy. He went to the spring to investigate.

He saw nothing unusual about the spring at first, except that the water was muddy, as though some animal had worked up the mud at the bottom. Mr. Hadsell returned to the barn for a pitchfork, and when he got back to the spring he made an investigation.

He jabbed the pitchfork about in the water without striking anything but the mud at the bottom. While he was thus engaged he noticed that the bank at one side of the spring seemed to be in motion.

He stuck the fork into this place and pried up a clod of the frozen earth, leaving a hole about large enough to hold a man's fist. Out of this shot the head of a large blacksnake. Mr. Hadsell promptly killed it and dragged it out of the hole. Two more heads made their appearance and these two snakes were also dispatched.

When Hadsell looked at the spring again the whole bank seemed to be a living mass of reptiles. He threw down his pitchfork and ran for assistance. He found Daniels, and the two, each armed with a pitchfork, made an attack upon the army of snakes.

They had a big task. The spring was full of hissing, writhing, wriggling snakes, some of them of great size. For a time the battle waged fiercely, but at length the farmers routed the enemy with great slaughter. After it was over they counted 26 dead snakes on the bank of the spring, the snakes being from three to five feet long and one of them measuring 12 inches around the thickest part of its body.

They are not certain that some of the snakes did not escape slaughter by remaining concealed in the hole. It is not known why these snakes should have shown so much activity in cold weather, for if they had been peacefully hibernating, as a self-respecting snake should do, they would not have brought down upon themselves such prompt destruction. It is supposed that there is a cavern or waterway through which the snakes reached the spring, and that they were stirred to activity and vigor when they found that the spring was not frozen over.

Fowls with Long Tails.

An interior province of China has produced one of the most remarkable curiosities in the shape of long-tailed fowls in the world. Two specimens recently brought to light, and which were kept in the imperial household gardens, are illustrated. The cock has feathers six feet long, and the hen a flowing tail 12 feet long. There are four varieties—white head and body, with feathers and tail black; white all over, with yellow legs; red neck and body feathers; reddish color mixed with white of body.

High Art in Decoration.

A novel system of adornment for rooms has been perfected by a London electrician. The walls are lined with panels of transparent glass, which are faced with negatives of well-known pictures, through which filters subdued electric light. The effect is somewhat the same as the light of a stained glass window, and is quite artistic. There is no glare, and the pictures can be chosen according to the taste of the owner of the room.

PRAISE FOR METHODS IN JERSEY SCHOOLS

Superintendent C. J. Baxter Has Prepared His Annual Report on State Schools.

IN HANDS OF PRINTER.

SAYS NEW JERSEY IS HOLDING ITS OWN IN EDUCATIONAL RANK.

An Increase Shown in Expenditures—Reasons For It—Growth in the Schools and Increase in the Total Enrollment.

In his forthcoming annual report, now in the hands of the printer, Charles J. Baxter, State superintendent of schools, who resides on Sandford avenue, this city, claims for New Jersey that she is ably maintaining her educational rank among the sisterhood of States. His intimate knowledge of the educational system has evoked from him the concession that "the most liberal, intelligent and progressive citizens were never so interested in the public schools, never so deeply impressed with their importance to the commonwealth, and never so helpful in the effort to establish a correct educational sentiment through out the State."

Mr. Baxter calls attention to the proven fact that the people are ably and generously responding to the demands of the times, which, he says, are a higher standard of qualification and better salaries for our teachers; more thorough and effective instruction; more advanced and rational courses of study, and more adequate and sanitary school accommodations.

The report will show that the amount expended for teachers' salaries during the school year of 1900-1901 was $4,110,295.55, as against $3,805,182.42 for the preceding school year, an increase of $304,813.13. The number of school teachers employed during the year was 7,561, showing the average monthly salary to be $58.02. This was a marked increase over the preceding year, when there were employed 7,012 teachers at an average monthly salary of $54.80. The large addition to the teaching force was made up mainly of those just entering the profession and employed at minimum salaries. This increase in teachers and salaries is held by the superintendent as evidence that the well-equipped, experienced and efficient teacher is receiving, in many municipalities, a larger measure of appreciation, and in this connection he writes as follows:

"The patrons and supporters of our schools and those who administer our school interests, do well to realize that teaching, like all other forms of service, varies widely in quality and can, in each specific instance, command its market value. Each school district will secure just the kind of service it elects to pay for, and the most liberal will be the best served. Weak, spiritless and perfunctory teaching is always available on any terms, and is ever dear at any price; that which is thorough and inspiring cannot be unduly appreciated or overpaid. Let us not forget that 'school days' come to each child but once, and that it behooves both the municipality and the State to make the best possible provision for the training and development of its youth during this period."

Further evidence of the strengthening of the educational sentiment is adduced by Mr. Baxter in the fact that taxes were levied for school purposes in 389 school districts out of a total of 395, as against similar levies in but 302 districts during the preceding year. The amount of district and city tax levied during the year was $4,027,575.52, an increase of $248,423.87 over the preceding year.

At the close of the school year there were 1,828 school buildings in the State, owned by the school districts, the total valuation of which was given as $17,494,842, and their average value as $9,750. This was an increase of thirty buildings and $1,860,371 in valuation over the previous year. In this regard Mr. Baxter writes that the advance is much the largest ever recorded in an annual report from the State school department, and it proves, he says, that modern and more adequate school accommodations are the order of the day in New Jersey.

The increase in school enrolment last year was 13,857, and the percentage of daily attendance on the average enrolment was eighty-nine, an increase of one per cent. over the previous year. The total number of pupils enrolled was 336,432, an average of about forty-four pupils for each teacher, a substantial increase over the year previous.

"As the increase in school enrolment is largely in excess of the normal increase in our school population," the report states, "the above data clearly proves that pupils are remaining in school for a longer average period than formerly, and that there is a constantly diminishing percentage of our school population out of school."

Interesting statistics are given as to school attendance. They show that 6,566 pupils were neither tardy nor absent during the year as against 5,866 for the previous year, an increase of 700. The record for the entire State, in respect to tardiness, is highly satisfactory to Mr. Baxter. The total number of days' attendance was 41,540,740, and the total number of cases of tardiness was 452,517, showing but twelve cases of tardiness in each 1,100 days' attendance.

The effect of the more rigorous school census enumeration to form the basis of the State school tax for 1900-1901 and for the school year of 1901-1902 is shown in a decrease in the school population from 463,565 to 457,479 and a corresponding decrease in the sum of the tax from $2,317,625 to $2,287,395.

Bees as War Messengers.

From Russia comes a suggestion to the effect that honey bees should be tried as military messengers in place of homing pigeons. It is urged that for such purposes they would be preferable to birds in more than one way, inasmuch as they could hardly be intercepted, and it would certainly be out of the question for the most skillful marksman to hit such a carrier. As for their size and small carrying power, a bee could transport a good deal in the shape of documents, if the latter were transferred by micro-photography to a minute piece of paper. This piece of paper might be fastened to the insect's back, and on the arrival of the little messenger at its destination the writing could easily be enlarged. The homing instinct of a bee is as strong as that of a pigeon, and its method of finding its way to its hive is the same as that whereby the bird gets back to its cote from a great distance.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Wind Hurts Cigar Trade.

"How's business?" asked the customer at a big up-town cigar store, as he nibbled at the end of his cigar.

"Nothing doing," said the man behind the counter, with a look of mild disgust.

"What's the matter??"

"Wind's blowing. Never do anything in our business when the wind's blowing. The trade always begins to fall off when it gets cold and begins to blow.

"A man who knows how to smoke never likes to smoke in the wind. The best time for us is the spring and summer. You might think that our trade in winter would be pretty good, because lots of men smoke indoors then. Well, we do have a good box trade in winter, but the summer is our time. The best month is May."—N. Y. Sun.

Wonderful Woman.

Fetmore—Do you see that lady over there? Well, she's a lady if there ever was a lady in the world.

Buck—And what has she done to secure your flattering regard?

"I stepped on her gown coming downstairs. It was trailing behind her in that irritating way that women have, but, of course, I did the gentlemanly act and apologized for my carelessness."

"And she?"

"She said to me: 'Young man, you know you are lying. It was no fault of yours; it was mine, entirely, and if you had pulled my gown out at the gathers it would have served me right.'"—Boston Transcript.

Very Strange.

Once upon a time there was a man named Watt, and he went to a telephone to talk to another man. And the other man said:

"Who is this?"

"And the man replied: "Watt."

But the other man did not say "What?" and Watt did not say "Watt," and the other man did not say: "That is what I said," and Watt did not say: "What did you say?" and the other man did not say: "What?" and Watt did not say: "That's right, Watt." And they did not tear the Telphone out by the Roots.

Moral. — Given every Opportunity, some people will Spoil a Joke.—Baltimore American.

Mice Much Like Men.

A Bath professional man is making quite a study of mice. He works in his library at night, and allows the little animals about the room undisturbed. He said the other day, with a smile, that on cold nights the mice come out, sit on their haunches and warm themselves near the register. According to his story, one mouse, while getting the chill taken off the other night, fell asleep and toppled over on the floor and snoozed there nearly an hour.—Kennebec Journal.

Not Usually That Way.

A very small girl out on the East side was given her first plate of ray oysters at supper the other night. She swallowed one and then pushed the plate away from her with an expression of disgust.

"What's the matter, Katy?" asked her mother. "Don't you like your oysters?"

"No, me don't," answered Katy, with a grimace. "Him was too fresh."—Memphis Scimitar.

A Gentle Bluff.

"I shall call mamma if you attempt to kiss me," she said, softly.

He hesitated and grew pale.

"Mamma is out attending the sewing society," the young lady hastened to explain. Then she cast her eyes demurely down and waited.—Ohio State Journal.

NEW PRESS FOR PATERSON

WALTER SCOTT & COMPANY RUSHED EMERGENCY PRESS TO SCENE.

It Will Print Tomorrow's Edition of the Paterson Daily News—A New Press Being Built.

Even before the remains of the Paterson Evening News' immense plant had cooled after Sunday's terrible fire, an order was received at Walter Scott's & Company's press works, this city, for a duplicate of the paper's fine three-decker press which had been destroyed. The machine was built at the local factory and was a very costly piece of mechanism.

Not having a similar one in stock, Mr. Scott contracted to supply an emergency press and have it set up in temporary quarters by this evening. The machine was loaded on six of Hand & Son's trucks, last evening, and was due to arrive in the ravaged city this morning.

Expert pressmen left yesterday afternoon and with a corps of assistants will have it in running order in time for tomorrow's edition. The new press will be rushed with all possible speed.

THE LENTEN SEASON BEGAN THIS MORNING

Services Are Being Held in Roman Catholic and Episcopal Churches Today.

SCHEDULE OF SERVICES.

STRICT FAST IS ORDERED IN THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

The Announcements at the Local Churches for Today—Meaning of the Day According to the Customs of the Primitive Church.

Ash Wednesday, the annual occasion of sprinkling ashes on the heads of notorious offenders thereby excommunicating them, according to a custom of the primitive church, is being observed today in the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches of the city and borough. Special services mark the day. It is the first day of Lent and in the Roman Catholic churches, at least, a strict fast is ordered according to the decree of the church.

In the Episcopal churches the altar hangings and the vestments are of violet. The services at Grace church are as follows: Holy Communion, 7:30 o'clock; morning prayer and Holy Communion, 10:30 o'clock; evening prayer and address, 4:30 o'clock and evening prayer and sermon, 8 o'clock. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the rector, officiates.

At the Church of the Holy Cross, Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, the rector, officiated at morning prayer, sermon and Holy Communion at 10:30 o'clock.

There are three services at St. Stephen's, Netherwood. These are: Early celebration, 7:30 o'clock; morning prayer and second celebration, 11 o'clock, and evensong at 4:30 o'clock. Rev. W. Bryce Morrow is officiating.

There is much solemnity attached to the occasion by the Roman Catholics. In each of the churches there was a distribution of ashes at one of the services. This is a custom of the church from time immemorial. St. Mary's parishioners have the opportunity of attending these services: Low mass, 8 o'clock; month's mind and distribution of ashes, 9 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock in the evening devotions and sermon. Rev. Andrew M. Egan, the pastor, and Rev. Father Farley, the curate, are the officiating priests.

Over at St. Joseph's, Rev. William Miller, the pastor, said low mass at 7:30 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock there will be devotions and an address.

BASEBALL PLANS.

North Plainfield High School Will Have a Good Nine This Spring.

The boys of the North Plainfield High School are making preparations for a baseball team to represent the athletic association of the school on the diamond this spring. There is no lack of material.

A number of the former players will be on the nine. Among these will be Edward Overton, Harry Woodland and Frank Emmons, all fielders, and Fred Armstrong, George Conover and Hilare Blatz, basemen. There will be few places on the nine to be filled and a lively contest is expected from the members of the junior classes. Robert Sander, one of the instructors, will act as coach.

Party to Pastor.

The members of the Mount Zion A. M. E. church tendered a surprise party, Monday evening, to their pastor, Rev. G. B. Smith. After a few opening remarks by E. B. Maynard, the pastor responded fittingly, after which an enjoyable time was had. The evening was spent in social conversation and music after which refreshments were served.

HIDDEN LIGHTS FOR CHANCEL

CONTRACT AWARDED FOR NEW PLAN OF ELECTRIC LIGHTING AT HOLY CROSS.

Chancel and Sanctuary Will be Illuminated by Refraction—No Lights Will be Visible.

Allan B. Laing, the electrician, has been awarded the contract to equip the chancel and sanctuary of the Church of the Holy Cross with electric light fittings. He will commence work at once as it is desired to have the improvement accomplished at the earliest possible date.

The system of the lighting will be by refraction, all the lights being placed behind the arches and hidden from the view of those in the body of the edifice. There will be forty lights in the chancel arch and twenty in the sanctuary arches. These together with electric standards, nine lights of six candle power on each, will make a brilliant effect.

At the present time gas is used and the jets can be seen from any part of the edifice. Aside from the matter of adornment these lights are injuries to the eyes of many who have to gaze at them. Under the new system not a light will be seen. The pulpit desk and the organ will be provided with electric light attachments. As soon as possible it is desired to extend this system of lighting in the body of the church as well.

FINE LECTURE GIVEN BY REV. D. W. SKELLENGER, OF WASHINGTON.

Spoke in Supplementary Course at Y. M. C. A. Hall on "Rips In The Rockies."

An audience, that more than filled the Y. M. C. A. Hall, gathered last evening to enjoy the illustrated lecture on "Rips in the Rockies," given by Rev. D. W. Skellenger, of Washington, D. C. The lecture, without exception, was one of the best ever seen and attracted much interest on the part of all. Mr. Skellenger formerly preached at Dunellen and has a host of friends in this vicinity.

The views shown last evening by Mr. Skellenger were beautiful and pictured more vividly the attractive country of the west than any heretofore seen. Mr. Skellenger took his audience from Chicago to Denver and then through the grand old Rockies, showing the grandeur of the scenery in that part of the country. It is safe to say that not many of those present had such ideas of the Rockies.

Mr. Skellenger's lecture was delightful. In a graphic manner he told of his trip and from beginning to end he held the closest attention of all. As an intermission and at the close there were selections by the Zobo quartette. A. V. Searing, Jr., operated the lantern in a satisfactory manner.

LOCAL YOUNG PEOPLE JOINED IN WEDLOCK

Marriage of Miss Jennie A. Quick and A. H. Derby Took Place Last Night.

AT THE BRIDE'S HOME.

PRETTY HOME CEREMONY WAS WITNESSED BY MANY FRIENDS.

After a Reception the Couple Departed on Their Honeymoon—Members of the Bridal Party—To Reside at Perth Amboy.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar W. Dunham, of East Fifth street, was filled with a joyful assemblage, yesterday afternoon, the occasion being the wedding of Miss Jennie Andrews Quick, Mrs. Dunham's daughter, to Archibald Harvey Derby, of West Front street. Though the nuptial event was intended to be a quiet affair, it was a bright and happy gathering that welcomed the young couple.

The ceremony took place at 5:30 o'clock and at that time the parlors were thronged with the friends of the young people. The rooms were tastefully adorned with southern smilax, ferns and palms, mingled with which were a profusion of pink carnations and roses. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, of which the bride is a member, was the officiating clergyman. He was assisted by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First M. E. church, which the groom's family attend. The simple marriage ceremony of the Reformed church was used.

The opening strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," rendered by Peter Smith, the pianist, from Somerville, was a signal that the nuptial ceremony was about to begin. The groom and his brother, Wilson Derby, who acted as best man, entered from the large hallway and took their places near the clergymen in the front parlor. The bridal party entered from the rear parlor. The maid-of-honor was Miss Emma Burdette, of Elizabeth. When the ritual of the church was ended, the gladsome notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march were heard above the jubilant sounds of the words of congratulation extended to Mr. and Mrs. Derby by the delighted gathering.

During the reception a supper was served by a caterer. The menu was an elaborate affair, and enjoyed by those who had been bidden to the wedding. All during the evening Mr. Smith favored the assemblage with various piano selections of a pleasing nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Derby took their departure shortly after 8 o'clock, boarding an express train for the south. They will have a short honeymoon trip and will subsequently take up their residence at Perth Amboy, where the groom is employed. He is connected with the Hibbard-Rodman-Ely safe works in that place.

William Vroom, of Somerville, and Alvah Davis, of this city, were the ushers at the wedding.

The bride was gowned in white satin, with Duchesse lace and pearl trimmings. She wore a veil of tulle, and carried bridal roses. Miss Burdette, the maid of honor, was gowned in white Persian lawn, with pink trimmings, and she carried pink roses. The gift of the groom to the best man and the ushers was a gold stick pin, while the bride's gift to the maid of honor was a neat pearl pin. Among the guests present were friends from Brooklyn, New York, Orange, Montclair, Elizabeth, Trenton and Somerville.

The presents received by the bride were very elaborate and exceptionally numerous. Among them were designs in cut glass, silver, Dresden and Haviland china, Favrile glass, parlor ornaments, lamps, framed works of art, linen, embroidery and furniture. The Sunday-school class of the bride remembered her by sending a collection of solid silver oyster forks.

Mr. and Mrs. James Derby, of West Front street, the parents of the groom presented to the bride a handsome leather bound family Bible, in which was enclosed the geneological history of the Cary-Derby family, of which he is a descendant. The family record is traced back to Baron DeKari, a noted Englishman of the eleventh century, and to Thomas Derby, who resided in Derbyshire, England, at the beginning of the eighteenth century.

Theatricals Made Big Profits.

The amateur theatricals, held recently for the benefit of the Woman's Exchange, netted over $200.

AFTER GOOD ROADS.

But the Rocky Hill Road Property Owners Failed to Get Them Now.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 12—The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders was held yesterday. The taxpayers and citizens along the Rocky Hill road, which the board has been considering macadamazing, sent a petition and had a committee on hand to urge the matter. A vote to advertise for bids for macadamizing that road was lost by a tie. It is very probable that the matter will come up at the next regular meeting.

MASTER MECHANICS AT THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET

After an Excellent Repast, They Listened to Speeches by Prominent Citizens.

AT HOTEL PLAINFIELD.

PRESIDENT L. B. WOOLSTON ACTED AS MASTER OF CEREMONIES.

First Annual Banquet of Master Mechanics Association Held Last Evening—The Speakers—The Others Present.

Seventy-five members of the Master Mechanics Association, representing every branch of the building trades in this city, gathered in the Hotel Plainfield, last evening, for the organization's first annual banquet. There were also in attendance many of Plainfield's prominent business men and officials, all of whom assisted in making the event a memorable one.

The guests assebmled early in the evening. After being allowed ample time to do full justice to the excellent dinner served under the personal supervision of Manaegr J. E. McConnell, food for the mind was furnished by some of the city's most prominent speakers. This part of the affair was under the direction of President L. B. Woolston, who acted as chairman and called for the speeches. In every case his requests were met with a ready response and so interesting were the remarks that it was long after midnight before the gathering terminated.

Entertainment in another form was furnished by Joseph Loughead with excellent banjo selections, John Carney in his always welcome Teutonic comicalities and William Holmes, with vocal selections. They were encored repeatedly.

Principal among the speakers were "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine, who spoke on "The Invasion of American Labor in Foreign Countries;" Mayor O. L. Jenkins, "Beautiful Buildings in Plainfield;" George J. Tobin, "Modern Plumbing;" Health Inspector William H. Addis, "Plumbing Advancement;" Chief of the Fire Department T. O. Doane, "Plainfield's Building Ordinance;" C. Powell Carr, "Benefits to be Derived by Architects and Builders Working Together." Other addresses were made by E. V. French, John Abbott, C. W. Krausse, W. C. Smith and L. B. Woolston. All of the speeches applied in some way to the building trades and were of benefit to every one in attendance.

Among the members of the Master Mechanics who were present in addition to those mentioned were Albert Enander, Seaman Wililams, I. L. McVoy, Raymond McVoy, Robert Rushton, John Hensey, David Dunavan, William Pangborn, Robert Jahn, Charles M. Raybert, D. W. Littell, A. L. Littell, John Cose, Bertram Tallamy, William H. QUOTED DR. CARROLL'S WORDS

MADE SUBJECT FOR ATTACK ON THE LATE PRESIDENT.

Rev. Oliver Hemstreet Talked on Dr. Carroll's Interview With President on Army Canteen.

A dispatch from Baltimore, in yesterday's New York Times, states that Rev. Oliver Hemstreet, a Presbyterian clergyman, in making a vicious attack on the integrity of the dead President, relied upon the utterances of Mr. McKinley in an interview with Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, of Westervelt avenue.

The Baltimore divine declared that McKinley indirectly sanctioned "one of the stronget and most terrible elements of anarchy." In the interview between Dr. Carroll and the late President the latter is quoted as hesitating in abolishing the canteen, saying: "If I should order the abatement of the canteen, the order would be misconstrued and my political enemies would make capital out of it."

The minister declared that Dr. Carroll stated in reply to an inquiry that the interview was correct but that he did not think the position taken by the President dishonorable. Before the adjournment of the meeting nearly every other minister scored Rev. Mr. Hemstreet for his abusive remarks.

WELLINGTON PUTNAM FINE

AUDIENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL A. A. BENEFIT WELL ENTERTAINED.

Mr. Putnam Gave Two Splendid Numbers of Varied Nature at the Casino.

A recognized master of the dramatic art, Wellington Putnam, of New York, gave a couple of recitations at the Casino last evening, which served to fully demonstrate his marvelous ability and to hold the undivided attention of a large audience. Mr. Putnam is at present a professor of elocution in the American Academy of Dramatic Arts, of New York, and was formerly a member of the Columbia College faculty.

The affair last evening was given under the auspices of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association, and the organization realized how fortunate it was in securing such a talented elocutionist. William Dean Howell's "The Albany Depot" and Stephen Phillips' "Herod" were the two recitations he gave. The broad jump from the one to the other showed him to be an undoubted master, for in both he displayed a most complete understanding of the lines and portrayed the parts in a manner that would have brought joy to the authors.

After the recital the young people in the audience enjoyed a dance, the music for which was furnished by Frazee's orchestra. This festivity lasted until near the midnight hour. Light refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Hervey K. Doane, chairman, the Misses Dorothy Waldo and Edna Moore, Harold Nomer, Fred VanAuken and VanWyck Brooks. Blanchard Fosgate, Linden Bridgeman, Archibald Brakeley, Alden Moore, Edward Janes, VanWyck Brooks and George Babcock were the ushers.

FELL AGAINST STOVE.

Little Daughter of Chris. Angerbauer Had Face Scarred for Life.

A two-months-old infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Angerbauer, of West Second street, received severe and painful burns which will scar her features for life, by falling against a stove, Sunday morning.

The little one was sleeping on a rocking chair when an older sister tipped it over aginst the hot stove, which is a cylinder affair. Before the child could be snatched up, she had been severely burned about the face, side and arms. Dr. Clawson was summoned and relieved the pain as far as possible.

IT MEANS TIE OR DEFEAT FOR ROSELLE

The Park Club Captured One Game Out of Three From the Roselle Casino.

A REMARKABLE GAME.

PARKS ROLLED AS THEY NEVER DID BEFORE AND WON A GREAT VICTORY.

Then Their Nerve Departed and Roselle Took Two Games—That One Game Greatly Affected the General Result in the League.

The last local game in The Daily Press Bowling League tournament, between the Parks and Roselle teams, took place last evening on the Park alleys. The visitors brought a host of friends with them, while the supporters of the Parks were out in full force to root for the home team. From start to finish the bowling was accompanied with an unusal amount of enthusiasm. The Parks succeeded in winning only one out of the three games, but that victory was a remarkable one. As a result, Roselle's chances of winning the championship without an extra series are gone.

Westfield still holds the lead for the trophy, and it is up to Roselle to make the finish of the series tomorrow evening exciting. The latter team must win the remaining three games from Cranford to tie Westfield. If Roselle wins the three games, that will mean another series to decide the winner.

The first game of last evening's series, was remarkable. Up to the eighth frame there were only three breaks by the Parks, made by Willis and Dumont in the fifth, sixth and seventh frames. At the end of the fifth frame the total was 483 and at this pace the final result would have been nearly a thousand. In this game the visitors bowled their poorest and made the lowest score of the series of three games, 695.

In the next two games the Parks lost their nerve and seemed unable to lead their opponents. They lost the second game by a score of 718 to 774, and the third game by a score of 712 to 800. The Parks made every effort to cut down their opponents' steady advance, but this proved fruitless, and the series closed amid deafening shouts for the victors. Throughout the evening, a contingent of small boys rooted loud and long for the Parks.

The scores:

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." You don't have to diet. Eat all the good food you want but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests your food. L. W. Randolph.

WHIST.

The match for the Metropolitan trophy last week between the Brooklyn Whist Club, holders, and the Forest Hill Whist Club, challengers, resulted in a victory for the Brooklyn team by ten tricks to seven. The match was very close and interesting throughout. The Newark Bay Boat Club is next on the list of challengers.

The match last week for the challenge trophy of the American Whist League was played between the Milwaukee Whist Club and the Horlick Whist Club, of Racine, Wis., challengers. Milwaukee lost. Horlick gained fifteen singles, two doubles and one quadruple, a total of twenty-three tricks and lost only nine singles and one double, a total of eleven, winning by twelve tricks. The winter season in the west is now at an end, and the trophy comes east, to be played for till the end of May. As the Baltimore Club was the only eastern aggregation represented at the last congress, the trophy will be placed in its hands for defense. Those who have already challenged are, in order: Knickerbocker Whist Club, of New York; Scranton Bicycle Club, American Whist Club, of Boston and the New Jersey Whist Club. To date Minneapolis holds the lead with fourteen wins. There are strong teams in the East, and some interesting contests are expected. The first Challenge trophy having been won in twenty challenge matches is now the permanent property of the Hamilton Club, of Philadelphia; and the second, having been won in a similar manner, is the property of the American Whist Club, of Boston.

TO DOUBLE PRESENT PLANT

CRESCENT EMBOSSING WORKS IS GOING TO BUILD ADDITION.

Three-Story Brick and Frame Structure Has Been Planned—Because of Increased Business.

Continued brisk business and the daily receipt of large orders has made it necessary for the Crescent Embossing Company to increase the capacity of its plant almost double. Contractors have been asked to figure on plans for a modern addition to the present building, from plans and specifications recently prepared by Architect Fred L. Lancaster.

The designs call for a three story brick and frame structure, forty by fifty feet in dimensions, with all improvements. It will be modern in every respect, a distinctive feature being metal ceilings and sides in the main and private offices. The employes' quarters will be be fitted with the latest sanitary appliances.

On the completion of the building, which will be erected on the north side of the present factory on West Second street, the working force will be greatly enlarged. At present the factory is running early and late to keep up with a rush of orders for fine card and embossing work.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

A good story is told at the expense of the business department of a newspaper office in this State. It seems that a woman seeking a boarding place in advertising in the "want ad" column, had directed that replies be sent to "X" in care of the office in question. Later the advertiser called for the replies. She opened one and this is what it said: Dear Madam—Saw your advertisement. As I am thinking seriously of keeping chickens, would like you to call and see if we can't make terms." Naturally the woman did not relish being referred to as a chicken, and she called upon an attache of the office for an explanation. After an investigation it was found that another woman had advertised a chicken house for sale, and had likewise directed that responses be sent to "X" in care of the office. The attache of the office suppressed a hearty laugh long enough to extend profuse apologies to the advertiser.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The best of everything in the meat line is always to be found at Fred Endress's market. Lowest market prices always prevail. Endress's sea food department is one of the finest in the city.

At Callahan & Son's store on Richmond street are to be found some excellent bargains in canned goods this week. A special sale has also been inaugurated in the sea food department. 'Phone 972.

Have you a cold? Of course, it's the fashion nowadays. But it wouldn't be if Hodge's White Pine cough syrup was used for the ailment. A single bottle works wonders in a remarkably short time. Store in Y. M. C. A. building.

Joseph W. Gavett, the West Front street crockery dealer, is offering some exceptionally fine baragins in decorated dinner ware. He has a number of fine ones in Adelaide, Farland, Smyrna and Arlington patterns of 112 pieces each.

The quality of the fresh meats sold by J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue market man, is never challenged. Everything is the finest the market affords and the prices are always low to cash trade. Orders 'phoned will be delivered promptly.

There are few things that attract more favorable attention than a pair of feet enclosed in a well-fitting and substantial pair of shoes. Around the corner, at A. Willett & Son's store, you will find just the kind of a shoe that not only fits well, but wears well.

The display of Oriental rugs, on exhibition at Woodhull & Martin's, is proving a great attraction to connoisseurs of these goods of whom there are many in Plainfield. Another large shipment of rugs was received today. Some exceptional values are offered. Visitors welcome.

Everything in the grocery line is a specialty with W. W. Dunn, the Park grocer, corner of Duer street and Lincoln place. Among the vast list of specialties he invites attention to the grade of canned goods in his stock. The goods are fancy, but the prices are far from it.

A first-class drug store in a community means health and happiness. Pure drugs, accurately compounded according to prescription, is the essential thing. L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, has an established reputation for purity of goods, accuracy in compounding.

Since removing to the Marsh building, corner Second street and Park avenue, James R. Blair finds that his business is increasing at a rapid rate. His stock is new and all the latest things in men's furnishings can be found in his model emporium. Stop in and inspect the line of gloves he is handling.

The baker man is generally credited with making lots of "dough," but that doesn't imply that there is anything doughy about the bread, cake and confections at Warnock's West Front street bakery. Everything sold by him is crisp and light. He is making a specialty this week of charlotte russe and angel cake.

Human nature is a peculiar study, but Putnam & DeGraw, the West Front street dry goods merchants, have accomplished much in solving this mystery. They keep a superior stock of goods, including notions of all kinds. You often find in this store that which is not kept in any other store.

Long distance, go-as-you-please walkers wear and endorse VanArsdale's shoes and are ready to attest to their comfort giving attributes. Easiness and perfection of fit are two things which should never be overlooked in buying shoes, and it never is at VanArsdale's. Shoes and rubbers for old and young.

Even their competitors recommend Smalley Brothers as up-to-date meat merchants. The other day a Plainfielder dropped in a West Front street butcher store and asked for squabs. Promptly he was informed that there was none in stock. The butcher added, "I don't know where you will get any in Plainfield, unless it be at Smalley Brothers, on North avenue."

Union Prayer Service.

A union prayer service will be held at the First Baptist church Thursday afternoon, in which all of the missionary societies of the church will unite.

Throat Sore?

There's no telling what a sore throat will do if you give it "right of way." Uncertain remedies often cause dangerous delay. Make a cure sure with Painkiller, known for half a century as a specific for sore throat, croup, coughs, and all kindred troubles. Keep it by you for an emergency. It never fails. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

Young Roosevelt's Condition, However, Is Still Critical.

THE CRISIS IS YET TO COME.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Close Watchers by the Bedside—A Message From King Edward and a Call From Long.

GROTON, Mass., Feb. 12.—The consensus of reports from the sickroom of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the eldest son of the president, who since Thursday last has been ill with pneumonia at the Groton School infirmary, tends to show an improvement, and his condition is authoritatively stated to be better than it was at the same time yesterday. The crisis of the disease, however, is still to come. The president and his wife both believe their son will meet this crisis in good condition and, passing it successfully, will recover. The slight favorable turn in the disease has greatly relieved the strain on both of them. Still, the reports issued through Mr. Cortelyou, secretary to the president, run between hope and fear.

Yesterday was a day of anxiety for all concerned. Beginning with the morning, when the boy, after an admittedly hard night, was reported as improved, although pleurisy in the right lung was mentioned, this favorable tendency was continued through the noon statement. Then, at 2:45 o'clock in the afternoon, it was stated that the boy's temperature had risen, that it would probably remain high and, if anything, increase a little toward evening. This somber tone seemed almost to neutralize the morning's encouraging notes.

The next report, at 6:30 in the evening, showed that, notwithstanding the high temperature, the boy had more than held his own all day and that his condition was favorable. Hopefulness was increased by an additional and voluntary report on Mr. Cortelyou's part at 8 o'clock that the lad was in better condition than at the same time Monday night, although he said there had not been much change during the day, meaning that the favorable condition of the morning had been practically maintained.

The president spent the entire evening at the Gardner house.

The last sickroom bulletin for the day was given out at 11 o'clock. Mr. Cortelyou said that at that time every indication was favorable for the boy, but the fever had fluctuated somewhat, and it was impossible to tell just when the crisis would come.

It seemed therefore as if the result of the day had been to place the boy on a somewhat higher scale toward recovery. All these reports were authoritative, and in addition there was a cheery interview with Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, after a hurried visit of courtesy to his chief, in which he frankly said that the boy was better.

One interesting event of the day was the receipt of a telegram from Embassador Pauncefote at Washington, conveying King Edward's expression of sympathy for the president and hope for the speedy recovery of his son. The remarkable weather contributed not a little to the cheerfulness of the day, it being the sixth consecutive day during which the sun has shone brightly from morning to night, while the air has been always cool, but dry and invigorating.

Engineer Was Asleep.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 12.—"I guess I went to sleep on my engine after my train left Haysville, and two minutes later we struck the stock train in which a drover was killed and another man injured." Such was the sensational admission to the coroner of Engineer William Jackson of engine No. 695, which crashed into the caboose of a stock train between Haysville and Agnew, on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad. The engineer testified that he had been on duty for thirteen hours and was tired out. "I remember nothing," he said, "after leaving Osborne until I struck the fast stock train."

National Railroad Commissioners.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 12.—The national convention of railroad commissioners held a long and interesting session yesterday, the president, Judge J. C. Lindley, in the chair. The report of the committee on division of street railway accounts recommends the adoption of the system proposed by the Street Railway association. The report of the committee on grade crossings looks forward to the ultimate abolition of crossings on grades and even the ordinary railroad crossings. The legislative committee recommended such legislation as shall cause a uniform classification of freight.

Furnaces Idle For Lack of Coal.

LEBANON, Pa., Feb. 12.—The Lackawanna Iron and Steel company has been compelled to bank one of the twin furnaces at West Lebanon and another at Cornwall because of the inability of the railroads to supply them with a sufficient amount of coke. If cars are not more plentiful and relief soon in sight, it may be necessary to close the three remaining furnaces at Cornwall, West Lebanon and North Cornwall.

Chicago to Have a Law School.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—A school of law and jurisprudence, to be known as the School of Law and Jurisprudence of the University of Chicago, will be opened by the university Oct. 1. This will be the only law school west of New York requiring a bachelor's degree or three years of college work for admission.

PLATT SCORES HOAR

A Sharp Exchange on Floor of Senate.

PHILIPPINE DEBATE IS CONTINUED.

Resolution Adopted Favoring Change in Date of Presidential Inauguration—House Oleomargarine Bill Greatly Amended.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—A stirring debate on the general Philippine question was precipitated in the senate late yesterday, the principal participants being Mr. Platt (Conn.) and Mr. Hoar (Mass.) Mr. Teller (Colo.) had concluded for the day his argument against the enactment of the pending Philippine tariff bill. In response to some statements he had made Mr. Platt directed the senate's attention to the situation in the islands as he viewed it, maintaining that great progress was being made by the government in subduing the insurrection. He referred to the elections for municipal officers in various cities of the islands and to the establishment of schools for the education of Filipino children. Mr. Hoar ridiculed the statements of Mr. Platt and in a facetious vein adverted to the efforts of the American goverument to control the Filipinos.

The remarks of the Massachusetts senator aroused Mr. Platt, who delivered a notable speech, in the course of which he referred to Mr. Hoar in pretty sharp terms. His speech was listened to by the senators on both sides of the chamber with profound attention. In conclusion he paid an eloquent tribute to the efforts of the United States to carry the principles of free government to every territory where it had control.

In his reply Mr. Hoar delivered an incisive criticism of the action of the Philippine commission, declaring that he had been taught to judge men rather by their actions than by their words, and by this standard he could not judge the Philippine commissioners with any degree of favor.

Early in the day the senate passed a joint resolution submitting a constitutional amendment changing the time of presidential inaugurations and the termination and commencement of congresses from the 4th of March to the last Thursday of April.

The voting on amendments to the oleomargarine bill in the house indicated a considerable change of sentiment since last congress, when the bill had 106 majority, and that the opposition to the measure has gained strength.

The committee amendments adopted changed the phraseology of the bill, the most important being that of making the 10 cent tax apply to oleomargarine made in imitation of butter "of any shade of yellow." Considerable feeling was injected into the proceedings toward the close of the session.

Revision Committee at Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The Presbyterian revision committee has resumed its labors in Westminster hall of the Witherspoon building, confining its attention to the brief statement of faith for popular use. The brief statement contains sixteen chapters or sections, which were formulated by the committee last December while in session in Washington. The committee is now going over the statement chapter by chapter and making changes where they are thought to be necessary. The first three chapters as outlined at the session in Washington were reviewed and conclusions reached in the first two. Three sections are entitled: Chapter 1, Revelation and the Rule of Faith; chapter 2, God; chapter 3, Eternal Purpose. The committee will not give out what was adopted, but it is understood that no important changes have been made.

Gay Day In Paris.

PARIS, Feb. 12.—The Parisians yesterday, re-enforced by thousands of suburban visitors, took advantage of the brilliant sunshine and the spring-like weather to celebrate Mardi Gras with more than their usual enthusiasm. The boulevards of the capital were so densely thronged during the afternoon and evening that vehicular traffic had to be diverted to other thoroughfares. The tables in front of the many cafes were occupied by interested spectators watching the antics of the masqueraders and the confetti throwers, who kept up their frolics until an early hour this morning.

Crew of Burned Ship Safe.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—The schooner which was burned to the water's edge off a point north of Cape May was the Mary Graham, from Norfolk to New York, and the crew is safe, having reached here. They were picked up by the schooner J. C. Clifford. Captain F. H. Medley and five seamen composed the crew of the Graham. She was a two master which left Norfolk, Va., three weeks ago with 167,000 feet of plain lumber consigned to a New York firm.

Gould Buys St. Louis Property.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12.—Property covering a total area of five blocks has been transferred to George J. Gould, president of the Missouri Pacific and Iron Mountain Railway companies. The consideration was $825,000. It is reported that Mr. Gould has made the purchase for the purpose of building an immense freighthouse and to extend freightyard facilities.

Statues For Rome.

ROME, Feb. 12.—The Tribuna announces that the members of the American colony here have decided to present statues of Longfellow and Hawthorne to the city.

A CHICAGO BATTLE.

Rival Claimants to Lake Front Property Shoot to Kill.

CHICAGO, Feb. 12.—During a fight with Winchester rifles between the followers of rival claimants to property lying along the Lake Shore drive, the most aristocratic boulevard in Chicago, Frank Kirk, a watchman for one of the claimants, was shot through the head and died soon afterward.

The property in dispute consists of made land lying east of the Lake Shore drive and between it and Lake Michigan. Captain George W. Streeter, who has for many years been a thorn in the side of north side property owners because of his propensity to settle on vacant ground and then claim in the courts the rights of a squatter, has erected several small shanties upon this ground and claims that inasmuch as it was not originally included in the government surveys of the state of Illinois it does not belong to the state, but was public property open to settlement. He claims to be the first settler and calls the ground "the district of Lake Michigan" and denies that the officials of the city of Chicago or the state of Illinois have any rights upon it.

In the immediate neighborhood of the scene of last night's fight a number of Chicago's most prominent men reside, among them being ex-United States Senator Farwell, O. W. Potter, Franklin MacVeagh and Potter Palmer.

ALL HOPE ABANDONED.

British Sloop of War Condor and Her Crew Given Up as Lost.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 12.—All hope for the missing sloop of war Condor, which left here on Dec. 2, just before the big storm which wrecked the collier Matteawan off Cape Flattery, was abandoned with the arrival of the survey ship Egeria from a trip along the west coast of Vancouver.

The Egeria went as far north as the Scott islands, off the north end of Vancouver island. At Clayoquot, on the west coast, her officers found wreckage from the Condor which shows that she must have gone down or was smashed to pieces by the heavy seas. This wreckage included a deck grating marked with the broad arrow of the British navy, a signal box recognized as one from a British warship, sheathing and part of a topmast. It is hardly probable that the ship could have withstood a storm which would wash these articles from her deck.

The crew of the Condor numbered 130 officers and men. Her officers were: Commander, Clifton Slater; lieutenants, B. Mason (navigator) and Henry V. F. Proctor; surgeon, T. S. Hartley; assistant paymaster in charge, William H. Franklin; artificer engineer, George J. Detten; engineer, D. A. Burns.

Murdered In the Woods.

MALONE, N. Y., Feb. 12.—News has been received here that John King, a caretaker on the A. A. Low preserve at Horseshoe, in the Adirondacks, was found dead in his cabin, with strong evidence that a murder had been committed. The camp is located some four miles back in the woods, and King, who occupied the camp alone, was accustomed to come out every two or three weeks for supplies. Not having been seen since Jan. 7, Mr. Low's foreman sent in men to investigate. They found the body on the bed partially undressed, with a cut on the forehead and over the eye and serious bruises on the arms and legs, and wounds which appeared to have been made with a knife. The room was in great confusion, with indications of a struggle. King's empty pocketbook lay on the floor.

Killed by a Blast.

ROANOKE, Va., Feb. 12.—John Dooly was instantly killed and Samuel Brown fatally injured by the unexpected explosion of a blast at the works of the Sagamore Coal and Coke company near Dunbring, Mercer county, W. Va., Monday night. The men, thinking a fuse which had been lighted some time had gone out, returned to cut another fuse and relight it when the blast went off with fatal results.

Receiver Named For Closed Bank.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 12.—A receiver was appointed by Judge Donovan this morning for the wrecked City Savings bank. Dr. Wellings reports that Cashier H. R. Andrews, who is seriously ill with nervous prostration and heart trouble, has improved considerably. He was able to sit up for a short time, and his mind was clearer than it has been at any time since he broke down.

Lawson Buys Blooded Horse.

BUFFALO, Feb. 12.—Thomas W. Lawson of Boston has purchased of the Messrs. Hamlin of the Village Farm their premier stallion, Daredevil. Messrs. Hamlin will not name the price paid, but it is known that they had previously refused Mr. Lawson's offer of $35,000. The insurance on Daredevil to cover him in transit to Boston is $50,000.

Left Much to Charity.

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—Mrs. Julia Elma Brewster Brick, who died at the age of eighty in her home in Brooklyn Feb. 3, bequeaths in her will, just filed with Surrogate Church, a great portion of her estate, which is said to be worth nearly $1,000,000, to charities, in which she had been interested for fifty years.

Canada to Reduce Paper Duty.

OTTAWA, Feb. 12.—The government has decided to reduce the customs duty on news printing paper from 25 per cent to 15 per cent ad valorem. This is the result of Justice Tacheros' inquiry into the charge of the Canadian Press association that there was a combination among the paper manufacturers.

LIPTON WILL COME.

Invitation to the Olympian Games In 1904 at Chicago Accepted.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Sir Thomas Lipton will accept the committee's invitation to be present at the Olympian games to be held in Chicago in 1904 and if possible will bring the new America's cup challenger to sail on the lakes. Sir Thomas is quoted as saying:

"I greatly appreciate the invitation and the kind things President Thurber says about me. If nothing prevents it, I shall certainly be present at the games, and if the difficulties can be overcome I will show the Chicagoans the challenger. If that is impracticable, I might consider building a boat for the special purpose of competing on the lakes. At the first glance the problem of getting a boat of the size of the challenger through the canals does not appear so great as the Chicago committee fears. The pontoons on which the Shamrock II. was launched are still available and ought to carry her through."

Sir Thomas also said he would soon send out the cup which he has presented to the Chicago Yacht club for annual competition, and he hoped the members would find it worthy of the club.

INDEPENDENCE FOR FILIPINOS.

American Peace Society Petitions Congress to That Effect.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—The directors of the American Peace society have sent to congress the following petition in favor of the ultimate independence of the Philippine Islands:

"The board of directors of the American Peace society respectfully petition congress to declare by resolve that the United States will grant independence to the Filipinos as soon as they shall establish and prove their ability to maintain stable civil government.

"We believe that such a declaration, similar to that made for Cuba just prior to the Spanish war, would meet the approval of the great majority of the American people, would prove to the world the unselfish purposes of our country, would restore peace to the Philippines at an early day and thus prevent the further sacrifice of life and property in what seems likely under existing conditions to be an indefinitely protracted and bitter conflict."

The petition is signed on behalf of the society by Robert Treat Paine, president, and Dr. B. F. Trueblood, secretary.

Whistler Gets Academy Medal.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 12.—The board of directors of the Academy of Fine Arts has awarded the academy gold medal of honor to James McNeill Whistler, who is represented in the current annual exhibition by one of his most distinguished portraits, entitled "The Andalusian," owned by J. H. Whittemore of Naugatuck, Conn., and a group of sixty-seven etchings collected by and belonging to Howard Mansfield of New York. This medal was founded in 1893 by John H. Converse, a member of the board of directors. The awards thus far made of this medal have been to Ridgway Knight, Alexander Harrison, William M. Chase, Winslow Homer, Edwin A. Abbey, Cecilia Beaux, Charles Grafly and Henry Thouron. The medal is a large gold disk designed by Dupuis, a notable French sculptor, and is recognized as an unusually handsome example of this form of art.

Farewell Dinner to Prince Henry.

BERLIN, Feb. 12.—At the farewell dinner given last night by Emperor William to Prince Henry Andrew D. White, the American embassador, occupied a seat on the right of his majesty, while Count von Bulow, the imperial chancellor, sat on Emperor William's left. Other members of the American embassy were present. During the dinner Emperor William was chatty, jolly and interesting, and English was the only language used. Mr. White showed the emperor a cable received from Secretary of State Hay, saying that the son of President Roosevelt was better. After dinner the party spent an hour in the library smoking, Emperor William, Mr. White and all the others then accompanied Prince Henry to the railroad station, the train leaving for Kiel a few minutes after midnight.

Gillham, proprietor of the Empire hotel, which was burned last Sunday morning, has been held responsible by the coroner's jury for the death of the eleven persons who lost their lives as the result of the fire. TREATY WITH JAPAN

Great Britain Forms an Important Alliance.

FOR INTEGRITY OF CHINA AND KOREA

Object of Agreement to Maintain Status Quo and Peace In Extreme East—Aggressive Policy Is Denied.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—An important parliamentary paper was issued last night, giving the terms of a practical alliance between Great Britain and Japan for the preservation of China and Korea. The paper covers a dispatch sent by Lord Lansdowne, the secretary of state for foreign affairs, Jan. 30 to the British minister at Tokyo, Sir Claude M. Macdonald, and comprises a signed copy of the agreement. In explanation the paper says the agreement may be regarded as an outcome of the events of the past two years. Throughout the Boxer troubles Great Britain and Japan had been in close and uninterrupted communication and actuated by similar views.

"We each desire," says Lord Lansdowne, "that the integrity and independence of the Chinese empire should be preserved and that there should be no disturbance of the territorial status quo either in China or the adjoining regions."

The discovery that their far eastern policies were identical resulted in each party to the agreement expressing its desire that their common policy find expression in an international contract of binding validity.

Lord Lansdowne further says that the British government was largely influenced in entering upon this important contract by the conviction that it contains no provisions which can be regarded as aggressive or self seeking. He says it is concluded merely as a measure of precaution and that it in no way threatens the present position or legitimate interests of other powers.

His majesty's government trusts that the agreement will be of mutual advantage to the two countries and make for the preservation of peace and should peace unfortunately be broken it will have the effect of restricting the area of hostilities.

The agreement is signed by Lord Lansdowne and Baron Hayashi, the Japanese minister to Great Britain.

So well was the secret kept that the paper, issued after parliament had adjourned for the night, announcing the first important alliance between a western and a yellow or Asian race comes as a startling surprise to the public, and, although the idea of an alliance with Japan is likely to meet with general approval, the outcome of this sensational departure will be anticipated with no little anxiety. It is regarded as a direct move against Russia and to explain the abandonment of the colony of Weihaiwei.

"Old Home Week" Funds.

BOSTON, Feb. 12.—Following a presentation of the "Old Home week" idea by Representative Adams of Melrose, former Governor F. W. Rollins of New Hampshire and D. H. Heath, president of the Pine Tree club, at a hearing here the committee on towns of the legislature reported a resolution authorizing cities and towns to appropriate money for "Old Home week" purposes and designating the week beginning with the last Sunday in July as the period for the festivities. It is the intention of the committee to ask the legislature to suspend the rules and pass the measure to enactment without delay in order that the towns may take action, if they so desire, at the annual March town meetings.

Herring Fishermen In Hard Luck.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Feb. 12.—The winter herring fishing at Placentia bay is now over. It has proved the very worst on record, the continued mild weather making it impossible to freeze the fish. About twenty fishing vessels from Massachusetts visited Placentia and Fortune bays during the season, but very few of them obtained full cargoes. The Canadian vessels engaged in the fishing had equally poor success. Hundreds of barrels of fish rotted for lack of frost or salt with which to pickle them.

State Officials Attend Funeral.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—A party of state officials and legislators left this city this morning for Newburg on a special train to attend the funeral of Mrs. Odell, mother of Governor Odell. Bond and a large number of senators and assemblymen.

ORGANIZED CHARITY.

The lecture on "Twentieth Century Charity," which H. M. Maxson recently delivered before an informal conference of workers in local charities and churches, was repeated Monday evening before an open meeting of the Organized Aid Association, of which Mr. Maxson is president. It contained a comprehensive statement of the modern ideas on charity.

When the lecture was first delivered The Daily Press commented on some of the facts brought forth which promised to revolutionize the old methods of distribution of charity. It was pointed out that an attempt to centralize the distribution of charity would meet with opposition on the part of those who believe in the personal factor. Such a consolidation of charities was referred to as a "charity trust."

In his talk, Mr. Maxson explains it is unity in investigation and not a common distributing centre which the Organized Aid Association desires to bring about. By maintaining a common bureau for investigation, each charity will have the benefit of all the others and there will be much less misplaced charity. Where the investigations are conducted independently, much of the work is repeated and naturally none of the investigations are as complete as under the other arrangement.

Mr. Maxson's plan is undoubtedly according to the most modern ideas and does, in a measure, follow out the line of consolidated effort which is so apparent in every line of progress these days. It has worked with success in a limited field by the Organized Aid Association. It is understood that it is now the desire of Mr. Maxson and other prominent members of that organization to extend the work so as to include all the local churches. There appears to be no reason why its enlarged field should hinder its efficiency.

Like other new schemes, it will be very likely to meet with some opposition, particularly by those who cannot abide by the idea of organized investigation or any other business methods being introduced in a work which has heretofore largely been done by the individual quietly and without consultation. The fine work done by the Oragnized Aid Association will serve to a great extent to demonstrate what is desired and what results may be accomplished through organized charity.

Because President Baer, of the Reading Railroad, happened to pay a little social visit to President Cassett, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, there immediately went forth a rumor to the effect that the two companies had reached an agreement for the use of the proposed tunnel facilities of the Pennsylvania at Jersey City. Such a state of affairs would be eminently desirable to all the patrons of the Reading and the Jersey Central. In this case, however, it turned out that nothing more important than horse was discussed at the meeting of the two men who head those great railway systems. Every Plainfielder hopes, however, that the gentlemen in question will get together in the future and settle on some arrangement whereby the tunnel under the Hudson can be utilized by the other road.

When The Daily Press insists on the enforcement of the hack ordinance or the passage of another one which will be obeyed, it is not done with the intention of robbing a single hackman of his rights. On the contrary, a strict enforcement of such an ordinance will give all the same show. It makes no difference in the amount of business whether the hackmen are allowed to swarm up on the station platform or whether they line up along the curb as the ordinance provides. The only essential thing is that all shall be treated alike.

The social season, which closed yesterday, has not been as lively a one for Plainfield as have some of those in the past. It opened quite auspiciously but there was not the continual round of social functions which marked the year before and local society has had a comparatively quiet time of it since the holidays. According to plans now being made, the Easter tide will see much activity and may bring the general average for the year up to the standard.

The bill consolidating the elections in boroughs and townships as well as in cities, after the plan of the Meeker election act, has been introduced in the Legislature. According to the reports from Trenton, it has an excellent chance of being passed. It is certainly to be hoped that the decision is made in favor of the bill unless it should be found to contain some obnoxious features in addition to the elimination of the spring elections.

An instance of the remarkable enterprise of the modern showman is to be found in the production of moving pictures of the Paterson fire of Sunday which were displayed at a New York theatre Monday afternoon and evening.

The Last Heard Of It.

"My little boy took the croup one night and soon grew so bad you could hear him breathe all over the house," says F. D. Reynolds, Mansfield, O. "We feared he would die, but a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure quickly relieved him and he went to sleep. That's the last we heard of the croup. Now isn't a cough cure like that valuable?" One Minute Cough Cure is absolutely safe and acts immediately. For coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis and all other throat and lung troubles it is a certain cure Very pleasant to take. Reduced Trolley Fares.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 12—At a meeting of the Town Commissioners, Monday night, it was announced that Superintendent Walsh of the trolley company had agreed to reduce the fare between this place and Raritan to a certain extent. On Saturday he will put on sale seven tickets, good either way, which will be sold for twenty-five cents. The regular fare is five cents going and five cents returning. Thus this means a saving of ten cents on seven trips.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." BOY WANTED.

Smart Boy, about 15 years old, wanted to learn printing business. Apply, after 3 p. m., to foreman composing room of The Daily Press.

SUDDENLY CALLED.

Mrs. Katharine Vail Runyon Passed Away Yesterday—A Beautiful Character.

The sudden death of Mrs. Katharine Vail Runyon, which occurred yesterday was a shock to a large circle of friends.

She was the daughter of Stephen and Susan Vail and was born near Greenbrook, within the present limits of Plainfield. She was married at the age of nineteen to the late Judge Enos W. Runyon, who was always proud to refer to her as his helper and inspiration, and whose love and devotion he attributed his success, both as a lawyer and as a public man.

Mrs. Runyon was noted for her sunny disposition, her loyalty to her friends, her gentle sympathy and her earnest Christian character. She was baptized at the age of twenty by Rev. Daniel T. Hill and has ever since been a faithful member of the Baptist church. In her early life she was identified with the various charities of Plainfield, but of late years her delicate health prevented her from being very active.

She is survived by four children, Mrs. Robert Lowry and Mrs. Chas. A. Stover, of this city, Mrs. Arthur E. Lee, of Havana, and Albert L. Runyon, who has been many years in south Africa.

Mrs. Runyon also leaves one sister, Mrs. Susan Moffett, of Philadelphia, and one brother, Wallace Vail, of this city.

The funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence of Mrs. Robert Lowry, of 324 Webster place.

Will Not Appear.

The Toney Vaudeville Entertainers will not appear at the Frisbie benefit to be given in Washington Hall tomorrow evening, as had been announced. Buck and wing dancing, which had been advertised as their specialty, is not part of their programmes. The troupe gives church entertainments and objects to receive publicity as fancy dancers.

THE HAAS BROTHERS

Three of Them Have Fallen in Love with Jane Segur.

Two of the Romances Were Stained with Blood—The Third May End Happily for Both Bride and Groom.

Jane Segur, or Haas, the latter being the name she has borne for many years, has had two romances, both stained with blood, and her third may be bloodless—if the prospective bride and groom get away in time. Jane Segur is to marry the third of the Haas brothers. She had previously married the other two, but death intervened and she became twice a widow. The third Haas seems to have no fear, but all the good shots in Montezuma county are not dead yet and there is no telling what may happen.

Twice married and widowed, Mrs. Haas is soon to become a bride for the third time, and is willing to run all risks.

Thirty years ago William Haas was a prosperous young merchant at Mount Gilead, O., but the balm in that Gilead was not sufficient to satisfy the yearnings of his soul for greater wealth, so he removed his goods and other belongings to Cortez, Neb., and set up a trading house.

The belle of Cortez when Haas first made his appearance was Jane Segur, and she was as pretty as a maiden dared be.

Two brothers by the name of Siegel were particularly attentive to Jane, and they gave it out that the man who married Jane had better make his will before the marriage ceremony was performed. Now it happened that little Jane had fallen in love with William Haas, and accepted his offer of heart and hand. When the Siegels heard of it they became more than ordinarily strenuous. They talked to Haas in an unseemly manner until his Ohio blood becoming hot he was aroused to anger, and he promptly added a full charge of large shot to the weight of one of the brothers, causing death almost instantly.

When the interest in the death of Siegel had died down, says the Chicago Tribune, Haas led his bride to the altar and continued business at the old stand, not caring to go away on a honeymoon trip. His business prospered and everything went along smoothly until one night as he was going home from the store he was shot dead from ambush, the bullet fired by the unseen foe entering the heart. The finger of suspicion, as it is sometimes called, was pointed at the surviving Siegel, but when he asked the men of Cortez to proclaim publicly that they thought he was the man, not one of them opened his mouth. This particular Siegel was the best shot in several counties.

John Haas went to Cortez from Mount Gilead to settle up his brother's business affairs, for the widow was too prostrated to think of anything but her sorrows, but she brightened up after John's arrival. He was not bad looking, and, being a good business man, soon straightened out all the commercial kinks. He had business to attend to in Ohio, but he lengthened his stay at Cortez until it was too late to return. He had fallen in love with his brother's relict, and the end of it all was that he married her. He, like his brother William, lived happily with Jane, who was still the most beautiful woman in Cortez, until his sudden death. Whether the Siegel brother still had vengeance in his heart or not is not known, but it is said he was in town when William died.

There was still another Haas brother, named Henry, at Mount Gilead, and it became his duty to go west and look after the interests of the widow. He was more or less reluctant, but he did not shirk his duty. He went to Cortez, put the business in proper shape, and then began to linger. He might have gone back to Ohio again, but he didn't. The widow was not so young as when she first married, but her eyes were still bright and Henry, being unmarried, liked her. To all appearances she was not averse to his company, and at last he ventured to suggest that it would not be a bad idea if they became man and wife. As a saving clause he remarked that it were better, perhaps, if they were wed at Mount Gilead and made their permanent residence there. He thought the climate at Cortez unhealthy. She agreed with him, and in a few days they will go to Mount Gilead, get married, and reside at the old Haas homestead.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. An old gentleman, who had employment as a school janitor, found his work terribly interfered with by continuous headaches, which would follow headaches, and of so severe a nature that he could scarcely stand, sit or walk. He was subjected to a great deal of dust and dirt and changes of temperature, and suffered with a torpid liver and, of course, was a victim to all the ailments that a foul stomach can produce. He had taken but a few Ripans Tabules, when he became convinced that he had found in them a permanent cure. His headaches are less violent and further apart, his digestive organs perform their functions, and his liver throws out foul matter like a trip-hammer—so he says.

WANTED—A case of bad health that RIPANS will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word RIPANS on the package and accept no substitute. RIPANS, 10 for 5 cents, may be had at any drug store. Ten samples and one thousand testimonials will be mailed to any address for 5 cents, forwarded to the Ripans Chemical Co., No. 10 Spruce St., New York.

SATIN QUITE THE RAGE.

The Seal of Fashion Has Been Set Upon It.

In the cable car the other day there was quite an old man, and he was talking with a much younger one, who had something in his face suggestive of what the elder one might have been when he was young. I fancy the young one was the grandson of the other. Well, this old man said to the young one:

"When I was buying frocks for my wife, a caliker was thought plenty good enough, and, I vum! I don't think any of the women in this here town look half as pretty as she did in her sprigged frock. If I had my way, it should be against the law for a woman to have more than one dress, except for her working rigs, and they to be the old ones when they got faded. I tell you women can't give so much time to fixings and tend to their housekeeping proper."

I wondered what the wife would have said on the subject had she been there to make a few remarks, and also it came into my mind that some of the very women whose extravagant dress he was so opposed to were among the best housekeepers in the country.

Satin has certainly had the seal of fashion set upon it, for some of the most beautiful of all the gowns are made of this rich and lustrous material. At a recent ball in New York Mrs. William Astor wore black and white satin, with the necessary trimmings. Mrs. John Jacob Astor wore pale blue satin. Mrs. Chauncey Depew had salmon pink satin, Mrs. Richard Gambrill cream white satin, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander white satin. Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt pale pink satin, Mrs. William D. Sloane pale blue satin, Mrs. James Burden, Jr., cream satin, Mrs. H. McKay Twombly rose colored satin and Mrs. Richard Trimble pearl gray satin, and there were many other ladies attired in satin. A few wore velvet, some had panne and others brocade, but every other one had satin. This is significant.

Satin is so easy to trim and wears so well and looks so dressy that it is no wonder that it has sprung so suddenly into favor. It will also be worn in the street, though we need not expect to see as concomitants diamonds and point lace, such as were worn at this grand ball.

A superb gown for almost any evening function was made of the richest black Lyons velvet. The skirt was the usual fitted shape, but it flowed widely at the bottom and had one deep flounce of magnificent white lace, if not real, at least a perfect imitation. The reason I qualify this is because a flounce of real point would cost a fortune, and few women would dare to trust such lace to the tender mercies of awkward feet. This flounce is headed by a row of fine jet trimming done in open netted design. The waist is prettily draped at the waist line and finished at the corsage with a row of roses. The sleeves are of black net, with chiffon ruchings and a row of crush roses around the elbow. A large black chiffon boa is carried. These are apparently to be better liked than before, if one may judge by the enormous numbers of them now in the hands of the manufacturers. They are of every shade of color and style of make, but those in black or white or a mixture of the two will surely be the most popular because the most becoming.

The summer dress goods are coming in fast, and some of them are too dainty and pretty to wear. They ought to be framed as calendar pictures. The lawns and printed batistes are literally works of art, for the tiny blossoms represented on them are almost nature, in appearance at least. I saw one batiste with a design of swamp azalias thrown over the surface with a liberal hand. How dainty it was no one can imagine without seeing it. All through the list of thin goods it would seem that the makers of them have tried to surpass everything ever made before in point of fineness of texture as well as the beauty of the designs printed on them. The mercerization of cottons had added to them a richness and luster never before known. The mercerized chambrays and lawns are simply exquisite and made up beautifully. They do not lose their richness in washing. Ginghams and zephyrs are also treated to this process, which makes them look like silk, and therefore especially well adapted to shirt waists and, above all, to children's attire.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"I shall hope to be in a position to do so," I answered, after which he bade me good-by, and picking up his hat and stick left the room.

I sat down and wrote a letter to Miss Kitwater, telling her all that had occurred; then went out to dispatch it with a telegram to Kitwater himself, informing him of the offer Hayle had made. I could guess the paroxysm of rage into which it would throw him, and I would willingly have spared his niece the pain such an exhibition must cause her. I could see no other way out of it, however. The message having been dispatched, I settled myself down to wait for a reply, with all the patience I could command. In my own mind I knew very well what it would be. It was not so much the money that Kitwater wanted as revenge. That Hayle's most miserable offer would only increase his desire for it, I felt certain. Shortly after three o'clock the reply arrived. It was short and to the point, and ran as follows:

"Tell him I will have all or nothing."

Here was a nice position for a man to find himself in. Instead of solving the difficulty we had only increased it. I wondered what Hayle would say when he heard the news, and what his next step would be. That he would endeavor to bolt again, I felt quite certain. It was a point in my favor, however, that he would not know until the evening what Kitwater's decision was, so I felt I had still some time to arrange my plan of action. Of one thing I was quite determined, and that was that he should be watched day and night from that minute, but not by Mr. Dickson. That worthy I bade return to England, and his rage on discovering that Mlle. Beaumarais' maid had tricked him would have been amusing to witness, had the principal event in which I was most concerned not been so grave. The expressions he used about her were certainly far from being complimentary.

Feeling that I must have other assistance, I set off for my old friend Leglosse's residence. I had the good fortune to meet him by the concierge's lodge, and we ascended the stairs to his rooms together.

"I have come to ask you to do me a favor," I said, when we were seated in his sitting-room.

"A thousand favors, if you wish, cher ami," the old fellow replied. "Tell me how I can have the pleasure of serving you."

"I want you to lend me one of your men for a few days," I said. "I have to send my own man back to England, and I am afraid the gentleman we were discussing last night may give me the slip in the meantime if I'm not careful."

The better to enable him to appreciate the position, I furnished him with a brief summary of the case upon which I was engaged.

"And so you are to dine with your prisoner to-night?" he remarked, with one of his quiet chuckles. "That is droll—very droll. It is very good for you that it is at such a place, or I should have my doubts as to the rascal's intentions. But you are well able to take care of yourself, my friend; that I know."

"And the man?"

"You shall have him. You shall have half a dozen if you like. I am only too pleased to be able to help in such a good work. You shall have Pierre Lepallard, my right-hand. I cannot give you a better. Nothing escapes Pierre, and he is discreet, oh, yes, my friend, he is discreet. He will not obtrude himself, but he will know all that your friend does, to whom he speaks, what he said to him, and sometimes even what he intends doing before he does it."

"In that case he is just the man for me," I replied. "I am exceedingly obliged to you for your considerate courtesy. Some day I may be able to repay it."

Within half an hour the estimable Lepallard had been made acquainted with his duties, and within an hour a ragged tatterdemalion of a man was selling matches on the opposite side of the road to that on which Hayle's apartments were situated.

I reached the restaurant at which we were to dine that evening punctual to the moment, only to find that Hayle had not yet arrived. For a minute I was tempted to wonder whether he had given me the slip again, but while the thought was passing through my mind a cab drove up, and the gentleman himself alighted.

"I must beg your pardon for keeping you waiting," he said, apologetically. "As your host I should have been here first. That would have been the case had I not been detained at the last moment by an old friend. Pray forgive me!"

I consented to do so, and we entered the restaurant together.

I discovered that he had already engaged a table, arranged the menu, and bespoken the wines. We accordingly sat down, and the strangest meal of which I had ever partaken commenced. Less than a week before the man sitting in front of me had endeavored to bring about my destruction; now he was my host, and to all outward appearances my friend as well. I found him a most agreeable companion, a witty conversationalist, and a born raconteur. He seemed to have visited every part of the known globe; had been a sailor, a revolutionist in South America, a blackbirder in the Pacific, had seen something of what he called the "pig-tail trade" to Borneo, some very queer life in India, that is to say, in the comparatively unknown native states, and had come within an ace of having been shot by the French during the war in Madagascar.

"In point of fact," he said, "I may say that I have traveled from Dan to Beersheba, and, until I struck this present vein of good fortune, had found all barren. Some day, if I can summon up sufficient courage, I shall fit out an expedition and return to the place whence the stones came, and get some more, but not just at present. Events have been a little too exciting there of late to let us consider it a healthy country. By the way, have you heard from our friend, Kitwater, yet?"

"I have," I answered, "and his reply is by no means satisfactory."

"I understand you to mean that he will not entertain my offer?"

I nodded my head.

"He must have 'all or nothing,' he declares. That is the wording of the telegram I received."

"Well, he knows his own affairs best. The difference is a large one, and will materially affect his income. Will you take creme de minthe-kummel or cognac?"

"Cognac, thank you," I replied, and that was the end of the matter.

During the remainder of the evening not another word was said upon the subject. We chatted upon a variety of topics, but neither the matter of the precious stones nor even Kitwater's name was once mentioned. I could not help fancying, however, that the man was considerably disappointed at the non-acceptance of his preposterous offer. He had made a move on the board, and had lost it. I knew him well enough, however, by this time to feel sure that he had by no means despaired yet of winning the game. Men of Gideon Hayle's stamp are hard to beat.

"Now," he said, when we had smoked our cigarettes, and after he had consulted his watch, "the night is still young. What do you say if we pay a visit to a theater—the Hippodrome, for instance. We might while away an hour there very pleasantly, if you feel so disposed."

I willingly consented, and we accordingly left the restaurant. Once we were in the street Hayle called a cab, gave the man his instructions, and we entered it. Chatting pleasantly, and still smoking, we passed along the brilliantly illuminated boulevards. I bestowed little, if any, attention on the direction in which we were proceeding. Indeed, it would have been difficult to have done so, for never during the evening had I been so agreeable. A more charming companion no man could have desired. It was only on chancing to look out the window that I discovered we were no longer in the gaily-lighted thoroughfares, but were entering another and dingier part of the town.

"What is the matter with the driver?" I asked. "Doesn't he know what he is about? This is not the way to the Hippodrome! He must have misunderstood what you said to him. Shall I hail him and point out his mistake?"

"No, I don't think it is necessary for you to do that," he replied. "Doubtless he will be on the right track in a few minutes. He probably thinks if he gives us a longer ride he will be able to charge a proportionately larger fee at the end. The Parisian cabby is very like his London brother."

He then proceeded to describe to me an exceedingly funny adventure that had befallen him once in Chicago. The recital lasted some minutes, and all the time we were still pursuing our way in a direction exactly opposite to that which I knew we should be following. At last I could stand it no longer.

"The man's obviously an idiot," I said, "and I am going to tell him so."

"I shouldn't do that, Mr. Fairfax," said Hayle, in a different voice to that which he had previously addressed me. "I had my own reasons for not telling you before, but the matter has already been arranged. The man is only carrying out my instructions."

"What do you mean by already arranged?" I asked, not without some alarm.

HEARING ON CANALS.

Governor Odell's Plan to Enlarge Erie Discussed.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12.—Strong support for the bill calling for the expenditure of $28,800,000 in the enlargement and improvement of the Erie canal was mustered at the hearing given yesterday afternoon by the canal committee of the senate. Delegations from leading commerce and trade organizations from all sections of the state were present to urge legislation on the canal proposition as outlined in the message of Governor Odell. Despite the report that there would be no canal legislation this year, the canal advocates were enthusiastic, and after the hearing many of them expressed their firm belief that the proposition would go through. Henry B. Hebert of the Canal Association of Greater New York seemed to voice the sentiments of all in favor of the enlargement of canals when he said to the committee, "The governor's proposition or nothing; $28,800,000 for the canals, and not a cent less."

The arguments against the canal proposition were presented by Senator Ambler, who believes in federal control of the state waterways and who introduced the concurrent resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution permitting the sale or lease of the canals.

John I. Platt of Poughkeepsie said he represented the taxpayers of Dutchess county as well as several organizations. He had previously appeared before the canal committee and against other schemes, and he was as heartily opposed to this bill as he was to those that were pending in previous years. He declared that for every dollar the canal boatman earned the state had to pay $2.30. He declared that the state was losing millions by its canals and that if the matter were considered as a strictly business proposition, as it should be, there would be no hesitancy about killing the present proposition. For the benefit of a few the taxpayers of the state had to go into their pockets. He said that it would cost the state $188,000,000 before the canal advocates were satisfied.

F. B. Thurber of the New York chamber of commerce spoke in favor of the bill.

R. B. Norris of the state grange spoke against the bill, declaring that the proposition for a large canal would be preferable to the present canal proposition.

New York State Schools.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 12. The annual report of the high school department of the state board of regents shows that at the commencement of the current fiscal year there were 741 institutions of secondary education in the state, an increase during the year of thirty-six. High schools expended $3,596,677 and academies $2,106,043. The average expenditure in each secondary school was $68.05 for each student as compared with $76 in 1900, a decrease of $7.95. The number of graduates holding four years or higher credentials is 6,403, an increase of 1,203. The whole number of academic diplomas issued during the past year was 4,134, which is 32 per cent of the number of preliminary certificates issued in 1897.

A Dinner to Depew.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The Republican members of the New York delegation in congress gave a dinner to Senator Depew at the New Willard last night. The affair was intended as a return compliment to the bachelor dinner given by the senator before he departed for Europe to be married. Other guests included Secretary Root, Speaker Henderson and Secretary Charles G. Bennett of the senate. Mrs. Depew came down to the hotel with the senator, and the guests were formally presented to her by Speaker Henderson. She was also the recipient of a handsome bouquet of American Beauty roses. The dinner was informal, and there were no set speeches.

A Fatal Landslide.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 12.—A section gang on the Eatonton and Greensboro public road were buried by a landslide in a deep cut. As a consequence Ed Evans is dead and two others are fatally injured. The hands were engaged in grading. Without warning a huge section of earth sloughed off and fell upon them.

DETAILS OF GROWTH OF 'PHONE SERVICE

How Local Exchange Has Prospered in its Twenty-One Years of Existence.

NUMBER OF MESSAGES.

GREATEST GROWTH SINCE MANAGER C. W. RUNYON TOOK CHARGE.

System Extended to Westfield, New Market, Bound Brook, Somerville and South Plainfield—Trunk Wires Now in Service.

It is interesting to review the history of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company so far as its local interests are concerned. It has formed an important part of the growth of the city. As already stated the first telephone installed in this city was in the office of The Constitutionalist in 1880 by Charles W. Runyon, who is now manager for the company. One hundred telephones were installed that year. Percy C. Ohl was the manager at the time, while Charles Wann, of the borough, was an assistant.

During the following six years the plant did not grow very much. Mr. Ohl was manager for two years and was succeeded by Homer Miller, of Boston, who remained here one year. The next manager was H. W. Leland, of South Framingham, Mass., who also remained one year. He was succeeded by Henry G. Root, who served for three years as manager. Charles W. Runyon then returned to Plainfield in the year, 1889, and has ever since held the position of manager.

When Manager Runyon came to Plainfield there were no telephones in Westfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, South Plainfield or New Market. There were in all 135 subscribers at that time. Today there are 700 in Plainfield, 140 in Somerville, 100 in Westfield, thirty-five in Bound Brook and there is connection with South Plainfield and New Market.

In the early days there was one trunk wire to New York by the way of Rahway and Elizabeth and there were only two operators, one day and one night. The night operator went to sleep after 10 o'clock. At present there are six direct trunk lines to Cortlandt street, New York; three to Newark, three to Elizabeth; five to New Brunswick; two to Somerville and two to Bound Brook.

Four years ago extra operators were engaged one at a time, until at present there are eight day operators. In the evening, three work until 9 o'clock, two work from 9 to 10 o'clock and one from 10 o'clock to 7 o'clock the next morning. From this city it is possible to talk to a million subscribers.

Prior to three years ago all wires were overhead, while at present two-thirds are underground with up-to-date equipment. In time all wires will be underground. Three years go a modern and up-to-date switch-board was installed, but the business has outgrown this. Within a few weeks one of the finest switch-boards in the country, if not in the world, will be installed. It is known as the multiple board.

At present 3,500 calls are received and sent through the local office every day. In 1888 there was an average of 250 a day. The new board for the local office has been received and the work of installing it commenced. It will take six men eight weeks to complete the work.

The first office of the company was at the corner of Front street and Park avenue. Manager Runyon moved it from that place to North avenue in 1891 and three years ago next spring the office was moved to its present commodious quartres on Park avenue in a building now owned by the company.

It requires eighteen people to look after the local business. There are now 400 resident telephones and 300 business instruments. The up-to-date system in this city represents twenty-one years of steady building and to Manager Charles W. Runyon a great deal of credit is due for the very excellent service given to Plainfield.

The company's representatives are now in this city writing new contracts. They will remain about ten days. The men are under the direction of Special Agent H. G. Kerr. They are at the office every day and in the evening, where anyone interested can see them.

—The regular monthly meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein will be held this evening. The meeting will be held in Saengerbund Hall.

A NEW FIRM.

Mr. Shirley has been connected with the carpet department of Woodhull & Martin's for the last five years.

BASEBALL AT WESTFIELD

BASEBALL ASSOCIATION HELD ITS ANNUAL MEETING YESTERDAY.

C. H. Denman Again Made President—Mallon Will Captain and Manage the Nine.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, Feb. 13—The annual meeting of the Westfield Baseball Association was held yesterday, when officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, C. H. Denman; vice president, R. Perkins; secretary and treasurer, Henry C. Piker.

It was decided by a unanimous vote to have the club incorporated. The present membership is two hundred and each one will pay $5 as a fee for the season.

The club will put a fine team in the field this season as follows: Van Zandt, p; Burke, c; McGraith, 1b; Carry, 2b; Lentz, 3b; Mallon, rf; Beck, cf; McManus, lf. The position of short stop is yet to be filled, but it is believed that Donovan, formerly of the Morris Plains team, will be hired for the season. He is a crack-a-jack and will be a valuable acquisition to the team. Mallon has been selected as captain and manager. As soon as the weather warms up he will have the team out for practice.

It was decided at the meeting to open the season Saturday afternoon, May 3, when a game will be played probably with the Knickerbocker A. C. team, of New York, or St. Francis Xavier team, of New York. In the near future a schedule will be prepared and it will comprise some of the strongest teams in the Metropolitan district.

DEATH OF JOS. JOHNSON.

Consumption Was Fatal After a Three Months' Illness.

The death of Joseph Johnson, colored, occurred at the home of Edward Gillette, of East Second street, yesterday afternoon, after an illness of three months with consumption. He was thirty years old and had lived in this city for a long time. His parents and several brothers and sisters live at Kent Island, Md. Until they are heard from, no arrangements will be made for the funeral.

Putting Down New Planking.

The employes of the New Jersey Central have been repairing the planking along the tracks in front of the new railroad station. When the cold weather arrived it played havoc with the old boards and they rose above the level of the tracks. This made it somewhat dangerous. The old boards were removed and new and heavier planking will now take their place.

Changed Its Name.

Hereafter it will be "The Friends' Association," instead of "The Young Friends' Association," as the name of that body which meets regularly at the Friends' meeting-house on Watchung avenue. Heretofore the name has been confusing.

Unique Programme.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church is preparing a unique programme for the social to be held Tuesday evening, February 18.

HAS ACCEPTED THE CALL

REV. WM. V. DAWSON ANNOUNCED HIS DECISION YESTERDAY.

He Will Assume Charge of St. Stephen's Church as Rector After Eastertide.

Rev. William Vincent Dawson, the junior curate of Christ church parish, Elizabeth, has formally accepted the invitation of the various wardens and vestrymen of St. Stephen's parish, Netherwood, to become rector. He announced his decision yesterday after careful consideration of the task he will be called upon to assume in the upbuilding of the parish.

A delegation of the vestry saw and heard him officiate at the evening service at Christ church, Sunday evening, and they were so favorably impressed that it was decided Monday morning to assume pastoral duties here.

It was on the recommendation of the bishop of the diocese, Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, that his name was considered. The bishop was anxious that the parishioners choose a rector at the earilest opportunity, in order that there might be someone to lead them in parochial work. In an address delivered on a special visitation of St. Stephen's some weeks ago, the distinguished prelate declared that Netherwood furnished a field ripe for the work of the church and that he was desirous of seeing this work commenced.

It has not been announced as yet when Rev. Mr. Dawson will assume his duties but he is expected shortly after Easter. The rector-elect received his collegiate and theological training in celebrated schools in the land of his nativity, England, and is a man of pronounced churchmanship.

He believes in the rigid enforcement of Catholic principles, and belongs to the school commonly referred to as High Churchman. While at Elizabeth he has made many friends, and his loss will be greatly felt there.

After a short reception, which followed the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Coddington left on the Lehigh Valley express at 5:30 o'clock, for the west. They will go direct to Sadora, Ill., where the groom is engaged in business, and will make their home there.

Mr. Coddington is a former resident of Plainfield, having lived here thirty years ago, and has many friends in this city. The bride has resided here for over thirty two years. The couple have been friends since childhood days.

The groom's gift to the bride was a check for $10,000.

STREET COMMISSIONER GAVETT FURNISHES SAMPLES OF EFFLUENT.

Did Not Care to Enter Into Discussion Over the Results Obtained at Sewage Disposal Plant.

In view of the fact that a difference of opinion has arisen regarding the condition of the effluent coming from the contact beds at the sewage farm, a Daily Press reporter has intreviewed Street Commissioner Gavett on the subject.

Mr. Gavett preferred to make no statement in reference to D. T. Kenney's letter regarding the nature of the sewage effluent, but has furnished The Daily Press with two bottles of water, one taken last evening and the other twelve days ago. The latter shows that the slightly cloudy appearance of the fresh effluent disappears after standing, this effect occurring, Mr. Gavett states, within thirty-six hours. The bottles are now on exhibition in this office. The beds are not not supposed to be doing their best work, having only been put into service. By spring, the city officials say that the beds will be doing their best work.

GOD IN NATIONAL AFFAIRS

SPECIAL MEETING AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Told of the Work Done by Prominent Personages in History.

The prayer-meeting service at the First Presbyterian church, last evening, took the form of a discussion of prominent persons in history. The subject was "God's Providence in National Affairs."

Isaac B. Hill spoke of Oliver Cromwell, showing his devotion to his country and the sincere services he rendered. He spoke of his great sacrifice to duty, rather than self-glorification.

Edwin E. Gano was the next speaker. His remarks were concerning Lincoln, the martyred President. He reviewed briefly the many excellent points in the life of Lincoln, showing how he sacrificed everything that this country might be supreme and that it might indeed be the land of the free and the home of the brave.

G. P. Hinman then spoke on a general topic in which he showed how in so many instances order was brought out of a chaotic condition of things. Rev. C. E. Herring was the last speaker. He took for his subject "Deborah," and told how she was used by God for the good of the many. He spoke of her beautiful life and character and how devoted she was to God and his work.

The programme was a helpful and interesting one throughout and held the close attention of a large audience.

CARRIAGES COLLIDED.

One Smashed Wheel Was the Extent of the Damages Done.

There was a collision this morning near the Park avenue railroad bridge between wagons owned by G. T. VanBoskerck, of West Seventh street, and George P. Dupee, of Rockview avenue. Mr. VanBoskerck's coachman had stopped near the driveway to the new station, when Mr. Dupee's coachman attempted to go up the driveway. The latter's wagon struck Mr. VanBoskerck's and completely wrecked a rear wheel. Another wheel was secured and the wagon was taken home.

WAS SUCCESSFUL ARBITRATOR

REV. GEO. HAUSER RETURNS FROM HIS DUTIES AT BINGHAMTON.

Assisted in Securing Settlement of Labor Troubles in Leather Concern.

Peace has been patched up between the owners and the employes of a large leather concern in the vicinity of Binghamton, N. Y., through the good offices of an arbitration committee, of which a boroughite was a conspicuous member. The man referred to is Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church.

At the instance of the concern in question, Rev. Mr. Hauser departed for Binghamton, Saturday, and was there joined by two other men selected to constitute the membership of the peace committee. The North Plainfielder represented the firm in the deliberations. Numerous conferences were held but it was not until yesterday the disputes were amicably arranged to the satisfaction of both employers and employes.

The bone of contention was the scale of wages and the number of working hours per day, the employes asking for increased pay and shorter number of hours. There are 100 men employed by the firm and the contention meant much to the owners of the plant.

This has not been the first time that Rev. Mr. Hauser has been instrumental in settling labor troubles. His service have been asked for by several concerns in recent years, and he has been quite successful in the mission of ending strife between capital and labor. He returned home late last night and although much worn out by the task assigned to him, he feels highly pleased in having been able to lend his efforts in making an amicable settlement.

AT LINCOLN.

Lincoln's Birthday Was Celebrated There by a Party of Trenton Citizens.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lincoln, Feb. 13—A delegation of forty citizens of Trenton joined in a celebration of the ninety-second birthday anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln, at this place, yesterday. They came to Lincoln in a private car, arriving about 11:30 o'clock in the morning. The party was greeted by Silas D. Drake, after which they were banquetted at Taylor's Hotel.

The return trip was made to Lincoln after a stay of an hour at the hotel. While in Lincoln the fire alarm was sounded and the volunteer fire department gave an exhibition. Two hours were passed in the school house, where addresses were made by Col. E. C. Stahl, of Trenton, and Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, each one speaking of the late President. Mr. Drake made the introductory address and spoke in glowing terms of Lincoln.

Mrs. Daniel Rapalje Made an Address at Crescent Avenue Church.

Mrs. Daniel Rapalje, of the borough, gave an interesting talk at the Crescent Avenue church Tuesday afternoon on the subject of "China." The talk was given before the members of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the church. Mrs. Rapalje lived in China for a long time and her experience in that country as a missionary was related in an entertaining and helpful manner. She told especially of the Chinese women among whom she labored.

WILL REMAIN IN COUNCIL

COUNCILMAN VAN HERWERDEN TALKS DEFINITELY OF HIS PLANS.

No Truth in Rumors That He Is About to Resign From the Common Council.

Since the change in the business affairs of Councilman Jan van Herwerden has made it necessary for him to be absent from this city much of the time, there have been sundry rumors current to the effect that Mr. van Herwerden intended resigning his seat in the Common Council. Mr. vanHerwerden was interviewed yesterday by a Daily Press reporter on the subject.

"No," said Councilman van Herwerden, "There is no truth in the story that I intend to resign my seat in the Common Council, at least under the present circumstances. While circumstances have prevented my attendance at the last few meetings, I hope to be present at most of the future ones and shall be able to attend to my duties for the city without trouble."

This settles definitely the subject which has caused more or less talk in local political circles. Mr. vanHerwerden was, it will be remembered, relieved from his work as head of the finance committee and given less arduous duties on committees owing to the fact that he expected to be in town but little of the time. It is now evident, however, that he intends to remain in the Common Council and look after the duties which have been assigned to him.

NEW ORGANIST.

Herbert H. Joy Engaged as Organist of Crescent Avenue Church.

The trustees of the Crescent Avenue church have appointed Herbert Hemingway Joy, of West Fifty-seventh street, New York, as organist in the place of Ward Stephens. At present, Mr. Joy will substitute during Mr. Stephens' absence but will fill the position permanently after May 1, when Mr. Stephen's resignation takes effect.

The new organist has had a large experience in special voice culture, the training of choruses and the organizing of convention choirs. It is probable that he will open a studio for voice culture in this city.

The church choir is shortly to be reorganized, owing to the resignation of several of the present members. It is not absolutely certain that all the old members will leave as there is too much opposition to there going.

ANNOUNCED AT DINNER.

Engagement of Miss Edith Arens and A. Hagedorn, of New York.

At the handsome new home, "Waldfrienden," of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Arens, Rahway road, an elegant dinner was given last evening, during which announcement was made of their daughter Edith's engagement to Adolph Hazedorn, of New York city. MUSIC HALL CHANGED OWNERS YESTERDAY

Sale Completed Yesterday Afternoon and W. S. Butterfield is Now Owner.

THE NEW ENTERPRISE.

MR. BUTTERFIELD IS SAID TO HAVE BACKING OF THEATRICAL SYNDICATE.

Aims to Rebuild Plainfield's Theatre and Make It One of a Circuit in Smaller Cities of the East—The Future Plans.

Stillman Music Hall became the property of Walter S. Butterfield, yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock, when the transaction was completed and the money paid over to William M. Stillman, representing the Stillman estate, the former owner. While Mr. Butterfield is the only one who is publicly known in the new enterprise, it is understood on good authority that he has the backing of a syndicate of theatrical men, who are planning the formation of a circuit of theatres in the smaller cities of the east.

Previous to the consumation of the deal, Mr. Butterfield carefully investigated every detail and had a theatrical architect prepare plans for the entire remodelling of the hall. These plans call for a second gallery, entirely new scenery, seats and, in fact, an entirely new interior.

The main entrance to the hall will be through Rowley's drug store, which will be made suitable for the purpose. He will continue business there, having his counters and shelves all on one side of the store. This entrance will be made as attractive as possible.

Another entrance will be located through the alley between Warnock's bakery and where Sebring, the clothier, now is. This will be for the persons wanting to sit in either of the galleries.

Mr. Butterfield is considered a good clever theatrical man, one who knows his business. Four years ago he was in Plainfield with "The Railroad Ticket" company. Of late he has been starring William Bonnelli and Rose Stahl in "The American Gentleman." It is believed that he will bring to Plainfield a good class of shows. Charles H. Hand has engineered the deal. He went to Harrisburg, Pa., to get Mr. Butterfield's signature to the contract and his check, which was given to Mr. Stillman at his office yesterday afternoon. Mr. Hand also arranged the lease with Rowley, the druggist, so that the main entrance to the new theatre may be through his store. The work of improving the hall will be started soon so that it will be in readiness for opening by the first of August or September next.

After Rural Free Delivery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Feb. 13.—An effort is being made by the citizens along the road from this place to Harlingen and on the one returning by way of Beekman's lane and the river road to have a rural free delivery established from the Somerville postoffice. Jacob C. Enlick, of Hillsborough, is making the canvass. This will be a great thing for the residents of that section, if it can be accomplished.

Invited to Banquet.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, has received an invitation from the council at Somerville to attend a banquet Saturday evening. A large delegation of the Plainfield knights will gather about the festive board with their brethren of the county seat.

Clerk's Wise Suggestion.

"I have lately been much troubled with dyspepsia, belching and sour stomach," writes M. S. Mead, leading pharmacist of Attleboro, Mass. "I could eat hardly anything without suffering several hours. My clerk suggested I try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure which I did with most happy results. I have had no more trouble and when one can go to eating mince pie, cheese, candy and nuts after such a time, their digestion must be pretty good. I endorse Kodol Dyspepsia Cure heartily." OLEO BILL IS PASSED

Measure Considerably Modified by the House.

TAX OF 10 CENTS A POUND IMPOSEE

Heavy Penalties For Violation of the Act—Sharp Clash Over Admission of Press Representatives to Committee Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The house yesterday passed the oleomargarine bill. There was no division on the final passage, the real test of strength having been made on a motion to recommit, which was defeated by a majority of thirty-four. The provision to require the inspection and branding of renovated butter, which was adopted in committee of the whole, was retained on a yea and nay vote.

As finally passed the bill is somewhat modified from the form in which it was reported from the committee on agriculture. It makes oleomargarine or imitation butter or cheese transported into any state or territory for use, sale or consumption therein subject to the laws of such state or territory, notwithstanding that it may be introduced in original packages, and imposes a tax of 10 cents per pound on oleomargarine made in imitation of "butter of any shade of yellow." When not made in such imitation, the tax is reduced to one-fourth of 1 cent per pound.

The second section is intended to prevent dealers, hotel proprietors, restaurant and boarding house keepers from coloring the uncolored article by making any person who colors the product and then sells or furnishes it to others a manufacturer within the meaning of the act. Penalties for violation of the act are a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500 and imprisonment for not less than thirty days nor more than six months.

With the exception of a sharp clash between Mr. Lodge and Mr. Patterson over the matter of admission of representatives of the press to the investigation which the Philippine committee is conducting the discussion of the Philippine tariff bill in the senate was quiet. The Colorado senator desired that all newspaper men be admitted to the committee hearings, declaring that as now conducted they were of a star chamber character. He said his recollection was that Mr. Lodge had suggested that the hearings be entirely secret. This drew the fire of the Massachusetts senator, who indignantly denied that he had suggested anything of the kind. He insisted that the reports made of the hearings by the three press associations were accurate and fair to both sides of the controversy.

A communication from the secretary of war transmitting a memorial of the Federal party of the Philippine Islands in support of American rule in the islands called from Mr. Patterson the statement that the Federal party had obtained its control in the Philippines by promising to the Filipinos that they would be admitted ultimately to statehood in the United States.

Mr. Teller occupied the attention of the senate during the greater part of the day's session and did not conclude his speech.

Postoffice Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The postoffice appropriation bill has been practically completed by the house committee on postoffices and post roads and will be reported in a few days. It carries $137,916,598, an increase of $14,133,910 over the current appropriation and of $3,185,022 over the estimates. The largest item is $41,250,000 for railway transportation of mails. The rural free delivery service gets an increase of $1,250,000, making the total $7,520,000, and provision is made to place the rural carriers under a contract system instead of salaries, as at present. The extra allowance for fast railway mail service between New York and Washington is omitted, but that for the service between Washington and New Orleans and from Kansas City to Newton, Kan., is included. There is no provision for pneumatic tube service, that subject being covered in a separate bill. For increase of salaries of postoffice clerks $811,000 is allowed and $200,000 for increase in salaries of railway mail employees.

An Ohio Railway Deal.

CANTON, O., Feb. 13.—It is stated by an authoritative source that the Northern Ohio Traction company, the Everett-Moore syndicate and Henry Everett have disposed of their interests in the Canton-Akron street railway line now being constructed between Akron and Canton and the Canton and Massillon City street car systems, as well as the Canton-Massillon interurban line now in operation, with the extension to Navarre, five miles south from Massillon. The purchasers of both properties are said to be a syndicate composed of the banking house of Tucker & Anthony of Boston, L. E. Myers of Chicago and eastern capitalists. The transaction will involve something over $2,500,000.

Millers to Organize.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The millers of the United States, represented by thirty-five delegates from state and sectional associations in session here, have appointed a committee to draw plans for a permanent national organization, as all the delegates are of the opinion that such an organization is needed.

Professor Pearson Resigns.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Professor C. W. Pearson, whose recent utterances against the infallibility of certain portions of the Bible occasioned wide comment in Methodist church circles, has resigned as professor of English literature at Northwestern university. The resignation, it is stated, was voluntary.

ROYAL YACHT IN PORT

Hohenzollern Reaches New York Ahead of Time.

TO BE MADE READY FOR PRINCE HENRY

Commander of Kaiser's Boat Formally Welcomed to the City—German Visitor Warmly Greeted In Its Passage Up the Bay.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The imperial German yacht Hohenzollern, sent here for the use of Prince Henry of Prussia during his forthcoming visit, has arrived from Kiel. She was not expected, for she came by the southern circle, and it was calculated that the run would take at least one day more than it did. It had also been thought that she would touch at Bermuda and that place had reported her as two days overdue. The weather she encountered was unfavorable for a call at Bermuda, and at sea Admiral Count von Baudissin abandoned the partly formed plan and shaped his course for New York.

The yacht had some heavy weather in southern waters, but for the most part it was fair, and when it was at its best she logged sixteen knots an hour. She hove in sight off Sandy Hook a few minutes before the noon hour and an hour later was in quarantine. She got the courtesy of the port from federal officials and came on through the Narrows and up into North river without delay. Passing craft gave her a noisy welcome with their whistles, and the man at her jackstaff was kept busy dipping her big naval flag with its field of white, black Prussian eagle and black cross. She stood high out of the water and looked impressive beyond her real size. She was painted white all over save for a great black eagle at her figurehead, some touches of gold astern and a long streak of red that showed below her water line. She has a ram bow and in general type resembles a modern man-of-war.

The North German Lloyd pier at Hoboken, where she is to be overhauled, was not ready for her reception, and she dropped her anchors in midstream until a fleet of tugs cleared a berth for her. German flags floated above the docks and warehouses of the North German Lloyd and Hamburg-American line piers, and the ships of those two companies in port were dressed. The bands of the latter assembled on quarter deck and serenaded the yacht as she lay at anchor. At 4 o'clock she hove her anchors and, guided by two tugs, was carefully warped into the pier. Guide lines were run across to the dock opposite to prevent her from fouling as she came in, and when she made fast the guide lines were kept out to hold her off the wharf.

Rear Admiral Count von Baudissin was formally welcomed to New York by a civic committee, a representative of Mayor Low and an officer of the United States navy. The civic committee was headed by Captain A. T. Mahan, U. S. N., retired, and his associates were Emil S. Boas, Gustav H. Schwab, Captain Jacob S. Miller, William H. Baldwin, Jr., George H. Boldt, Colonel Whelan and Commander Rodgers. Captain Mahan spoke briefly, greeting the admiral and his officers and ship in the name of the people of the city. The admiral thanked the committee and through its members the citizens of New York.

The admiral distributed photographs of the Hohenzollern and scenes on her decks, taken at different times when the emperor was aboard, and also gave out printed ships describing the yacht and explaining the purposes for which she was built and maintained by the emperor.

Carnival Ends In a Riot.

ROME, Feb. 13.—During the carnival celebrations at Catania a body of maskers resisted the police in the latter's efforts to make an arrest. This led to a general riot, which lasted six hours. The mob smashed shop windows and burned a carnival car and the stands which had been erected for the accommodation of spectators. After many persons had been injured the troops eventually restored order.

Philippine Customs Collections.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—A cable message has been received at the war department saying that the total collections at all ports in the Philippines except Siassi for the month of January were about $720,000 in gold, being nearly as much as the collections during October and November last and about $100,000 more than the collections for the single months of August and September last.

Burned Boy Is Dead.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 13.—A special dispatch to The News says: "Joseph Latremouille, the North Tonawanda boy whose clothing, it is alleged, was saturated with oil and then set on fire by his brother Tuesday as the result of a quarrel, is dead after suffering excruciating pain. The boy's parents insist that his clothing became ignited accidentally."

Marconi's Life Insured.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—At a meeting of the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company held here it was announced that the directors of the company had insured the life of Mr. Marconi for £150,000. LINCOLN'S MEMORY HONORED.

Chicago Celebrates His Birthday as Never Before.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—Memorial exercises in honor of Abraham Lincoln were held here on a scale surpassing that of any previous local celebration of the anniversary of his birth.

Appropriate exercises were held in the schools, all of the public buildings save the postoffice were closed, and no business was transacted at any of the banks or on the board of trade or the Stock Exchange. A large number of business houses also were closed during the afternoon.

In the evening there were a number of banquets, at which the speakers for the most part dealt with some phase of the life of Lincoln. The largest of these affairs was held in the home of the Marquette club, where at least 700 members of the club gathered to listen to the addresses. President W. L. Bush of the club presided and in opening the exercises after the banquet proper paid an eloquent tribute to Lincoln as a man and patriot.

Lafayette Young of Des Moines, Ia., spoke on "Abraham Lincoln," and his address was received with much applause. Curtis Guild, Jr., of Boston spoke on "Our Flag In the Tropics." Senator McLaurin of South Carolina followed with an address on "Lincoln and His Relations to the South."

Phillip Campbell of Kansas had for his subject "The Responsive Powers of the Republic." His remarks were greeted with much enthusiasm. A banquet was also held by the members of the Lincoln club, at which the chief speakers were Governor Yates, ex-United States Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska and Congressman Foss of Chicago. A large banquet was also held by the Standard club, at which addresses were made by local speakers.

Lincoln Day In Boston.

BOSTON, Feb. 13.—As a fitting observance of the anniversary of Lincoln's birth the Middlesex club gave a banquet at the Hotel Brunswick. The guests who made addresses were Secretary of the Navy John D. Long, Major General Daniel E. Sickles, Captain John Bordman, U. S. A., and Roscoe Conklin Bruce, a colored student and orator at Harvard college. The list of those present comprised the name of almost every well known living Republican in the political history of the state.

Flowers For Lincoln's Tomb.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 13.—At the national Lincoln monument on the anniversary of the birth of the martyred president hundreds of gray haired soldiers who had wrested victory for union on many hard fought fields and of women who by their efforts had aided the cause by untiring work in hospital and home assembled and laid floral offerings on the sarcophagus. The exercises were under the direction of the Stephenson Woman's Relief corps.

Detroit Celebrates.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Feb. 13.—The Lincoln club of this city celebrated the birthday of Lincoln with a banquet, Congressman William Alden Smith bringing a number of guests from Washington. The principal guest was Minister Wu. The Chinese minister was warmly welcomed when he arose to respond to a toast.

A Dinner In New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—The Republican club of the city of New York held its sixth annual dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel last evening.

MOUNTAINEERS IN BATTLE.

At Least Six Lives Lost In Bloody Affray In Kentucky.

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Feb. 13.—One of the worst battles ever fought in the Cumberland mountains occurred yesterday at Lee Turner's "blind tiger" saloon, four miles from here. The battle was between Turner's mountaineers, twenty in number, and fifteen or more citizens of Middlesboro who were sworn in as a posse to arrest Lee Turner. Turner owed Gills Colson some money, and the latter had levied on his mules. Turner on Wednesday night by force took the mules away from Colson. In the fight that followed Charles Cecil, one of the Middlesboro officers, was killed, and John Doyle, another officer, was fatally wounded.

Turner lost five men. His saloon was burned to the ground by the officers, and five of his men perished in the flames. Turner was absent at the time of the battle and is reported to be now at Mingo making preparations to flee from the country. Various rumors are rife, and it is impossible to secure the exact details and learn the exact number of men that met death.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 13.—A fire which broke out at Caborojo, a town of 3,000 inhabitants near Mayaguez, destroyed seventeen houses, including the city hall. Most of the city records were burned. No estimate of the damage to Caborojo has been made.

"A HELPING HAND."

Is Gladly Extended by a Plainfield Citizen.

There are many enthusiastic citizens in Plainfield prepared to tell their experience for the public good. Testimony from such a source is the best of evidence and will prove a "helping hand" to scores of readers. Read the following statement:

Mrs. Valentine Utzinger, of 75 Grandview avenue, says: "I suffered from kidney complaint for six years: I doctored and used various kinds of medicine with little or no result. I had almost a constant sharp, darting pain across my back, and if I ever exerted myself or took cold I suffered severely. I always felt it most when the weather was damp. While in this condition I saw Doan's Kidney Pills recommended and my son bought me a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I started to use them at once, following directions closely. They helped the pain in my back, and relieved my other difficulty. I give all the credit for this relief to Doan's Kidney Pills for they are beyond a doubt a grand medicine for kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

WRECK ON THE ERIE.

Vestibuled Train Derailed and Twenty Passengers Injured.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 13.—Train No. 10 on the Erie road, leaving Cleveland at 1 p. m. for New York, was wrecked between Mahoning and Phalanx, O., about forty miles from this city, yesterday afternoon. The whole train left the track and ran for twenty car lengths, finally toppling over in a ditch. Twenty-one persons are injured, but no fatalities occurred.

The train consisted of a buffet car, two sleepers, chair car, coach, baggage and express. Physicians were called from Warren and Youngstown and left at once for Leavittsburg, where some of the injured had been taken. Some of the more seriously injured were taken to Youngstown. The wrecked train is one of the finest on the Erie road and is vestibuled.

The engineer of the train was Matthew Shay of Youngstown, and George Hopper of Cleveland was conductor. They were not hurt. George Thomas of Cleveland received what is feared to be fatal injuries, brain concussion.

The cause of the wreck is now said to be spreading rails. Most of the injured were in the coach next to the last, that being the private car of Joseph Ramsay, president of the Wabash railroad.

Mr. Ramsay had an emergency case with him, and he did heroic work in assisting the injured. His car did not topple over, but the car in front did.

DEATH OF LORD DUFFERIN.

Former Governor General of Canada Expires In Ireland.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The Marquis of Dufferin, former governor general of Canada and who had filled many high diplomatic posts in the English service, is dead at his residence at Clandeboye, County Down, Ireland. Lord Dufferin had been long in ill health. He passed away peacefully after a night of total unconsciousness.

Lord Dufferin never wholly recovered from the shock which he experienced as the result of the death of his son, Lord Ava, in South Africa, and the failure of the London and Globe Finance corporation, limited, and kindred concerns of which he was a director completed his breakdown.

With the exception of his youngest son, Lord Hamilton-Temple-Blackwood, who is with his regiment, the Ninth lancers, in South Africa, all the family were present at the deathbed. Lord Clandeboye, the eldest son, who is a clerk in the foreign office and who married Florence, daughter of John H. Davis of New York, succeeds to the title, and another American joins the ranks of the peeresses.

The funeral of Lord Dufferin will be private. His remains will be buried in the graveyard at Clandeboye Feb. 15.

THE DUAL TREATY.

News of Agreement Between Japan and England Surprises Peking.

PEKING, Feb. 13.—The news of the signing of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance became known to a few diplomats here today and was an absolute surprise. The treaty is regarded as the most important move made in far eastern politics of recent years.

The Japanese minister Uchida visited Prince Ching, president of the foreign office, and gave him a copy of the treaty.

It is not doubted among the diplomats here that the new alliance will effectually veto the signing of the Manchurian treaty.

The British minister, Sir Ernest M. Satow; the Japanese minister, Uchida, and the United States minister, Mr. Conger, have recently been pressing Prince Ching to postpone signing the Manchurian treaty and obtained a promise to defer so doing until fresh representations could be made, which representations were made yesterday in the form of a copy of the Anglo-Japanese treaty.

The Chinese officials who were informed of the signing of the treaty expressed the greatest satisfaction. They said British prestige in the far east had been given a tremendous advancement.

Steamship Rights to Be Revoked.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Feb. 13.—A bill has been introduced in the legislature here to revoke all the rights in San Juan harbor of the New York and Porto Rico Steamship company granted by Secretary Root to this company when Porto Rico was under the war department. These rights included the construction of a pier. Since they were granted the pier has burned, and Secretary Root has taken the position that the only jurisdiction he had was to approve or disapprove any action by the Porto Rican authorities in the matter.

New Steamship Launched.

CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 13.—The steamship City of Memphis, in course of construction for the Ocean Steamship company, has been launched at Roach's shipyard. The vessel was christened by Miss May Egan of Savannah, Ga., daughter of John M. Egan, president of the company. The boat was to have been launched last Saturday, but the attempt was unsuccessful, as the tallow on the ways became frozen, and the ship failed to slide into the water.

Better Pay For Minister to Persia.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—An increase of the salary of the minister to Persia from $5,000 to $7,000 is recommended by the senate committee on foreign relations. The post is said to be one of the most expensive in the diplomatic service.

Crushed by Falling Tree.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 13.—While watching his father fell a big, heavy tree James Cavanaugh and a companion, Robert Gross, were crushed in its fall. Cavanaugh was killed, and Gross was probably fatally injured.

DESIRE ANNEXATION

Taft Presents Memorial of Philippine Federalists.

WAR IN BUT TWO PROVINCES.

No Reason Why Popular Civil Rule Should Not Be Established—The Two Peoples Should Never Be Disunited.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The memorial of the Federal party of the Philippine Islands has been transmitted to the senate by the secretary of war, together with a letter of transmittal by Governor Taft, in whose charge the document was given.

The memorial was adopted at an extraordinary session of the Federal party held in Manila in November. It sets forth that the performance of that obligation of the treaty of Paris which gave the United States congress authority to fix the status of the Philippine Islands has been deferred to this time because of the attack by the Filipinos upon the sovereignty of the United States, an act brought about, the memorial says, through a misunderstanding and not through hatred of the American sovereignty. It further states that out of the sixty provinces and districts war exists in only two, Batangas and Samar. It also asserts that it is a demonstrated fact that the pueblos or towns anxiously desire "a definite civil rule" and says those who are still in arms allege the lack of a civil regime "agreed upon and promulgated by the congress of the United States as a weighty pretext for their belligerent attitude, which regime shall determine at once the political status and civil rights of the inhabitants of the archipelago in accordance with the treaty of Paris."

The memorial then makes a presentation of the deduction of the Federal party that congress should proceed to carry into effect its intention of defining the future of the Philippines in their relations to the United States and asserts that there is no reason for not replacing the military regime "by a civil rule of a popular character in conformity with the decisive words of the never to be forgotten President McKinley."

The memorial proper is divided into two parts. The first of these is a petition for annexation and a presentation of the form of government desired. In this subdivision the Federal party sets forth that it has made an exhaustive study of both the Filipinos and the Americans and concludes that from the mass of data collected it is "the intention of the two peoples that they should never be disunited." The memorial announces as principles for this union the formation of "a more perfect union, establishment of justice, the insurance of domestic tranquillity, promotion of the general welfare and the securing of the blessings of liberty."

The second part of the memorial sets forth the aspirations of a social and economical character, the principal of which the memorial represents to be the securing of a remedy of the "ancient evil known as the friar." Under this designation the memorial includes all the religious orders now existing in the islands.

The Shah Will Not Attend.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—General Isaac Khan, the minister of Persia to the United States, has received many inquiries recently about the rumored intention of the shah of Persia to be present at the coronation in London next June of King Edward VII. In an interview General Khan said: "According to international etiquette no crowned head can assist, of course, at the coronation of another sovereign, and for that reason if no other his majesty the shah will not go to London. His highness the Prince Moayedes-Saltaneh, a cousin of the shah, was designated some time ago to represent his majesty at the coronation of Edward VII., as it is the custom in Persia to send a prince of imperial blood to represent the crown at the coronation of foreign sovereigns."

United States Should Join.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The announcement of the Anglo-Japanese treaty has opened the floodgates of discussion and comment throughout the continent. The London papers are full of interviews, opinions and special articles describing Japan and her military and naval strength and speculations as to the outcome of the alliance. A day's reflection has only served to confirm the opinions of the leader writers which were hurriedly expressed yesterday. Noticeable throughout the comment here is the anxiety to see the United States in line with the agreement. Every editorial points to the identity of interests and looks for moral support from America.

Fought Fire With Buckets.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 13.—A fire at Harmarville, on the West Penn railroad, destroyed $75,000 worth of property and for a time threatened the entire place. The town is without a fire department, and the citizens fought the fire with buckets. The loss is covered by insurance.

Chinese Capital May Be Moved.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—It is reported in Shanghai, cables the correspondent of The Standard, that the Yangtse viceroys, Chang Chi Tung and Liu Kun Yi, are going to Peking to discuss a proposal for removing the capital of the empire either to Hsiangyangfu or Nankin.

MOSQUITO LEGISLATION.

This idea of legislating the mosquito out of the State has furnished the newspapers all over the country with endless opportunity to poke fun at New Jersey and its "national bird." As a matter of fact, however, it is a perfectly serious proposition and one which is meeting with general favor among the members of the Legislature.

Of course, all the legislation in the world cannot drive out the mosquitoes as long as their breeding places remain. It is the idea of State Entomologist Smith to move along preventive lines rather than attempt to effect a cure. He believes that ultimately the little insect can be made comparatively scarce.

The bill now before the Legislature aims to provide him with $10,000 for pursuing his experiments and investigations along those lines. The bill has been reported favorably and there is every reason to believe that it will be passed by both houses before the session is over. The legislators realize that the mosquito is a very important factor in certain parts of Jersey and that his destruction will be of incaluable value to the interests of the State. If Professor Smith can discover a means to accomplish the desired end, then the State should not hesitate a minute in giving him all the aid possible. In view, too, of his successful experiments heretofore, the Legislature is perfectly justified in aiding him in enlarging the scope of his work.

Of interest to Plainfielders, particularly those who have assisted in the work of Muhlenberg Hospital, will be the annual reports of the Elizabeth General Hospital. Like the local hospital, it is dependent on the people of the city for its support. The financial showing is now the best that it has been for several years. From all sources during the last year there was collected $38,000. The expenses were $200 less than that. One great burden of the Elizabeth Hospital has been the floating debt which now amounts to $27,000, $4,000 less than last year. A concerted effort is to be made this year to clear off the entire amount.

The reason, which has been given for the refusal on the part of certain of the Somerset county Freeholders to macadamize the Rocky Hill road, was that the bids for the macadamizing were too high. An attempt was made by the friends of the measure to advertise for new bids but they lacked one vote to secure that which they desired. Somerset county has shown, however, that it favors good roads and while the work may not reach the Rocky Hill road just now the progress of the movement will win the battle for the good roads advocates in the end.

The last of the scheduled games in The Daily Press Bowling League will be rolled this evening on the alleys of the Roselle Casino. If the home club manages to win three games straight, an extra series will be necessary between Roselle and Westfield to decide the championship. There has long been a friendly rivalry between the clubs along the line of the Jersey Central and the present league has done much to continue and encourage it.

While competition should never be discouraged, a friendly relation among the members of the building trades is much to be desired. One of the results of the formation of the Master Mechanics Association has been to establish a far better relation among the men who go to make up the local building trades.

If there are any ordinances of the city which cannot or ought not to be enforced, then it is the duty of the Common Council to repeal them without delay. When the new bound copies of the city ordinances are printed, it will be well if the members of the Council look them over carefully.

State Comptroller Hancock's threat to resign if Former Mayor Briggs was chosen State treasurer was not an empty one as subsequent events showed.

THEATRICAL.

Washington's Birthday will end another gala week at the Proctor theaters in New York and Newark. The holiday will be observed with the usual early openings and continuous performances at all houses. Proctor's, Newark, continues to be genuinely popular and unquestionably prosperous. The Russell Brothers will be the leaders in presentations of a timely skit by George N. Cohan, entitled "A Romance of New Jersey." Joseph Maxwell & Co. will offer a musical sketch, depicting the life of a New York fireman, appealing to local "fire laddies" with equal force.

Clay M. Greene has written another travesty and it is said to be the wittiest which has come from his pen. This time he lampoons "A Gentleman of France" and the Proctor Stock Company will present it at the Fifth Avenue under the title of "The Gentle Mr. Bellew of France." "A Midnight Bell," one of Charles H. Hoyt's most popular plays, will also be presented at the Fifth Avenue by the Stock Company. Another Hoyt play, "A Trip to Chinatown," will be presented by the Proctor Stock Company at the One Hundred and Twenty fifth Street.

The Fifty-eighth Street will return to straight vaudeville for one week only and Manager Proctor will make it an event of the season for East siders. Helene Nora, the famous lady baritone, heads Manager Proctor's continuous vaudeville programme at the Twenty-third Street. She has an entirely new song reportoire and will present her act with costume changes and special scenic and lighting effects. The Smedley Sketch Club will offer a pathetic little play as a second feature and George Evans, the "Honey Boy," in his black-face singing and talking specialty will be another leading number. The Proctor Stock Co. will present one of Clay M. Greene's travesties as an extra feature.

DEATH OF THOS. CURREN, JR.

Popular Young Man Passed Away at His Home This Morning.

After an illness of seven weeks with a complication of diseases, Thomas Curren, Jr., passed away this morning at his home, 814 Richmond street. As a clerk at the grocery of Callahan & Son, Mr. Curren had a host of friends who will learn of his demise with much sorrow.

Mr. Curren spent nearly all his life in Plainfield. He was twenty-nine years old at the time of his death. Since his arrival at manhood, he has been in the grocery business.

Besides a wife and little child, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Curren, Sr., one brother, Richard, and two sisters, Mamie and Kate.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence, Saturday morning, at 9:30 and from St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Interment will be made in St. Mary's cemetery.

New Headquarters Soon Ready.

S. Scheuer & Son, the grocers, whose store was completely wrecked by fire at Paterson Sunday, will open a new store Saturday. While the fire was in progress carpenters were at work preparing for a new place of business. Just one hour before the building collapsed the money, books and valuable papers were taken from the safe and preserved. This was due to the foresight of a policeman who telephoned the firm at Newerk.

Promised to Support Wife.

George LaTourette, of Somerset street, who was arrested at the instigation of his wife, on the charge of non-support, was given a hearing last evening by Justice Mattison. The warrant was sworn out by Overseer of the Poor Wililam Debele. The prisoner was released on the promise to contribute to his wife's support in the future.

Truman W. Bilyeu and Elmer J. Winans, of Somerset street, have returned from a visit with friends in Paterson.

WHAT W. C. T. U. IS DOING

"FRIEND TO THE CAUSE" SUMS UP WHAT IS BEING DONE.

Asks Why It Is That So Many People are Indifferent to Its Work.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—As one interested in fallen humanity, there is a question that comes to me with much force. Why is it that the Christian people feel so much contempt, or rather such indifference to the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union? I cannot understand it. We all profess to be God's children and should be working unitedly against all vice. If there is one evil greater than another it is intemperance. How can anyone loving the Lord Jesus look with favor upon such an evil?

It is this that the W. C. T. U. is fighting against in an effort to save fallen humanity and the homes. Is this not worthy of your sympathies? Why, I ask, are the women left to do this work alone? Is it of no interest to Christian men that their brothers are going down to perdition? You well know that a drunkard cannot enter Heaven. With many it is not only their neighbor, but some loved one. Yet you have not the moral courage to stand by those who are trying in the strength of the Master to put down this great evil. Frequently the question is asked, what is the W. C. T. U. doing?

To give the people an idea of the work done I will give a few items. Recently the National Union held a convention at Fort Worth, Texas. A hearty welcome was given the women by the city officials and all interested. The work has been extended during the past year to Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii and Manila. In Cuba a National W. C. T. U. has been organized by Mrs. J. K. Barney. Mrs. Mary Hunt called attention to the fact that 16,000,000 children in the public schools are now taught scientific demonstration of the injurious effects of alcohol drinking. These children receive temperance teaching in the Sunday-schools, while 296,964 of these chidlren are pledged total abstainers.

There are local unions in 10,000 towns and cities, with twenty-five national organizers and fourteen lecturers. There are twenty-one national evangelists constantly in the field, besides those of the several States and territories. Last year 1,000 new unions were organized and the Loyal Temperance Legion, numbering 250,000 members, is growing steadily. The W. C. T. U. is the largest single organization composed exclusively of women in the world. It is conducted entirely by them.

Its active and honorary membership numbers fully 300,000, with a following of at least a half million. The members believe the Lord is on their side and they believe as the late Mrs. Downs expressed in her last words that "the liquor traffic will be outlawed, blessed is he who helps."

We urge the fathers to vote right. Do not vote for license and then expect your boys to be men of which you would be proud. Do what you know is right, leaving the results in God's hands. He will take care of our land and you will be blessed.

A Friend to the Cause.

Saved Him From Torture.

There is no more agonizing trouble than piles. The constant itching and burning make life intolerable. No position is comfortable. The torture is unceasing. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures piles at once. For skin diseases, cuts, burns, bruises, all kinds of wounds it is unequalled. J. S. Gerall, St. Paul, Ark., says: "From 1865 I suffered with the protruding, bleeding piles and could find nothing to help me until I used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes completely cured me." DEPARTED IN A HURRY.

Burglars Worked Without Success at Home of Chas. Dunham, at Dunellen, Last Night.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, Feb. 13—An open window and an overcoat lying on the front lawn were the only evidences this morning that a burglar visited the home of Charles Dunham, last evening. Beside the overcoat, nothing else is missing and is supposed that the intruder was frightened away before he had a chance to find anything of value.

A keg had been placed against the side of the kitchen and the window pried open. No one in the house heard any noise during the night so it is not known what parts of the house were visited. The burglar departed leaving the window open and evidently dropped Mr. Dunham's overcoat on the lawn where it was found this morning.

A tramp called at the house yesterday and begged for money and a meal. He appeared quite curious and attracted the attention of the household by his peculiar actions. It is believed that he was the burglar or an accomplice.

SHOT HIMSELF.

Claude R. V. de Marcellin, of Elizabeth, Ended His Life Yesterday With a Revolver.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 13—Claude R. V. DeMarcellin, an insurance agent, committed suicide shortly before noon yesterday at his residence, 230 Williamson street, by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver. The man expired before an ambulance could be summoned to remove him to the hospital.

He was a Frenchman by birth, and well known for years in insurance circles in Elizabeth.

The cause o his act is thought to be despondency over business troubles.

DeMarcellin, who was sixty-four years old, was born in New York city and was a son of the late Dr. Edward DeMarcellin, of that place. His grandfather was a French officer in the American army during the Revolutionary War.

The suicide was a member of the New York branch of the Order of the Cincinnati. He leaves a widow, but no children. He was agent for a long time for the Colonial Insurance Company.

Birthday Gathering.

Mrs. Hugo Weigman, of West Front street, entertained fifty friends at her home, last evening, in honor of her birthday. Among the guests were many members of Iona Council and the women's section of the Gesang and Turn Verein, of which Mrs. Weigman is a member. Dancing was the main feature of the evening and was continued until an early hour this morning.

Change in Dr. Peter's Visit.

Owing to Rev. Dr. Peters' removal from Brooklyn to Baltimore, the meetings to be held in the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held during the first and second weeks of March, instead of the last. The services will be open to the public and all will be cordially welcome.

Installing Officers.

Deputy Supreme Archon John V. E. Vanderhoef installed the officers of Garfield Conclave, No. 24, of Heptosophs, at Elizabeth, Tuesday night, and tonight will go to Red Bank and install the officers of that conclave, after which a banquet will be served.

Meeting in the Evening.

The New Jersey Audubon Society will meet in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, Monday evening, Feb. 17, and not in the afternoon as previously stated.

—The monthly business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will be held, this evening, at the home of the president, Miss Cora R. Brokaw, 104 Madison avenue.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray went Washington last evening on a short business trip.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Gutleber, of 33 Park place, North Plainfield, are the proud parents of a bright little girl, born yesterday afternoon.

Physical Director C. E. A. Heywood, of the local Y. M. C. A., was in attendance at a meeting of physical directors held at Newark, yesterday, to make arrangements for the inter-associate meet to be held on March 8. At the session yesterday, the moves to be given in the contest were decided upon and the leaders assigned. Mr. Heywood will lead the high bar exercise.

It was also decided to allow two other associations to enter, those of Summit and Montclair. This now makes seven in all.

After the meeting, Mr. Heywood visited the Summit association and incidentally referred a basketball game.

FUNERAL OF MRS. POUND.

Services Held From Son's Home and Monroe Avenue Church.

Mrs. Susan Pound, of West Front street, was buried from the residence of her son, D. S. Pound, of Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon. The services held at the house at 2 o'clock were followed by those at the Monroe Avenue church, at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. John MacMurray officiated.

Wm. Holmes rendered two vocal selections and Miss Derby also sang sympathetically. The floral tributes were especially numerous. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery. The pall bearers were Isaac Randolph, Wallace Vail, Frank Coriell, Frederick Wenzel, Halstead Compton and Daniel Manning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, Feb. 13—Wm. Sweeney, sometime a law student in Plainfield, was arraigned in court this morning on the charge of embezzlement. It is alleged that he misappropriated $121.01 belonging to Striker Brothers, of that city. The trial is now going on, Rabert M. Clark represents the youthful defendant.

POWER IN POLITICS.

A Popular Delusion About Abraham Lincoln Corrected.

He Was Neither a Dark Horse Nor an Accident When Nominated by the Republicans for President in 1860.

An Iowa writer who is telling about the number of great men which his state has produced in the past few years says that although Secretary Leslie M. Shaw has been only four or five years in politics, yet "he is far better known to the nation than Lincoln was when he was nominated for president." The notion that Lincoln was unknown outside of his own state until his nomination for president has been expressed by better informed writers than the Iowa man here referred to, but it is a delusion just the same, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Lincoln served a term in congress in the latter part of the Mexican war, and though he did not make a national reputation then, he was sufficiently well known throughout the country in 1856, at the time when the republican party's first national convention was held, to get 110 votes in that convention for vice president on the ticket with Fremont, as compared with 46 for Banks, who had just been elected speaker of the house in the longest and most exciting contest for that office which has taken place in the history of the country, and 43 for Wilmot, the author of the celebrated anti-slavery proviso. Dayton, however, was nominated. That was four years before Lincoln's nomination for president. In 1858, when he canvassed Illinois against Douglas in the contest for the senate, he won a reputation which extended all over the country, and which brought his name up in connection with the republican national leadership. That was nearly two years before the convention met which nominated him for president.

The person who asserts that Lincoln was suddenly sprung upon the country as a presidential quantity knows nothing about the politics of 1856-60. When Lincoln, by invitation of a New York Republican club, made his historic address at Cooper institute, in New York city, on February 27, 1860, the Tribune declared next morning that "since the days of Clay and Webster no man has spoken to a larger assemblage of the intellect and culture of our city." He had powerful friends among the republican statesmen and newspapers of every state in the union at that time, and that was nearly three months before the convention met which nominated him. On the first of the three ballots in the convention in which he was nominated he had votes from New England and the middle states, as well as from his own quarter of the country. Careless or ignorant persons, in pointing morals or making antitheses, are in the habit of insinuating that Lincoln, at the time of his nomination in 1860, was a sort of a dark horse or an accident, but such assertions make a wide divergence from the facts.

The Country's Death Rate.

A recent bulletin of the United States census compares the mortality of 1890 and that of 1900, and shows that there has been no diminution of something like ten per cent. in the death rate. In 1890 the average longevity in the United States was 31.1 years; in 1900 it is 35.2 years. The increase is 13 per cent. This is the conclusion, at least, so far as cities of over 8,000 inhabitants are concerned, and it represents the facts for the whole country approximately. In 1894 245 persons died of consumption in every 10,000; in 1900 only 190. The case is similar, though not so marked, for other diseases—diphtheria, bronchitis, typhoid, cholera infantum and the like. The main causes are a perfected hygiene of towns and the progress of medicine. Pneumonia, however, claimed 192 victims per 10,000 in 1900 to 187 in 1890.

Oldest Man in America.

The claim of Martin Head, of Napoleon, O., to being the oldest man in the United States is not well founded. Noah Raby, of New Jersey, who is at the Piscataway poor farm, located near New Brunswick, claims to be between 129 and 130 years old.

Race of Spotted People.

A tribe of peculiar people dwell on the banks of the Purus, in South America. Men, women and children are spotted, with brown spots on a white skin. Their chief article of diet is fish.

His brother John, who is in the same business in Newark, frequently said to him: "Dick, why don't you try Ripans Tabules?" New WOMAN Happenings

Yesterday evening at the rush hour for returning passengers I was going home on a New York city elevated train. At the station where I stopped, in the midst of a great throng of people, I heard a man's voice above all the din and roar of the cars saying in loud, angry tones, as though he were speaking to a dog, "Go home!" I looked around, but saw no dog. I did see the man who was ordering the unknown creature to go home. He was a well dressed man, with hair quite white, and he really looked decent and respectable. Where was the dog? I could not find it, but I did see a woman near the man, a woman cowering in shame and humiliation. She wore diamond earrings, expensive furs and a handsome hat. Only her hurt, frightened, humiliated look made me know that the man was speaking to her and that nobody but her husband, a man she could not get away from, would dare address a respectable woman thus. She glanced toward me instinctively in search of that sympathy which one woman gives to another. She met it pouring out to her half way. "Is he your husband?" I asked. "Yes," she replied; "I want him to come home, and he is going to a saloon to get drunk. He has been getting drunk for years. He treats me awfully sometimes." And still that idiot of a woman has lived with this beast, listened to his curses and endured his blows! Because she does so she is quite as much to blame as he. She should not have stayed with him twenty-four hours after he had thus insulted her before a throng of people. For the sake of clean, self respecting womanhood it is better to live alone and scrub for bread than to stay with a drunken husband.

A rich and, up to that time, thoroughly respectable young woman was found wandering on a city street in a hapless and helpless state of intoxication. It was the first time such a misfortune had happened to her and was likely to be the last time. But a reporter got a beat on the item for his paper and did not rest or sleep till he had dug out by means of detective spies the woman's full name and address, also that of her husband, a man occupying a high place. All this was spread before the public, was telegraphed from one end of the land to the other, and the miserable woman and her family were disgraced for life. But the reporter got his beat. Perhaps some day an equally enterprising reporter will get a spicy "beat" concerning this reporter's mother, sister or wife.

Reports from the last elections and the new year's appointments show a larger number of women on school boards than there have ever been before.

The hope of the country, so far as it concerns women, is in our western states. Educational statistics show that there are nearly as many women as men attending college.

* *

The woman who continues to live with a husband that is a habitual drunkard not only degrades herself, but she is lacking in the respect due to her womanhood.

Miss Anna Payne, cross country mail carrier, express and freight agent, of Slocum, Pa., drives forty-two miles every day with her load. In the morning before she starts she grooms, feeds and harnesses her own horses and milks three cows. If she were a man mail carrier, she would not have to milk those cows.

It is odd to note that, according to a recent interviewer, Mrs. Hodgson Burnett now calls herself an English woman. It is true she was born in England, but has she forgotten the little country girl childhood in the mountains of Tennessee, where she used to pick blackberries? Has she forgotten that her girlish writings and her first book found recognition in America, and only for that recognition and its attendant pecuniary success she would never have been able to sail to London and take a house in Portland square and make studies for her novels from the British aristocracy? Dear, but some people are queer! But perhaps it was the newspaper reporter who posed her as an English woman.

Paris has traveled so far along on the new woman road as to elect two women, Mlle. Levy of the Woman's Stenographic union and Mlle. Bouvier of the Dressmakers' union, members of the general labor council.

ELIZA ARCHARD CONNER.

My Strangest Case

BY GUY BOOTHBY.

Author of "DR. NIKOLA," "THE BEAUTIFUL WHITE DEVIL," "PHAROS, THE EGYPTIAN," Etc.

[Copyrighted, 1901, by Ward, Lock & Co.]

"I mean that you are my prisoner, Mr. Fairfax," he said. "You see, you are rather a difficult person to deal with, if I may pay you such a compliment, and one has to adopt heroic measures in order to cope with you."

"Then you have been humbugging me all this time," I cried; "but you've let the cat out of the bag a little too soon. I think I'll bid you good-by."

I was about to rise from my seat and open the door, but he stopped me. In his hand he held a revolver, the muzzle of which was in unpleasant proximity to my head.

"I must ask you to be good enough to sit down," he said. "You had better do so, for you cannot help yourself. If you attempt to make a fuss I pledge you my word I shall shoot you, let the consequences to myself be what they may. You know me, and you can see that I am desperate. My offer to those men was only a bluff. I wanted to quiet any suspicions you might have in order that I might get you into my hands. As you can see for yourself, I could not have succeeded better than I have done. I give you my word that you shall not be hurt, provided that you do not attempt to escape or call for help. If you do, then you know exactly what to expect, and you will have only yourself to blame. Be a sensible man, and give in to the inevitable."

He held too many cards for me. I could see at a glance that I was outmaneuvered, and that there was nothing to be gained by a struggle.

Ten minutes later the cab came to a standstill, there was the sound of opening gates, and a moment later we drove into a stone-paved courtyard.

CHAPTER X.

If you could have traveled the world at that moment, from north to south, and from east to west, I believe you would have found it difficult to discover a man who felt as foolish as I did when I entered the gloomy dwelling-place as Hayle's prisoner. To say that I was mortified by the advantage he had obtained over me would not express my feelings in the least. To think that I, George Fairfax, who had the reputation of being so difficult a man to trick, should have allowed myself to fall into so palpable a trap, seemed sufficiently incredible as to be almost a matter for laughter rather than rage. There was worse, however, behind. Miss Kitwater had been so trustful of my capability for bringing the matter to a successful conclusion, that I dared not imagine what she would think of me now. Whichever way I looked at it, it was obvious that Hayle must score. On the one side, he kept me locked up while he not only made his escape from Paris, but by so doing cut off every chance of my pursuing him afterwards; on the other, he might console himself with the almost certain knowledge that I should be discredited by those who had put their trust in me. How could it very well be otherwise? I had committed the criminal folly of accepting hospitality from the enemy, and from that moment I should not be seen. The natural supposition would be that I had been bought, and that I was not only taking no further interest in the case, but that I was keeping out of the way of those who did. To add to my misery, I could easily imagine the laugh that would go up on the other side of the channel when the trick that had been played upon me became known. But having so much else to think of, that fact, you may be sure, did not trouble me very much. There were two things, however, about which I was particularly anxious; one was to set myself right with Miss Kitwater, and the other was to get even, at any cost, with Hayle. The first seemed the most difficult.

I WAS ABOUT TO ARISE FROM MY SEAT AND OPEN THE DOOR, BUT HE STOPPED ME.

It must not be supposed that when I had alighted from the carriage I had given up all hope of escape. On the contrary, had it not been for the presence of three burly fellows, who immediately took up their places beside me, I fancy I should have made a dash for liberty. Under the circumstances, however, to have attempted such a thing would have been the height of folly. Five to one, that is to say, if I include the coachman in the number, with the gates closed behind me, were too long odds, and however hard I might have fought, I could not possibly have been successful.

"Perhaps you will be kind enough to step into the house," said Hayle. "The air is cold out here, and I am afraid lest you might take a chill."

Before complying with his order I looked around me once more, to see if there was any chance of escape. But so far as I could see there was not one. I accordingly followed one of my captors into the building, the remainder bringing up the rear.

From what I could see of the house with the help of the light from a solitary candle hanging in a sconce upon the wall, it had once been a handsome building. Now, however, it had fallen sadly to decay. The ceiling of the hall had at one time been richly painted, but now only blurred traces of the design remained. Crossing the hall, my guide opened a door at the further end. In obedience to a request from Hayle, I entered this room, to find myself standing in a fine apartment, so far as size went, but sadly lacking in comfort where its furniture was concerned. There was a bed, a table, three rough chairs, and an entirely inadequate square of carpet upon the floor. I have already said that it was a large room, and when I add that it was lighted only by two candles, which stood upon the table in the center, some idea will be formed of its general dreariness.

"Now, look here, Mr. Hayle," I said, "the time has come for us to have a serious talk together. You know as well as I do that in kidnaping me you are laying yourself open to very serious consequences. If you think that by so doing you are going to prevent me from eventually running you to earth, you are very much mistaken. You have obtained a temporary advantage over me, I will admit; but that advantage will not last. Do not flatter yourself that it will."

Intelligence of Crows.

Two crows lighted upon a frozen pond. One got a firm footing upon a cake of ice, but the other pitched into some pulp snow, from which he found it impossible to extricate himself. Crow No. 1 went to the rescue, but being unable to help his partner out of the scrape, stopped, cocked his head on one side in deliberation, chatted for a moment with the prisoner and flew off. In about ten minutes he returned, accompanied by two other crows, and the three, putting their heads together for a consultation, flew around their unfortunate comrade to examine his condition. Then, by a joint effort, they raised him up and set him upon the ice. He was very cold and weak, but they brushed the snow from his limbs, rubbed against him until the warmth of their bodies thawed him out, and finally all departed together.—N. Y. Press.

Valuable Food Product.

Fish powder is the very latest addition to the list of foods, and it is said by physicians to be the best and most nutritive food product in condensed form that has been discovered. It can be made in the home, with very little trouble and expense. Any kind of fresh fish will do. First steam them in their own moisture, then, after cooling and drying the mass obtained, expose it to the air for a short time. The next step is to shred the fish and then treat it to a bath of alcohol and citric acid, that all fat, glue and mineral matter be removed. After drying, it must again be boiled, dried and ground. The result is a kind of meal or flour, which can be utilized in a great variety of ways, as, for instance, mixing in soups, frying oysters and making omelets. The flour has neither taste nor smell, and it will keep indefinitely. —N. Y. Herald.

Sulphuric Acid for Snake Bites.

Those who fear snakes, or live where snakes are found, will find comfort in the assurance of Dr. John H. Henry, of Montgomery, that sulphuric acid is a specific. Dr. Henry says: "The poison of animals and snakes is intensely alkaline, and sulphuric acid taken internally and injected hypodermically, diluted or pure, in the fang puncture, immediately kills the poison. This discovery was given by a gentleman who says he has been bitten by snakes and insects over 100 times. This gentleman takes a delight in keeping snakes in his room, running all about. Six weeks ago he was bitten in the foot by a big rattler. He immediately used (hypodermically) the acid, and it did not swell or give him any trouble. He says he fears no poison of animal, snake or insect bite, if he has the acid with him."—N. Y. Times.

Native Superstition.

A curious story is told of native superstition in New Guinea which is causing the sacrifice of innumerable lives. It seems that whooping-cough was introduced by two white children and spread with frightful rapidity. It first swept the coasts and then ravaged the interior. As the natives hold that death from whatever cause is always compassed by an unknown enemy only discoverable through witchcraft, whenever a village is attacked with whooping-cough a sorcerer is consulted. The latter invariably designates another village or tribe as the culprit, and a midnight massacre of innocent persons follows.—N. Y. World.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH

During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.

We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.

Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.

They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

AN IMPORTANT HEARING.

Slater Employers' Liability Bill Discussed at Albany.

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—Representatives of every organized labor body in the state were present at the hearing given by the senate judiciary committee on the Slater employers' liability bill. This is the measure which has received the indorsement of the State Workingmen's federation, and in response to the call of its legislative representative, Mr. James A. Lavery of Poughkeepsie, all the state organizations—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Railroad Firemen and various trades unions whose members are employed in mills and manufactories—sent delegations.

In opposition to the bill was ex-Senator John Laughlin of Buffalo, who drafted the employers' liability bill introduced yesterday by Senator Hill, and Assemblyman O'Malley. William P. Rudd, counsel for the Central-Hudson, said that the railroad company was against the bill for the same reasons as had been given to the committee a year ago.

Judge Ernest H. Crosby of the Social Reform club of New York city said that there was a crying need for an employers' liability bill and that it was a shame that the Empire State was so far behind the times. Twenty-three states of the Union had such laws, and it was strange that New York should refuse the workingmen what they asked when they asked only that which was just. Alabama enacted an employers' liability bill eighteen years ago. He declared that employers should look after their employees and insure them against accidents so that the expense might not be felt. He believed that railroads should provide for this expense the same as they look after the renovation of rolling stock and the repairs of locomotives and cars.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT GAINS.

Continued Improvement Noted at Groton, but Danger Not Over.

GROTON, Mass., Feb. 13.—If Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., continues for the next twelve hours in his present condition, his physicians have given the president and Mrs. Roosevelt to believe that their son's vitality will be sufficient for him to meet and pass successfully the crisis in his disease, and it is thought that by tomorrow morning he will be practically out of danger.

He is considered to be better, and the same can be said of his two schoolmates, Howard E. Potter of New York and William Gammell, Jr., of Providence, R. I.

So confident are the president and his wife that their son will pass through this crisis in good shape that the president is already making some slight preparations to leave for Washington.

Mr. Cortelyou says of the boy's condition in addition to what has already been stated that the left lung has cleared considerably and that the boy's temperature, respiration and pulse have shown but little variation. The clearing up of the left lung is a favorable sign, in that it will enable the boy to meet the crisis in the right lung better. What is known as resolution has set in in his left lung.

Mrs. Mowbray Pleads Guilty.

TAUNTON, Mass., Feb. 13.—Mrs. Margaret Elizabeth Mowbray of New Bedford was brought into the superior court and arraigned on an indictment charging her with the murder of her husband, John A. Mowbray, on Dec. 11. She pleaded guilty to manslaughter, and this plea was accepted by the government, but sentence was deferred. Judge Fox inquired into the case. The Mowbrays were at a neighbor's house indulging in a drinking bout. During it Mowbray and his wife were left alone. When the others returned, Mowbray was lying on the floor, with his wife bending over him. There was a knife wound over the heart and another below. At first Mrs. Mowbray asserted that an Italian in the party had quarreled with her husband and stabbed him. Later she confessed that she quarreled with her husband and that she stabbed him herself.

Women Suffragists In Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—The first international woman suffrage conference and the thirty-fourth annual convention of the National American Woman Suffrage association has begun here, with an unusually large number of delegates in attendance. The convention was presided over by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, its president. The delegates were welcomed to the city by Hon. Henry B. F. MacFarland, president of the board of District commissioners.

Weavers on a Strike.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 13.—The lockout in the five mills of the American Woolen company at Olneyville, due to a strike of 150 weavers against the so called double loom system, has been superseded by a general strike of the weavers, numbering about 2,000, out of sympathy with the weavers who precipitated the issue with the company. The lockout began Feb. 3 and was unexpectedly taken by the company in anticipation of a general strike set for a later date.

Hung Himself to the Bedpost.

TOLEDO, O., Feb. 13.—A special to The Times from Marion, O., says: "Squire John M. Blue of Larue, this county, was found hanging to a bedpost at his home here, having strangled himself to death. Two weeks ago Blue, who was seventy-three years old, and Clementia Drake, aged sixty-three years, were married. No cause for the deed has been found."

Weather Probabilities.

SPORTING NEWS

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The last scheduled games in The Daily Press Bowling League will be rolled this evening on the alleys of the Roselle Casino with the Cranford Casino team as the opponent of the Roselle five. Delegations from Plainfield and Westfield will attend the games which decide whether or not a play-off will be necesary. If Roselle manages to win three straight, an extra series of games between Roselle and Westfield will be necessary. A single win for Cranford, however, will decide the season's play in favor of Westfield. Roselle has already won the trophy for two seasons and a third victory would give that club permanent possesison of it. While the Cranford bowlers are last in the league they occasionally surprise their friends and that is what the Roselle bowlers are afraid of this evening.

GOLF.

DIDN'T LIKE HIS OWN BID

SO HENRY HALLOWAY WAS NOT SWORN IN AS MAIL MESSENGER.

Postoffice Authorities Will Have to Look Over the Bids for That Work Again.

Notwithstanding the fact that he placed the amount himself, Henry Halloway, colored, has decided that $300 a year is not enough to recompense him for carrying the mail between the North avenue station and the postoffice. He was awarded the contract, being the lowest bidder out of thirty applicants for the position.

Today was the time set for the commencement of his term, but yesterday he appeared at the post office and declared it was not his intention to qualify for the place. The salary, he said, was too small when it is taken into consideration that the carrier works 365 days a year, from 5 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night. He also has to wait three months for his quarterly installment of salary.

Accordingly, Jacob Dunham will continue to carry the mail pouches until a readjustment of the contract can be made. The amount paid James Frisbie for doing the work was $390 per annum.

YOUNG WOMEN AT WHIST.

National Whist Club Entertained by the Misses Blimm.

The National Whist Club was entertained yesterday afternoon by the Misses Blimm, of Somerset street, it being the second meeting of the club this season. The full membership, twelve, was present, and all had a delightful time. The first prize was won by Miss Vordemeyer. This was a bon-bon dish. The second prize, a picture, was won by Miss Alta McConnell.

After the game, there was vocal and instrumental music, refreshments were served and the happy affair terminated at 5:30 o'clock. Mrs. Frank Wikoff, of Watchung avenue, will entertain the club Wednesday afternon, February 26.

Much Improved.

Joseph T. Case, of East Second street, passed a very comfortable night and was much improved today. The physicians declare, however, that he is not yet out of danger.

Gone to Camden.

LEAGUE ENDS WITH A TIE

Roselle Casino and Westfield Club Will Have to Roll an Extra Series.

IN DAILY PRESS LEAGUE

Concluding Games Last Evening Resulted in Three Straight Victories for Roselle Over Cranford—Large Audience Watched the Games—Easy for Roselle.

Three easy victories for Roselle Casino over the Cranford Casino on the former's alleys, last evening, completed the scheduled games in The Daily Press Bowling League and left the Roselle Caisno and the Westfield Club tied for first place. An extra series of games will be arranged in the near future to decide the tie. The Park Club, of Plainfield, finishes third and the Cranford Casino at the end of the list.

Much interest was centred in the results of last evening's games. It was a critical time for Roselle. A single defeat meant that the trophy would pass to Westfield and Roselle's unbroken succession of victories would come to an end. While Roselle is ordinarily invincible on its own alleys, it was possible that Cranford might have a surprise party in store and win one game at least. Every club in the league was represented in the large audience that witnessed the contests. Again there was much enthusiasm and lots of applause.

The home bowlers were evidently worried when the opening game began. Kenney was the only one who settled down to work at once. A few frames sufficed, however, to give them back their nerve and then the Roselle team simply walked away from its opponents. The Cranford men were over anxious and the first game went to Roselle by 156 pins.

Cranford made its best showing in the second game but that was not good enough to come within a hundred pins of the winners. In that game as well, Roselle led from start to finish. Kenney again distinguished himself.

For a few minutes only it looked as if the third game might develope into something close. But Roselle players were in winning form and Smith and Mulford downed the pins with much regularity. By the fifth frame it was evident that only the unexpected could change the result. Cranford failed to do it and the third game was won by 140 pins. C. A. Smith was high man as in the first game.

The scores were:

Roselle Casino.

	1st	2d	3d
H. Miller	141	126	163
Kenney	184	204	184
G. Miller	167	168	135

Sewer Commission to Meet.

A meeting of the sewer commission of North Plainfield will be held in the Council chambers this evening. Some important action upon the subject entrusted to this committtee of citizens will be taken.

Mrs. Mattis, of Madison avenue, is detained at home with an attack of pneumonia.

PREPARING YEAR'S BUDGET

STREET AND SEWER COMMITTEE WILL NOT ASK FOR ANY INCREASE.

All The Improvements Contemplated Will be Made Without More Money.

The members of the councilmanic street and sewer committee are engaged at present in preparing an estimate for the department's expenses for the coming year which will be submitted to the Common Council February 24.

They do not expect to ask for an increase in either department although a number of important improvements are planned. Among them will be the building of a storm sewer in Arlington avenue, the cost of which is to be met out of the regular appropriation. This is a matter which has long been needed and has become a necessity.

By building the sewer to empty into Cedar brook, the flooded condition of New street, which now exists after every rain, will be obviated. At the junction of West Fifth and West Sixth street, the water sometimes after a comparatively light shower covers the sidewalks. A number of temporary methods have been adopted to remedy the difficulty but the sewer will be the only permanent way.

ART IN BUILDING THE HOME

FIFTH OF SERIES OF EXHIBITS AT THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Subject Will Be "Domestic Architecture and House Decorations and Furnishings.

The fifth in the Public Library's monthly series of exhibits will be held in the reading room Saturday afternoon and evening, and Sunday afternoon. This exhibit will be one of unusual general interset, the subject being "Domestic Architecture and House Decoration and Furnishings." The library has a large collection of books and illustrations on these subjects and, as many of these are not ordinarily accessible to the public, the opportunity offered of examining them is an especially good one.

Both Saturday and Sunday the exhibit will be in charge of specialists, who will show the books, etc., to visitors and talk informally upon them. Saturday afternoon Edward V. French, of this city, will have charge of the architectural exhibit and Olaf Saugstad of the interior decoration exhibit; in the evening Mr. French will be assisted by Mrs. Olaf Saugstad. Sunday afternoon Evarts Tracy, of New York, will take the architectural and Mr. and Mrs. Saugstad the interior decoration exhibit.

While this will be an exhibit of value to all interested in beautifying the home, it will have especial value for those contemplating building or making changes in present buildings. It will doubtless be a revelation to many to learn the extent of the library's really large and valuable collections on these subjects. The greater part of the number are in the circulating department, but there are others containing fine plates and other illustrations which may be consulted only at the library.

INTEREST RENEWED.

Women's Temperance Aid Society Has Resumed Its Meetings.

The Women's Temperance Aid Society, which was organized with the Reform Club and has always been affiliated with it, met yesterday afternoon for the first time in two months. The members have taken an added interest in the work since the Reform Club received its recent impetus and much new work was planned.

The attendance yesterday was very good and it is expected the organization will shortly resume its old time appearance. Meetings will be held on Thursday afternoons in the future in Reform Hall and an effort will be made to secure many new members to assist in the work.

SAME OLD DATE.

The Martha Washington Supper at Hope Chapel to be Held Feb. 22.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of Hope chapel, definitely decided at its meeting, Wednesday afternoon, to hold its annual Martha Washington supper on Saturday, February 22. There was some talk of changing the date on account of the holiday falling on Saturday, but a change of date was not found practicable. The supper will be attended with the usual entertaining features which have made the occasion a feature of chapel social affairs.

BASEBALL IS BOOMING UP AT HOPE CHAPEL

All the Old Men Back and Lots of New Candidates for the Nine.

MANAGER COSE'S PLANS.

WILL FORM TWO TEAMS TO MEET IN PRACTICE CONTESTS.

Final Selection Will Depend on Showing Made in Practice—Will Have an Extra Pitcher This Year Also.

Despite the fact that winter is far from being over and the weather is anything but conducive to talk of out door sports, distinct murmurings of baseball matters are beginning to be heard. A number of local organizations, which number athletics among their divertisements, intend palcing teams in the field and prospects for the national game in Plainfield during 1902 are very promising.

One of the associations which has already taken the matter in hand, is the Y. M. A. of Hope chapel, which had one of last season's leading teams. It is the intention of the members to form another one which will be second to none.

At a recent meeting of the association, John H. Cose was elected manager of the proposed team and David B. Martin was made captain. Both are familiar with every phase of baseball and their selection of players will undoubtedly meet with the approval of every enthusiast. There are at present fourteen candidates for positions on the team, among which are all of last year's players. The surplus material is all very good and in consequence the rivalry for places will be keen. Most of the old team will be retained but there will be considerable shifting.

Among the features of the new nine will be an efficient corps of pitchers. James Montross and Tunis Hewitt, two of last season's twirlers, will again be signed and another at least, will be added. In this way the pitchers can alternate and there will be little possibility of one man having to bear the brunt of the work. Too much work devolving on Montross is assigned as one reason why the Hopes lost one of last season's most interesting contests.

Manager Cose is already securing dates for the season and next month or during the early part of April, practice will be commenced. It is his intention to have two teams made up for preliminary play and the showing made by each man will have much to do in the final selections. The actual schedule will be inaugurated toward the close of April, on last season's grounds at Grant and Sherman avenues.

MUST PAY BILL.

E. T. and Irving Hand Won Suit in Supreme Court Against Builders.

The Supreme Court, yesterday, rendered a decision in favor of E. T. and Irving Hand, of this city, in the mechanic's lien secured by them against John Leidly and Walter S. Colt, of Westfield.

The defendants are the builder and owner, respectively, of a house on Elm street, Westfield, for which the plaintiffs furnished brick. Payment was refused on a technicality and the lien was served. The matter was taken to the Supreme Court, yesterday's decision settling the controversy and resulting in the defendants paying in full. The plaintiffs were represented by Counsellor George Ball, of this city.

NOT MUCH BENEFIT.

Only One Member of the Committee Took Any Interest in the Affair.

A dance was given in Washington Hall last evening, for the benefit of the family of the late James Frisbie. The affair was gotten up by a special committee of colored citizens during Mr. Frisbie's last illness but, before it could be given, the latter died. It was then arranged to hold it as a benefit for his family. With the exception of James Scott, the committee lost interest in the affair and the burden fell on the lone member remaining. Only half a dozen people attended the dance and Mr. Scott is considerably the loser. Vandeveer's orchestra furnished the music.

Services at St. Joseph's.

The stations of the cross will be said at St. Joseph's R. C. church this evening. The service begins at 8 o'clock.

SUPPED WITH HEARTS IN BRIGHT DISPLAY

Valentine Supper in Chapel of the First Presbyterian Church a Great Success.

HEARTS HUNG IN ROOM.

THEN THERE WERE MANY VALENTINES TO BE SOLD.

Excellent Supper Was Served by the Young Women of the Church—Those Who Assisted—A Musical Programme.

One thousand hearts were used in the decorations at the valentine supper given, last evening, in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society. Combined with large American flags they presented an attractive scene. From tiny little hearts to great big ones they were placed on strings which spanned the large room.

The supper, consisting of an elaborate menu, was the feature. There was served clam chowder, roast turkey and chicken, potato salad, jelly, pickles, hot rolls, home-made pies, tea and coffee. There were generous dishes of everything, all for a reasonable price. There were any number of tables, where charming young women were anxious to serve those who would eat. These tables were adorned with beautiful flowers through the generosity of John Brower, of this city.

During the evening, while the inner man was being well supplied, Martin A. Korff's orchestra discoursed a programme of popular selections. Another attraction was "Aunt Jemina," who sold valentines. She was dressed in her old fashioned grab.

Financially and socially the supper was a great success and the Ladies' Aid Society will be able to place a good sum toward the fund being raised with which to build a new kitchen, a much-needed addition.

The supper committee consisted of the following women: Mrs. LeRoy H. Gates, chairman; Mrs. Howard A. Pope, Mrs. Charles Hummer, Mrs. DeWitt Hummer, Mrs. W. W. Dunn, Mrs. John Burroughs, Miss Sally Boss, Miss Addie Dietrich. The supper tables were in charge of Mrs. Joseph A. Haynes. The waitresses were the Misses Fannie Mills, Louise Wilbur, Julia Williams, Jennie Abbott, Ada Abbott, Maud Hazeltine, Bertha Wilcox Kathryn Glen, Lillian Glen, Ada Dunham, Helen Monroe, Chrissie Maag, Elizabeth Bittenbender, Bessie and Carrie Bullman, Mary Miller, Mildred Ulrich and Mrs. Charlotte Ross.

The other committees were as follows: Cake, Mrs. J. S. Johnston, Miss Brokaw, Mrs. Edward Burroughs; candy, Miss Lillie Remsen, Miss Clara VanFleet, Miss Elizabeth Bittenbender, Miss Jessie Pruden, Miss Catherine Lounsbury, Mrs. Charles Hummer; decorating, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hummer, Miss Kathryn Glen, Joseph A. Haynes, Douglass Murphy; valentines, Mrs. Edgar Williams, Mrs. Harry Williams, Mrs. Blanchard Randolph, Miss Lucia Wood, Miss Bessie DeForest; ice cream, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Joseph Allen; music, Martin A. Korff. Mrs. Glen and Mrs. Cadmus poured tea and coffee.

The waitresses at the ice cream tables, which were located in the gallery, were the Misses Marion Englehart, Ella Lounsbury, Leah Hammond, Emma Line, Bertha Hill and Linda Cave. At the door, Augustus V. Searing was in charge.

Cap and Sash Social.

A very successful cap and sash social was given a few evenings ago at the home of J. N. Boylan, Mt. Pleasant, for the benefit of the New Dover M. E. church. There were people present from Metuchen, Oak Tree, South Plainfield, Colonia, Westfield and other places.

Going to Make Ice Again.

In a short time the Plainfield Hygeia Ice Company will soon begin the manufacture of ice. The plant has been shut down for a few weeks, there being a sufficient quantity of ice on hand for the present.

Death Mask of Lincoln.

An excellent death mask of Lincoln is to be seen in the window of J. Hervey Doane's jewelry store on Park avenue. This belongs to a valuable collection and is a rare mask.

—In the line of fresh vegetables, Neuman Brothers will have tomorrow fresh tomatoes, cucumbers, lettuce, celery, green beans, radishes, rhubarb, water cress, new beets and Brussel sprouts.

WHY WM. NEWCORN VOTED FOR BRIGGS

The Local Assemblyman Explains His Reasons for His Vote Against Mr. Reed.

SAYS HE WAS PLEDGED.

ONLY REACHED THAT DECISION AFTER LONG AND CAREFUL DELIBERATION.

Mr. Newcorn Says That Local Banks' Representatives Asked Him to Support Briggs—Didn't Know of Mr. Reed's Candidacy Then.

Ever since the election of Frank O. Briggs as State treasurer, there has been considerable talk throughout the State, and especially in this vicinity, regarding Assemblyman Newcorn's vote, which was cast for Briggs and against Senator Charles A. Reed. Why Mr. Newcorn failed to support a fellow-townsman for the State treasurership, has been an unsettled question in the minds of a great many people.

A Daily Press reporter called on Mr. Newcorn, yesterday afternoon, and secured an interview which was given freely. By way of explanation of his vote, Mr. Newcorn said:

"Shortly after the appointment of F. O. Briggs as State treasurer ad interim, Mr. Briggs personally solicited my support in his candidacy for the position. Knowing Mr. Briggs through his affiliation with the Roeblings, of Trenton, and his qualifications for the State office, I assured him I would consider the matter.

"On December 26, while a guest of the city of Trenton at the anniversary of the Battle of Trenton, I was again approached on the same subject, and I gave the same reply as in the first instance. From that time until January 13, considerable pressure for my support of Mr. Briggs' candidacy was brought to bear by a number of prominent financiers. On January 13, the day before going to Trenton, the representatives of both the First and City National Banks made a special plea as the home representative for my support of Mr. Briggs, as his election would benefit each institution.

"This was the day previous to the opening of the Legislative session, and on the following day all State moneys collected for taxes were to be paid into the State treasury and apportioned among the State depositories, in compliance with the law. During the interim, when first approached until that date, I had been carefully investigating as to where the opposition to Mr. Briggs would come, and ascertained that up to that time there was no other aspirant but Former Assemblyman Wililams, of Passaic.
